YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting, Stan Musial, Cardinals —Socked two singles, a double and a triple, drove in two runs and scored two runs including steal of home to spark St. Louis to 4-0 triumph over Chicago.

Pitching, Rex Barney, Dodgers —Pitched first no-hit no-run game of National League season in stopping New York 3-0.

TELLING WIND DIRECTION

The direction of wind over water can be determined by studying the shapes of the waves and the shadows they cast.

SEVEN MINERS KILLED

Johannesburg, South Africa, Sept. 10 — (AP) — Seven miners were killed Wednesday when an earth tremor caused a rock fall at the City Deep Gold mine here. Thirty miners were buried under the debris but some were brought out in rescue operations. Late Wednesday night more than 10 remained trapped.

Aga Khan Seeks Sixth Victory In St. Leger

Doncaster, Yorks, England, Sept. 10 — (CP) — The Aga Khan, wealthy Indian Prince, seeks his sixth victory in the rich St. Leger Stakes tomorrow with the French colt, My Love, best of the three-year-olds running in Europe this year.

No one has approached the nominated Prince's success in the St. Leger, last of the season's triple-crown classics, since his Salmon Trout got home in 1942. Most of his winners was the mighty Bahram, unbeaten in his racing career.

My Love won the Derby in June over a mile-and a half and later enhanced his reputation as a stayer by bagging the one-mile, seven-furlongs French Grand Prix.

His opposition in the St. Leger, over the one-mile, six-furlong 132-yard route, will include some of the colts he beat in the Derby. It is an international field.

Black Tarquin, third favorite at 88 to 1, is an American-bred colt sent here by William Woodward of New York. He was eighth in the Derby, but Newmarket racing critics have never seen him train well enough to figure in the finish this time.

The King and Queen will attend the race for the first time during their reign. They will have a personal interest, too. Aegean Sky, the 33 to 1 longshot field of 13 horses, is from the royal stable.

My Love's lying jockey, Rae Johnstone, is the leading winner in both England and France and travels to tracks by plane, was aboard on the practice spin.

On the same program the added new comedy hit "Heading for Heaven," stars Stuart Erwin and Glenda Farrell.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 10 — (AP) — Georges Carpentier, a skinny Parisian who's bagged what he have to help whose it up for Marcel Cerdan's middleweight title bout with Tony Zale, hardly looks like a person who'd step into the ring with Jack Dempsey . . . but he leaves no doubt that he's the 168-pounder who drew the first $1,000,000 gate with Dempsey in Boyle's Thirty Acres back in 1921 . . . George is easy for an interview; he has lots of things to remember by, although he's "through with the game" now; he speaks better English than a lot of native - born members of the fight mob, and if words fail, he can tell the story with eloquent gestures . . . Recalling how hard Dempsey hit him, Carpentier flashed a toothy smile, turned his head sideways and held his hands to his jaw. He only said "Ooh!" but obviously he still was feeling that fifty years later . . . "You hit him a pretty good clip; did you think then you could have won?" someone asked . . . "No. It was too near the end of the round. I saw him stagger; his eyes dimmed but he didn't go down. I was just discouraged."

Take Off

The 30th Century Sporting Club is hoping that tonight's Willie Pep - Paddy Demarco fight will begin the same sort of boxing era the gate receipts that was started by Pep's first Garden appearance . . . Back in 1942 fight shows were drawing from $18,000 to $45,000 at the Garden when they tossed the up-and-coming Pep in against Chalky Wright. The fight bout grossed over $71,000 and the returns filled "boom" was on...

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma is kind of superstitious about dreems and numbers and things, and this afternoon she was in the kitchin half ways through a cake, and I came back from a errand, saying, Hay ma, why is 13 such a unlucky number?

Oh, it's probably not really unlucky, ma said. People just think it is, and that's what makes them uncomfortable, so after all that's unlucky in a way, I supose, she said, and I said, Well if you could pick any date you wanted to be born again, would you pick the 12th?

Most certainly and emfatically not, ma said. Why should I go out of my way to take unnecessary chances? she said, and I said, Well would you choose the 13th to get married again?

I dont hope or expect to ever marry again, so let's not borrow trubble, ma said, and I said, Well do you expect to be born again?

Stranger things than that have happened, ma said, and I said, G, not to you, have they, ma?

Not that I remember, naturelly, ma said, and I said, Anyways, ma, it's a lucky thing I'm bringing you back safely 12 cents change instead of 13 to make you uncomfortable, aint it, ma?

I suppose so, ma said, and I said, Jimminy, ma, it might of made you so uncomfortable you'd of told me to keep it myself, if you think it would not make me uncomfortable.

Well I'd hardly of gone to that extreme, ma said, and I said, Well anyways, ma, the way it happened it'll only cost you a cent, because I put the 13th cent in the chewing gum machine so only 12 would be left, but I haven't chewed the chewing gum yet, so you can still have it in case you dont like the whole idea. Here's the 12 cents, ma! and here's the chewing gum, I said.

The reason being she took the 12 cents and let me keep the chewing gum, I admitted I shouldn't of did it.

Water Shortage Becomes Acute In Some Centres

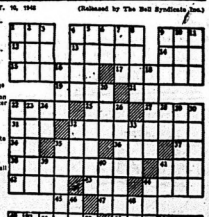
Hamilton, Sept. 8— (CP)—The water shortage in Ontario, especially in smaller communities is rapidly becoming serious.

In Dundas, the situation has reached such proportions that watering of lawns has been forbidden until further notice. D. P. Cliff, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, said today. Meanwhile, in Waterdown the situation was rapidly becoming desperate and unless there is heavy night, a new well became available and was connected to the town supply. This was but a temporary improvement and it was not known this morning just how long the new well would hold out.

From other small communities around Hamilton, the story is the same. Wells are rapidly drying up and only a really heavy rainfall can do much to alleviate the situation.

Milk Distributors Will Fight Price Boost

Toronto, Sept. 9 (CP) — Ontario milk distributors will fight any proposed increase in the price of milk "to the last ditch" a spokesman said today.



"No one can predict what the outcome of negotiations son will be," he said. "But we will fight any two cent a quart increase which has been indicated."

Although the spokesman said milk profits are disappearing and diminishing, "there has been no concentrated, effort on the part of distributors to get an increase."

Meanwhile F. W. McIntyre of Brantford, president of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League said it is in the producers' best interests to keep the price down. But because of a drop in production in August due to the heat wave, increases in the price of both milk and butter are not inevitable, he said.

SEEK "EXTINCT" BIRD

Christchurch, N.Z. (CP) — An expedition will shortly be launched to the wild flood region in southwest New Zealand next year during the living specimens of the takahe or notornis, an almost legendary bird long classed as extinct. The takahe is a large flightless bird with bright red bill and blue-black feathers.

SOME FAMILY!

London — (CP) — When the Moore family went on a trip to Richmond-on-Thames, they hired a 32-seater bus, but some of the three daughters, 24 sons, 18 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and sons and daughters-in-law had to sit on the floor.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"No, I don't get you," I said, the more coldly because a man who talks like that always has the power to make one's heart flutter.

"Don't want th talk to me about it?" he asked.

"About what?" I was going to ask in return. But Billes and Burton came in from the sunshine then, and she passed me in a little rush and joined Munro. Burton, whose face was dark and angry, walked beside me. Va came toward us, her face doleful with the thought that Billes and Burton must be on their way to Lake Tahoe early next morning.

"Sure," Billes said, "we have to go tomorrow. Can't we go over the house today? You want to see it, don't you, Va? And I do too. After all," she ended with the little air of arrogance that she always assumed when any reminder of Virginia's prospects came to her. "I can like it even if I don't belong there, can't I?"

"Clay," Munro called to him, "how's about showing the girls the place this afternoon?"

Clay came over slowly. He always carried his leonine head hung low, with the air of a man looking over his glasses, but certainly with the bandaged eye he did not see anything even then, and the other eye, myopic, covered by the dark spectacles, was of little use.

"Why not?" he asked. He had been headed toward the dining room; now he slowly turned, and with his stick occasionally touching the floor he went toward the front of the house.

Munro called, "Where you going? Anything I can get?" after him, and Clay in his turn called over his shoulder, "No, thanks, be back in a minute." He went up the stairs; Munro, with a little laugh, followed him for a moment, turned back, disappeared in the hall.

The trifling episode would have meant nothing to me if I hadn't decided to wash my hands; I had been grubbing on the terrace, trying to clear the top of the parapet, and was in no mood to sit at the table. There was a dismal little apartment called the "sink room" at the back of the big main stairway, here Billes and Va and I had sometimes arranged flowers. To reach it I went through one of the big square halls into which the library and drawing room opened; I had my hand on the knob of the sink - room door when I saw, through an arched passage and quite a distance away in the eternal gloom of this place, the figure of a man writing over a bunch of keys and holding them close to his eyes, tying them one by one in the great paneled door.

No second look was needed to see that it was Munro. I averted my eyes in a rush of nervousness, washed my hands, and slipped back to the luncheon table. Clay was coming slowly downstairs and went in with me. But Munro had not joined us. When he did he was a little out of breath and apparently had been out of doors; a rush of garden air came with him.

"What y'do?" Clay asked in an undertone as Munro slipped into his seat beside him.

"Went down to the gate — tell you later," Munro said, his mouth already full.

After lunch, Billes, who could not resist flattering about him, discovered that his shirt and one knee were muddy and was very solicitous, rubbing at the wet mud with her hands.

"I slipped where they've been watering," he explained. "When I was racing up from the gates not to be late for lunch."

That was the second trifling thing that happened that day; there was a third, and much later several more mysteries; they did not seem at all important at the time. And even after a good deal of thinking I couldn't quite fit them into any pattern.

The third had to do with Mrs. Grizell. After lunch Clay said he was going upstairs to rest; the eye upon which some sort of queer tropical fungus was forming needed much rest. At this time of day the old man upstairs was asleep, and Clay usually napped, too, to the softened music of the radio. Louise was free to make the tour of inspection with us; we were all as excited as children.

"And you'll show us the murder turret?" Billes begged with a cautious glance at the stairway up which Clay had disappeared. For after all, the murdered Clay Hillyard, fifty-four years old, whose body had been found in his turret twenty years earlier, had been Clay's stepfather, his mother's second husband.

"We've got to get hold of Mrs. Grizell," Munro said. "She knows all the stuff. I've never seen it myself, except from the air."

"I'll get her," I said, and I raced up the stairs to her room, which was next to that of the old master of the house. I'd never had a chance really to look in before, but today I did and was well repaid for the audacity. The old man was sitting up in bed with his shiny hair standing up in an angry fuzz about a bald pate. His cadaverous face was purple with fury and he was screaming, "Louise! Louise!" without making a sound. Never before in my life have I seen so horrible a sight. I stood there for an endless minute, feeling my throat turn to wood and my knees to tissue paper; still there was no sound, but that hideous mouthing was going on more frantically than ever. Suddenly the power of movement returned to me and I backed away and was able to turn in the corridor a moment later and found Mrs. Grizell's door was open and she was standing at a table; as I came quickly and breathlessly in she turned and swept something into a drawer. Perhaps she saw my eyes on her in a sort of absent surprise. She spoke sharply:

"Did you see that?" she asked.

FARMERS HAVE FIELD DAY AS LIVESTOCK CHAMPS ARE CHOSEN

Farmers of all ages had their field day at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, Ont., when livestock champions were chosen. Thousands of agriculturists congregated to watch the show. Grand Champion Shetland Pony mare, King's Grey Dawn, is seen with her foal, Prince Donna, at the C.N.E. Tom Cresswell, Toronto, is with his mare after the parade of champions when prizes were awarded.

BRIGHTON and MURRAY DISTRICT

Brighton and Murray—In this section crops and pastures are showing the effect of the continued hot, dry weather and tomato picking is very wearying.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maitland of Chilliwack, B.C., are visiting the former's brother, Mr. Hugh Maitland and sister Mrs. Ernest Rogers and their families. Mr. Maitland was brought up on a farm on Presqu'ile Point and Mrs. Maitland when a girl lived on that Point. Her father the late Mr. Bert Smith, the lighthouse keeper for a number of years.

It was particularly interesting to them to note the changes that have taken place on the Point in and around Brighton.

Mr. Gordon Locklin after completing a summer course at Queen's, Kingston, visited at his Locklin's house, Omemee and his home here. Mr. Locklin will be teaching in west Belleville this term.

Mr. Art Valleau has sold the Helpy-Selfy store in Brighton to Mr. B. Keane of Orono.

There have been several showers for Miss Laurine Pindall who is to be married on Sept. 11. On Saturday evening some of her relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Valleau for a social time and presented the brids and groom to be with a walnut coffee table.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Morrow and Mr. Harry Bedal went up to Toronto exhibition on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson and Russell are holidaying this week at a cottage on Trent River.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Chapman are visiting friends at Preston Hill.

Mr. Frank Chapman, Campbellford, visited his brother Gordon and his wife, last weekend.

Mr. Keith Bedal was home over the holiday weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sager enjoyed a trip through Prince Edward crossing the ferry at Glenora, on Sunday.

Miss M. Russell, Cobourg, has returned to resume her teaching at S. S. No. 3.

Mr. Ted Orrell has added considerably to his store and dwelling on Highway No. 2 south of Smithfield.

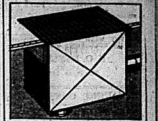
Messrs. A. Mills, E. Rogers and W. Wood have each had their homes covered with hand brick recently.

Just One Way To Beat Barber

Fort Erie, Sept. 10 (CP)—A man walked into a barbershop here Thursday with a small boy and had a haircut, shave and shampoo.

He hemmed out after telling the barber: "Fix up the boy and I'll settle when I get back."

The barber cut the boy's hair and as the lad walked out of the shop the barber reminded him to wait for his father.



"He's not my father," snorted the boy. "Never saw him before. He stopped me on the street and asked me if I wanted a haircut."

Bandits Slug Bank Manager With Gun Butt, Scared Away

Wife and Two Sons Tied With Ripped Bedclothes

Elmvale, Ont. Sept. 11 (CP)—Three hooded gunmen escaped empty handed after a dairy truck horn scared them away from the deposit boxes they rifled in the bank of Toronto today.

Bank manager John Schaeffer said the gunmen slugged him over the head with a gun barrel and tied him, his wife and his two sons with ripped bedclothes.

Mr. Schaeffer said he came home to his apartment over the bank about 11 p.m. and bumped into a man wearing a black satin hood. He was slugged with the gun butt and forced downstairs where the bandits demanded that he open the deposit boxes.

He told them it was a time lock and that I was unable to open it. They didn't believe me and threatened to shoot me. I finally convinced them and using the bank's secret driver they started to pry open the deposit boxes.

Police said the men didn't get any cash and if they escaped with bonds, most of them were registered.

While they were opening the deposit boxes a dairy truck horn sounded in the street and scared them away.

Before they left they tied Mr. Schaeffer and his two sons as well as his wife who returned home in the meantime, to the gas lamped robbery.

Police said they warned the family that if they talked too much they would return and "fix them."

Child Smothers To Death Falling Into Post Hole

Bancroft — Gale Joan, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hay, Birds Creek, smothered to death Friday night when she fell head first into a post hole on her father's farm.

She and her two-year-old sister Jo Ann, went for the cows about 6.30 p.m. and also intended to catch frogs for bait. When they didn't return in a reasonable time Mrs. Hay set out in search and found Gale' head first in a post hole 125 yards from the house and the other daughter was standing in another post hole some 75 yards distant.

The father had dug the holes about a week ago intending to erect a new fence but the carpenters arrived in the meantime to build his new home and he turned his efforts toward helping them finish the job. He erected it later.

There are four other girls in the family. Just this summer Gale planted her own garden, and on her first harvest, canning the fruit therefrom herself.

Dr. G. W. Anderson, coroner and Corporal S. W. Palmateer, Provincial Police, Madoc, investigated.

Wartime Record Count Bernonville To be Forwarded

Montreal, Sept. 11 (CP)—The complete wartime record of Count Fouques Duparc de Bernonville, charging him as being responsible for the deaths of "hundreds" of Allied troops and members of the French resistance, will arrive in Canada "within the next 10 hours" it was reported today.

The Count, who is under death sentence in France and who is now fighting a deportation order from Canada to his native homeland, will also be charged with assuming the safety of the state, land-grabbing, arson, violence and robbery.

The Count, now in immigration quarters pending hearing of a writ of Habeas Corpus proceedings which are scheduled for Tuesday, is accused of intelligence with the enemy during the years 1940 to 1944, inclusive.

The Count, who married Montreal heiress Lady Yule last year, is also charged with misappropriation of French claims that De Bernonville's allies, the Germans, should be assumed following the "disappearance" of a Canadian official who had charge of the Germans case.

The investigation, it was said, also proved beyond a doubt that the original Renault was dead.

Meanwhile, reports that a fake passport had been operating in Quebec was minimized by both immigration authorities and other informed sources.

But it was learned that immigration officials were not concerned with attempts to bring Fascists into Canada as well as Communist efforts.

Religious Beliefs Of Juror Nearly Causes Mistrial

London, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP)—Religious beliefs of a juror nearly caused a mistrial Friday night in the Supreme Court hearing of a charge of rape against 17-year-old Gerald Leonard, Dorchester, London.

A tongue-lashing from Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay who said he was "shocked" at his audacity resulted in the juror agreeing to changing his mind.

The judge sent the jury back and 45 minutes later it convicted Brown on a reduced charge of attempted rape in the assault of a 25-year-old lady last June 5. He will be sentenced next Friday.

The case was given to the 12-man jury late Friday after two days of evidence. Later, the men deadlocked with a request for direction.

80,000 H.P. Will Be Added by New Generating Station

Toronto, Sept. 11 (CP)—Opening shortly of a $10,000,000 generating station at Stewartville, on the Madawaska river eight miles north of Arnprior, with 80,000 horsepower to the Southern Ontario system of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

A statement from the Ontario Commission Friday said that Stewartville is the first step in a post-war program designed to add 500,000 horsepower to the Commission's generating facilities by September 1952. Two other big projects are under way are at Des Joachims river and Lakes Nipissing and Temiskaming.

When the plant begins operation the Stewartville unit the Commission will cover some 1,100 acres, extending northward for about 12 miles. Two bridges are being reconstructed to carry the 500,000 horsepower to the Commission's transmission facilities by September 1952. Woman Member of Commission Pops Deft Questions at Witnesses

Ottawa, Sept. 11 (CP) — A Canadian Farmerette has her first finger right in the middle of the east-of-living pie. And the deft questions she asks of the prison commission hearings have brought up more than one answer.

When Mrs. T. W. Sutherland of Parkville, Ont., was appointed to the commission she thought it would be a "two or three month" job.

But it already has stretched beyond three months. And she now figures it may be November before she gets back to the farm. Her room resort hotel on Vancouver Island in which she has a partnership.

Probing Questions

Mrs. Sutherland's friendly smile and soft-spoken voice at first may be misleading to the shirt and shoe manufacturers, store-owners, and others, who have been hearing their way to the stand.

But she has a habit of peering over her glasses with brilliant blue eyes, and putting some straight-to-the-point question about such items as administration costs, value of raw products, and the like.

This isn't the first time Mrs. Sutherland's children's wear,

RUSSIAN PRESS RANTS AGAINST WESTERN POWERS

Accuses Them Of "Inciting" Berliners

Berlin, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Soviet military administration's official newspaper today accused the western Allies of "inciting" Berliners against Russia and Communism.

The entire Communist press rallied against anti-Communism in the most shouting terms it has yet used. It warned that Thursday's bloody street fighting which followed a huge anti-Communist demonstration, might have "serious consequences."

The obvious aim was to build up tomorrow's Communist counter-rally in the Soviet sector and intensify Communist demands that Berliners must eject the anti-Communist mayor, city government.

Meantime the Russian-licensed news agency, ADN, reported Friday night that a German-led spy ring operating in Berlin for United States authorities, had been smashed in a police swoop with the arrest of 15 agents.

The report said all the arrested agents were under orders from Dr. Schumacher, Social Democrat leader in western Germany, and had "the fullest support of American and British occupation authorities." It hinted that Schumacher's Socialists operate an underground throughout the Russian zone.

Earlier it was announced in Frankfurt a United States court had sentenced Count Heinrich von Einsiedel, 26, great grandson of Bismarck's secretary and "Iron Chancellor," to six months in jail for gun-running to Berlin.

Allow Mail Cars to Pass

Railway officials in Hannover said Friday night that they have allowed eight railway cars of mail to travel from Helmstedt Railway to the British zone of Germany during the day. The Hannover transport official in Berlin said it had "no information as far as the blockade of Berlin is concerned."

With the situation in Berlin rapidly worsening, Paris Friday night, no indication when the four military governors would next meet again to continue discussions fruitless conclusion of the 70-day Soviet blockade of the divided city. The talks now are in recess after apparently reaching a deadlock.

Black Tarquin, American Horse, Wins St. Leger

Doncaster, England, Sept. 11 — (CP)—Black Tarquin, ridden by H. Britt, today won the St. Leger Stakes, last classic of the flat racing season, run over one mile, two furlongs.

Alycidon was second and Solar Slipper third out of a field of 11 runners.

Black Tarquin is owned by William Woodward of New York and trained by 15-2. Black Tarquin satisfied Woodward's ambition to win an English classic after this was his fifth attempt in British racing's triple crown.

LESTER B. (MIKE) PEARSON

Who was named yesterday to succeed Louis St. Laurent as External Affairs Minister, Canada's Ambassador to Washington since 1945. He has been Undersecretary for External Affairs. He will seek election in Algoma East.

WesternEuropeReaches First Milestone In Economic Co-operation

Paris Sept. 11 (AP) — The countries of western Europe today reached the first milestone in working together for mutual recovery when their delegates agreed on division of 4,075,000,000 in United States aid funds. The delegates of the European Co-operation Organization prepared these agreements in a six-hour session Friday night. Work on the scheme for currency payments will continue today.

As soon as the council agrees on the currency proposals it will go to work on the details of the 1948-49 recovery program for submission to the American Economic Co-operation Administration.

The proposed division of United States aid for the first year, as revealed by the council, gave Britain the greatest amount — $1,220,000,000. This was a cut of $10,000,000 from the British portion in the schedule originally drawn by the council's economic officers.

France drew the highest amount from Britain — $989,000,000.

Other allotments included Italy $606,000,000, the Netherlands $486,000,000, of which $84,000,000 is earmarked for the East Indies; Belgium, $250,000,000; Austria, $217,000,000; Denmark, $119,000,000; Norway $94,000,000; Eire $79,000,000; Turkey $59,000,000; Greece, $45,000,000; Trieste $18,000,000, and Iceland $11,000,000.

Under the proposed intra-European assistance program, six "creditor" countries which are expected to export more than they import are to open credits in their own currencies to seven countries in need of imports.

The six which are to set aside $365,000,000 in their own currencies for this purpose, are Britain, the Union of Germany, Belgium, Sweden Turkey and Italy. The beneficiaries of these credits are France, The Netherlands, Austria, Greece, Norway, Denmark and the French zone of Germany.

Britain is the chief contributor — $285,000,000 — and France the main beneficiary, $323,000,000.

Former Chief Irish Secretary Dies in London

London Sept. 11 (CP)— Viscount Greenwood, Ontario legal expert-lawyer-author and former chief secretary for Ireland, died Friday at the age of 78.

As Sir Hamar Greenwood, he was appointed to the most unenviable posts in the British Commonwealth between the two world wars. As secretary for Ireland from 1920 until 1922 he was hated by Irish Nationalists who sought to form a republic of both Northern and Southern Ireland.

Born in Whitby Ontario, he left home at the age of 16 to enter the Canadian army. His father found him a military entry and administered a sound thrashing.

He was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1895 after having taken a prominent part with the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King. In a student's strike, and entered the Ontario Department of Agriculture. In 1896 he went to England where he attracted attention with his legal skill. Ten years later he was elected to the House of Commons.

He served in the First World War, being a Baronet, and in 1919 was made undersecretary for home affairs. In 1920, Lloyd George then Prime Minister, transferred him to the post of secretary for Ireland. For several years after the Irish rebellion he required a police guard around his home.

Battleship Will Be Converted Into Floating Palace

Weymouth Bay, England, Sept. 11 (Reuters)—Preparations are under way here to convert a giant 45,000-ton battleship Vanguard into a floating palace to take the King and Queen and Princess Margaret on their Australian tour next January.

The Vanguard, world's largest battleship and the ninth to bear the name since 1586, is manned by a crew of 1,651 officers and men. A request by 100 royal naval contractors to postpone their demobilization until after the tour has been granted by the admiralty and they will be allowed to sail with the ship.

Three midshipmen of the Royal Canadian Navy will join the ship. They are Bob Young of Kelowna, B.C.; Bob Whyte of Shawinigan Falls, Que. and Hugh Flint of Montreal. They served aboard the Canadian warships Uganda, Ontario and Crescent.

Rear Admiral Denis W. commander, Capt. Frederick Parham, served aboard the battleship Malaya with the King in the last world war. He was a midshipman, the King a lieutenant.

Furniture removed from the battleship after the royal visit to South Africa is to be used again. All the royal apartments are on the shelter deck—one higher than the upper deck. The Queen has asked for them to be painted ivory.

Princess Margaret, who was cooped up in a small cabin during the last trip, now will have Princess Elizabeths cabin and her private sitting room.

L. B. PEARSON EXTERNAL AFFAIRS MINISTER IN GOVT.

St. Laurent Assumes Leadership Monday

Ottawa, Sept. 11 —(CP)— With one significant addition to the Cabinet, Louis Stephen St. Laurent, for all practical purposes, Monday starts his career as Canada's prime minister.

The addition is Lester Bowles (Mike) Pearson, the popular, unpretentious Oxford graduate who at 51 ends 20 years as a career diplomat to become Secretary of State for External Affairs. He left the post of ambassador in Washington three years to become Undersecretary for External Affairs.

His appointment Friday by William Lyon Mackenzie King at his last Canadian press conference as prime minister.

Mr. King said he would leave Mr. St. Laurent in charge as acting prime minister when he leaves Monday for the Paris meeting of the United Nations and the London meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers.

He said Mr. St. Laurent will be in complete charge and that he will discuss prime ministerial difficulty when Mr. King returns early in December.

Mr. Pearson will bid for a Commons seat in a by-election in the Ontario riding of Algoma East. The present Liberal member, Dr. Ernest Bertrand, is going to the Senate.

The conference was highlighted by the Pearson development, Canada's step in the first order for the Liberal party, but there were these other announcements:

1. The Canadian Navy will disposal by the seven provinces the Canadian Pacific Navy's 21½-per-cent increase in railway freight rates.

Named Archivist

2. Dr. William Kaye Lambe of Vancouver, librarian of the University of British Columbia, has been appointed Dominion archivist to succeed Dr. Gustave Lanctot.

3. Mr. King doubts that he will be able to make a farewell crossing Canada by train.

Mr. Pearson appeared at the press conference shortly after he was sworn in by the cabinet. He then steps up to succeed to the formal portfolio of Undersecretary of St. Laurent; will return to his old job as Canada's minister re a temporary measure.

Mr. Pearson has had a brilliant career. Born in Toronto, April 23 to 1897, the son and grandson of Methodist ministers, he has been a soldier, war pilot, stockbroker, professor, author, historian, lecturer, and started out to be a diplomat in 1928. His career diplomatic years were climaxed with a distinguished record at the United Nations.

Mr. King gave no indication who would succeed him when the matter would be decided by Mr. St. Laurent and the cabinet.

The announcement that Mr. Pearson will hear the freight rate appeal probably means that the government might ask parliament to give the Board of Transport Commission on transportation generally, and not only the seven provinces. The provinces have asked for appeal as an alternative to a commission.

Mr. King said the government has not considered Parliament Truman's recent statement on the development of the Yukon and deep seaways and power projects. Mr. Truman said he would be glad to discuss the Canadian power projects separately.

Battle of Britain Anniversary To Revive Memories of Great Air War

London, Sept. 11 (CP)—Britons will relive in memory the most glorious days of their wartime history Sept. 15-19—the eighth anniversary of the Battle of Britain.

More than 300 R.A.F. planes take the air next Wednesday to commemorate the days of 1940 — many call them the turning point in the Second World War — and German aircraft blasted one another from the skies.

"Pageant" highlighting annual celebration of the sky battle, will be held at Hendon aerodrome and it will be piloted by "one of the few," Squadron Leader Lord Dowding of the empire victory over the black bombers of the Luftwaffe.

As waves of British bombers and fighters fly over London's Hendon aerodrome at four-minute intervals, Britons will recall memories of the days when Hitler's Messerschmitts and Heinkels joosteryed for supremacy in the air.

From shop doorways the curious yet fearful would watch the battle. Some would look upon it of "wins or losses"; children's wear, shiver and groan; all would dive for cover when the whine of Spitfires was heard.

September 15, 1940 was a "great day." In London 185 R.A.F. planes waffe made its greatest effort to smash the R.A.F. into submission and. They were routed and from then on the October the German offensive waned.

The Battle of Britain lasted 85 days. In that time 1,733 and 643 damaged.

The R.A.F. lost 915 aircraft and 426 were damaged. Pilots killed and missing numbered 481 and 422 were wounded.

There will be several Canadians in the fly-past and some of them are in the R.C.A.F. They are all with the R.A.F.

Canada's only R.C.A.F. representative is Sqdn. Ldr. G. Jaffrey, Ottawa, who will be piloting a Vampire jet-fighter in one of the aerial displays to be given to the public.

Western Power Envoys to Request Meeting With Stalin

U.N. Will be Asked to Probe Crisis if Settlement Fails

London, Sept. 11 (AP)—Western power diplomatic sources reported today Britain, the United States and France will ask the United Nations to investigate the Berlin crisis if a new direct bid to Russia for a settlement fails. The source said western-power envoys in Moscow had been instructed to request immediate new meeting with Prime Minister Stalin to reach a settlement.

Whether the request actually had been submitted was as yet not known here.

Meets on Sept. 15

If the new appeal to Stalin fails and the western powers refer to the United Nations Security Council inquiry by exercising their veto — all three have the power — the Soviet Union is expected to veto in the assembly.

The chief issue in the Berlin dispute are reported to be Russia's demand for the veto in decisions affecting the whole country and the Soviet blockade of Berlin. The western powers have held out for majority rule on the currency question.

The talk with Stalin, if it materializes, would be the third in which he participated. Diplomatic officials here still nurse hopes even though they are slight, that Molotov may agree over the weekend to steps which could end the deadlock.

Exchange Messages

Moscow Sept. 11 (AP)— A reliable source said today the envoys of Britain, United States and France are exchanging important messages with their capitals on the next step in the four power talks on the Berlin crisis.

The United States ambassador is also in Paris for a conference from his bed at 3 a.m. to answer messages from Washington.

However, informants say that there is little chance for any face-to-power talks over this weekend.

Unless there are new developments, the three envoys have no plan to hold a meeting of their own immediately. French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau and the special British envoy, Frank Roberts, are not informed are with Smith Edwards.

ASKED TO DO SOMETHING

Prescott, Sept. 11 — (CP) — Prescott-Russell County Council Friday asked Ontario's Department of Highways it should do something immediately about "Dead Man's Curve."

It recommended removal of the "dangerous condition" which exists on No. 2 Highway a half mile west here.

It was inquiring into the death of William Maunder and Phillip Daly, two Detroit men, who were killed here Sept. 5 when their car collided with a trailer-transport.

The jury also found that "excessive speed" and the car contributed to the deaths.

FOREIGN MARKETS MAY HELP SWELL BUTTER STOCKS

Gardiner Says Winter Shortage May Hit 15,000,000 Pounds

Ottawa, Sept. 11 (CP) — The government is expected to announce next week it has arranged for supplies from other countries to counteract a Canadian winter butter shortage that Agriculture Minister Gardiner has estimated ma yhit 15,000,000 pounds.

It was learned from an authoritative source Friday night the cabinet has agreed to import sufficient quantities to head off the shortage.

The chief cause of the Berlin dispute are reported to be Russia's demand for the veto in decisions affecting the whole country and the Soviet blockade of Berlin. The western powers have held out for majority rule on the currency question.

FRONT ST. SHOWERED WITH SOAP BUBBLES

"I'm forever blowing bubbles" might have been the key-note of an advertising stunt which showered Front Street with soap bubbles, large and small, yesterday afternoon shortly before three o'clock.

Sitting atop a light truck a simulated box of a widely advertised soap was a machine which blew bubbles out of the open top into the air. As the truck passed down Front Street the air was briefly full of bubbles.

Officers Plan Extensive Program For Sea Cadets

Thursday night all the officers met in the washroom to plan the training and other activities for the Sea Cadets for the next year. It was pointed out by the Commanding Officer that with an efficient and well organized staff of officers, Belleville and Trenton Cadets have one of the outstanding corps in Ontario. Each officer therefore must be a specialist in at least one particular line, as well as having a sound knowledge of the general training of all ratings given to the Cadets.

This winter will see more advanced training for the older Cadets such as boat repairs and actual boat building. A more advanced training in signal work and navigation than has ever been given before. This winter there will be more organized sports as well as planned recreational activities for the Cadets. Each of these activities will be under the carried out under the supervision of an officer who has been specially trained for the various trades.

For the next month the officers and petty officers will continue with the present system of studying the different phases of the work mentioned, in order that the "Ship Quinte" will run smoothly and efficiently for the next year.

It is hoped that the Sea Cadets across Canada will have grown in number by approximately 10,000 by the end of 1948. This means that every unit will be recruiting from Sept. 20 until the end of the year. At the present time the Corps Quinte will take approximately 60 new recruits, 20 of them to be under 14 years of age and 20 boys 14 or over. This year a much higher standard of qualifications will be necessary, and all boys who wish to maintain a certain degree of efficiency in order to remain in the corps.

Jury Finds Loss Of Control of Car Cause of Death

George Aselstine, local automobile salesman, who lost his life as result of an accident on Highway No. 14 at Rossmore on the morning of August 31st., came to his death as result of excessive speed and the loss of control of his car.

This was decided Thursday evening by the jury at the coroner's inquest held at Ameliasburg before Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson of Wellington.

Aselstine lost his life when he lost control of his car as he was driving south on Highway No. 14 on the Village of Rossmore. The car left the highway and crashed broadside into a tree completely wrecking the light and killing Mr. Aselstine died on the way to hospital.

Faster-Than-Sound Pilot Says He Felt No Unusual Sensations During Test

London, Sept. 11 — (CP) — A. fair-haired boyish pilot, Sqdn. Ldr. John Derry, 36, today told a press conference how he made the speed of sound in a screaming dive spiral recently.

Derry was brought to meet reporters after the official announcement Thursday that he had flown through the "sound barrier" in Swallow aircraft shaped like an arrow point.

Derry made his record in the cockpit showed Mach No. 1, which is the speed of sound, or at that altitude about 676 miles an hour. He said he was level at 40,000 and 40,000 feet. I was at full power at the end of the dive. I saw the needle go past Mach No. 1.

"Then what did I do? I started to pull out at once. There's not too much sky at that speed."

A United States plane was the first to exceed the speed of sound, but British experts say it was achieved with rocket-power assistance and a streamlined body needed to carry the United States craft to high altitude for release.

Derry took off, landed and dived in the machine which he has flown since February. He plunged earthward in his fastest dive, he could hear through the earphones messages being exchanged with other planes in the air.

De Havilland experts at the contractors said Derry flew a machine similar to that in which Geoffrey De Havilland was killed in a power dive in 1946. They were uncertain what happened when the Havilland died so they tried to make Derry's plane stronger.

"What did it prove?" said Derry.

It proved the machine I flew could stand up to more than the speed of sound. It proved it because I'm here and the plane is in the hangar."

He said he felt no unusual physical sensations, but that the controls became heavier at the peak of speed. At sea level speed of sound would be about 760 mph. At 30,000 feet and a much greater atmospheric density it would be necessary to obtain a comparable speed in level flight. At 40,000 feet the speed of sound is 760 miles an hour.

"What were my thoughts? I was assessing the controllability of aircraft and then I was satisfied at having exceeded the speed of sound. I wouldn't say I was completely calm."

He had not intended to fly faster than sound when he took off from Boscombe Down, but gradually to higher speed in tests. Further flights with this machine are planned, but there is no plan for an early attempt to establish a world speed record.

Jury Decides No One to Blame In Fahey Death

No one was held responsible for the death of John Fahey on August 29 near the C.P.R. station on South Church Street, the jury decided, when they returned at the police station Friday night for the adjourned inquest to inquire into the death.

Dr. Richard Potter, Coroner, presided at the inquest with Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson in attendance. Norman B. Price, claims agent for the C.P.R. appeared for the railway and Gregory Bullar for the family interests. Sgt. Douglas Ellis and Constable Hayes gave evidence. Mr. Hayes described the position in which the body was found and also claimed that death had been instantaneous. Dr. W. C. Morgan gave evidence as to the physical condition of the deceased prior to the incident.

The engineer, Harry Weese and fireman J. Ritchie of Smiths Falls stated that they were seen as the train approached the station and that they were aware of any accident until they arrived at Trenton. Robert Polak, taxi driver and George Llewellin, expressman, told of finding the body after the train had left the station.

Picton Governor-General Will Visit Picton On November 20

Picton — Picton will be honored on Saturday, Nov. 20, by the visit of Canada's Governor-General, Viscount Alexander of Tunis. The distinguished visitor will come to Prince Edward for the express purpose of officially opening the new headquarters of Post 78, Canadian Legion.

Formerly one of the historic stone residence of the town, the hall is one of the finest of its kind in Ontario and is set in large tree-shaded grounds. It has assembly rooms, library and billiard rooms, all modernly and attractively decorated and equipped.

An invitation had been extended to the Governor-General earlier, and November proved to be the most convenient date.

It is expected that Viscount Alexander will fly from Ottawa to Picton in his private plane. There will be a public reception and a luncheon following the opening of the hall.

A committee composed of Legion president D. P. Pyke, Lance Nethery, F. J. MacArthur and O. E. Seeley, Legion secretary and treasurer, have Gerald Allison and Col. R. J. Fisher, M.A. (AA) in charge of plans to carry out arrangements.

Many local members of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment served under Viscount Alexander's command of the 15th Army Group.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Growth Always Costs Pain

By ROY L. SMITH

Read just a little way under the surface of the New Testament and you will discover that Christianity grew up at the cost of great intellectual and spiritual pain. On almost every page there are evidences of the struggles through which honest and earnest men passed in the process of reaching their new positions.

The Pain of Charge

Religion is designed to produce within the soul of the believer a sense of spiritual security. That security rests back upon certain assurances. Disturb those assurances and you produce insecurity.

This means that in the process of moving from one faith to another there is always a period of great spiritual distress. The pilgrim is bedevilled by doubts and harassed by fears. He believes he is moving in the direction of truth but he cannot be sure, and not until he is sure can he know the sense of peace again.

Just Judgments

It is a little difficult for modern Christians to be just in their judgments of the ancient Jews to whom the story and message of Jesus came for the first time. They represented the finest type of spiritual religion to be found in that ancient world. They enjoyed a spiritual security known to no others. To abandon any part of their faith was to run a very terrible risk.

The spiritual exercises, doctrines, and ceremonies of the Jews had been worked out under desperate conditions. Their fathers had endured persecutions, terrorism, exile, and crushing burdens for the sake of their faith. To surrender any part of their religious conviction was an extremely serious matter. We must be patient with them and judge them charitably if we are to be just with them.

The Lines Tightened

Persecutions of the Christians developed within a comparatively short space of time after the new faith was launched. This was to be expected, and Jesus warned his disciples about the inevitable.

The Christians, on the other hand, admitted new members into their fellowship with great reluctance and only after careful examination. From this lesson it seems that Paul was held in considerable suspicion for many years, because of the ferocity with which he persecuted the saints during those early years.

It was only on the recommendation of Barnabas, a devout man of some wealth, that Paul was finally accepted. But even so, one gets the impression from the

> The Sunday School lesson for September 12: "Barnabas, A Good Man," Acts 4:32-37; 9:26-31; 11:22-30; 12:25-13:7, 43-52; 14:1-20; 15:1-39; I Corinthians 9:6; Galatians 2:1-13; Colossians 4:10.

New Testament that the Great Apostle was a lonely preacher, a leader of a minority, through most of his career.

The First Gentiles

There was a deep spiritual longing throughout the Gentile world which drove multitudes to become inquirers of both Jewish and Christian teachers. In every city there was at least a small number of those who, in search of spiritual peace had embraced the Jewish faith. The missionary zeal of the Jews was amazing, and thousands of converts were being enlisted. Infinitely superior to anything paganism had to offer, the teachings of Judaism invited the most spiritual minded people of the pagan world.

It was inevitable that the Christian Gospel should make an appeal to these high grade Gentiles. Judaism had already prepared the ground. It had established confidence in the minds of the Gentiles that the Jews had something to offer, and the Christians, as a Jewish sect, found it easy to enlist Gentile converts.

The Critical Issue

In order to get the benefits of Judaism the Gentile was required to undergo certain ceremonies by which he became a Jew, actually adopted into the race, for Judaism made no promise of any kind to anyone who was not a Jew.

It was just here that the break came between Judaism and Christianity. Such leaders as Barnabas, and then more conspicuously Saul, began offering the spiritual benefits of the new religion to anyone who would declare his belief in Jesus as the Christ, anr the Saviour of men.

The preaching of Barnabas bypassed the ceremonies and ritualism of Judaism. One did not need to become a Jew to become a Christian, he taught.

This was too much for the devout Jewish Christian who had been reared in the old tradition. They were unable to make the break. But in the process of becoming a world religion, offering salvation to all men, Christianity had to make that break and Barnabas and Paul were responsible for the first crack.

Washington Spotlight:

Election Campaign Starts Out With Bitterness, Demagoguery

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 10 (CP) — President Truman has sounded the keynote for an election campaign that starts out with bitterness and demagoguery not usually associated with contests for the highest office in the land.

On his initial appearance on the hustings in his quick swing through Michigan, many of those who accompanied him or heard him on the radio have expressed the fear that he may be something less than impressive.

He accused the Republicans of "bribery" in connection with reports the party had circulated its supporters asking them to share with the party treasury some of their savings ersulting from Republican tax decreases.

Yet in his acceptance speech at the convention in Philadelphia Truman bluntly told the farmers and the workers that the high returns they were getting for their efforts were due to a democratic administration and that both farmers and workers would be "ungrateful" if they did not support him at the polls.

Then Harold Stassen came along and added to the serious nature of these charges in high places by telling a Detroit audience, the day after Truman addressed 500,000 at a labor rally there, that the President's audience was present by coercion.

Threats And Fines

Stassen, opening the campaign for Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey, Governor of New York, said the Truman audience turned out under threats of $3 fines, made to union members by labor bosses, if they did not attend.

Truman has also been assailed on his arguments against the Taft-Hartley labor law which he promises to repeal and which he claims enslaves labor.

But of course the 15,000,000 rank-and-file membership of labor unions whose officials endorse Truman can vote any way they like.

No Complaints Yet

A congressional committee set up to check on operations of the act and ascertain if it is harmful has received no complaints as yet.

The Taft-Hartley labor law does set some obstacles in the way of labor leaders calling sudden, disastrous strikes and discourages the closed shop system. There have been fewer periods of idleness in important industries since it was passed but today's newspapers indicate that workers are still free to strike and are doing it.

U.S. Getting Ready in North Says Commander

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 11 (CP) — The United States "is getting ready in the north" for any possible foreign attack, Cmdr. Donald B. MacMillan said here Thursday as he landed back in his ship, the Bowdoin, from his 27th voyage to the Arctic.

He said "protective measures" were being taken in Greenland, where the United States has spent $15,000,000 on bases, and information on Polar regions valuable to the defence of North America was constantly being gathered.

The 73-year-old explorer, scheduled to sail for his home port of Boothbay Harbor, Me., today, said he made 1,000 soundings of northern waters for the U.S. Hydrographic office.

MacMillan said the U.S. had spent more than $1,000,000 surveying the Arctic but Canada had allowed 300 miles of Labrador coast to go unexplored. He added:

"Not a single sounding has ever been taken by Canada, nor any survey made in a region which might well figure in the next war, which is bound to come."

The Bowdoin got within 660 miles of the North Pole when a solid mass of ice brought it up short. MacMillan said he believed the Bowdoin could have punched its way another 300 miles if there had been time.

The Bowdoin was based at refugee harbor on Kane Basin where in 1947 it was trapped in the ice for a year and where previously MacMillan and a radio operator had been stranded for four years.

The Bowdoin's crew of 16 included Mariam MacMillan, wife of skipper Mac. Veteran of five trips to the Arctic, she handles the port watch and takes her turn at the wheel. His first book will appear next week.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

MIGRATION OF HAWKS

Now is the time to watch for flocks of birds starting on their southbound trek. Night fliers we seldom see in migration flight, but we have the chance of observing daylight travellers. To this class belong mostly those (like Swallows and Nighthawks) that feed on flying insects which can be caught on the way; but there are also some strong-winged birds that choose the hours of brightness for journeying even though, on account of their preference, they are obliged to fast. Into this group come Hawks.

Each kind of bird has its own favorite flyway. Knowing the route taken by Hawks, energetic arnithologists gather where the best view may be had of the spectacular fall flight of these kings of the air. As this migration covers several weeks and is at irregular intervals, the best date is somewhat of a guess. There is probably no better vantage point in Canada than about half-way along the north shore of Lake Erie. When the movement is at its height, it is not uncommon to see several thousand Hawks in one day. There may be approximately 25 Red-tailed, then single birds—a Marsh Hawk, Cooper's Hawk, Sharp-shinned—followed perhaps by a couple of Red-shouldered. After a lull of say half an hour a huge flock of Broad-winged may pass overhead.

However, because of the altitude at which these birds are flying, observers often have trouble in estimating the number of individuals in a flock as well as the species of Hawk. Because most of this family have a large supporting wing surface in comparison to their body weight they are among the few birds able to fly really very high. Reduction in oxygen and lack of buoyancy at great heights make flying difficult.

Unlike Canada Geese, which fly in close formation, Hawks migrate in very loose formation, their rate of speed being probably from 22 to 28 miles an hour. When going short distances and pressed for time they are able to fly very much quicker. The Peregrine Falcon, one of our exceptionally fast fliers, has been known to attain a speed of nearly 180 miles an hour. Naturally Hawks are not joined in migration by other species. We could hardly expect song birds to chum up with these birds of prey even if it were possible to keep their pace.

Once all the Hawks have left us, we know summer is at an end.

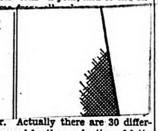
volving extractor which sucks out the honey by centrifugal force. From the extractor, the honey is pumped or dumped into an overhead clarifier composed of different sized screens. After the honey is strained it is ready for containers and shipment.



We have heard people say, especially during wartime sugar rationing, how nice it would be to have a hive or two of bees, and more recently because of the higher cost of honey some have had the same thought in mind. The foregoing account may seem like "apple pie" to the uninitiated but before any one rushes out and gets involved in the science of honey production we would suggest they get informed first. There are many pitfalls for the unwary, and it is very, very easy to get "stung."

Big Demand for Oils, Fats

The developing shortage of butter and agitation for the manufacture of oleomargarine is focusing the attention of Canadians on edible oils and the sources from which they come. The ending of the war raised the promise of an end to wartime shortages of lard, shortening, soap, paints, varnishes, and some lubricating oils. However, there is still a greater demand for certain oils used in manufacturing, as well as butter, than can be supplied.

The world production of oils and fats of all kinds in the years just before the war amounted on the average to between 24 and 25 million tons a year, and of the oil-equivalent three-fifths came from oil...

beans, rape and sunflower. Actually there are 30 different trees or crops which are used for the production of fatty oils — as distinct from volatile or essential oils, which are mainly of vegetable origin also — and a much larger number are known to contain oil which has not been extracted commercially.

The oils which are important in international trade and which account for about 90 per cent of the total are coconut oil, palm and palm kernel oil, groundnut (peanut) linseed (flax), soybean, and cotton seed oil. Rape seed is one of the most extensively grown oilseed crops, and during the war gained importance as a substitute for the scarce castor oil as a lubricant. The quantity entering international trade is small. The most important of the other oil crops are olive oil, sunflower seed oil and sesamen, all of which are mainly consumed domestically, and castor, tung and perilla oil.

By far the most important of the animal fats are butter and lard. Whale oil is the chief maritime oil and its output has risen notably with the development of whaling in the Antarctic.

Modern extraction processes have made available for edible purposes many oils which previously were considered only suitable for soap and other non-edible purposes.

THE DAY

Eight hours to sleep: eight hours to play;
Eight hours to work.
Yet little fun or rest have they
Who duty shirk.

WEIGHT BY GUESS

Since none has found a scale to weigh
The fish that struck and got away,
He'd be a modest angler who Refused to add a pound or two.

BOY AND MAN

A boy of nine is some one's son
Who'll never walk when he can run.
But by and by, when youth is done,
When he can walk he'll never run.

SEPT. 11TH., 1928.

The swimming pool at the Y.M.C.A. is being repaired and will be closed for two weeks.

The storm last night was the most severe of this season. Little damage resulted in the city. At Cannifton a small barn owned by Edward Titterson was struck with lightning and burned to the ground; a barn owned by George Phillips, on the Madoc Road, two miles north of Foxboro, and also a barn owned by Murney T. Hagerman, near Stirling, were hit by lightning and destroyed by fire.

An aeroplane was forced down last night owing to the storm and made a safe landing in the field belonging to Col. Ponton and situated back of the fair grounds. The flier hopped off at an early hour this morning and went east.

CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE OF CREATION

Modern religious thinking has not given sufficient consideration to the matter of creation. Its religious significance is indicated by the fact that it is the first thing with which the Word of God deals. Men have fallen into squabbling groups over the question, how God created the world. The important thing is that He did create it, regardless of the method used. "In the beginning God created heavens and the earth."

Men pass by lightly today the matter of divine creation. They look to science to explain creation, when the very best science can be expected to do is to describe it. After science has said its last word — if that day ever arrives — religion will have something to say about creation infinitely more glorious than science can ever affirm. "By faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things that do appear (Heb. 11:3). "By the word of God were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth" (Ps. 36:6). "All things were made by Him; and without Him was not anything made that was made" (John 1:3).

Thus does the word of God maintain that creation is primarily a religious rather than a scientific matter.

I see by the papers that although this is leap year, fewer marriages are recorded across Canada than last year. This is a sad state of affairs. Obviously, some things cannot be left to the women.

When you read of the falling off of marriages during leap year, the horrible thought cannot help but enter your head—how many men said no?

Thirty years ago, when Mrs. Pankhurst was still chaining herself to the railing of the gallery in the British House of Commons, (and shouting), the number of men in this world who could say, "no" to a girl popping the question must have been very small. Those were the days when men swung instantly to their feet when a lady appeared before them, seated, in the street car. There were no buses then. Buses inhibit gallantry. Maybe we are on the trail of truth here: does the architecture of modern transportation have anything to do with the falling off of masculine manners?

the great Montaigne, "and you have a tame man." I haven't seen a man bow to a lady for years. When I was a boy, no gentleman raised his hat to a lady without bowing. The chic today, if you have a hat, is to say "Hi" as you give your hat a very slight shift of position.

It is therefore entirely conceivable that if, in conformity with the ancient usage of leap year, ten thousand girls popped the question on men of their choice, seven thousand five hundred of the men said no.

There is, however, a more rational and happy explanation of the falling off of marriages this year. Tens of thousands of young men in this country are with great tenacity, completing the university and other educational training which their war service afforded them under Canada's rehabilitation scheme. Let us hope they found girls who were willing to wait.

In 1950, and 1951, we are likely to have a great spate of marriages. And may they all, all be happy!

Nizam Feuding With Dominion Of India

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A situation fraught with potentialities of widespread bloodshed has developed out of the dispute between the Dominion of India and the powerful Nizam of Hyderabad, paramount prince of the Indiansub-continent and reputedly the world's richest individual.

The background of this crisis dates back to just over a year ago when Britain granted independence to all India which, apart from the principalities, was split into two Dominions — Pakistan (mainly Moslem) and India (largely Hindu). Britain advised the hundreds of princes to join either one or the other of the Dominions and most of the rulers have done so, the Nizam being the outstanding exceution.

India has insisted the Prince join that Dominion. This demand is based on two grounds: (1) Hyderabad lies wholly within the Dominion of India, and (2) the state presents the anomaly of a Moslem prince ruling over a population of some 16,000,000 which is more than three-quarters Hindu.

However, the Nizam long has been noted as proud and resentful of interference with what he regards as his prerogatives. Moreover he has a sizeable standing army of his own. Britain always handled him with kid gloves.

So the Nizam has stood his ground in the face of insistent demands from the Dominion. Relations between the Dominion and the State have gone from bad to worse. There have been clashes between Hyderabad police forces and Indian troops on the borders. Finally a few days ago Prime Minister Nehru of India demanded that the Nizam outlaw his police army and permit Indian troops to enter the state to maintain order. This the Nizam refused to do.

The latest development is a blunt statement by Nehru at a press conference that Indian troops will be stationed at Secunderabad, capital of Hyderabad, regardless of what happens. He added significantly:

"We do not expect an easy march to Secunderabad."

That's a grim picture — but it's only half the story. The dispute the Nizam and India interlocks with the bitter politico-religious clash between India and Pakistan.

The hostility has all but brought the two Dominions to open warfare over the Princely State of Kashmir whose population is mainly Moslem but whose Maharajah, a Hindu, elected to join predominantly Hindu India. Troops of both Dominions are in Kashmir and there has been fighting which has threatened to become general. A United Nations Commission on the ground has been unable to achieve peace.

Irrespective of responsibility, however, the fact remains that the consensus of observers seem to be a "communal bloodbath" is a possibility. The Indian peninsula has seen this bloody communal strife for generations, but never before has there been such a mighty and formal division of the country as exists in the Dominions of Pakistan and India.

Great Grandson Of Von Bismarck Given Six Months

Frankfurt Germany Sept. 11 (AP)— A Moscow trained great grandson of Chancellor Otto Von Bismarck was sentenced by an American court at a secret hearing Friday to six months in jail on a charge of possessing false papers.

The action came as the United States Army was reported pressing an investigation of Communist espionage in western Germany.

The prisoner is Count Henrich Von Einsiedel, 26, a shadowy figure in a case on which officials are not talking for publication. He is a former flier in the German Air Force and reputed former aide of Field Marshal Friedrich Von Paulus, who is rumored to head a Germany Army in Russia.

He is being tried on charges of "unauthorized activity." The reports on him say that when he was captured by the Russians he was an ardent Nazi but became converted to Communism through Soviet indoctrination in his years of imprisonment.

Man May Have Descended From Apes After All

Brighton England Sept. 11 — (AP)— A British anthrapologist said Thursday it looks as though man may be descended from apes after all.

Prof. W.E. L. Gros Clark told the British Association of Scientists new evidence indicating this could be the case came to light during British Kenya Miocene expedition.

Among the things the expedition turned up in East Africa, he said, were almost 50 fossil specimens of extinct apes.

"Up to recently," Clark said, "our knowledge of extinct apes has been practically confined to limbs and teeth."

The fossil bones, he said. "appear to indicate that these really miocene apes were lightly built creatures capable of running and leaping with considerable agility in strong contrast with modern anthrapoid apes."

Ritual Murder By Savages Behind Story

Brighton Sussex England, Sept. 11 (Reuters) — A ritual murder by savages in England 35,000 years ago is believed to be the story behind the discovery of a woman's skull, pierced by spears found buried beneath hundreds of tons of rock in a cave near Whaley, Derbyshire.

Details of what is described as a spectacular discovery — the oldest woman's skull of palaeolithic times found in Britain — were given Thursday, for the first time, to the British Association of Scientists by A.L. Armstrong, who found the remains.

Sir Arthur Keith. one of the greatest living authorities on ancient man, is examining the skull in his laboratory at owne, Kent. It was dentified as that of a woman aged 50 to 55.

The skull which was in 68 pieces and peculiarly narrow and long, was restored and photographed after six months.

THE DIGESTION OF STARCH

All of the teeth of 234 patients were yanked for one reason or another. In 126 of these deplorable cases the loss of the $28,000 to $32,000 worth of teeth per person—certainly every tooth that functions (whether one's own or something made by one's dentist) is worth at least $1000—was, as Drs. Vaisey and Clark-Kennedy expressed it in British Medical Journal, "for purely dental reasons.'

Frankly, now, here's a subject which I can safely sound off because the whole thing happened in far away England.

Seventy-six of the patients were deprived of their teeth on the theory that general sepsis from infected teeth was the cause of their dyspepsia or stomach trouble. Others lost their teeth because their physicians thought that removal of bad teeth might benefit their anemia. The teeth of some of the 234 patients were extracted in the hope that it would help their rheumatiz.

Of the 76 patients with dyspepsia or stomach trouble six improved after removal of their teeth. The other seventy lost their teeth but not their stomach trouble.

Of the 13 whose teeth were extracted for rheumatiz five seemed somewhat improved for a while afterward.

Of the 126 patients whose teeth were extracted for "purely dental reasons" 39 later developed dyspepsia or stomach trouble and 19 developed rheumatiz.

So Drs. Vatsey and Clark-Kennedy studied the score and (1) expressed doubt of the focal infection principle and (2) the belief that the loss of the function of a tooth is the important factor —that is, impaired mastication of the food necessarily impairs digestion and poor digestion means nutritional deficiency and nutritional deficiency eventually manifests itself as rheumatiz.

Strange as it may seem to many physicians and dentists in Yankeeland, these Englis physicians concluded that when extraction of one or more teeth cannot be avoided, as they put it, "efficient prosthetic dentistry is essential in the prophylaxis of all types of dyspepsia," rheumatiz etc.

Prosthetic dentistry means supplying substitutes for missing teeth, bridges, plates—especially what the better dentists in America call "immediate dentures" — substitutes prepared and installed before the patient leaves the office after extraction.

By way of prophylaxis (prevention) of dyspepsia, stomach trouble, rheumatiz, anemia, premature senility, early sagging of face and loss of any semblance of beauty, it would be a good idea for any one who is about to lose or who has already lost one or more teeth, to visit the public library, ask for Howell's Textbook of Physiology and read about the Digestive Action of Saliva in Chap. 41.

Here is part of it:

"A question of practical importance is as to how far salivary digestion affects the starchy foods under usual circumstances. The chewing process in the mouth thoroughly mixes the food and saliva, or should do so, but the bolus is swallowed much too quickly to enable the enzyme (ptyalin, starch digestant) to complete its action. In the stomach the gastric juice is sufficiently aid to destroy the ptyalin, and it was therefore supposed formerly that salivary digestion is promptly arrested on the entrance of the food into the stomach, and is normally of but little value as a digestive process. Our recent increase in knowledge regarding the conditions in the stomach shows, on the contrary, that some of the food in an ordinary meal may remain in the fundic (upper portion) end of the stomach for an hour or more untouched by the acid secretion. There is every reason to believe, therefore, that salivary digestion (of starch) may be carried on in stomach to an important extent."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Boys and Girls

When I ask my 13-year-old daughter how much plain hygiene or sex hygiene they teach in school, her reply was 'Hygiene! Why they haven't taught us that for nearly three years now. The teachers think English and History is more important than Hygiene.' My daughter is in the 8th grade. (Mrs. F. M.)

Answer—Precious few public schools where a boy or girl gets a better break than that, I'm afraid. However, if you and a few other parents will agitate the question in your Parent-Teachers and other groups you can get a better deal for the youngsters. Only pamphlet I have is Hygiene for Girls and Health for Women — for copy send stamped self addressed envelope—do not use clippings please.

Pseudo-Scientific

Idea set forth in leading magazine that consumption of much milk, cheese and butter may cause partial closing off of blood vessels leading to the heart and thus....(A. E. W.)

Answer—No evidence to support the theory. In my judgment it is advisable for every one to consume not less than a pint of milk a day, or its equivalent in butter, cheese, sour milk, buttermilk, Bulgarian or Acirophilus milk, yoghurt, skim milk, powdered dried milk, evaporated milk etc.

Short features include table tennis championships, the Canadian tandem canoe 10,000-metre championship race, motorboat racing and sailing races. The National Horse Show begins its first morning session and runs through until night.

Top feature of Friday night's horse show was the $500 Canadian-bred hunter stake won by Misty orn of the Sefton Stables of Toronto. Given excellent handling over a tricky course by Clifford Sifton, the bay mare won the $250 Seagram Trophy as well as the $150 first prize money.

Another hunter class, the Corinthian, was won by Carrigormas, bay gelding ridden by Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann of Toronto. Second went to Yvonne McMullen, of Elgin Mills, Ont.

The champion "touch and out" stake went to Roselle Howe of Toronto often called Canada's top woman rider, who defeated 10 men riders in the event. They were winners of earlier nights in preliminaries.

She won in a jump-off against 16-year-old Douglas Cudney of Whonnay Park, the only other rider to clear all the obstacles.

Lacey Rumbo of Durham won the pair of harness horses class with Mrs. T. Armstrong's entry from Brampton, second. Third was W. S. Munro of Embro.

YOUR HYDRO CHAIRMAN REPORTS on the Power Shortage

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

ROBERT H. SAUNDERS, C.B.E., K.C. CHAIRMAN

590 UNIVERSITY AVENUE TORONTO 2

September 11, 1948.

Dear Fellow Citizens:

The demand for electricity from all classes of the community - homes, farms and industries - all over Ontario, is still mounting. Homes are being built, the demand for increased production from farms is steadily increasing and industry is pressing forward with plans for expansion, plans that mean greater production and more jobs to keep Ontario prosperous.

It is anticipated that the increase in demand over the available supply will amount to in excess of four million kilowatt hours per day, and conservation measures are being put into effect on Tuesday, September 14th. These will include reductions in the supply for show windows, office lighting and certain industries, the banning outdoor electrical signs and in other ways. Even with all these restrictions we will still be short 1,200,000 kilowatt hours per day but to insist on more would have a hampering effect on industry and seriously reduce employment.

Where then can we get the vitally needed power? From you and every individual Hydro user in Ontario. How much should you save? Take a 60-watt electric lamp as an example. For every 24 hours it burns, it requires almost one and a half kilowatt hours of current. If every one of the 900,000 Hydro users in Ontario will save the equivalent of that much electricity every day there will be no need for cut offs.

Everyone must do his or her part. It should be a 24 hour effort. Turn off every light, switch off every motor or appliance the moment it is not needed. Particularly, watch the switches on your electric range.

The situation is critical. Full employment must be maintained and the support of every householder, every commercial user and every industrial consumer is essential in avoiding the waste of electricity.

Chairman,

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

do you find saving easy?

Whenever a Mutual Life of Canada representative asks that question, he gets a rueful 'no'. And if you're like most of us, your answer will be 'no' too. Yet we all realize that saving money is not fortunately necessary.

Life Insurance offers a sure way of saving for old age, sickness, or other emergencies. In addition it protects your family against your untimely death. The Mutual Life of Canada offers life insurance that combines savings with protection at low cost.

Take advantage of your local representative's special training in adapting Mutual Life Insurance to fit the individual needs and circumstances of people of all ages and incomes. He will consider it a privilege to help you.

WEDDINGS

CARMAN—BRONSON

Marmora (Special) — The marriage was solemnized at St. Andrew's United Church parsonage, Marmora, on Wednesday, September 8, of Edna Marie Bronson, only daughter of Mrs. Frank Billings of Marmora Township and Milton Bronson, late of Mr. and Mrs. Rose Carman, also of Marmora Township. Rev. George D. Young, B.A., B.D., officiated.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white crepe with sequin trimming and black accessories. Her corsage was a spray of mixed flowers and she wore the ground gift of gold earrings. Miss Clemenger, as bridesmaid wore a black crepe dress with white trimming and a corsage of mixed flowers. Ezra Carman, uncle of the groom acted as best man. A reception was held at the bride's home where her mother received in a black crepe dress. Young friends of the bride assisting the hostess were Beulah Carman, Gladys McQuigge, Marjorie Clemenger and Mrs. Ed. Carman. Mr. and Mrs. Carman left on a trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wearing a light blue wool suit with black accessories. They will reside in Marmora Township.

SMITH—HOWES

Alice Margaret Howes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Howes of Parham, Ontario, became the bride of Norman Edward Smith, son of Mr. Harry Smith and the late Mrs. Smith of Belleville, on September 4, 1948 at St. Alban's Church, Parham, Ontario, at 2:30 p.m. Rev. James Johnston officiated.

The bride given away by her father wore a gown of white nylon marquisette over satin, trimmed with Brussels lace. Her three-quarter length veil was held in place with a crown of orange blossoms. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of stephanotis and white gladioli petals. Miss Ann McComb of Belleville, was bridesmaid and wore a floor-length gown of turquoise corded taffeta trimmed with Egyptian lace, a tight fitted bodice, full skirt with deep peplum with matching half hat and scarf.

Mr. James Stone of Belleville was best man. Ushers were Keith, brother of the bride, Parham, and Charles Dyer, friend of the groom, Belleville, were ushers.

During the signing of the register, Miss Doris Thrasher of Belleville sang "Because."

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. Out-of-town guests were present. The bride's mother received the guests in a navy and white dress and wore black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's sister, Mrs. Casey assisted wearing black and white jersey with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The table was centred with the wedding cake and silver candelabra surrounded with white carnations and ferns.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario, the bride chose a suit of strawberry English wool gabardine with navy accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon their return the couple will live in Belleville.

Guests from out-of-town were from Belleville, Brighton, Frankford, Kingston, Ottawa and Toronto.

Rita Johnson, Film Actress, Critically Ill

Hollywood, Sept. (10) —(AP)— Blonde Rita Johnson, once considered as a successor to the late movie star Jean Harlow, is in critical condition today with a brain injury suffered mysteriously four days ago.

The 33-year-old film actress Thursday underwent undersweat delicate surgery in which three specialists removed a blood clot pressing on her brain. She was under anesthetic 3 1-2 hours at St. Vincent's hospital in Los Angeles. There after her condition was reported slightly improved.

The known circumstances were given reporters by Miss Johnson's friend, actress Mary Alsidee. She related that:

Monday afternoon Miss Johnson telephoned to say she would be a little late for a cocktail party because she was washing her hair. Miss Alsidee called at Miss Johnson's apartment about 8 p.m. to take her to the party.

Miss Johnson greeted Miss Alsidee by saying, "I bumped my head. It hurts terribly."

Miss Johnson then partially collapsed. Miss Alsidee helped her to bed and called a doctor. Miss Johnson lapsed into unconsciousness before saying how she was injured.

Miss Alsidee said she was unable to get an ambulance and called in her own physician, Dr. Phillip Erenberg, that evening.

Then Miss Johnson's physician, Dr. Lee Siegel, was called and a nurse placed in attendance. Dr. Siegel said Miss Johnson had a large lump on her head, a bruised hip and was suffering from brain concussion.

The actress was admitted to the hospital Thursday after Dr. Siegel said he tried without success for more than two days to get hospital accommodations.

A maid offered a possible clue to the mystery when a hairdrier in Miss Johnson's apartment had slipped before and might have again, striking the actress on the head. Dr. Siegel reported finding the drier resting on a chair behind which it stood.

FIND EDIBLE FROGS

London — (CP) — Edible frogs, the delicacy which has been discovered recently on London's Hampstead Heath. It is believed there now are 200 of them and they are increasing. They normally have been confined to Norfolk Fens.

GIRL BITES SNAKE

Broadwater, New South Wales —(CP) — A 13-months-old girl here recently bit a venomous, 2½-foot snake and began playing. The snake appeared dazed when it fell to the ground. The baby's mother, who at first thought it was a stick, killed it.

EARLY CHINESE ABRASIVE

"Sandpaper" was known to the Chinese as early as the 13th century when they used a natural gum to make bits of crushed seashells stick to parchment.

Melons and Grapes

During the summer and early fall months, the Canadian housewife has a rich and abundant supply of healthful and delightful fruits and vegetables from which to choose in planning attractive meals for her family. It is the wise homemaker who takes advantage of this fact and uses Canadian-grown products when they are in season and best expensive.

One of Canada's most plentiful crops comes from her bountiful vineyards which over-flow with delicious purple, red and green grapes at this season of the year. The early settlers of this country found wild grapes flourishing in such abundance along the New England coast that a section of it was given the name "Vineland."

Another welcome addition to the early fall menu is the delicious golden melon with its sweet luscious flavor. The melon belongs to a very large family and its various members are found in all parts of the world. Melons were a food of the ancients and references to it are found in records of the Persian courts. It is believed that the chief varieties of melons used today are of Persian origin.

Most homemakers use large quantities of both of these fruits and everyone knows how attractive a large bowl of grapes may be if placed in the centre of the table where each member of the family can help himself. Grapes are always acceptable at the picnic supper and are proven favorites with those who like to have their supper out-of-doors. Chilled melon is delicious either in a salad or dessert and is particularly nice when topped with ice cream.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, use both grapes and melons to advantage in these delightful recipes which they hope you will enjoy.

MELON ICE

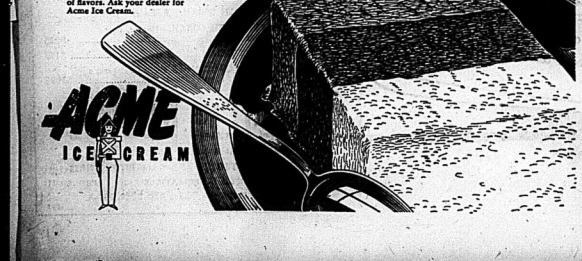
1 cantaloupe
1½ cups water
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Remove rind and seeds from cantaloupe and force pulp through a colander. Make a syrup of the water and sugar and simmer 5 minutes. Cool. Add the cantaloupe pulp and lemon juice. Freeze in an automatic refrigerator tray stirring occasionally. Yield: six servings.

GRAPE SOUFFLE

3 cups blue grapes, stemmed and washed
1/3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 egg whites

Crush grapes in saucepan with fork. Simmer for about 15 minutes or until pulp frees from seeds. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch. Add to stewed grapes gradually, stirring to blend. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Cool. Fold grape mixture in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered baking dish. Bake or poach in a moderately slow oven (325°F.) for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold with Custard Sauce. Yield: six servings.



GRAPE CUSTARD SPONGE

1½ teaspoons gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup grape juice
½ cup scalded milk
1 egg white
1 egg whole

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Beat egg yolk slightly, add sugar and grape juice. Pour into the scalded milk and cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until custard is thickened sufficiently to coat a spoon. Add gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved, strain. Cool, stirring occasionally, until mixture just begins to set. Using a rotary beater, beat in grape pulp, chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture just begins to set again. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Beat the gelatine mixture until frothy, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Turn into individual serving dishes. Chill. Serve with cream. Yield: six servings.

Tweed Couple Happily Wed For 50 Years

Tweed

Tweed — (Special) — Surrounded by members of their immediate family and by numerous friends from far distant in Calgary, Alta., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Irvin of Tweed, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday, Sept. 7th.

The couple were the recipients of many messages of goodwill as well as many lovely gifts in honor of the occasion.

Both natives of Tweed, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin have lived in this vicinity practically all their lives.

They were married by Rev. D. Martin of the Presbyterian Church who was then stationed in Tweed at that time.

Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Irvin. Ralph, a son, is living on a farm near Tweed. Myrtle, a daughter, is living in Toronto and Hilda, another daughter, died at the age of eighteen years.

The couple recalled that Miss Annie Irvin sister of Mr. Irvin had been bridesmaid and Wm. Alexander, brother of Mrs. Irvin acted as groomsman at that time.

Must Enforce Act Says Department

Toronto, Sept. 11 — (CP) — Unless and until changes are made in the Lord's Day Act it remains the duty of Ontario authorities responsible for law enforcement to "reasonably enforce" the law, Attorney - General Blackwell said Friday in a statement which said that of breaches of the Act at Ontario resorts are being studied.

The Ontario Attorney - General "intends to proceed with prosecutions where sufficient evidence is available either through police reports or the report of interested citizens," said the statement.

"This department wishes to make both those in authority and the general public aware of the fact that it has been obtaining reports as breaches of the Act both in areas policed by the provincial police and in areas where policing is locally directed and intends to proceed with prosecutions where sufficient evidence is available either through police report or the report of interested citizens."

Tricky Voyage Doesn't Worry Lady Freyberg

By J. G. GRAHAM

(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

Auckland, N. Z. — (CP) — Even the tricky voyage to Fiji is losing its element of danger in being the First Lady of the Dominion of New Zealand. During a four-month tour of New Zealand's outlying dependencies, Lady Freyberg, wife of the governor - general, Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg, V. C., has earned widespread admiration for the quiet determination with which she met the dangerous landings in heavy surf.

The smaller islands of the Cook and Tokelau Groups are guarded by vicious coral reefs over which the sea surges in a way that makes any landing risky. Many a man after a look at the reefs has decided against landing. The only way to reach shore is in the frail boats of the islanders who are highly skilled in crossing the reefs but whose reckless air does anything but inspire confidence.

It is claimed that on some of the worst reefs there is an accident rate of 10 to 15 per cent among the craft used for the crossings. Once during a recent visit, regal cruise a party of 23 naval ratings was capsized in the surf and suffered coral cuts from the jagged reef.

Visited Norfolk Island

In spite of these Lady Freyberg landed at every place. The last voyage from the cruiser Bellona to the landing craft was in itself a tricky business. It meant a split second jump from the cruiser's stairway to the bottom of a native canoe tossing up and down in a choppy Pacific swell. Again she involved a wetting before the reef crossing was even begun. Then followed the hazardous run thru the spouting coral to the beach and transfer to the shoulders of native bearers in the shallows, followed by a repetition of the procedure in reverse on the return journey.

Thousands of islanders regarded Lady Freyberg's conduct as no danger in visiting them as a high compliment. They showed their appreciation by presenting her tunas into the fabric of their traditional songs of welcome.

In her cool disregard of danger Lady Freyberg is following the tradition of her husband whose exploits in two wars earned him an almost legendary reputation among New Zealanders. Called the "Empire's Salamander" by Mr. Churchill, he led the New Zealand forces throughout the Second World War.

Women's Activities

MARMORA WI.

Marmora — The September meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. M. Prentice. The president, Mrs. C. Prentice was in the chair and the meeting opened in the customary manner. Reading by Mrs. James Gordenier through illness, the duties of secretary-treasurer were taken over by Mrs. W. G. Chrysler. Roll call was well answered. Following presentation of the treasurer's report, letters of thanks were read. Attention was drawn to the district rally to be held in Wellman on September 14 when the guest speaker will be Miss Ida Bralne of Hertfordshire, England. A letter was read from Miss Elsie Irvine, County Home Economist on the project for Girls' Clubs this year. "The Club Girl Entertains". It was agreed to give the annual donation to the Marmora Fair Board.

Discussions of an interesting nature followed upon the proposed campaign for the interior decoration of Marmora town hall which will be sponsored by the Women's Institute. Projects for starting the fund for that purpose were considered.

Special consideration was the operation of the booth at Marmora Fair and plans were made accordingly.

It was decided to reorganize the Girls' Club and Meadames W. G. Chrysler, J. Nobes and G. Stephens were appointed leaders to being "Agriculture Night," Mrs. L. R. Cross, agricultural secretary gave a paper on the care of flower beds and the planting of flowers.

Next came a piano solo by Marina Knott, then a humorous reading by Mrs. H. W. Sabine and a song by Mrs. C. C. Prentice "The Voice in the Old Village Choir."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which the hostesses served lunch and refreshments. The October meeting featuring "Entertainment Night" will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Grant.

Sparked by Dimaggio, Yankees Declare Themselves Back In Race for Flag in American

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Sparked by the greatest all-around Yankee of them all — Joltin' Joe DiMaggio — New York Yankees have declared themselves back in the American League pennant race.

DiMaggio rekindled the pennant hopes of the defending world champions on Friday with a tremendous grand-slam home run that brought the Yanks an 11-6 victory in 10 innings over the league-leading Red Sox.

The Yankee clipper socked his game-wrecking blow off Earl Caldwell, fourth Boston pitcher. The blast ended a nine-game Boston winning streak.

The defeat cut the Sox lead to 2½ games over the Yanks.

Until DiMag unloaded, the flag aspirations of the Yankees were mighty dim. The Bombers entered Boston Wednesday night a game and a half off the pace and took two straight beatings.

A third straight flop and the Yanks could just about forget the pennant and start concentrating on holding second place against the onslaught of the third-place Cleveland Indians.

The Indians remained a game behind the Yanks by blitzing Detroit Tigers 10-1. Lefty Gene Haardsen limited the visiting Tigers to six hits in posting his 14th victory. Bearden also singled home the tenth run of the game as the Tribe whacked three Tiger hurlers for 16 hits. Cleve Bonura chipped in with his 25th homer to help the parade along.

Connie Mack's fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics took a twilight-night doubleheader from the Senators in Washington 9-6, and 3-0. Phil Marchildon and Dick Hudson for 17 hits in the opener and were out with a two-run ninth inning rally. Phil Marchildon or Pensetaguisbone, Ont., stopped the Nats in the three hits in the second game that was called at the end of seven innings on account Philadelphia to catch a train for home. Dick Fowler pitched for the A's in their win in the first game. St. Louis Browns walked to a 10-7 victory over the White Sox in a night game at Chicago. While Sox pitchers walked 13 Brownies with rookie Marvin Rotblatt starring 10.

In the only National-League game, the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals turned back Cincinnati Reds 6-3. Stan Musial broke up the game by singling home Red Schoendienst in the inning.

Corbys Defeat Houstons 8-6 In Third Game

Corby's cantankerous caballeros came through with their first win in the Commercial Baseball League finals against Houstons last night as they dunked the "Knotholers" 8-6 in a snappy exhibition of ball.

Corbys had the breaks during the game and took full advantage of them in a rousing tussle that had the fans shouting until the last pitch was across the plate. The loss marked the second which the "Knotholers" have suffered in thirteen league and playoff games this season, the scoring in the first frame as they pushed over two counters on a walk and two singles.

Houstons jumped into the lead in the third inning as they poured over four runs on a walk, a sacrifice, an error, and a double, triple, and homer. They added another in the fourth on a single, an error, a passed ball and a fielder's choice.

Came Roaring Back

Corbys came roaring back for five runs in the fifth as the usually reliable Houston infield committed three errors that all figured in the runs. Corbys had two more in the sixth to knot the count in with the errors to give them the winning margin.

Houstons counted their last run in the bottom of the seventh on a double by Bland, a stolen base, and a fielder's choice.

Bill Miller was credited for Corbys, went the route walking nine batters, fanning six and giving up nine hits for six runs. Burton Fowler pitched for Houstons, walking five, striking out 3 and passing out eight hits for eight runs and the verdict.

Line ups:

Corbys: Mills 2b; Miller cf; D. Sword ss; Hunter lf; Storms 3b; Baldwin 1b; McLeod c; Lamsa rf; Latchford c; Houstons: Weale 2b; Wardhaugh 3b; Adams c; Spafford ss; Locke 1b; Culkin cf; Bland rf; Clarke lf; Burshaw p.

R.C.A.F. Flyers Enter Playdowns Defeating Picton

In one of the slowest exhibitions of baseball seen here in a long time, the R.C.A.F. downed the Picton Athletics 12-3 to become the Intermediate "B" representatives in the O.B.A. playdowns for the Belleville Baseball League.

The game, which lasted two hours and forty-five minutes, was slow from the start with little to cheer the nine crowd from beginning to end with the exception of the brilliant hurling of Flyer chucker, Fred Titus. The big righthander had one of his best nights locally as he struck out 16 Picton batters, walking two, and scattering seven hits for five runs over the course. Some loose fielding by the Flyers kept the issue in doubt until the eighth frame when they took advantage of four hits to pour over five runs to salt up the verdict. They added two more in the ninth to make the count read 12-3.

Flyers counted their first two tallies in the top of the second, added another in the second, one in the fifth, and one in the seventh.

Picton counted their first run in the bottom of the first, added three in the third and wound up with two in the fifth. They succeeded to score in the eighth when Bill Miller was relieved by Dyer in the eighth, who went the rest of the way striking out 2 and giving up five hits for five runs.

Best man defensively for the Athletics was Drury, shortstop, a hustling young fellow who starts plenty of speed afoot and a good throwing arm. He batted in two, and stole two bases.

Both clouters for the Flyers were Dunning with three singles and McLeod and Wade with three for five. Dyer was the big gun for Picton collecting three of his teams seven hits.

CHIPS OFF THE SHORTS BLOCK

By Jimmy Hatlo

The Earlscourt Juniors, most of whom were good enough to pass for the Earlscourt Intermediates during the summer campaign, raised a heap of eyebrows during the "Knothole" night when they swept the prides of the Motor City aside 1st two straight games. And they did it every bloody inch of the way. Pitcher gave up a measly three hits while striking out sixteen.

"Soup" Campbell, writing in the Oshawa daily, states, "It was a pitcher's battle of the first order, with "Dizz" Gaves of Oshawa and Jimmy Ring of the Flyers each out 13 of the most highly-rated Toronto sluggers and gave them only three scattered hits. Campbell, the Earlscourt moundsman, gave the Hunt Club boys only three safeties, while striking out seven in total. The visitors got the only 3 runs of game, aided by a walk, a couple of stolen bases, and a hit in the right place to score the first run, and a wild pitch in a bad place to score the other one."

Campbell closes his remarks by stating that the Oshawa squad was beaten by the team that should win the OBA championship this season. All we have to say to him is, "Oh yeah." Earlscourt meets the local Kiwanis Juniors here next Wednesday and they will have to be the fastest Oshawa champions if they hope to come closer to the local prides who have the best team in Belleville for years to come. And that is saying something, because in their first season they went out in the OBA finals against Picton and two years are were knocked off by Wrightville in very close struggles in the semi-finals. The only team to beat Wrightville that year was the Kitchener squad and they did it in the finals at home when Pat Redmore, of Inter County fame, came through with two of the best pitching displays of his career.

Line up of the Earlscourt squad that took the Hunters into camp is as follows: Campbell, p; Mackie, c; Gaves, 1st baseman; Spencer, 2b; Stephen 3b; Gentlin p; Castellaran, lf; Fitzsel, cf; and Stephenson rf. Bring them on and don't say you weren't warned.

Dr. Walter G. Robinson, Alexandria Bay, N.Y., one of the best known power boat owners and drivers in North America, has decided to call it a day and retire from the strenuous life of piloting some of America's fastest speed boats.

Dr. Robinson is well known to Belleville power boating fans, having driven in the Rotary regattas here and in the Gold Cup races at Picton. The beginning of the racing season this year he was credited with averaging 60 miles per hour on the fastest 20 mile inch run at the sport. The boat, named the "Mr. Decklit" was timed at speeds ranging from 55 to 100 miles per hour, and was clocked at 56 mph in time trials at Picton when partially filled with water.

The "Doc" who will be missed by all the numerous followers of the sport, has driven his craft for a total of 15 years, and has had a total of six fleet or racing craft and has owned seven in all. He is a native of Alexandria Bay, but he was giving up his career as a driver. The first of his boats was christened in the Gold Cup classic at Detroit this year, was sold to Don Ellis, of Detroit, Ohio, and "Mr. Decklit" went to Gordon Lipe of Syracuse.

Word from Trenton has it that Belleville's western suburb is whipping a football team into shape for competition in a league which will include the RCAF station, Trenton, Belleville and Picton, according to Flying Officer Ken Wilson. Officials of the new loop promoters are ashamed of the spectacle which they will inflict on the fans, but claim either head the fight may be a sleeper, with more action per minute than in any of the more formidable Rugby weight brawls. After all there is no Brown Bomber around to rock the opposition into bye-bye land before the customers at ring-side have smuggled into their one hundred dollar seats.

Tony Zale, a rugged character for whom Father Time is slowly mailing C.O.D. parcels, is expected to be the one to knock out Marcel Cerdan in the fifth. After watching the latter in his three-round preliminary against Rocky Graziano, it looks as though the fraternity will have to strike along.

Corbys hunting ball club, hustled and rustled their way to an 8-6 victory over the Houstons last night at the Alemite Field to extend their best in five series to a fourth game. Houstons took the first of the series 7-6. The fair-sized crowd which braved near winter weather, was treated to a good ball game throughout. The "Knotholers" who came apart momentarily at the seams, failed to be counted out. They went with the end of the score for the second time in thirteen league and playoff games. For Corbys it was a sweet victory, because in winning they showed some of the improvements which has marked their play throughout the year and dissolved all doubts as to their superiority. The fourth game, we'll shape up as the best tussle of the year is called for the Alemite Field, Monday at 6.15.

Trenton's RCAF Flyers steered the Picton Athletics into the baseball discard last evening as they finally dragged out a 12-5 victory over Fraser's Athletics to win the best of seven contests of the season. The Flyers now move into the OBA Intermediate B playoffs against an opponent who is as yet undetermined.

Orland Pinkston, chairman of the Parks Board informed those interested last night that the ice will be used for play off ball after the Hydro deadline. This reprieve will permit the Kiwanis Juniors to meet the Toronto Earlscourt squad under the lights come Wednesday p.m.

Fisticuffs Wind up Main Bout in Wrestling Show

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

It is about time that the powers-that-be start putting the wrestling hereabouts, called a halt to this fantastical and phoney grab bouts they have been dishing up to the wrestling public.

Last night's main bout between a so-called "Dangerous" Dan O'Connor, Irish Canadian heavyweight champion, Fred Atkins, was not even worthy of the appellation of a semi-preliminary.

As a matter of fact, the semi-final and the preliminary bouts put the main show so far in the discard that the majority of the fans thought the card had been reversed.

Lee (The Leer) Henning and Ed Wade started the evening's doings out on a grand show. Henning, always the villainous showman and an unlikely wade character in the ring fought to a draw in a bout which was exhibition while the hated Bob Girard(e) of Wagga and handsome Benny Sharpe battled to undisputed victory. Both wrestlers staging a fighting climax that ended with Referee Clifford Fox giving the nod of victory to Sharpe after the pair had battled outside the ring.

But the main dish was far from appetizing. From the start Atkins in the first place was mismatched with "Dangerous" Dan O'Connor, won, it is alleged two of the three falls. But according to Referee Ivan Dyer, Hamilton, who was the third man in the ring and incidentally a punching bag in the third fall, or so it seemed, called the vanished pair the winners.

"Dangerous" Dan O'Connor was about as "dangerous" as a burned-out firecracker. True, he did work on the villain act but he had better go back to the drawing board. Applied Pachydermy and get a refresher. Atkins is the graduated, which is very doubtful.

Atkins, the Ajax Adjuster, tried to pull the show out of the red. But the cumbersome O'Connor it seemed, had his bottles of the "bad man" was a more or less stumbling block with a display of villainous methods that were so obvious that even the most rabid fan sensed what was going on.

In short, and this is all it is worth, Atkins won the bout in the ring with his famous 'Kangaroo Clutch' and it is very effective, at that; lost the second fall after Dangerous Dan had pulled his few tricks out of the bag and the third and last fall was, as we said before, ruled "no contest" by Referee Powers after both wrestlers had resorted to fist-minute fisticuffing exercise which included the official.

The third fall and the bout, ended with all three men in the ring indulging in the only action of the bout. First O'Connor swung a fist at the Powers jaw, Atkins followed suit. There was a general melee. The referee tried to part the two (this is good) contestants and took several socks on the jaw which included a bloody nose, and finally getting fed up with the amateur fisticuffs, called the thing off.

He waved O'Connor and Atkins out of the ring and mopping a bloody snout with what remained of his shirt, retired with what majesty he had left.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By KEN JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lofty sights are being set in Eastern Ontario, and particularly Kingston, lost a stalwart sports enthusiast over the Labor Day weekend.

Nelles Megaffin, President of the Kingston Baseball Club, died in hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Megaffin, who introduced professional baseball to Kingston two years ago, was a keen advocate of athletics, a veteran (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodeo fan in a big way.

"As President of the Ponies, (Kingston entry) in the professional Border League," Mr. Megaffin made earnest efforts to build a baseball community, and although success did not reward him he did prove that this city will support organized baseball. Megaffin Stadium, finest in the Border League will serve the purposes of baseball, will stand as a lasting monument to the memory of its enthusiastic and enterprising builder."

After many years of unsuccessfully striving to land in the Intercounty Senior League, Russ Nanian, veteran Windsor amateur baseball manager, this spring placed his team, Ryancrete, in the Detroit Baseball Federation Class "A" League, an Amateur Athletic Union of America group.

The avowed purpose of Nanian's move was to give Windsor fans a chance to see senior calibre ball. Any hope of winning a title against crack United States clubs was slim.

Much is Nantais', and the fans' surprise, his team walked off with the championship last weekend with a 4-3 13-inning victory without approximately 6,000 Windsor fans going to Detroit to see the team down Helin Tackle.

Writes Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan: "We are delighted to hear that Russ Nanian decided to pass up the chance to cooperate in the United States National Baseball Tournament . . . and instead set out in quest of Ontario 'Senior "A" laurels."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 11 — (AP) — Round Herman Hickman picked up a loudspeaker and told an assemblage of newspaper men and "old blues":

"This is our first real scrimmage so I don't know how well we'll go." . . . A short time later he was proving the megaphone was just a prop. You could hear him all over the Yale bowl shouting "Block! Block!" as his boys ran through their paces . . . I can be recorded here that the Yales really were blocking for their new coach and running their "T" plays with surprising speed and precision — but that probably won't be enough to win them many football games . . .

Heats Without Wash

The other day Charles Loftus, Yale sport publicity man, asked Hickman: "Herman, why don't you try that 14-day diet to reduce?" . . . "I did try it once," Herman replied, "but I ate it all in two days."

Bowling 'Em Over

Harvard's footballers will wear black satin pants this fall — the first real change in their traditional uniforms in 70 years . . .

Big laugh of the afternoon came when Furze, the Yale quarterback, faked bandotts to both halfbacks then pulled a delayed pitchout to Nadherny going around end . . . "Wait!" asked one old blue in amazement. "Are we stooping to deception after all these years?"

Don't be a Weasel—Anytime

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Veiled Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solomar Tables)

Way back yonder, when I was a little boy, somebody—vaguely, to be sure—that there used to be a custom, broad in its scope, known as "common courtesy" or "politeness."

Men used to stand up and give their seats to ladies in public conveyance. Men used to tip their hats to ladies, not merely touch the brim as we do now. Well, brought up folks stood aside to let others through doorways ahead of them. All sorts of things like that.

Today most of that sort of thing is as dead as the dodo bird. People haven't time to be polite any more. Ninety-nine and one-half per cent with the attitude that it "ll get mine' society. Three cheers for me and to hell with the whole world. This attitude doesn't make for very pleasant living.

Courtesy Disappears

Just as it is rare on our streets and highways, common courtesy has disappeared from our fishing waters. No longer can you "rear" a pool in a trout stream with the assurance that any chance newcomer, seeing you seated on the bank, will depart your waters at a respectful distance and find an unoccupied pool for himself. Today the newcomer will splash his way into your pool, leave out a contrivance which looks like a rutter sled decorated with gang chooks, put on a fluff down for keeps, and then make his obnoxious way upstream to do further damage. To any remonstrances you may make he answers the drool reply "Aw nuts; you don't own the crick."

Of course, some of these fellows are good fishermen and get most of them simply don't give two hoots about the other fellow. We call them weasels.

On a lake, weasels are just as bad. They race ahead to the best locations, cutting in directly in front of you if you are trolling or shoreline. If you are playing a fish, he is not uncommon for a weasel to rush in and start fishing within rod length of your boat.

Weasels of Interloper

The other day, I saw a weasel disposed of in proper fashion. A young man who is handy as a rock and very handy with his fists had just raised an old boomer of a bass. The big fish came short to the boat and he made a prodigious splash at the surface. With such a weasel on the line a bank waded out waist deep and began to cast furiously over the spot where the bass had come up.

The young man reeled in his line and waded ashore.

"Having a little weasel trouble?" I inquired.

He didn't reply immediately. Instead, he picked up a stone the size of his fist and heaved it, hersplash, where the fish had risen, hanging missing the weasel's bass bug. Then came the answer.

"Not any more, I'm not." Ungrammatical, but very effective.

Only a few days ago I received a letter from a well-known outdoor columnist, deploring the manners of the majority of the fishermen of today. One paragraph went as follow:

"The other day, while in Smoky Mouth driving and trying for rainbow, two anglers came busting up the water in my pet section; I was nearing a favorite spot and I was trying to ascertain just exactly where I could place my fly. Before one could say 'Jack Robinson' these two fishermen passed me up and knocked off the works—all that promising pool down two inches! On up they went, putting every rainbow down for the remainder of the day while I despondently turned back.

There is no need here to go into the subject of fishermen's angling etiquette. Goodness knows, everybody is thoroughly familiar with the ordinary rules of politeness and these rules apply to fishing just as they do to any form of human contacts. The Golden Rule covers the matter. To re-phrase it into modern parlance, "Live the other fellow the same break that you would like to have him give you." Follow that rule and your days astream will be far happier. As other words dont be a weasel.

Solunar Periods

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables for 1941. It gives us that you will be fishing in good weather or humidity and good cover during these times, if you will be on the best sport that such days has to offer.

Major Periods are shown in boldface type, lasting an hour at the times shown and last for an hour and a half on hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The days given are for September 1 to September 10th inclusive. All times D.S.T.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New York — Willie Pep 123½, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Paddy De Marco, 123½, Brooklyn (10 non-title).

Pep's Excursion Into New Class Was a Success

New York, Sept. 11 — (AP)— Willie Pep today will be offered a December date at Madison Square Garden to defend his world featherweight title against Sandy Saddler, his top challenger.

Sol Strauss, acting promoter of the 20th Century Sporting Club said he would give Pep his choice of open Garden dates for a bout with Saddler.

Pep's excursion into the lightweight division Friday night was a success as he gave roughhouse Sandy Saddler a convincing boxing lesson. De Marco, rugged slam-bang fighter who twice beat Terry Young, was in over his head.

"I thought you were supposed to fight to win," said De Marco after it was all over.

Referee Arthur Donovan and the two judges gave Pep an easy winner. So did the Associated Press scorer who had it 8-3 for the champ.

Pep's ringcraft was a treat to seize on an opening and alert to every sliding defensive move, Pep refused to stand still for any punches with DeMarco, who had a 17 1-4 pound weight edge.

The only time he slugged with Pep was in the ninth. Obviously annoyed because Pep refused to open and roll out over his left eye, Pep let fly to knock out the 20-year-old kid from Brooklyn.

Pep's amazing record thus remains intact. He has lost only once in 72 starts—to Sammy Angott in — in 134 fights. He hasn't been beaten in his last 70 and has 43 straight wins since 1937. He held to a draw by Jimmy McAllister in 1943, DeMarco's string at 21 straight is no longer.

The crowd of 9,817 paid $28,-869.

Peterborough Westclox Defeated in Finals

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP)—St. Catharines Merry Macs defeated Peterborough Westclox 11 here Friday night to win the Southern Ontario Ladies Intermediate championship in a best - of - three series that went four games because of a tie in the Peterborough game, played last Saturday.

Friday: Merry Macs meet Kirkland Lake, Northern Ontario champions, for All - Ontario intermediate ladies title.

The first Mac's nine runs were scored in the second inning. Ina Cosgrove singled, sister Helen doubled, and Louise Thrasher hit another two - bagger to drive in two runs, Mace added single runs in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth.

Westclox got their one run in the sixth when Jean Vass singled and Doris Hammond a double.

On the mound for Westclox was Norma Kennedy who went the full route, in Louise Thrasher, Vera McGrath, Merry Mac's pitcher gave up thirteen hits.

Playoff Berths Will be Decided On Final Day

The International League winds up its regular season tomorrow and it looks as if the final day of baseball will decide the winner of the three-way battle among Rochester, Syracuse and Toronto for the two remaining playoff berths.

Rochester is in third place today, a half game ahead of Syracuse and Toronto. The Wings have two games to go, Syracuse four and Toronto two.

The Red Wings suffered a severe blow last Friday night when they dropped both ends of a doubleheader to the pennant-winning Montreal Royals, 4-0 and 3-2.

Jimmy Bloodworth the league's most valuable player, ruined the Wings in the first game. Bloodworth belted Al Piet for two homers to account for three of Montreal's runs. The third boundary jolt looted Bloodworth's total to 30. Don Newcombe blanked the Wings on two hits in winning his 17th game.

Jack Banta pitched the Wings to six hits in chalking up his 19th triumph in the finale. Banta fanned 13 and walked only three in outpitching curveball artist George Copeland and two relief pitchers.

Leafs whacked Buffalo Bisons 9-4, pounding two Bison hurlers for 13 hits including a three-run homer by Vince Plumb. Orest Miller of Ingersoll Ont., and Nick Strincevich faced the Bisons on eight hits. The victory gave Leafs 74 14th of the season.

Syracuse's scheduled twin bill with the second-place Newark Bears was postponed because of rain. A scheduled doubleheader between Jersey City and Baltimore also was rained out.

Canadian Record Set in 225 Class At C.N. Exhibition

Toronto, Sept. 11 — (CP) — Sidney Street, Kansas City, Mo. set a Canadian record for lifting in winning the International motorboat race Monday at the Canadian National Exhibition, covering the course of water at a speed of 86.5 miles an hour.

Street won in seven for both 135-cubic inch hydroplanes and the 225-inch craft, setting the record in the latter.

He also tied with Paul Sawyer of San Antonio, Texas, in points for 12 recs for the B. A. Trophy. But when timing of each contestant were added up, Street came out ahead by four seconds to take the trophy.

Details:

Class A racing runabouts: 1— Percy Buddell, Waterloo, 2—Sherman Hoyt, Port Credit, Peterboro. Fla.; 3 — George Reynolds, Pratt Cott, Ont. Time: 5:50 for five miles.

135-cubic inch hydroplanes: 1— Sidney Street, Kansas City, Mo.; 2 — Alfred Bingham, Buffalo, N. Y.; 3 — Frank Smith, Kingston, Ont. Time: 4:33.8 for five miles.

225 cubic inch craft: 1—Sidney Street, anass City, M.O.; 2—Lauren Pennington, Pacific Palasades Calif.; 3 — John Goble, Loon Lake, N.Y.

Time — 4:32.5 (Canadian record).

Chilly Weather Predicted For St. Leger Stakes

Doncaster, York, England, Sept. 11 — (AP) — Chilly fall weather with possible rain was predicted for today's running of the St. Leger Stakes, third leg in British racing's triple crown.

Despite the bleak forecast, a crowd of 100,000 banked by the Royal Family, was expected to see Sun Stakes.

The St. Leger, a mile-and-three-quarters test over the Town Moor course, has drawn a field of 13 colts and one filly including the entry of the King.

My Love, the French — bred bay colt which won the Derby, is the betting favorite. The final odds at a London call - over Friday night were 5 to 2, up slightly from the final course odds of 3 to 1. My Love has held the favorite's role consistently, but the odds have gone up and down like an elevator.

Black Tarquin, owned by William Woodward of New York, is the lone American entry. He was rated as an equal second choice in the betting with Noor at 10 to 2. Solar Slipper, owned by C. V. Angiolo is an outsider at 33 to 1. Jack Jarvis rode Noor last 123 pounds to 126 for the other 13 entries.

Quite Justified In Questioning Right of A.A.U.

By The Canadian Press

Professor Nelson C. Hatt, secretary of the Canadian Olympics Association, said Friday in London, Ont., that Canadian sportsmen are "quite justified" in questioning the right of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to "assume that it should have jurisdiction over Canada's Olympic Association."

Hatt, recently returned from the London Olympic games, in a prepared statement defended Olympic Association President A. S. Rymal Dewes, whose resignation was recently urged by Lieut.-Gen. George C. MacNaun of the A.A.U.C.A. at a meeting in Toronto.

Prof. Hatt said the disagreements between Dewes and MacNaun "has all the appearances of a personal feud."

Johnny Greco, Canadian welterweight champion, and Larry Clemente of Los Angeles were suspended Friday by the Montreal Athletic Commission, for their slow showing at Montreal in a bout last Thursday. The bout appeared before a special meeting of the commission and announcement of the suspensions was made by chairman Dave Rochon. The bout was stopped in the fourth round by referee Maurice O'Connell and declared "no contest."

Bucko McDonald's Huntsville Hunters Friday night upset Oshawa 5 to 4 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior "B" semi-final game here. The game was the first of a best-of-five series. Second game of the series is scheduled for Saturday night at Huntsville. Ken Krook with three goals, was Huntsville's top scorer. Willie Vipond got two of Oshawa's goals.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An inexpert bridge pair should avoid the exploratory one club opening. It is an opening bid of one club without a biddable club suit. Or when missing one tiny item of a true opening.

To be true, an opening of one in a suit shows five tricks, four high cards, two sure tricks, a biddable suit. Only the fullness of these four departments make an opening sound.

Take four tricks, four high, two sure, a biddable suit. Or five tricks, four high, one sure, a biddable suit. Or five tricks, four high, two sure, and no biddable suit.

Now one of these is a true opening of one in a suit. After two passes, however, an expert may decide to open with one club. Rather than pass, he gets a cheap chance to explore what partner may have.

A skilled pair knows how to manipulate this bid. They know it is phony. Opener warns partner by jumping on the second round. His partner anticipates this and helps in the manoeuvres.

South and west pass when north bids this hand:

♠A 8 6 3 2
♥7 3 2
♦Q 7 6 3
♣K Q 8

Thereafter, suppose the bidding goes like this:

North	East	South	West
1 C	1 S	2 H	Pass

North should now pass to warn his partner that his opening was only an exploratory bid. How many can shake the strain of this? If you have played very long you know they are few and far between.

Suddenly north decides that he does not like two hearts. In he steps with a rescue of three diamonds or two spades. This inspires south to go on to their sorrow.

Even those who know how to handle this fancy bid abuse it. A few experts use it when weak. Their offence is often offensive.

The Movie Column

By RALPH DIGHTON

Hollywood, Sept. 11 — (AP) — The most gorgeous bunk of cheesecake to come from Germany since Marlene Dietrich is about to be uncrated in Hollywood.

She's been in town since last March but has been kept closely guarded by producer David O. Selznick.

Her name is Hildegarde Neff.

She was discovered by American newspaper men who streamed into Berlin after the war. They found her singing in German stock companies.

Then all of a sudden, Hildegard Knef (her real name) dropped out of sight. She was no longer to be seen in music halls and theatres and those who sought her were forced to concede that maybe she was, after all, just a 10-day sensation.

Now the truth can be told. She came to the United States last January, was met in New York City by Selznick and placed under contract.

Gets Selznick Treatment

The Selznick treatment, Miss Neff couldn't understand. English, which she mastered now, in the intervening months Selznick has given her the same treatment with which he conditioned Greta Garbo, Ingrid Bergman and Elida Valli for professional careers in this country.

In an interview, Miss Neff told a story of personal tragedy which, in a movie, would be considered corny. She escaped being nazified, or imprisoned, during the Hitler era only because she was a victim of infantile paralysis.

"It was decided even to the Gestapo," she said, "that I would be of little value in a work camp or youth centre."

Physically, despite her earlier illness, Miss Neff has at least as much of everything that Dietrich had 20 years ago. Proof of this is the way she met her husband, an ex-United States army officer named Kurt Hirsch, in Berlin.

Football Loop Formed With Five Teams In

Cobourg, Sept. 11 (CP) — A Lakeshore Intermediate O.R.F.U. League was formed at Trenton Friday night with Fred Dufton of Cobourg as president and Jack Dean of Trenton secretary. The league is comprised of Cobourg, Trenton, Picton, and Trenton R.C.A.F. and there is a possibility that Belleville may be able to field a team. The first game will be on Oct. 2 with Trenton at Cobourg and R.C.A.F. at Picton. Cobourg Ghosts will play in this league, the Ghosts having droped out of the Central group because the league clubs there were opposed to the Ghosts using imports.

THEY ASPIRE TO MISS AMERICA'S CROWN

—Central Press Canadian

The pick of the beauties in territories outside the United States posed with Barbara Jo Walker of Memphis, Mem., who was Miss America last year, when they arrived in Atlantic City, N.J., several days ago to compete for the title of Miss America of 1948. Representing their respective countries, the girls are, left to right: Yun Tan Zane, Honolulu, T.H.; Irma Vosquez, San Juan, Porto Rico; Miss Walker and Betty Jean Ferguson, Halifax, N.S.

AT THE CAPITOL — Fateful meeting of Gary Cooper and Paulette Goddard in Cecil B. DeMille's "Unconquered," which starts on Monday at the Capitol Theatre. Filmed in the Paramount Technicolor epic of pre-Revolutionary days Cooper portrays a frontiersman and patriot, Miss Goddard a bond slave whom he purchases and frees.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Sept..11 — (CP) — "Sundown Beach," the season's first play, probes in honest but somewhat muddled fashion the plight of air force men suffering from battle fatigue.

Beagle Breuer, the author, has sought to show the difficulties these men face in readjusting themselves to civilian life.

Skilled direction of Elia Kazan and the competent acting of a large cast are insufficient to pull it together. Various characters, actors, most of them raffish characters, superbly. Miss Breuer has a good deal to say about the problems of the combat flers, most of whom seek solace in alcohol. She manages to work out at least temporarily happy situations for two of them. But for the remainder she has no solution.

Actors Studio Production

The production is by the Actors Studio, founded in 1947 as a dramatic workshop. The setting for "Sundown Beach" is a Florida cafe outside an air force convalescent hospital. The play opened this week at the Belasco Theatre.

Phyllis Thaxter, who once acted in repertory in Montreal, and Warren Stevens have two of the major roles. He is a wacky pilot and she is convinced she can cure him by loving him. Don Hanmer gives a lively performance as the lothario of the group and John Garfield makes an interesting study of a gaspar who muses on men's folly in taking to the air. Julie Harris is excellent as a doggedly courageous Tennessee wife whose husband is embittered because he believes she has been unfaithful to him.

Just Keeps Rolling

"Show Boat," which first churned out of New York in 1927, docked here again Tuesday night and nostalgia was not the only reason for the hearty welcome it received.

Pamela Cavveness as Magnolia does most proudly of the cast by Jerome Kerne's music and the lyrics of Oscar Hammerstein II, which make the sentimental vehicle a theatrical classic.

Footlight Footnotes

Lillie Palmer, British actress and wife of Rex Harrison, is to play in Herman J. Mankiewicz's production of "The Man With a Load of Mischief," which is due in New York later this season. Previously Miss Palmer's name had been mentioned for the part.... Backtracking a bit, the Theatre Guild now says it is not definite that "The Silver Whistle" will be its first productionthis season. Instead it may be Dorothy Heyward's play, "Set My People Free".... Gertrude Lawrence is reported to have decided to appear in London in the new Daphne Du Maurier play, "The...other." Raymond Fleming will be her leading man.

Judge Currey Chairman of Milk Control Board

Toronto, Sept. 11 — (CP) — Judge A. B. Currey of Gore Bay, Manitoulin Island, has been appointed chairman of the new Milk Control Board of Ontario, Agriculture Minister Kennedy announced in Toronto Saturday.

Two former board members, W. G. Gwens, representing distributors, and W. H. Wilmot, representing producers, have been asked to carry on until a new board is constituted, the minister added.

"Judge Currey's duties will be mainly judicial," said Mr. Kennedy. "He will pass on new applications and mete out punishment for infractions of the act."

Judge Currey, a former resident of North Bay, has acted as arbitrator in connection with the work of various milk control boards which negotiate on price scales with canners and other purchasers.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being a little steak under a lot of onions, and me said, Really, Uncle, I mean really, I remember when I felt personally outraged when I had to pay 60 cents a pound for good sirloin, but if I could get it at 50 cents a pound now I'd think the Millenium was here.

What's the Millenium, ma? I said, and she said, Oh, its the ideal civilization of the future, if ever.

What's going to happen then, ma? I said, and ma said, Oh, the main thing is, men will be latively different.

How do you mean, ma, better or worse? I said, and she said, Better, naturally, how would they be worse? Instead of coming home from the office with long faces they'll have long boxes of roses, and when their wives accidently drop a book or a washerchilly they'll leep to pick it up as though they'd been a servant behind. And they'll sit through every moving picture, even the dubbbe features, without giving constant vent to sounds of strangling, she said.

Your are awful in joking, Benny, pop said. The Millenium really refers to the happy days when women will wear nuthing but attractive tweed suits that will last 7 or 8 years and can be lengthened or shortened by inexpensive zippers instead of by expensive dressmakers. In other words, they'll dress to please men and not other women, and they'll all donate their dress to the Association for the Relief of Needy Scarecrows.

Your father and I are both joking Benny, ma said. When the Millenium arrives, the boys will really be the ones to change. The only time they'll argue is when they insist it's time to run another errand, and they'll love soup as bees love flowers, she said, and pop said. And they'll rise in the morning under their own power, singing cheerfully but not loudly, and in the evening they'll do their homework first and turn the radio on afterwards, and never the twain shall meet.

Heck, tha'll be a heck of a time I said.

Which it will.

Killer Martin's Time Apparently Has Run Out

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 11 (CP)—Killer Ivan Martin's time had apparently run out Friday.

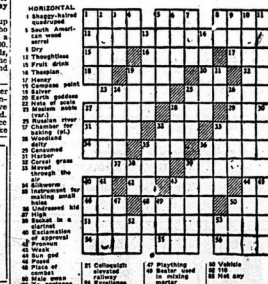
What was believed to be the body of the gunman who shot three persons to death and wounded seven others in a reign of terror a week ago was found floating in Hunt's Bay near here Thursday night.

Police continued their efforts at identification today. They said they believed Martin had been wounded in the hip and shoulder, Aug. 31 while shooting his way out of a police trap.

At that time police bottled up Martin, a convicted burglar who escaped from jail last spring, in a small hotel in this city of 110,000.

Guns blazing from both hands, Martin shot his way out of the trap, killed one policeman and wounded two others.

How his body got in the sea—if it were his body—was a matter of conjecture. Some believed underworld cronies might have dumped it there after Martin died.



Police Commr. Edwards, who told police in taunting notes he would make every one of his last 20 rounds of ammunition count, slew one woman in her home and killed a worker who refused to hand over his wallet.

More than 400 police had been thrown into the search for Martin. Rewards were offered for information leading to his arrest but nobody came forward.

Fall fashions are plotted upon Gay Nineties Romance. It's a blending of deep colour, rich fabric, gracious detail. The silhouette may be strict and slender, or have a beautifully controlled flare, or show a sweeping movement to the back. Accessories are delicate, precise.

Fall fashions at C.D.S. are gently mannered, pretty and wonderfully wearable. See them throughout the store waiting to be assembled as your own charming costume.

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

abstracted look, but she answered directly enough.

"Yes, little bit of a woman, delicate. She wanted Miss Lily—they'd only one daughter—to be educated at Miss West's, go to the Greenways. She was the prettiest debutante that ever came out, they said. But the Clay Hillyards lived here."

"Clay—was married?" I asked involuntarily.

"No. His stepfather—this Clay's stepfather, the one"—Mrs. Grisell was almost inaudible now—"who was murdered."

"In the turret up above here?" We were all interested enough now.

"In the turret here. They don't know how the Italian confessed," Mrs. Grisell said in a low tone, "or where he did it. Not that's the point. Found him. And his son, Dr. Clay — he was down at college — he and Lily had fixed up who had done it if it took him 50 years."

"He probably did it himself," I thought instantly.

"But the Italian confessed," Mrs. Grisell was saying. "He was serving a life term for another crime and dying of tuberculosis, and he sent for Mr. Calhoun and confessed."

We walked the carpeted floor, looked into old mirrors, at washbasins of brown marble. The house gave me the impression of having been furnished by persons who simply didn't know how to spend money fast and pretentiously enough.

Everywhere carpets and curtains and tassels and mirrored cupboards could possibly be placed they had been placed on the most expensive terms. Even in the stuffy hot little tower, a square cupola walled by twelve narrow windows, there were puckered little orange silk curtains, faded to streaks of gray and brown now and rotting away with age and sunshine, but once carefully measured and gathered and tassled by some San Francisco firm. On the window sills dead flies lay in the plushy dust; we peered through weather - caked panes at the tops of the garden trees and the odd roofs of the neighboring — brimming — brimming gently on this summer morning — and softly into sovereignty half circles on the sands.

Some old fashion magazines of bustled and pleated ladies lay on the floor. Billee and I, and I each took one, giggling over the descriptions. We went down the stairs. Beaded capes and draped hips and "brigadier" trimming with "Alsatian" effects set us laughing when Mrs. Grisell, with a finished leap, said gloloously, "There's nothing to see in the parlors except old furniture and books nobody's opened for years."

"The paintings? Aren't they about the most valuable things in the house?" Billee asked with that little air of alertness in Virginia's interest that she always assumed when there was any reference to the prospects of the heiress of Hillyard House.

"They surely are," Munro Wainwright said in answer.

We used to have girls here who kept all this opened and dusted," Mrs. Grisell said, turning locks. "Not in these days! A hundred and eighty, that's what the last one wanted. Time was when they'd pay you for letting them see it in a place like this and get their board and aprons . . . Here this is the main satin room; in a minute we'll see the ballroom. Miss Lily had a ball here once; we put up twenty - three in the house and rented the whole hotel at Indian Mill for those nights. Here's the dressing room — I'd sit in here when there were parties; I was younger myself then and I'd liked being in it — with powder and needle and thread— they'd come in, hot from dancing — That's the old library. Dr. Clay comes in here now and then for books; we don't look this up."

"I've come down here often for books," I said.

"Where are the pictures?" Billee demanded.

"I know you do," Mrs. Grisell skipped Billee's remark and answered me. "This is the grand drawing room," she said.

"Preposterous" I said absently. She took me up sharply.

"That's preposterous?"

"Oh," I began, somewhat confused, "no, no place for pretension as this . . . plate-glass windows and carved wood stairways . . ."

"It was the talk of California," Mrs. Grisell said stiffly and paused.

"What don't you like about it?" Munro asked. "Here, we've finished! Let's get into the open air."

We had peered into the great dim length of the grand drawing room; fine inside hinged shutters were closed against the bright, dusty, great sweeps of brocade draperies curtained them. Tufted chairs, love seats with carved wooden backs, tables loaded with bronze and trays; lamps and picture frames, life-size statues of Italian girls and laughing little Neapolitan peasants filled the place. Reaching down from the ceiling were carved lattices from which silk scarves were looped; the pale creamy carpet was as soft as moss underfoot and was scrolled with ribbons and pink roses. Much of the furniture, including the piano, was white; some was cut deeply to show painted panels of roses and lilies of the valley. Everything smelled of upholstery, rot, dust.

The room was dim; baffled sunshine smote the blinds. I would have been more than willing to abandon it, as a piece of inspection ended, but Billee said determinedly:

"Listen, what about the pictures? I want to see the pictures!"

Burton, who was with us, rather to my surprise, for he had left the luncheon table in an angry hurry, said indifferently, "Well, then, let's let in some light," and folded back the hinged, polished wooden shutters at several of the windows. Dim light came in thru the dusty glass. We began to look at the canvases, I with something of a guilty feeling. This was the room into which I had peered from the garden through the space left by a missing shutter.

Trailing along quietly with the others, I looked at paintings of waves and boats, still studies of tiny figures on beaches, dark scenes of peasants' kitchens, with flowers on window sills and full-skirted women holding fat babies. Also pink water scenes and two oil paintings of the pioneer Hillyards by Percy Rosenthal. The first Clay Hillyard was posed at a desk his fingers in a book; heavy draperies looping an ocean-facing window behind him. Milly - Hillyard was in the same setting, her rich plum - colored brocade sweeping about her feet, original in nothing coquettishly on her shoulder. Farther along was the portrait of the girl in the green dress, the picture I had seen from the garden. Billee and Munro and Va were standing before this picture as Mrs. Grisell and Burton and I came up. They glanced at us strangely as we approached them.

"This is the Richardson portrait," Mrs. Grisell was saying. "Miss Lily's mother, Mary Curtis Richardson came up from the city to paint them. She stopped short.

"Look at it — for heaven's sake—" Va said.

"Miss," Munro said, a sort of grim satisfaction in his voice.

"What's happened to it?" Mrs. Grisell said with a gasp.

For the picture was destroyed. From the top of his fair head down to the slender ankles it was gone. Only the scraped canvas was there, with margins of the old background framing it; the inevitable draperies, the opened window, the far vista of the Pacific. A ridge of paint dust, piled on the frame below, was all that was left.

We all looked at one another, bewildered.

"Why did that, Munro?" Mrs. Grisell said in the silence in a sharp and startled tone.

"Search me," he said, his eyes not moving from the devastated canvas. "That's not rot; that's not mice," he said slowly.

"Nonsense!" Mrs. Grisell said.

"But — but what happened?" Billee asked, vaguely alarmed.

"Somebody ruined the Richardson portrait," Mrs. Grisell said.

"But who — why?" Va asked.

"It's the only one we had of her as a young woman," Mrs. Grisell went on in a musing voice as if she spoke to herself. "The photographs were burned up in the big fire. Well! Yes, it's ruined."

We all stood silent for a few minutes, staring at the space where the girlish figure at which I had had only one rather dim look had stood.

"When'd anyone see it last?" Billee asked.

"Oh, I don't know," Mrs. Grisell said with a long sigh. "Time was when I had girls enough here to keep this place dusted. But I don't know how long it is since Tom Wing came in here. I might have come with him without ever taking a look at any of the pictures." She fell silent, her eyes on the canvas.

"Someone did it," Billee said, on a note of resentment and with a stress on the first word.

INDIAN TROOPS ON MARCH INTO HYDERABAD

Toronto Physician Kidnapped, Three Suspects Arrested

Taken From Home, Trussed Up in Cottage at Cottam

Praises Canadians For Preserving Individualism

Montreal, Sept. 13 — (CP)— Gavin Astor of the Times, London, said in an interview here Sunday night "It is gratifying and somewhat surprising Canadians have maintained their national individualism."

Mr. Astor and his wife, Lady Irene Astor, arrived here on the final leg of a six - month observation tour of newspaper production which took them through the United States, Mexico and Hawaii.

Mr. Astor is the son of Col. John Jacob Astor, owner of the Times, which Lady Irene is the daughter of the late Earl Haig.

They were impressed with the friendliness and hospitality of Canadians, Mr. Astor continued to explain about the Dominion." Mr. Astor said.

Orders Arabs Be Readmitted To Three Villages

Rhodes, Sept. 13 — (AP) — Count Folke Bernadotte ordered Israel today to readmit Arab refugees to three villages and to rebuild their shattered homes. He said 8,000 Arabs were driven out and their homes smashed by the Israeli army in violation of the truce.

The villages are Ein Ghazal, Iqsim and Jaba, south of Haifa, along the Haifa-Tel Aviv highway.

Bernadotte, the United Nations Palestine mediator, reported to the Security Council in Paris that forces attacked the three villages July 15 to 17 and again July 29 to second truce. The Arabs were forced to evacuate after a seven-day land and air attack. Later, he said, the Jewish forces destroyed the villages of Ein Ghazal and Jaba.

Bernadotte said his investigators found 8,000 former villagers in the Jenin area. They placed the number of killed and missing at about 30. Bernadotte said the Arab allegations concerning the number killed and captured are enormously exaggerated.

In Jerusalem, the heaviest day-light gunfighting in the month-old truce Sunday shattered the Sabbath quiet of the Holy City.

A Jewish source said an Israeli soldier, and eight civilians, including an elderly woman and a 65-year-old woman, were killed. Among the civilians were a father and his two children.

A dispatch from Amman, Trans-Jordan, quoted Arab Legion sources as saying three civilians were killed at the Holy Sepulchre where Christ's body lay after the Crucifixion. The Arab Legion communique said 23 persons, including 12 policemen, attending Sunday services, were wounded by shelling fanning out from Jewish church in the old city of Jerusalem.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 12 (CP)—Synopsis: While a hurricane lashes the island of Bermuda, generally ideal harvest conditions prevail on the mainland with warm summer weather continues over the eastern half of the country. Maximum temperatures were reported in the middle and high 80s in Southern Ontario on Sunday while Toronto was the hottest city in the province with a high of 87. Slightly cooler dry air from Western Canada pushing southward through Central Ontario this morning will reach the shores of the Lower Lakes this afternoon. Temperatures in the province will be 5 to 10 degrees lower on Tuesday.

Windsor, Sept. 13 (CP)—Three suspects were arrested in downtown Windsor today, two of them armed, in connection with the alleged kidnapping in Toronto Sunday night of Dr. David Perriman, 55.

Arrested as suspects:

Al Decker, 19, of Ajax, Ont.; Bill Glover, 19, of Toronto and Rex. Scott.

Dr. Perriman told police he was driven from Toronto to Cottam, 23 miles south-east of here, where he was robbed of $40 and left trussed up in a cabin. He escaped shortly after 7 a.m.

Police arrested two armed men near an automobile bearing a Dominion plate at Ouellette and Sandwich streets. The third man was picked up near Pitt and Percy streets.

Dr. Perriman told police he was just getting out of his car at his home in Toronto Sunday night, after attending a wedding in Windsor, when approached by two men who said they had a flat tire and who forced him into his vehicle. A few blocks away, a third person was picked up by the armed pair and the group headed for Cottam.

He said he left Windsor at 2 o'clock this morning. He said he let his sister stay at the home with her mother, and drove off to his own house.

Narrowly Missed Driver

En route to Cottam a revolver in the rear seat of the auto went off accidentally. The narrowly missed the driver, Dr. Perriman told police. The party left the Cottam tourist camp shortly before 5 o'clock.

Dr. Perriman freed himself by sliding one hand under the cord which bound his wrists, pulled a motorists he got a ride into Essex where he reported the crime to Provincial Police.

Harry Wells, proprietor of the Old Oaken Bucket tourist camp at Cottam, said the men arrived about 7 a.m. by the night bell. A young man, between 20 and 25, blonde and heavy set, and two other youths said they wished to register for their father.

The party told Mr. Wells they had been in a fight in Windsor.

Mr. Wells pointed out an unlocked cabin.

Heard Man Walking

Between 15 and 30 minutes later, Mr. Wells heard a man walking on the gravel paths and on the verandah.

"He was yelling and waving his arms. He said he expected a collision between a car and a truck. The car took him into nearby Essex."

Mr. Wells said the man said he was Dr. Perriman went to Provincial Police.

Dr. Perriman said the men tied his hands behind his back and bound him to a bed in the cabin. They put a gag in his mouth with a cloth when he protested that he would suffocate. They then taped his mouth.

Before leaving him, the men took the door and windows off of the car and put them in the cabin.

The young man who rented the cabin signed the name of "Dr. A. Adams, Cornwall."

Radar Works Perfectly in Spotting Icebergs in Hudson Bay Voyage

Churchill, Man., Sept. 13 (CP) Radar worked perfectly in spotting icebergs in Hudson Bay during the voyage of the Canadian destroyers Nootka and Haida from Halifax to Churchill, Cmdr. N. H. G. Stone of the Nootka said at a press conference after their arrival.

The two tribal class destroyers slipped into harbor here Saturday —first time in history that Canadian warships have touched this northern Manitoba port.

Cmdr. Stone, captain of the Nootka, and Cmdr. Richard Hall of Halifax took the ships here. The vessels encountered snow squalls, fog and icebergs while crossing Hudson Bay but Cmdr. Morris and Lt.-Cmdr. A. F. Picard of Halifax, Haida's captain, said the cruise was "not as bad" as expected.

It was given the men a good insight into the Arctic conditions and an idea of the conditions they would encounter if they had to work in this part of Canada.

"There is nothing political about the navy's choice of an Arctic cruise for training," said Cmdr. Stone. "It is part of the sea which we are expected to defend. We have to get to it by natural that we should want to know about it."

Big Four at Work to Solve Future of Italy's ex-Colonies

By LOUIS NEVIN

Paris, Sept. 13 (AP)—Delegates of the Big Four assembled here today for one last try at deciding the future of Italy's pre-war colonies. If they fail, in the three days allotted them, the problem falls to the United Nations for solution.

Only one Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman of France, was in attendance.

Britain is represented by Hector McNeil, Minister of State, Russia by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Deputy Foreign Minister and the United States by Lewis W. Douglas, Ambassador to Britain.

The problem of what to do about Italy's African Empire has remained unsolved since the war. The Deputy Foreign Ministers of the Big Four tossed it around for a year but failed to come up with any agreement on the future of Eritrea, Libia and Somaliland.

By the terms of the Italian peace treaty, the deadline for Big-Four gold and sponges.

agreement is Sept. 15. After that it goes to the United Nations Assembly, which convenes here Sept. 21. There is no veto in the assembly.

France and Russia have suggested an Italian trusteeship with France putting in a bid for the Fezzans, one of three Libian provinces. The United States proposed a United Nations guardianship. Britain held out for freeing Eritrea and Libia to provide room next to Egypt, and for linking French, British and Italian Somaliland under a British trusteeship in preparation for independence. Ethiopia has wanted to gain Eritrea under British and Ethiopian control. Ethiopia has asked for all of Eritrea.

The Italian colonies have a combined area of about 45,000 square miles, about eight times the size of Italy. They have a population of approximately 2,500,000 and produce little agricultural, mineral or export items such as salt,

Was Surgeon On Ill-Fated Polar Expedition

Calgary, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Dr. George Ross, 78, one of the last survivors of the 1913-18 Stefansson Arctic exploration expedition, who died in hospital here Sunday following a three-week illness.

Born at Lac St. John, Que., Dr. Ross had practiced medicine in Alberta since 1920. As graduate of McGill University, he was a old post-graduate work at Chicago University. Dr. Ross received a Ph. D. degree at the University of Illinois and then returned to Canada.

Dr. Ross joined the Hudson's Bay Company in 1913 and was established a post for the company at Herschel Island on the Labrador coast, spending several years in that area.

Surgeon Sir Ernest Shackleton former another Antarctic expedition, met Dr. Ross and enlisted him for the position of ship's surgeon. Dr. Ross left then for this out in Scotland for the trip. He was accepted.

The ship was caught in the ice-floes during the voyage and eventually foundered. Dr. Ross and a few survivors managed to get to New Zealand, where Dr. Ross returned to Montreal, where he volunteered for service with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and went overseas.

Survivors include two brothers, Art Ross, vice-president and general manager of the Montreal Forum of the National Hockey League; C. H. Ross of Drumheller, Alta.; T. R. Ross of Drumheller, Alta.; Alexander of Sudbury; one son, Donald of Toronto Islands, Lakefield, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Harding of Montreal.

Another brother, Dr. Simon Ross, practices in Philadelphia until his death a short time ago.

BERMUDA SWEPT BY 140-MILE-HOUR HURRICANE WINDS

Ships Warned of Wild Seas, Dangerous Winds

Miami, Fla., Sept. 13 —(AP)— Hurricane winds approaching 140 miles an hour velocity swept the British island of Bermuda in the Atlantic today.

The weather bureau's storm warning service in Miami said the centre of the severe hurricane was only 60 miles southwest of Bermuda at 10:15 a. m. The storm was moving north-northwestward.

"Winds in Bermuda have reached hurricane force and will continue to increase until the storm passes," the bureau said.

"The centre is expected to pass 40 to 50 miles west of Bermuda during the next few hours."

Bermuda is the site of the principal direction of the Virginia Capes the storm is expected to reverse to the east and northeast before any effects are felt on the Atlantic coast, the storm warning service stated.

The forecast for the next 12 hours will sweep the busy coastal shipping lanes with dangerous winds and wild seas. Ships were warned to avoid or flee its path.

The Bermuda government was expected to begin tonight.

LEVEL CROSSING CRASH IN QUEBEC TAKES SIX LIVES

Eighteen of Weekend Deaths Were Driving Accidents With Six Drownings

By The Canadian Press

The death of six persons in a level crossing accident near Mont Joli, Que., Sunday night swelled the total of accidental deaths in Eastern Canada over the weekend to 28.

Eighteen of the weekend deaths resulted from traffic accidents. Six persons were drowning victims.

Eight of the fatalities were reported early Monday morning. They included the Sayabec level crossing accident which claimed the lives of J. Lucien Lebel, 38, of Mont Joli, his wife, Mrs. Monique Lebel, 26, Louise Lebel, three months; Ginet Lebel, 34, of Octave, Que., Anita Lebel, 23, of St. Octave and Dolores Fournier, 23, of Rimouski.

Pte. Francois Raymond Perrin of London, Ont., was fatally injured early Monday from a fractured skull and other injuries suffered in an automobile crash Sunday near his home.

At Blake Lake near Sudbury, Mrs. Jack Niemi, 70, was drowned in a test of wills when her clothed body was discovered by two of her several children she was missed.

Among the long list of traffic deaths was that of a 15-year-old Toronto boy who was a member of the Boys' Training School at Bowmanville, found dead on the highway near Bowmanville Saturday. Police, saying the boy evidently had been struck by a motorist who that failed to stop, withheld the victim's name pending instructions from Bowmanville.

Western Ontario had an unusually heavy list of fatalities. Douglas Rachar, 20, died at Woodstock from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident. A. C. Hutchinson, 36, was fatally injured when a gravel truck crashed in an accident at London. George Griffin, 61, died at Thamesford Sunday after a collision between his motorcycle and a car. Mrs. Helen Intyr of Petersburg was killed in a collision near Elginfield Sunday. John Bayley died Sunday at Guelph from injuries received in a car accident Saturday.

Struck by Streetcar

At Toronto Mrs. Amy Whalen died Sunday night from injuries received when struck by a streetcar. Roy Scott, 21, died at Toronto Sunday after a motorcycle accident Thursday.

Four other traffic deaths were in Quebec.

Among the drownings was that of one-year-old Peter Pow, who was found dead in a lake near Kitchener, and the body of Joseph Syiz, 27-year-old immigrant from Europe, was found in a creek of the old Welland Canal near Thorold. At Le Bic, Que., the body of Claude Bond, 14, was recovered.

FOUNDER, FIRST GOV.-GENERAL OF PAKISTAN, DIES

Ali Jinnah Suffered Heart Attack and Buried Sunday With Full Honors

Karachi, Sept. 13 (CP)—Mahommed Ali Jinnah, founder and first governor-general of Pakistan, was buried Sunday night with full military honors.

Jinnah, 71, died here Saturday night of the illness which fought off many years for a Moslem Pakistan in which Hindu rule was overthrown and self-government established with success in the division of the sub-continent August 15, 1947. Mr. Jinnah har been Governor-General of the Moslem Dominion since then.

Government sources here said they expect Mr. Jinnah's successor from London at any moment naming a new Governor-General, the direct representative of the King in the Moslem State, Sir Chimanlal Husmi Hidayatullah, Premier of Sind Province, was considered the most likely successor to Jinnah. Official sources said Liaquat Ali Khan, Premier of Khan prefers to retain his present post.

Quarters close to the Pakistan government House here in the Mohalla of Nazimuddin, Prime Minister of East Bengal, was recommended as the next Governor-General or Governor-General.

Jinnah's death came as tension between India and the princely state of Hyderabad reached a new peak.

Held in Veneration

The government of India announced Sunday that reinforcements across the border into Hyderabad at midnight Sunday.

Indian army cabinet ministers were out of Karachi at the time of Jinnah's death, it was learned hastily for the funeral.

Governor-General and the official title of "Quaid-E-Azam" (great leader) Jinnah was held in veneration by the 70,000,000 inhabitants of Pakistan similar to the devotion of India's people for the memory of Gandhi.

An estimated 500,000 Moslems lined the streets for the funeral procession to the burial grounds. Leaders, including the Prime Minister, helped lift the bier to a gun carriage.

Volunteers carrying black flags moved through the streets urging the people to bear the burden of grief bravely. Shops and offices will be ready to face the emergency closed.

A 40-day period of official mourning was proclaimed for all Pakistan.

Messages of condolence and sympathy have been received here from Moslem countries from all over the world. Typical of the messages is Jinnah's sister, Fatima:

"I am grateful to the distressed to hear the news of your distinguished brother's death, sorrow will, we know well, be irreparable to yourself and all in Pakistan. We send you our sincere sympathy."

Egypt's Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada yesterday expressed "deep sympathy" on the people of Pakistan on the death.

Stolen Blast Caps Can be Dangerous

Hamilton, Sept. 13 — (CP) Thieves who stole 75 electric blast caps from a shed on a construction job Saturday night are warned by police that the caps can be dangerous if handled by inexperienced persons.

17 C.P.R. FREIGHT CARS DERAILED NEAR HOSPITAL

No One Injured, Tracks Torn Up, Cars Damaged

Piling up in a twisted contorted mass of wreckage, seventeen cars of a west-bound crack Canadian Pacific Railway freight train left the tracks at the eastern outskirts of the city early Sunday evening tying up regular traffic on the lines until an early hour this morning.

None of the train crew was injured.

The derailment occurred on that section of the track south of the Belleville County House of Refuge. Derailed cars and wreckage, ripped up tracks covered an area of some two hundred yards.

The actual cause of the derailment has not been ascertained as yet. It is believed that a broken wheel may have caused the accident, however, C.P.R. officials and crewmen would not make any statement.

The derailed cars, most of which were loaded with rolls of newsprint, were piled locally in the central part of the long train. The engine and tender immediately behind it were undamaged while the rear section of the train remained on the tracks.

Auxiliaries Work All Night

Auxiliaries from Trenton and Smiths Falls were rushed to the scene and after all-night activities cleared the tracks sufficiently to allow traffic to proceed early today. Section gangs were also rushed to the scene of the wreck.

The train is said to have been slowing down before proceeding into the Belleville yards, when the derailment occurred.

Abruptness of the derailment was seen by those who said the cars were ripped from the undercarriage and strewn in a circle extending from one side of the track to the other. Loaded freight cars were torn from their trucks and piled in a heap practically every angle in the compass. Cars were on their sides while others were piled on top of one another. A tank car wound up at right angles to the track somewhat similar to the wrecked box cars at a dangerous forty-five degree angle.

Tracks Ripped Clear

Tracks were ripped clear of the roadbed over a large area. One rail was twisted into a complete circle. Another twisted in a horseshoe shape was hurled through the air to land on opposite side of the road bed. Ties were scattered in a somewhat kindling wood.

Debris from some of the wrecked cars littered the damaged roadbed in places. Sections of wheels from the cars lay across the tracks and near the fences.

Belleville fire protection arrived at the wreck shortly before the arrival of the auxiliaries and arrived from Smith's Falls. Early today the Belleville fire station was still with wreckage placed alongside the roadbed for later removal.

The derailment attracted large crowds of curious spectators. No. 2 Belleville district provincial was lined on both sides with automobiles and pedestrians. Officers walked across fields and lined the sides of the tracks as clean-up operations got under way. C.P.R. police kept the too curious at a safe distance.

France's Population is Rising Births Increase, Deaths Decline

By PAUL HENISSART

Paris, Sept. 13 (Reuters) — France's birth-rate continues to rise, her death-rate to decline.

In 1938, the country's 547,000 deaths in France. In 1947, the total was 533,000 despite increase with the peak of 760,000 deaths including military casualties, recorded in 1940.

Of these totals "violent or accidental" deaths, including suicides, numbered some 37,000 live in 1938, only 25,000 in 1946.

The chief explanation given for the lower death-rate is that reduced mortality commonly follows excessive mortality brought about by periods of war. Improved medical facilities and generally better living conditions are given as possible contributory causes for the slump in deaths among adults.

Princely State Invaded From All Four Sides

Launch Attack With Tanks, Armored Cars, Air Support

New Delhi, Sept. 13 (CP)—Indian troops invaded the princely state of Hyderabad from all four sides today. The declared purpose was to restore order.

The Hyderabad soldiers, spearheaded with tanks and armored cars and covered with air support, advanced swiftly, mostly against negligible opposition, a government statement indicated.

A Madras dispatch said Indian forces striking from the east advanced 40 miles to within possibly 60 miles of Hyderabad City, the state capital.

India asserted disorder is rife in Hyderabad and the fabulously-rich Nizam had refused to disband private armies of the Razakars. The state and dominion have had a feud on for months between the Nizam, General H. E. H. Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, a Moslem, had refused to accede to India.

The Nizam is one of the richest of the 16,388,834 people of the rich state are Hindus. India has demanded a plebiscite to determine the future of Hyderabad. The state is controlled the size of Scotland in the South Central India and surrounded by Indian territory.

Indian troops moving in from Sholapur state to west met the greatest opposition, but penetrated 30 miles and took the rail junction of Naldrug, the Indians said. The town is 150 miles west and slightly south of Sholapur city.

An Indian garrison at Munajalla, a town 19 miles inside Hyderabad, started moving toward the heart of the state.

Indian flying columns of the South Central India and surrounded by Indian territory.

Troops invading from the north took the rail town of Tandur, near the central provinces frontier, which is 150 to 175 miles from Hyderabad city.

Indian troops moving down from the northwest corner of the state were reported within sight of Jalna, a railway junction on the Nizam's state railway 240 miles from the capital.

Another column passed the famous Buddhist caves at Ellora, near Daulatabad, 270 miles northwest of Hyderabad city. Both forces had but light opposition and were reported advancing steadily 12 hours after the invasion began.

The troops from Sholapur struck at Gulbarga, a town on the undisclosed points. The first resistance encountered Indian army swiftly. The first casualty report was of Hyderabad soldiers were killed and 17 captured in the rout of one Indian life.

The Indians stated the advances "police action" to reoccupy former police stations abandoned by Hyderabad, and to ensure law and order in the state.

Guards at the Nizam's palace at New Delhi refused to surrender arms and India police and army help. Hyderabad's agent-general, H. Haidari, tried to persuade the guards to comply, but their replies they could only accept such orders from the Hyderabad government.

The Nizam interned K. M. Munshi, India's agent general in Hyderabad, in the Nizam's palace. Indian postal and telegraph workers in Hyderabad also were interned.

Security Council Informed

Paris — (AP) — The fighting in Hyderabad was brought to the attention of the United Nations security council today by request of the Hyderabad government.

Hyderabad, ruled by a Moslem, asked the council to take up at once the question of its relations with India. The state suggested that the council members meet here Wednesday.

The communication was dated Sunday. It cited the intentions of India to bring the princely state in the attack now under way.

Hyderabad also wants to take its dispute with Indian before the International Court of Justice.

Announcement that Indian troops would march across the borders of the huge, rich state had been expected for days, but came with startling suddenness this morning in the hours after the march began at 4 a.m.

Vallabhbhai Jhaverbhai Shri Rajendrashinhji, Indian commander-in-chief in the south, informed the population of Hyderabad in a proclamation, the Indian army was going to prevent their state from becoming "the home and focus of disorder."

As soon as "a government which will maintain a rule of law and conform with the will of the people is established" the Indian troops will depart, he declared.

Earlier Sunday, India announced at noon that Hyderabad, to take whatever action she deemed necessary in the Hyderabad crisis, had denied a report that Indian troops had crossed the border into the princely state, in the South central portion of the sub-continent.

Hyderabad's Nizam has resisted efforts of the Indian government to bring his state into the Indian Union, which now almost surrounds Hyderabad.

Saturday, D. P. Menon, states minister secretary, wrote to premier Mi Laik Ali of Hyderabad, suggesting that in the present circumstances the government of Hyderabad should take some new to take whatever action they consider necessary.

Only Jungle Law

His letter said the "only law prevailing in Hyderabad is the law of the jungle."

Reinforcements were made last week for the evacuation of about 40 Americans and 300 Britons and Canadians from Hyderabad.

Although the movement started late yesterday, it was not until the day approximately 200 Britons and Canadians left Hyderabad. Approximately 150 have been taken out. Most of the American evacuees refused to be evacuated to remain, informans said.

Today's government press note said.

City and District News

FARMERS' WELLS ARE DRYING UP

Farmers' wells throughout the Belleville district are feeling the effects of the dry weather during the past few weeks.

District farmers are reporting many small creeks to be running dry and farm wells providing insufficient quantities of water for stock use. Several farmers north of Belleville were said to be drawing water for both stock and house use.

VICTIM OF BEATING TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Victim of an unmerciful beating at the hands of unknown assailant or assailants, Clarence Hill, Mohawk Indian Reservation, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital, Saturday night, badly cut about the head and face.

Shortly after 6 o'clock police were called to the Canadian Hotel where it was stated Hill had been in a fight with another party. In the fight Hill had been unmercifully beaten but police were unable to find the other party responsible. The injured man was taken to hospital in Bush's ambulance.

FORCED TO CHOOSE, HITS PARKED CAR

Forced to choose between striking a parked auto or an oncoming vehicle which had crossed over the centre line of the street, the driver of a Rawson bus this morning chose the lesser of the two evils. Damages to the two vehicles amounted to approximately $150.

Clifford Carmichael, Front St., driving a second bus on West Bridge Street, was following a passenger car which suddenly pulled to the curb and stopped. The bus driver turned out to pass when he saw the approaching car over the centre line of the road and was forced to crash the rear of the parked auto. Damage to the rear of the auto amounted to $100 while the front of the bus was damaged to the extent of $50.

NEITHER MAN NOR MONEY SEEN AT SCENE

It takes all kinds of people to make a world! At least that is what Pt. Off. Potter, Trent Road, found out last week-end.

Mr. Potter had applied at the employment agency for a farm helper and the office had complied by sending a man who gave his name as Don Rocco.

But before he could go to work he had to make a few small purchases and Mr. Potter complied by forwarding a $5 bill to procure money.

You guessed it. Neither the man nor the money have since been seen.

BISHOP LYONS MAY BECOME METROPOLITAN

In view of the death of Archbishop C. A. Seager, of London, Ont., there is good reason to believe Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the diocese of Ontario, succeeding him as Metropolitan of Ontario and being elevated to the rank of Archbishop. Bishop Lyons is now the senior bishop of the Church of England from the standpoint of the date of his election and the Metropolitan is customarily chosen on that basis by the college of bishops. (Brockville Times).

84 BUS. POTATOES REAPED FROM FOUR

Reports of record potato crops are quite frequent during the pasting week.

Last week the Ontario Intelligencer reported on instances where a return of 58 to 1 had been received by a Prince Edward County farmer, while today a Thurlow township farmer reported 84 bushels from four rows planting.

Last spring Mr. Roy Tracey, R.R. 4, Belleville, planted four bushels of certified Irish Cobbler seed and last week dug 84 bushels of uniform exceptionally clean spuds.

Trenton Child Seriously Hurt At Swing Bridge

Joanne Shepherd, four years old, of Trenton, victim of an unusual accident on the Trenton swing bridge Saturday, is reported as fair by the authorities of the Belleville General Hospital today.

Standing on the bridge with her mother, Mrs. Edward Shepherd, when a boat approached to allow a boat to pass, Joanne edged closer to get a better view of the boat. When the bridge closed, the gates were automatically raised and the weighted arm struck the child on the head, pinning her to the bridge. Bridge foundation.

Attended to the Belleville General Hospital, the girl was placed under the care of Dr. Fair on Saturday judging by the traffic at the emergency door of old No. 2 Highway. The Provincial police very capably handled this extra traffic and the many other accidents to mar the day's activities. It was a real home-coming for old residents judging by hand-shaking and reunions observed, some travellers from as far distant as Montreal to be present. By all reports all were highly pleased at having this fair a thorough "once-in-a-while" function rather than the ever this year. Even the weather man must have been in league with the directors of the fair as it was an ideal day for a country fair.

An improvement in the lighting system was noted this year in "The Palace." In this building were exhibits in needlecraft and art, flowers, school work, fruit and dairy products, grains and seeds and fine arts organizations. Quite a novel idea noted in the needlecraft section was the plastic clothesline on which the exhibits were hung for display. In the flower section the potted plants were of a better variety this year, and the display of flowers exhibited as usual. Mrs. Ed Fitzgerald, Mount, carried off the top honours in the specials in this section winning four of the eight prizes.

Display Most Attractive

The domestic science display was most attractive and this section spans the entire width of the building this year to accommodate nearly double the entries due largely to the more abundant sugar supply. Mrs. Frank Moon, R.R. 4, Belleville, carried away five of the nine special prizes in this exhibit.

In the ladies' work section the dresses were exhibited this year. Mrs. Mccall of Wooler was awarded top honors in this section, five of the nine specials in this display.

Very little change in the number of vegetable exhibits this year, but a very attractive display. More fruit noted last year than the present, likely due to the poor weather. Mr. Clem Ketcheson, R. R. 2 Belleville, walked away with the honors in grains, vegetables and roots, having the best collection in all three groups.

Enlarged Accommodation

In the poultry section more exhibits this year. Pens for the sheep and other exhibits had to be enlarged to take care of about double the entries. More keen competition this year. Donald Heath, Shilling, and Tom Pennington, Roblin, shared the honors in the special prizes for sheep while Donald Heath carried away four awards in the swine competition, 2 out of 3 awards in the Yorkshire of Crookston was awarded most specials in the cattle competition. In the dairy section not as many entries but honey and egg exhibit this year. Cheese about the same. Mr. Clarence Mastin, R. R. 6 Belleville, was awarded the special in white cheese exhibit. Mr. Levi Marcle, Shannonville for the butter and Mrs. Grant MacLaren, Melrose, for the brown eggs.

In the school exhibits section entries most interesting but smaller in number this year. In the art work and printing there was keen competition between S. S. No. 11, S. S. No. 5 Shannonville and Deseronto schools. Clarence and Roy Brant of Deseronto school are to be commended on their outstanding art exhibit. Lily Maracle, Mill-ville, carried away the outstanding fine display of hand-made jewellery. Ruth Jacobs, Gary Sine S. S. No. 4 for his wooden bicycle and Ross Vivian of Shannonville school for his model aeroplane.

School Parade Highlight

The school parade was a highlight of the fair activities and the judges must have had a difficult decision to make as the parade was really a credit to a country fair as there was everything from goats to ponies on hand. First prize was awarded to Shannonville school. The float led by a garden tractor hauling a wagon containing a turkey and his dog, the latter wearing the school colors.

Second prize was awarded to S.S. No. 4 and third prize to S.S. No. 11. The latter school's display awarded $5.00 for their entering a full dozen cars in the parade. The prize winning schools additional prizes. The Kiltie Band headed the parade.

Two farm machinery displays attracted many of the farm folks Bateman Motors and Truck and Tractor Sales, both of Belleville. Many modern farm implements.

Centre of attraction for the children were the ponies. Many a youngster-in-the-making buster spent his last nickle riding these ponies.

27 Entries

Very stiff competition was seen in the ladies' nail driving contest with 27 entries. Mrs. Florence Greatrix, R.R. No. 4, Belleville, was the lucky lady, succeeding her three nails in 15 strokes. Mrs. Duncan was runner-up. Judging from the spectators this contest and catching the greasy pig were most popular. The poor pig's freedom was short-lived as before it had been caught Mr. Ted Rodney Green had grabbed its hind legs and refused it to crib to win the contest. Seven contestants were entered. So great was the excitement in the crowd of spectators that the police had to be called to stop the fun when the poor pig had an even chance for freedom.

The crowd at the fair was not too energetic when it came to sawing logs on holidays as only three pairs entered in this contest. Ivan Wilson and Lloyd Haight and Charlie Bates and J. A. Wilson were the lucky ones.

The usual tug of war was omitted this year.

The Kiltie Band from Belleville entertained with some grand old Scottish airs which warmed many a Scottish heart. Don Scott and his Happy Gang of Napanee entertained in the afternoon and evening. The gang were decked out in the Cowboy and Cowgirl look which added much to the entertainment.

Baby Show Held

The baby contest was very capably handled by Dr. McVicker, Deseronto, and his assistants. Quite a stiff competition in the boys' section under six months. To eliminate this Dr. McVicker generously donated another prize. The winners were given up to 9 months: Carolyn Hayward, Mary Wilson.

Girls', 6 months to 1 year: Sally Cook, Carolyn Rupert, Mary Ann Ring.

Boys', 6 months to 1 year: Bob MacAulay.

Boys', up to 6 months: Kirk Read, Ralph Hill, Wayne Sager and Glenn Brant.

Twins, up to 6 months, Bernadette and Bernie Bennett.

Twins under 2 years: William and Warren Fraser.

In the horse racing events there was keen competition as the fast events were termed on the dirt track. Results of the district horse racing events were present from Campbellford, Trenton, Kingston, Colinsville, Napanee, Picton and Brighton. First in the 2.25 class was Miss Neely owned by C. Wannamaker, Consecon. First in the 2.40 class, Mr. Harry Taylor's horse, Peter Aubrey, from Brighton. Starter was George Tice of Belleville.

Oldest Couple on Grounds

Prize for oldest couple on the grounds was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams, Roslin occasion Tyendinaga, a grand old couple of 78 and 77 years respectively and life-long residents of Tyendinaga. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Milligan and family of five from Napanee captured the prize for the largest family present.

Ample entertainment was provided for the baseball fans. In the afternoon Thurlow and Tyendinaga competed for the prize money Tyendinaga emerging the winner, and in the evening Belleville Ramblers defeated Cobalt of Belleville, Bellevue Glass being the winners.

The Tyendinaga Boys and Girls Dairy Calf Club was the club commended on their fine exhibit and showmanship.

The ladies of the United Church again did a fine job in serving meals in the dining room. This is their eighth year of catering at the fair.

In the evening a well known old-time fiddler, Jerry Clement of Belleville, rendered several selections.

Several Entries

There were several entries in the step-dancing contest. The winners were Dave Marcle, Shannonville; Larry Hart, Shannonville; Leo Walsh, 5th Concession.

In the amateur dancing contest the three young winners were Gail Lesby, Shannonville; Barbara and Sheila Thrasher, Belleville.

Prizes for the horse contest were awarded to Cecil Hall, R.R. 5, Belleville.

The officials and directors of the Shannonville World's Fair are to be commended as this fair is a credit to a community of this size and could be termed the "World's Fair."

Thurlow Council Ratifies Construction of 4,232 Feet Of Watermains in Township

Thurlow township council at its September meeting ratified the construction of 4,232 feet of watermains in the Veterans' Land Act area south of College Street and west of the Foxboro road. Water service will be provided along several connecting streets in the area at a cost of $10,000. The Fleet Village Construction Co. was awarded the contract for the work.

Mr. Rodgers was awarded the contract for the erection of a building of approximately 4,000 feet of floor space, part of which is in the village of Corbyville. Mr. Hodgson's tender of 23 cents per square foot was accepted, the township to supply the necessary cement and the contractor to lay and finish the sidewalk and supply all additional materials required, including suitable fill.

Will Issue Debentures

The Hillcrest school board walked on council asking authorization for the issuing of debentures to the amount of $25,000 to complete the new school. Council authorized that application be made to issue the debentures. School sites for this school were ordered placed by the road superintendent.

Tenders for the supply of cement in the Reynolds' Crescent area were received from Bell Telephone, the financing of water and sewer installations such as grading and property line. Council arranged to issue debentures for the work, the clerk to prepare the necessary by-law. This work will be done under the Dominion-Provincial Act. Tenders receiving two readings and then forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

Agreement Ratified

A draft agreement with the city of Belleville regarding conditions of annexation of Thurlow township was read, the council concurring in the agreement on condition that the following clause be added — that the City agrees that the present assessed value of land in the area annexed for a period of ten years from March 31st, 1948, and within that period the lands are sold for taxes or substantial improvements are made such as grading, draining, etc. warranting the increased assessment.

World's Fair at Shannonville Had Many Contests, Displays To Entertain Large Gathering

All roads led to the annual Shannonville World's Fair on Wednesday judging by the traffic at many points of old No. 2 Highway. The Provincial police very capably handled this extra traffic and the many other accidents to mar the day's activities. It was a real home-coming for old residents judging by hand-shaking and reunions observed, some travellers from as far distant as Montreal to be present. By all reports all were highly pleased at having this fair a thorough "once-in-a-while" function rather than the ever this year. Even the weather man must have been in league with the directors of the fair as it was an ideal day for a country fair.

An improvement in the lighting system was noted this year in "The Palace." In this building were exhibits in needlecraft and art, flowers, school work, fruit and dairy products, grains and seeds and fine arts organizations. Quite a novel idea noted in the needlecraft section was the plastic clothesline on which the exhibits were hung for display. In the flower section the potted plants were of a better variety this year, and the display of flowers exhibited as usual. Mrs. Ed Fitzgerald, Mount, carried off the top honours in the specials in this section winning four of the eight prizes.

Display Most Attractive

The domestic science display was most attractive and this section spans the entire width of the building this year to accommodate nearly double the entries due largely to the more abundant sugar supply. Mrs. Frank Moon, R.R. 4, Belleville, carried away five of the nine special prizes in this exhibit.

In the ladies' work section the dresses were exhibited this year. Mrs. Mccall of Wooler was awarded top honors in this section, five of the nine specials.

Very little change in the number of vegetable exhibits this year, but a very attractive display. More fruit noted last year than the present, likely due to the poor weather. Mr. Clem Ketcheson, R. R. 2 Belleville, walked away with the honors in grains, vegetables and roots, having the best collection in all three groups.

Enlarged Accommodation

In the poultry section more exhibits this year. Pens for the sheep and other exhibits had to be enlarged to take care of about double the entries. More keen competition this year. Police Blotter

Brazenly opening a cash register near the front entrance, an unknown man escaped with $8 in small bills from a local chain store on Saturday. The man, about 30 years of age, apparently watched his opportunity and when the till was unattended for a moment, opened the cash drawer and escaped with the money.

Children setting fire to a barrel near an old warehouse building on Turnbull Street, resulted in police and fireman being called to the scene on Sunday afternoon. Neighbors fearing that a building would catch fire turned in the alarm.

Firemen were also called to South John, on Monday morning where the wiring of a residence had short circuited and caught fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

OBITUARY

MRS. EDITH HELENA DENYES

Elon's Hill

Mrs. Edith Helena Denyes, widow of Henry Ketcheson Denyes, died at her home, Elon's Hill, Thurlow township, on Sunday, after an illness of four days' duration.

The late Mrs. Denyes had reached an advanced age, being in her 94th year. She was born in Newburgh and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Neely. For fifty-seven years a resident of Elon's Hill and when age permitted she took an active part in the work of the women's organizations in connection with Elon's Hill United Church, being a life member of the Women's Missionary Society, and at one time she was in the choir, taught in the Sunday School as late as a week ago, and also served in a capable manner as organist. She was also a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and of the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Denyes received her education at the Newburgh High School, Napanee Collegiate and the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. For a number of years she taught in the public school.

Possessing many fine traits of character and being of a hospitable and friendly nature, Mrs. Denyes attracted a host of friends during her long and useful life and in the community she was held in high esteem. Her husband, Henry Ketcheson Denyes, died Nov. 2nd, 1938, and she is survived by one son, Arthur, Mrs. Frank (Helen) Jeffrey, Elon's Hill; four sons, the Rev. G. F. Denyes, Toronto; Ketcheson; Barney Denyes, Brighton, Eric S. Denyes, Tyendinaga, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Clark, Belleville, and Sf. Kenneth Denyes, at home; one sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Rose Moore, Amelisburg; eleven grand children and three great grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

we got home close to 1 a.m. today. I drove from my downtown garage where he got his car. I went there until he drove out.

"When he was ready to drive away he said 'okay' and I said 'goodnight.' I didn't think of anything about the kidnapping until I received the telephone call.

The dentist said he believed his brother had been kidnapped for money.

Police here said today they believed Perlman's car had been stolen, looted a house and kidnapped Dr. Perlman to make sure that he would. They were checking residents to find out if any were broken into Sunday night.

Dr. David Perlman who graduated from the University of Toronto in 1918, was a well-known varsity athlete in hockey and played with Toronto Argonauts in the 1920's. He has practised in Toronto since his graduation. During the first World War he served with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Prices were steady in light trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials showed a slightly firmer tone and golds and base metals were irregularly firm. A few scattered western oils edged ahead.

Papers and refining oils led the firming tendencies in the industrial groupings, Gains and losses remained fractional. Among the few steels also edged ahead and Bell Telephone, Canada Wire, Traction and C.P.R. strengthened in the utilities.

Golds were generally quiet with only a few issues showing any change. Dome Mines rose ¼ in seniors and San Antonio, Malartic, Nicholson, and Bevcourt were firmer juniors.

Sullivan, La Luz, Louvicourt Central Patricia and Campbell dipped 1 to 10 cents.

International Nickel gained ¼ in a dull base metal list. New Calumet, MacDonald and International Uranium firmed while Consolidated Smelters dipped ¼ and East Sullivan, Steep Rock and Gulf Lead weakened.

Calgary and Edmonton was ahead 15 cents and Home Oil 10 in a brightening western oils group.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Sept. 13 (CP)—Possibly responding to increased consumer demand for meat, the livestock market here up to midsession did an active business and prices were fully 50 cents to $1 higher than last week. Union Preparing To Battle Decision Of TLC Executive

Ottawa Sept. 13 (CP)—Montreal's Frank Hall and his 12,000 Canadian Seamen's Union and Seamship Clerks are preparing to battle the executive decision, suspending them indefinitely from the powerful Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The suspension order came Saturday when the T.L.C. executive announced the Brotherhood had failed to repudiate the recent action of its Canadian vice-president in directing a union merger without consent of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

The T.L.C., a Congress affiliate, is reputed to be Communist dominated.

The executive said Hall had been in "direct and flagrant violation" of the T.L.C. constitution in bringing about the absorption of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union by the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) more than a week ago.

In Montreal, Hall said his Brotherhood "will fight" the suspension with one small lot at $20 Butcher steers were from $24, and heifers sold from $17-$21.50 with a flier up to $22. Good butcher cows sold from $16-$17.50 with a few up to $18 and common to medium downward to $13 Canners and cutters sold downward to $8. Special Radio Equipment Theft Being Investigated

Ottawa, Sept. 13 — (CP) Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating theft of special radio equipment in Winnipeg but Transport Minister Chevrier says he does not believe "a foreign power is involved."

From aboard the Empress of France en-route to England he told The Canadian Press Sunday night: "It is my belief that amateur radio fanciers, who might break parts up for their own use, are the culprits." Mr. Chevrier is on his way to the Paris meeting of the United Nations.

Confirmation that the spare parts for a government radio transmitter had been stolen came from Cpl. P. Edwards, deputy transport minister, Saturday. The transmitter is part of a new instrument landing system at Winnipeg's Stevenson Airport.

The theft was made from a small, unguarded building several miles from the airport about three months ago. The thieves, Mr. Chevrier said, "are someone who knows something about radio."

Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P. was "skeptical about the suggestion that it's anything more than a common theft."

The Winnipeg Free Press, whilst supporting the theft theory, suggested the possibility that a foreign power might be involved.

Mr. Edwards, confirming the report to the House of Commons said the transmitter had not been fully assembled when the building — locked but unguarded — was entered. However the thief did not damage the transmitter.

Commandeering Called Classical Example of Piracy

By JUDSON O'QUINN

Athens, Sept. 13 (CP)—Aviation Minister Alexander Makalbasis said today it is up to the Yugoslav government to show it did not assist six private Greek Communists who commandeered a plane Sunday and flew to Yugoslavia. Eight Communists originally were reported aboard.

The crew of an Athens-Salonika airplane was forced by the youths, who were armed, to fly them to Skopje, where they alighted. The plane then flew to Belgrade.

"This is a classical example of air piracy," Makalbasis said. "It is up to the Yugoslav government to show it did not assist the youths. It should be especially noted that, although the aircraft flew 50 kilometres (30 miles) inside Yugoslavia and stayed more than 30 minutes, it was not ordered on entering, leaving or during the stay."

PRINCELY STATE

"The government of Hyderabad having decided to accede to the government of India's request to disband the Razakars and to facilitate the return of Indian's troops to Secunderabad for the restoration of law and order in the state, Indian troops crossed the state borders at 4 a.m. today."

The Razakars (volunteers) take a private Moslem army led by Qasim Razvi an extreme Moslem Nationalist. Secunderabad is a suburb of Hyderabad City, the capital of Hyderabad, where Indian and British troops formerly garrisoned.

Occupy Rail Town

The official statement said a column crossing the northern border from the central provinces occupied the important railroad town of Jalalabad.

A 'column advancing from Sholapur in the west, penetrated 20 miles, occupying the important railroad junction of Maldevi after having met considerable opposition, the announcement went on.

In the south, it continued, three columns of troops crossed the Tungabhadra River, which forms the state's southern boundary were taken and a column from Berwada in Madras, took Bommakallu. The Indian garrison at Munajalla, an Indian enclave about 15 miles inside Hyderabad is moving toward Secunderabad.

An order of the day said the purpose of the troops was to "fanatical followers of a non-Hyderabadi race who have no love who cannot have the interests of Hyderabad or its ruler at heart."

Ruled by Richest Man

It charged Razvi's followers had extended their operations across the border into the Indian Union and that India's approaches to the Nizam about this had "fallen on deaf ears."

Razvi, a bearded, fiery-eyed Moslem, has declared Hyderabad must remain an "independent, sovereign" nation under a Moslem-controlled government although its population is largely Hindu. There are those here who believe the Razakars have virtually captured the Hyderabad government and the Nizam may not be master in his own realm.

Hyderabad, ruled by one of the world's richest men, perhaps the richest, has a land mass of 82,313 square miles, about one-third the size of Manitoba. Its population in 1941 was 16,338,534. Hyderabad is the largest among the Indian states and is second in area only to Kashmir, whose future also is in doubt.

After Modern Pakistan and Hindu India came into being as independent Dominion in August 1947, one of the principal states of India acceded to one or the other. In November, India and Hyderabad reached an agreement giving the latter a year to decide what it would do. But Mountbatten, then Governor-General of India, left the settlement for Nehru.

Last June a spokesman for the Hyderabad government announced in New Delhi that Hyderabad would hold a plebiscite to decide whether or not to join the Dominion of India. No date was set for the voting.

A short time later, Hyderabad claimed India was blockading the princely state, keeping out needed petroleum and materials. Winston Churchill repeated the charge in parliament in London at the end of July.

India contends Hyderabad is not a sovereign state and thus has no legal standing before the United Nations. Secretary-General Trygve Lie distributed the complaint to Security Council members without any statement as to the status of the complaint.

SAYS TOO MANY POLICE FORCES AND CONFUSION

Toronto, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Too many police forces in Ontario add "confusion to the administering of the Lord's Day Act," said Rev. A. Ross Skinner, of the Lord's Day Alliance, speaking Sunday at Toronto's Parkdale United Church.

In a service marking the 60th anniversary of the Alliance, Rev. Mr. Skinner said, "If there were less entertainment on Sunday there might be a good deal less juvenile delinquency — the youths of the country would have more to spiritual observances at home."

SUGGESTIONS TURNED DOWN

Paris, Sept. 13 — (Reuters) — A United Nations spokesman today denied press suggestions the United Nations might intervene after South African governor general refused to allow Dr. G. M. Naicker, president of the Transvaal Indian Congress, to travel to Paris for the general assembly.

"The men in question are not delegates so there does not seem to be anything we can do," the spokesman said.

CATARRH and SINUS trouble . . . Splendid Results from treatment

Sufferers from the distressing symptoms and wretched discomforts of Catarrh, Sinus and Antrum troubles may now obtain real relief as thousands of others have done—thanks to Lantigen "B". Letter after letter received in the offices of Lantigen Laboratories Limited tell of the splendid results obtained from the Lantigen "B" treatment. Lantigen "B" is the modern oral way of obtaining relief from Catarrh and Sinus (including Antrum) infections, also common types of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. As many sufferers know, catarrh and sinusitis are often a bacterial infection of the air passages of the head. This may extend down the trachea (windpipe") to the bronchial tubes and may cause Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. To raise the defenses of the body against this bacterial infection a special medicated vaccine for oral administration Lantigen "B" — was prepared. Lantigen "B" is taken by mouth. Full directions, including reduced dosages for children, are given with every bottle and when taken as directed Lantigen "B" will help to bring welcome relief from the discomforts of Catarrh, Sinusitis and common types of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. Sufferers from these complaints should also take care to secure adequate rest; maintain proper eating habits, avoid constipation, wet feet and chills. Start on the road to relief immediately—with the widely acclaimed Lantigen "B" treatment. Get a bottle of Lantigen "B" from your druggist today. For further information write to Lantigen Laboratories Limited, 12 Richmond Street East, Toronto.

Happy that man, who, after a big evening "with the boys" finds that friend wife has ready for him a nightcap of the excellent new aperient —mildly laxative KRUSCHEN. Kruschen helps nature relieve discomfort that may be caused by "too much party" or common constipation. Kruschen is a blend of saline minerals similar to those in famous medicinal springs. Kruschen offers you these four advantages:

EASY TO TAKE—Dissolves quickly in water, or your morning cup of tea or fruit juice. Most folks find the small morning dose is best.

WORKS FAST—Usually within the hour, Kruschen has set you right.

GENTLE ACTION—Its formula is balanced to act gently, without discomfort.

TIME-TESTED — Over 300,000,000 packages sold throughout the world, Kruschen is a standby when doper mornings or "don't care" days make you feel low. Start the day with Kruschen and see how good it is to have that grand "Kruschen Feeling". 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Give Pedestrians a Chance

The intersection at Front and Bridge Streets for some months has become a hazard for pedestrians. That there has been no serious accident in this area is a real tribute to the nimbleness of our fleet-footed citizenry. At certain busy periods during the day when lines of cars are at a stretch for a block or more in every direction, it is a real accomplishment to get across the street without meeting with mishap.

Nor is it the motorists' fault altogether. Left-hand turns, turns to the right against the red light, buses taking up valuable space at the curbs all contribute to the hazards of pedestrians at this busy area. Those who are driving are within their rights. The time is approaching, we feel, when some study should be given to this problem by our city authorities. For instance, left-hand turns would be permissible for only certain hours of the day and night. The same thing would apply to turns to the right against the red light. If the latter is part of the provincial laws then, perhaps, nothing can be done about it. Legal advice can dispose of that question. In regard to the buses, frankly we do not know whether they obstruct traffic except that when they are on the east side, the bus on East Bridge Street does block the view and helps to make for traffic congestion in that area. However, these are matters which can be studied if, and when, it is decided that something should be done about the matter. It should be remembered, though, that traffic is going to become ever greater in this city, and some thought might very well be given to some of the above points.

Badge of Service

There have been occasions when travelling on trains that we have noticed and wondered about the gold and silver bars sewn on the left sleeves of train crewmen's uniforms. We knew it had something to do with denoting length of service but not quite sure of the exact period of years each represented. We are indebted to F. P. Donovan writing in the Canadian National Magazine for a full explanation of the matter.

Railroading is one of the oldest industries in the country, states the writer, and it is well sprinkled with oldtimers. This is not to be sniffed at but something to be proud of. The love of railroading is something which instills great loyalty, a quality which cannot be purchased, and this loyalty is one of the railways' greatest assets. Thus it is that individual long services are traditions of the rails.

A glance will inform you, therefore, the number of years of service a uniformed member of the Canadian National train crew has had. The markings on the left sleeve are his badge of service. Each five years of continuous employment with the company is represented by a gold or silver bar, up to twenty-five years. Beyond that for each five years, a maple leaf to be worn above the bars, is awarded. Each five bars and one leaf signifies thirty years of service and two maple leaves represent 35 years of service. Out of service comes experience and out of experience, wisdom. These men have attended the school of long service. Their badge of service is proudly worn.

Effective Way to Evict Pigeons

Down in Columbus, Ohio, they have been having a spot of trouble with pigeons as is the case in so many other places. According to a news report Ohio's lawmakers must have been a pretty scrap of men for now, after 88 years of brushing off their hats they have decided to do something about the nuisance.

A firm from Syracuse, N.Y., has been engaged to do the job and the owners claim a record for pigeon evictions unblemished by a single failure. In the words of the president of the firm, "We just discourage them from coming back in the most tactful way ever devised. We string wires around their roosting places. The wires send out pulsations of electricity every three seconds or so. The electricity sets up a sort of static electric field that pigeons can't stand. It sort of tickles them. Nothing, it does not hurt them. Just makes them uncomfortable."

In the past our city hall has harbored a good many of these birds, and we have not forgotten how indignant one farmer's wife was after getting a spattering from one of the "flying cows." She was ready to sue the mayor, council, and everyone else connected with the city's business. Her indignation was understandable seeing that she had just purchased a new coat and it was a mess.

The above method of driving pigeons from our main municipal building certainly appears effective, and might be worth investigating by the council if other methods prove unsuccessful.

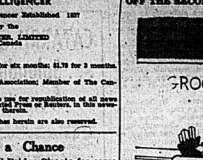
LAKE BREEZE



There may be a fairer sight
Than blue waves with caps of white,
And that wild, tumultuous roar
As they break upon the shore
May not be as sweet to hear
As a cardinal singing near.
But delight I have in both I take
When the wind is from the lake.

It may be the gifted mind
More exquisite charms can find,
And the ear to music trained
Has a truer rapture gained
From some master's violin,
" But when blue waves tumble in and their plumed chapeaux I see,
They are beautiful to me.

Much to me has been denied
Which to others was supplied.
I was fashioned deaf to tone,
Music's charms I've never known,
But I'm gladdened by the roar
Of the waves upon the shore;
Wide of eye I watch them break
When the wind is from the lake.

IS SUPPRESSION THE ANSWER?

There have been all sorts of theories of how to get the best out of life. Certain teachers have made it a negative emphasis, urging the utilization of desire to high ends.

One of the most fantastic systems of repression have been Stoicism and Buddhism. The Stoic philosophy urges men to take life as they found it, in a completely passive fashion. Buddhism loves the good nor abhorring the evil. Seems declared that pity is a mental illness. Epictetus admonished his disciples never to show the least sympathy for anyone, even for children. To the Stoic, the ideal man was he who could detach himself completely from life, taking both its buffeting and its blandishments without the least emotional reaction.

The Buddhist believes that a man, when every act is void of love and purpose, who wipes out all desire for life or existence, he purges his life both of evil passions and high aspirations, is the good man who has attained perfection.

How different the Christian gospel from all such perverted teaching! Jesus never loved the good nor abhorring the evil. He declared that pity is a mental illness. Epictetus admonished his disciples never to show the least sympathy for anyone, even for children. To the Stoic, the ideal man was he who could Seattle (AP) — There's a plane ride to Texas and back waiting for Steve Eskimo women.

Here's how, as explained by Tex Leach, pilot of the plane and conductor of the search:

"My friend, L. Berne, president of the Horne Oil Company, is the bettingest man in the Lone Star State. Recently he bet Governor Coke Texis millionaire $20,000 he could have three Eskimo girls in Dallas by next Thursday.

"So Horne told us: 'Don't come back without those Eskimos.'"

The other man, Walter Stonebraker, said that's no problem to object.

"We don't care what the women look like or how old they are," he said. "We will fly them down and back within a week and give them $200 each for their trouble."

Des Moines —(AP — Thieves here were busy last night with exciting fruit. They took the trees too.

John L. Swanson reported to police that three pear trees and an apple tree, all full of ripening fruit, were dug up by the roots and hauled away from a orchard sometime during the past week.

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Police hurried to render first aid Sunday night when a man was reported to have plunged through a plate glass doorway of a department store.

Curious Sunday-evening window shoppers looked in awe as the officers went briskly about their business, picking the man up just a little roughly. The man turned out to be a rugged, likable dummy shaken from his perch by a passing trolley.

London (CP) — Rev. Frank Bishop, vicar of St. Giles, Cambetwell, says it is "no more reprehensible to have a shilling on a horse than to spend a shilling on beer or ice cream."

But he is worried about the increasing gambling fever in betting rates at about £1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) last year — of the national income which he estimates and the football pools.

"In short, gambling is handicapping Britain's post-war recovery," he told parishioners.

Mackenzie's Column:

Any Country Going Communist Will be Cut Off

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator, says Marshall plan aid will be cut off from any country going Communist—or Fascist for that matter.

That's a timely and encouraging confirmation of a policy which must be iron-clad if the democracies are to win their life-and-death struggle against Communism. There can be no half-way business in connection with Communism, despite the soppy sentimentality which is being peddled about in favor of appeasing the Bolshevists.

This American policy regarding Communism (and Fascism, if it should rear its ugly head) is, at least, the policy of Britain and the rest of the Marshall-plan countries.) It's avowed purpose is to prevent democracies from being forced into Communism. However, I believe it cuts much deeper and that we are safe in saying—it also is designed to withdraw the sex potential of Russia and her satellites. This is purely defensive measure.

But this policy must logically apply to the Marshall plan but it affects general economic relations with the Red bloc. Most, and perhaps all, of the democracies are continuing limited trade with Russia and her satellites, but transactions probably have been restricted to those things which do not strengthen the Communists militarily.

This paradoxical situation naturally gives rise to the query of why there should be any trade at all. Well, on the one hand there are certain transactions which can be carried out profitably on a quid pro quo basis.

Eastern Europe has certain commodities that western Europe needs, and vice versa. Hence the trade in such things as don't involve the war-potential. Perhaps that isn't an ideal arrangement, but it is a horse-sense one.

Then there are various items of trade which fall within the "twilight zone," i.e. neither being carefully trade is screened, some things which in war will get through. For example, a microscope might be extremely useful in war under circumstances, but one certainly couldn't class it with a high explosive.

Anyway this grey zone isn't a thing to worry about too much. The worry should be lest it is forgotten that Communism must be fought with every weapon and strength both on the battle-front and at home.

THE MEMORY OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Not all professors are absent-minded, declared one who participated in a Town Meeting program recently. By the same token not all absent-minded persons are professors or even likely to be. Those endowed with extraordinary intellectual faculties. Absent-mindedness is usually but inattentiveness. Whether it should be ignored, humored or ridiculed is now frowned upon and discouraged depends.

If the absent-minded are especially a teen age child, just daydreams, don't scold or chide or ridicule the youngster. Instead give him or her the benefit of medical advice. A confidential interview with an understanding doctor in the case of child maybe a similar chat with her physical examination in the case in the school nurse or R. N. in private practice may be the happiest solution.

The inclination to day-dream in the early teens and the tendency of many children of that age, girls particularly but boys too, to mope, to be listless at work, play or study and seem pensive and moody at a time in life when they should be cheerful and active, is generally due to nutritional deficiency, no matter how well they eat. Doctors' patients think they are. The essential of good nutrition which most of these people fail to get is iodine. For that matter, so do their parents. In most parts of the United States and Canada, goitre or no goitre. For the possible relationship with the manifestations iodin deficiency, see Goitre. Iodin as a reminder that it is nutritional, essential food for everybody and not iodine the drug (poison), send a stamped self addressed envelope.

If one's attention or conscious mind is fixed upon some problem or project it is only natural that one should seem inattentive and unexpectedly addressed by teacher, parent, acquaintance or stranger. But, if one is not in the habit of forgetting or the inventor moons about.

It just can't be a habit of that it is possible to think of nothing at all during such an absent-minded interval. Not even of the fact that these swamis, yogis or fakirs who hold the record for being so blank, think of nothing or think only of total darkness or blackness are indulging in hokum. How can one know? What is the thing or nothing of something without thinking to check?

An extraordinary or phenomenal memory or the ability to memorize details, dates or lists of words or facts for a recitation or an examination may sometimes help a student to get by, but such a memory is of little practical value in life except perhaps for a clerk in the information booth. The boy or girl who finds it hard to memorize should not worry. If he or she understands what it means or can tell in his or her own words what it means, that is all that matters.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Preparing Legislation for Next Session Falls on St. Laurent

By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 13 (CP)—On the shoulders of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent will fall the main responsibility of preparing legislation for the next session of parliament.

Mr. St. Laurent, second in this month to the leadership of the party, will be Acting Prime Minister from William Lyon Mackenzie King, who is expected probably some time in November.

It is said that the next session of parliament will be called, but Mr. King indicated at a Liberal convention recently it will not be this fall. He said he was looking forward to a holiday this month or next. Last year, the session opened Dec. 5 and ended June 30.

In the press conference, Mr. King announced that L. B. Pearson, undersecretary of state for external affairs, will succeed Mr. St. Laurent as Minister for External Affairs.

Mr. St. Laurent said he wished to make it clear that the duties of his office do not include those which involve the preparation of legislation for the session. He did not indicate what measures the government might introduce.

Possibly one of the first things will be ratification of terms under which Newfoundland will join Canada as 10th province.

Representatives of the wholesale and retail ends of the meat packing business will meet this week before the prices committee.

The first two days of the short session will be taken up with routine by officials of the five biggest Mutt-manufacturing companies. The first item on the agenda will examine the other side of the picture.

Highlights last week were the manufacturers' appearance of keen interest in their retailers' profit margins and the appearance of one manufacturer that he thinks the prices of top-quality shirts are too low for comfort.

He and other witnesses blamed the tariffs of United States and Japan shirting material for some of the increases in retail prices.

An Education Can be so Beneficial

By B. U.

Education is a grand thing. Most literate people would not be without it, because otherwise they would be unable to tell a queen from a deuce, let alone the difference between spades and hearts.

It is this never ending thirst for knowledge that has brought about that marvelously complex and efficient system of primary and secondary schools that educates the people of this land. The fact that great-great grandfather wanted his children to write their own letters without the assistance of the local letter writer has done more for this generation than they will ever realize.

Ever since invention of the printing press and the subsequent realization that a printer could print more than he could sell, there has been a determined drive to educate the spending public. And it has been all to the good.

The literature and the culture of other civilizations is thus made available to every literate person. Children starting out in life are exposed to the beneficial effects of history, literature, mathematics, science, and natural phenomena, with the result that at the end of their high school year they are able to add up a pleasing bill, write out a note for a loaf of bread, tell a difference between geranium and pumpkin, and recite the date of the signing of the Declaration of Independence for a quiz master who bestows on them two washing machines, a ton of coal and ten shares of International Nickel. If they do not know they can always look it up.

Thus equipped to face the obstacles and pitfalls of daily life the average product of this great educational system is set to go into life to take up his station at machine No. 25 punching out metal strips for the banding of stray owls. When the working day is finished one can retire to a modest home and reading the papers, learn to worry on a global scale.

For those more interested in higher education there are courses in commerce wherein a reasonably sane man who pinches his nickels and dimes learns to spend other people's money by the ounce. Or, for the practical, there are courses in cooking, sewing, sweeping, and how to look after a cranky automobile.

Admittedly there are a few faults to this otherwise highly beneficial system, but we shall dismiss them curtly.

However, there are several suggestion for the improvement of this or that in the system that can not be overlooked. One, is a suggestion that those who are being crammed full of facts for the discipline of the mind would be better advised to learn a few of the social graces so that they might in future be able to pass on their knowledge without being met by a world of sighs. Another is that athletics be supplanted by dancing, but the difference is hardly, worth commenting on. Another is that hard-headed and soft-hearted men be trained for public service whose sole concern is for the welfare of those whom they govern.

And still another suggestion, this time from poets, writers, and musicians is that the rest of the race learn to appreciate their efforts, and thus come to enjoy the finer things of their existence. Another one, tossed in as an aside, is that children learn how to work long, exhausting hours, rather than study to be complexities of engineering and maintaining a household.

These are just suggestions and will probably be overlooked in the general melee between the ledge gathering just recommended. After all, what has the system been designed for? Nothing more than being able to add up a column of figures, read of the neighbor's birth, marriage, and death, and being able to write to Aunt Hortz about the weather and the dog next door, lets not expect something for nothing.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

WEDDINGS

THOMPSON—ALFORD

A very pretty double ring ceremony was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, Sept. 4, when Muriel Helen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alford, became the bride of Gerald Thompson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson of Trenton. Rev. Grant Sparling was the officiating clergyman and the nuptial music was played by Mr. Kay Martin and Miss Genevieve Treacy, each of whom sang "Reckless" and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin with yoke of lace and long lace sleeves ending in points over her wrist. Her full-length veil fell from a heart dress of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses and fern; Miss Marjorie Alford was best sister's maid of honor wearing a floor-length gown of blue slipper satin and net with matching picture hat. She carried a Colonial nosegay of roses, carnations and fern. Miss Joan Beverley Thompson, niece of the groom was flower girl in a floor-length gown of pale pink taffeta with sweet heart neckline, short puff sleeves and full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of embroidered blue tulle was held by a headdress of pink flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Jack Donohoe, brother of the groom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Steve Garvin Jr. and Mr. Don Donohoe.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 24 Gardens. For travelling to Peterboro, Toronto and Wasaga Beach the bride chose a dusty rose gabardine suit with green accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Guests were present from Stirling, Campbellford, Sydenham, Barrie and Toronto.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored with a presentation of kitchenware at a party held at which she has been employed, also a shower of saucer dishes by Mrs. James Elliott, a miscellaneous shower by Miss Rita Savage and a linen shower by Misses Catherine Schrider and Kathleen Schrider.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Belleville.

RIDLEY—FREEMAN

A very pretty wedding was quietly solemnized Saturday, September 4, at 2.30 p.m. at the immediate relatives, when May Elfreda Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Freeman of Belleville, became the bride of Harry Ridley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ridley, Belleville.

The bride looked charming in a gown of dusky rose crepe with deep silk lace flounce and trim and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of deep red roses.

Her bridesmaid was Helen I. Palmateer wore a gown of royal blue with black accessories and corsage of roses.

Mr. Donald Ridley, brother of the groom acted as groomsman.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Farnsworth, Bleecker Ave.

The happy couple left on an extended tour of the United States and on their return will reside in Belleville.

JOSLIN—JOHNS

Holloway Street United Church was the setting for the wedding of Betty Evelyn Johns, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Johns, R.R. 1, Stirling, to Ralph B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Dunham Joslin of Sherbrooke, Quebec, on Saturday, 11th at 3:30 p.m. Rev. C. A. Perkins officiated.

The bride was attired and performed amidst tall standards of autumn colored gladioli and ferns and the bride, given away by her father, wore white nylon marquisette with bustle back and train. Her full-length embroidered veil was caught with orange blossoms and fashioned in corner style. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses and bouvardia.

The bride's two sisters, Ruth Johns of Orillia, and Dorothy Johns of Belleville were her bridesmaids. Ruth wore a pastel pink taffeta gown with draped skirt and high collar, both with matching gauntlets and headdress. She carried an identical daffodil yellow gown with matching gauntlets and headdress. They carried bouquets of cosmos and orchid gladioli.

Mr. Fred Hovey of Sherbrooke, Quebec, acted as groomsman and Messrs. Reginald Jackson and Melvyn Porter of Sherbrooke, Quebec, were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Lanthorn Inn and the bride's mother greeted in black printed silk jersey with black accessories and a corsage of white roses received the guests. The groom's mother, gowned in grey crepe with matching gloves and powder blue hat trimmed with white flowers and corsage of white roses assisted with the guests.

For the wedding trip to the United States the bride chose a red gabardine suit, with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Out-of-town guests were from Sherbrooke, Toronto, Orillia and surrounding district of Belleville and Kingston.

Women of the Moose Hold Tea and Euchre

On Wednesday afternoon Miss L. Lloyd-Jones, Archibald St., opened her home to the Women of the Moose, Chapter 435, for the weekly euchre and afternoon tea. Prize winners at cards were Mrs. E. Murphy and Mrs. Mary Peoples with Consolation prize went to Mrs. Shearer. Lone hand was by Mrs. LaChance. The afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Mary Peoples and Mrs. Dorcas. Mrs. Helen Balyx won the lucky draw. All prizes were donated by Miss Livingston, the hostess.

W.M.S. Executive Of Presbyterial Meets in City

The Executive of the United Church Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society met in Bridge Street Church.

After the opening hymn and prayer, Mrs. Campbell, the president called on the delegates to the School for Leaders for their reports. They reported outstanding leadership was given; a deep spiritual tone was felt and brought out all the session; new loyalties were discovered and a challenge sent out for greater services and sacrifice. The competent enthusiastic leadership of the young members impressed them all.

Secretaries of all departments brought in reports. Increases were reported in membership and givings in the past year. Thirty auxiliaries gave 100% subscriptions.

Plans were made for sectional rallies the third week in October. A C.G.I.T. rally is to be held.

Members contributed liberally to a large table for a Dress Mission Field and also to Chinese and European relief.

The afternoon session opened with a worship service conducted by Mrs. George Finlay of Napanee the past president.

Two vocal solos were reported on the Executive; Baby Band Secretary and Temperance and Christian Citizenship. The nominating committee was instructed to appoint secretaries to thesspositions for the remainder of the year.

The guest speaker for the fall rallies is the Miss Hazel Gallen of the Church of All Nations, Toronto.

Sulphide Couple Mark Half Century Of Wedded Life

Married 50 years ago on Sept. 6th, 1898 Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Douglas celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with members of the family last Sunday.

A dinner was served on the lawn at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frank Mayers, Sulphide, to members of the family and guests with the long table centred by a three tier wedding cake and grey summer flowers; also on display were two numerous gifts cards and telegrams received by the couple. During the festivities the golf family presented the parents with a substantial purse of money.

Mrs. Douglas is the former Mary Jane Elliott and was born in Cornwall, Ont. Mr. Douglas and her husband is a native of Fuller born in 1868.

The marriage took place in Madoc with Rev. D. Wishart officiating at the Douglas' manse by means of horse and buggy returned to Fuller to start housekeeping.

They farmed in this district for ten years then Mr. Douglas started a butcher business and later moved to Actinolite to carry on his activities.

During the following years he worked at the granite quarry and like most of the old timers of the district did some prospecting. Interesting stories of when the booms went down at the Skootamatta River while navigating Hamma.

Douglas was later employed at the Nichols Chemical Plant at Sulphide retiring eight years ago following a serious injury.

Nine Children in Family

Nine children were born to the couple, Mrs. Roy Salisbury, (Pearl) Belleville, Mrs. Wm. Birdie, (Maggie) Belleville, Mr. Leslie Douglas, Fairfield, Conn., Mrs. Donald Foster (Nina) Belleville, Mrs. L. A. MacDougal (Verna) Wingham, Mrs. George Hendry (Jessie) Chippewa Falls, Mrs. Frank Mayers (Rasie), Gordon and Everett of Sulphide. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas are equally proud of their fifteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Their many Sulphide and district friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Douglas many more happy anniversary celebrations with their family.

Wellington On The Lake

SEPTEMBER

Days of golden, mellow sunlight,
Nights with just a hint of frost,
Leaves turned brown and south wind whispering
Of a summer loved and lost;
But, at eve about the fireside,
With the cricket sing to cheer
Grieve me not for passing summer
When bright Autumn's joys are here.

—Helen B. Anderson.

The long vacation is over and all the town is astir. Bright school clothes, shining faces, and children to the village school; laborers are passing on scooters and bicycles; the sound of mowing, blowing and loads of corn and tomatoes are passing on the way to the canning factories. In spite of the continued drought tomatoes of fine quality are reported especially from the productive farms in the north.

Personals

Dr. T. M. Pine and Mrs. Pine returned to Toronto on Labor Day having spent a few days in Wellington here. They were accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Reta Dempsey, who will spend a few days in the city.

Mrs Nellie Arthur and Miss Clare Anderson, Belleville, were guests on the week end route to Kingston for the holiday.

Mrs. and Miss Andrew were among those who attended the CNE, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson and Miss Gena, of Windsor, who are spending the summer in this district here, entertained friends from Kitchener over the weekend.

Mrs. J. Bowerman, Bloomfield and her daughter, Miss G. Bowerman, Toronto were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Ed. Bowerman, Wellington.

Mrs. W. H. Anderson and Miss S. E. Wellesley spent Sunday in Gilead with Miss Marjorie Blakely.

Fine Home to be Sold

Possession, one of Wellington's finest residences is for sale, the owner, Mr. MacArthur and family are removing to Oakville. The modern home was built by the late Mr. H. Bowerman, it has a lawn sloping to the street, and beside the main building has a cottage and a double garage, while the stone manor house and Tara is Hubbs.

Fashion Flashes

CERTAIN to be going places this season is a dinner or informal dance dress of black velvet. It has an off-shoulder neckline, very short sleeves, a row of tiny brilliant buttons closing the bodice, and a skirt that is slightly shorter in front than the ankle length in back.

TAKE TIME OUT in the form of that watch-handbag which has returned to the fashion scene. An exclusive bangle bracelet set with fine marcasite is used for the handle of a suede pouch, while another bag has a small round marcasite-framed watch used as a hinged clasp.

NEW IDEAS abound in costume jewelry collections. A new series is in silver and rhinestones, a pendant type, which permits the pendant to be detached when desired, leaving a dainty spray or button earring.

MATCHING hats and gloves mark the new afternoon fashions. A diadem 'calot of black Chantilly type lace criss-crossed with black velvet and trimmed with an elegant veiling type feather fancy, is teamed with a matching stole and muff with shirred black velvet in striped effect.

THE RUSTLE of crisp fabrics is the dominant note in the fashion symphony. Black silk taffeta makes a handsome afternoon suit, the skirt cut on long, moderately full lines with a long cut and big bow at the back. Under the sauq jacket is a short sleeved top of black wool jersey, worn all over with tiny taffeta balls that are pearl rimmed.

Public School Uses Guidance To Help Kids

By HORACE B. WARD

Louisville, Ky. — (AP) — A system of education, designed to prevent children from developing personalities that will handicap them later in life, is producing interesting results at the Cochran School in Louisville.

Principal Erwin Wilkerson calls it the first application of guidance — with a capital G — to elementary school pupils.

He says that the system demonstrates that happy children learn more and that it helps youngsters to adjust themselves to their world early in life.

Children at Cochran are asked: "Are you unhappy?" "Are you afraid in the dark?"; "Which pupil in your class do you like best and why?" and similar questions. Then their pleas are sifted through the more familiar class - room queries. "How much is two and two?" "Who can tell me the capital of Spain?"

Colleges and high schools for several years have practised guidance — giving a choice of courses and future vocations, and, to some extent, to the business of living. In fact, Cochran's principal and his wife, Mary Ford Detjen, have been pioneers in guidance and guidance — but, like other educators, they have not worked among older students.

They were likely to tell Detjen that guidance wouldn't work with little folks. He insisted that these pupils possessed traits which have their start in early life, guidance ought to begin early.

So in Cochran School Detjen and his teachers have made guidance a game. The children don't know they are being attacked and guided, although often the parents do.

Games, Songs, Motion

In Cochran School the children play games, make up songs and devise mottos about being careful, helpful and friendly. They sometimes list the characteristics they like in other people, but as kids at a party might name their favorite songs or movie stars.

The principal and his teachers also ask pupils to write compositions, along with ordinary lessons, the teachers suggest subjects such as "the story of my life" or "what I want to be when I grow up."

Most interesting perhaps are the personality rating charts. Opposite the names of the children are columns, headed friendly, unfriendly, grouchy, cheerful, happy, unhappy — up to a total of 25 traits and indexes of personality. Figures in the columns show the number of classmates who ascribed these characteristics to each one.

Estimates are given by each child to the teacher in confidence. The older ones write on cards. Thinker, the younger pupils may "whisper in teacher's ear." The last column shows the most significant — it lists the number of times the child would want each child for their best friend.

Children started guidance at Cochran soon after he became principal of the school in September, 1946. He says guidance already has improved the happy, well-adjusted children learn more and cause less trouble than those who are unhappy or rebellious.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"For some reason," Burton added significantly, and we all repeated this in different forms for a few minutes.

I don't know what the others were thinking; it seemed probable that Munro and Mrs. Grizell must have known something or have had their suspicions. My own thoughts would have perhaps clarified the situation for them, for only ten days earlier I had peered from the shrubbery outside and had seen the portrait slowly, obscured by dusty glass and shadows, to be sure, but intact. In the last few days, then, someone had crept in here.

"But the door was locked!" I let him know about that."

"Old Mr. Hillyard — better not," Munro agreed. "Liberty, why did you do it?" he asked.

"Don't be silly," I told him.

"Maybe the old man himself did it," offered Virginia with a brightened look.

"Now you might have something there," Burton agreed with a thoughtful stare for her.

"It would be impossible for Mr. Calhoun Hillyard to walk, for Mr. Stairs. That's absurd," Mrs. Grizell said with a little laugh. She was obviously outraged by the proposed suggestion, but she took the practical side first.

"He stumbled downstairs fast enough the day of the fire," Louise observed grimly, "and he dragged himself fast enough when we found him."

"I don't see him up on the roof," Munro explained. "I was dragging extinguishers up the ladders, and the Chinese boys had a bucket line. No one remembered him."

"He was in San Francisco, Mrs. Grizell said severely. "Or Mr. Hillyard would have known every first thought."

"There never was any danger," Louise put in briskly. "It was just the shingle that it wasn't anywhere near his wing."

"Louise was out eating blackberries, Grizell," I bear," Munro observed with a glance at her.

"I never knew anything about it until it was over," Louise defended herself warmly. "He was supposed to be asleep, and when I rushed into the front hall he was crawling upstairs.

"Perhaps one of you will tell me just why that's important now?" Mrs. Grizell demanded patiently, "if anyone is idiotic enough to believe that poor old Calhoun Hillyard came downstairs and got in here to destroy his own wife's portrait—"

"No, no," it wasn't old Cal," Munro assumed her soothingly as she paused on an indignant gasp. "Can it be repainted? Can it be restored?" I asked. No one designed any answer except a stormy glance. No, of course no such painting could be, without the model. "Have you a photograph of it?" I demanded. Everyone looked hopefully at Mrs. Grizell. She shook her head grimly.

Wonderment about the painting eclipsed any further interest we might have had in the inspection tour; it was all but concluded anyway. There was something eerie and impressive, something almost frightening, in the thought that anyone would deliberately destroy just one object in the darkened, unused dirt room, leaving everything else untouched.

"This wasn't any casual hobo from the highway," Burton opined.

We all nodded solemnly. Everyone nodded solemnly at everything. We streamed out onto the mossy, tree-shaded terrace, where ivy and purplewisteria had looped themselves unchallenged from the low branches of pines and peppers. The morning's fog had long ago given place to that hour of exquisite sunshine that compensates one for the gloom of the misty hot summer morning and the sharp winds of the afternoon.

Toronto, Sept. 11 (CP)— Dr. Dietenbaker, M.P., for Lake Centre, Sask., said Friday he plans to announce within the next 10 days the formation of a new political party under the leadership of the Federal Progressive Conservative MP, but also took the practical side first.

Arriving in Toronto this morning to speak at a service club luncheon, Dr. Diefenbaker said on Saturday he knew of at least eight "Diefs in the making" for leader of some agricultural-ing up across Canada. He will it at the Eastern Canada before making his decision, he said. He indicated the announcement would be made in Toronto.

The tall, wavy-haired M.P., sent to Progressive Conservative representative from Sask., in House of Commons, has defined ideas on future policy of his party, however.

"Taxation at its present level will result in socialism in Canada," he said. "We must reduce income taxes for the lower income brackets. The worker is finding his standard-of-living reduced. This condition does not continue for a good of the country."

Mr. Diefenbaker said party where ment today is not supreme a government established. "Above the law" in Canada is a menace. His strongest condemnation of the Gouzenko Commission was in "its departure from constitutional practice."

The provinces should be consulted always, he said. Reduction their powers by amending the British North America Act was setting up a skeleton whereby socialism could be established.

"I stand for maintenance o the constitution", he said. "Under the present governmental system, four or five bureaucratic boards are running things." He named the foreign exchange control board, the import board and the export board among these.

Nickel Steel in omobiles makes bs for Canadians

The self-propelled vehicle dates back to the 18th century. As developed by engineers and designers of the present century, motor cars have widened horizons through rolling fast, economical transportation.

Through intensive industrial research on design and terials the rugged durability of trucks and buses was proved through the use of Nickel Alloy Steels for parts bjected to heavy stress, strain and wear.

Cars became more enduringly beautiful through the use of heavy Nickel plating under that gleaming chromium finish. In the development of better Nickel alloys and improved Nickel plating methods, Nickel research laboratories gave their full co-operation.

So as a result of scientific research, more and more Nickel was used for rugged dependability, and to give 3rd Sidney—Miss Joyce Kilborn, Reg. N., of White Hall, New York was a guest at the home of Miss Jewel Bailey, Reg. N., for a few days last week-end. On Saturday they motored to Peterborough and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Grant. Mrs. Clara Bowerman, and on Monday they left for New York Miss Bailey will be returning home the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clay and Mr. Chas. May spent the weekend motoring to Hamilton and Niagara Falls and spent Monday in Toronto at the C.N.E.

Mr. and Mrs. Selburn Westover, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hubble, also Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hay and Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Detroit, spent a day last week in Kingston.

Some of the Ames' congregation attended church service at Centenary on Sunday for the special services in reopening of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Denike accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz of Thurlow, on a motor trip to Ottawa where they attended the Canadien National Exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brickman and family of Belleville spent Labor Day weekend with relatives in Rochester, New York.

Mrs. W. H. Kidd of Toronto, spent a few days of her holiday at her farm home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kalis and family motored to Toronto this week and attended the exhibition.

The much-needed rain which came on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday was welcomed by the farmers. It had become almost impossible to plow and pasture lands were very dry. Threshing is pretty well along in this district and farmers are getting a good crop of grain. Corn and tomato picking has been in full swing until the showers.

September W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lea Grills.

Pirates Have Chance to Become First Club to Climb from Cellar, Or Tie for Last, to Win Flag

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The gods are against them, but if Billy Meyer and his Pittsburgh Pirates win the National League pennant, he'll be the first manager in Major League history to reach the top with a club that finished last . . . or tied for it . . . the preceding year.

Generally picked for fifth place at the last, the second place Bucs today are three games behind the front-running Boston Braves. However, they were all even with the Hubmen in the important losing column. Each team has lost 58 games. The Braves have played and won six more games than the Pirates.

Pittsburgh picked up a half game on the Braves Sunday, defeating Chicago Cubs 7-3 while Philadelphia Phils were holding Boston to a split in their doubleheader. The Phils won the 1st 6-4 but the Braves came back to win the 2nd game nightcap 3-1.

It was a bad day for Boston as the Athletics' Connie Mack-owned Red Sox saw their first-place margin shrink a full game when they were trounced by the fourth place Philadelphia Athletics, while the runner-up Yankees and the third place Cleveland Indians won.

Red Sox Whipped

Staging a six-run ninth inning rally, the A's whipped the Red Sox 10-6 to cut Boston's lead to two games over the Yankees, and 2½ over the Indians. The Yanks also trounced the Senators in Washington 10-5. The Indians defeated St. Louis Browns 4-1 in the first game of their doubleheader in Cleveland. The second game ended in a 3-3 tie with darkness ending the contest after 12 innings. The two teams will replay the game today, which originally was an off day for both clubs.

In the other American League game, home runs by Tony Lupien, Don Kolloway and Eddie Robinson helped Chicago White Sox defeat Detroit Tigers 5-2.

Old Ed Rewell, 40-year-old righthander, hung up the Pirates' seventh straight win Sunday, limiting the clubs to five hits. The Pirates collected only eight hits but took advantage of 14 bases on balls gained by four Cub hurlers. Four walks arrived with the bases loaded.

Gives a Standoff

Al Dark's daring base-running gave the Braves a standoff in their twin bill. The rookie Boston shortstop stayed off Max Surkont in the 1st to the top half of the 13th inning, raced all the way to third on Bob Elliott's sacrifice, and scored the winning run when Bill Salkeld followed with a long fly.

St. Louis Cardinals moved into third place a half game over Brooklyn and New York, nosing out Cincinnati Reds 7-6. Marty Marion's home run in the tie-breaking run in the last half of the eighth to give relief pitcher Howie Pollett his 12th victory.

The Giants threw another monkey wrench into Brooklyn's pennant plans, defeating the Dodgers 5-3 for their seventh win in their last nine starts against Brooklyn.

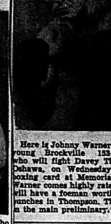
A crowd of 29,100 saw the A's overcome a 3-1 deficit to gain their seventh win in 11 games at Fenway Park. Carl Scheib went the route for his 13th triumph.

Cote Finishes Fourth Behind Johnny Kelley

New York, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Three Canadians won prizes in the National Amateur Athletic Union marathon championship won Sunday by 41-year-old John Kelley of West Acton, Mass.



Kelly who covered the rolling course of 26 miles 385 yards in two hours, 48 minutes and 33 seconds, was chased closely up to the 22nd mile by Gerard Cote of Montreal — three - time winner of the event.

Cote, of Ste. Rosalie, Que., then dropped back to finish fourth, leading a group of eight Canadian starters in the field of 104. The time for the 35-year-old client smoking cop was 3.03.36.

In sixth place was Lloyd Evans of Montreal who ran 16th — one ahead of Cote — in the Olympic Marathon at London this summer.

Kelley coasted home almost 11 minutes in front of Charles Robbins of Manchester, Conn. Harry Murphy of New York was third and fifth place went to Andrew Neddig of New York.

Other Canadian finishers were: Ab Norton, Galt, 18; Lucien Jolin, Montreal, 23th; Art Wilson, 41st; Peter Gough, Toronto, 49th; and Percy Such, Windsor, 45th.

JOHNNY WARNER

Here is Johnny Warner, popular young Brockville 153-pounder who will fight Davey Thompson, Oshawa, on Wednesday night's boxing card at Memorial Arena. Warner comes highly rated but he still have a foeman worthy of his punches in Thompson. They fight in the main preliminary.

Ontario Golfers Retain War Cup From US Linksmen

(By The Canadian Press)

Eight Ontario professional golfers Saturday retained the Ward Trophy by defeating a team from the New York State 14-0 in singles competition and 8-4 in a best-ball foursome.

Jack Littler of Oakdale topped the field with 69 over the Hamilton Ancaster course, one under par. Dick Borthwick of Ancaster and Alex Greer of Buffalo split second prize money with 71 each. Lou Cumming of Toronto won the fourth place with 72.

Other Canadians were Bob Burns of Erie Downs, Bill Chinsky of Burlington and Elmer Blower of Weston, all 73; and Bob Kennedy, Jack Gordon and Don Brydson of Toronto Missisauga, each 77.

Behind Greer on the American team were Frank Comino of Rochester, 74; Les O'Grady, Buffalo, George Batke, Buffalo, each 75; Joe Zavodny, Jack Gordon and George Smith, Buffalo, each 77; and George Vanden-Vrul, Rochester, 78.

The Sporting News Saturday named Ritchie Ashburn, 21-year-old outfielder of Philadelphia Phillies, as the Major League rookie of the year.

Ashburn was cited for his .32 batting average, 189 hitting, 6 "thrilling catches, 7 "unbelievable" throws and "strong throwing."

Owen Sound Crescents defeated Hamilton Mercuries 12-8 Saturday to Owen Sound in the third game of their best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association senior playoff round to advance and lead the series 2-1. The fourth game will be played at Milnico.

Martin Reisman of New York Saturday night defeated Di Miller of New York, top-ranking United States table-tennis player, for the Canadian championship at the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto.

With a rapid-fire style that kept Miller on balance, Reisman edged the quarter-finalist in the world tournament at London, 17-21, 21-16, 21-19, 20-22, 21-13 to win the Canadian Open singles title.

N. A. Reich of Hamilton Saturday won the 225 Class in the Canadian and International Motorboat Championships at the Canadian National Exhibition. His best time in three heats was 5:42 minutes.

In second place was Ed Pine of Belleville, and third went to Charles Fairlie of Hamilton.

Charlie Conacher, coach of Chicago Black Hawks, said Saturday fourteen players have signed their 1948-49 contracts with the Hockey Broadway League team. They include Gaye Stewart, high scoring winger, and Bill Mosienko, winger who missed most of last season through a broken ankle. Conacher is en route to Moose Jaw, Sask., where the Hawks amateur school opens Monday.

After St. Catharines tied 7-8 with an Ontario All-Star junior lacrosse team at St. Catharines Saturday, the two teams were scheduled to meet in the second game of a two-game total point series tonight.

They'll Do It Every Time

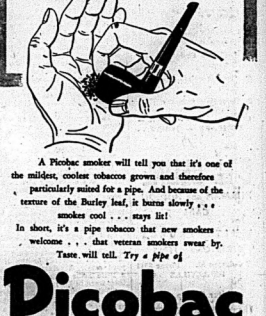
Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 — (AP) — Some day Jimmy Conzelman would like to get a doctor to explain to him what it is about the human system that requires a man to get slightly steamed up before he can play a good game of football . . . Almost a man of many talents is afraid he may run out of ways to brig his Chicago Cardinals "up" before the end of the long pro football season . . . "It's a fact that you can't play good football if you're calm going into a game," says Conzelman.

"But you can't get your team aroused emotionally for every game. The reaction is too great. You have to use different methods."

Psychology Lesson



The Cards have played three games so far and here's how Conzelman made his mental preparations . . . The Chicago All-star game was simple he says. He merely employed the method of "weeping," method with redoubled emphasis . . . "Every time Leahy would say we'd beat his team by 50 points I'd talk about our injuries and say the All-stars would win by 60 . . . For the Denver exhibition against the Washington Redskins, I just told them if you're a good team you can turn it on or off like a light. Let's see if you can turn it on."

Last Saturday's Inquirer game against the Eagles here presented a different problem. It was scheduled originally for Friday following a Monday game in Denver and a long train ride . . . "I just told them it was a game. . . I had to play under such conditions and I didn't care if they did lose by 50 points . . .

Naturally they turned on me and said they didn't . . . lost." . . . PS. They didn't. . .

Boxing Promoter Murray Swarts has arranged another bang-up boxing card for Wednesday evening at the Arena with the up-and-coming popular young fighter Chief Emerson Charles again appearing in the main bout. He will cross fight rapiers with starry young Pete Kolasat of Toronto-who has an outstanding reputation as a leather-slinger. Charles has been going great guns of late and last week scored a victory over the well-known Gus Rabbiai, his last fight as an amateur. This bout has all the earmarks of a colorful bout and should be a swell entertainment for the faithful.

YOUTH DEPENDS ON YOU FOR GUIDANCE

Today's youngsters are tomorrow's leaders. Canada's future depends on them. Anything you can do, by personal example or by directing youthful enthusiasm along useful channels . . . is a service to our country. Perhaps you can give some of your time to coaching a neighborhood hockey or baseball club—or to organizing a hobby group. You'll get a real kick out of this good work and genuine appreciation from the young people themselves. In addition, you'll be teaching them "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Peterborough Marines Win C.O.B.A. Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor Ryancrete edged London Majors 13-10 at Windsor Sunday to win their Senior Canada baseball Association best-of-seven playoff series at two games apiece. London won the opener 10-9 at home Saturday.

Five other senior final and semi - final games and three junior games were played in Ontario over the weekend.

More than 4,000 fans saw the Windsor - London tilt at Windsor. The slugfest produced 31 hits and 16 errors. Each team collected at least one hit in every inning except the seventh.

Windsor, winner of the Detroit Baseball Federation class A title, bunged to a three-run lead over the present Ontario champions in the first inning. London went ahead in the third, dropped behind again in the fifth and stayed behind for the rest of the game.

Peterborough Marines Sunday revenged Kingston Lions 13-8 at Kingston, to capture the Central Ontario Baseball League championship. Peter won the series 3-1. Marines now advance into the Ontario Baseball Association junior A playdowns and they'll meet an Ottawa team in their opening game.

Galt Terriers won over Brantford Red Sox at Brantford Saturday necessitated a seventh game to decide the final series for the Intercounty Baseball Association senior "B" title. The deciding game is scheduled for Monday night at Galt.

Series In Final

Carleton Buzzers moved into the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League finals Sunday at Sudbury when they shinaled Copper Cliff Redmen 5-1 in the last of a best-of-five semi-finals series. Buzzers won the series 3-2. The Buzzers will meet the Sudbury Spots in the league finals.

The best-of-seven series for the Nickel Belt championship, the first game is slated for Monday.

Porcupine Combines need out Mointyre Macmen 2-1 after 10 innings at Timmins Sunday to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five Timmitaming Baseball League playoff series.

Pete Palangio's North Bay Dodgers won the senior "B" Northland championship at Kirkland Lake Sunday when they whipped Kirkland Lake Queen's Hotelmen 8-4. It was the Dodgers' second straight victory.

Whitby Saturday defeated Gananoque 3-2 at Napanee, to win their Ontario Baseball Association Junior B playoff series 2-1. Each team had previously lost 1-0 at home.

Windsor Cardinals blanked Owen Sound Crescents 5-0 at Owen Sound Sunday in the first game of their best-of-three O. B. A. Junior "A" playoffs.

Joe Bechard's Pee Wee All stars advanced to the final round of the O. B. A. playoffs when they lambasted Sarnia K-Motors 20-1 in a semi - final tussle at London Saturday. London won the first game of the series 11-4 at Sarnia and came back to swamp the Sarnians on their own home ground.

London will now meet the winners of the eastern group for the O. B. A. championship. The eastern winner has not been decided.

Here is Johnny Warner, popular young Brockville 133-pounder who will fight Davey Thompson, Oshawa, on Wednesday night's boxing card at Memorial Arena. Warner comes highly rated but he will have a foeman worthy of his punches in Thompson. They fight in the main preliminary.

Ontario Golfers Retain War Cup From US Linksmen

(By The Canadian Press)

Eight Ontario professional golfers Saturday retained the Ward Trophy by defeating a team from Ne w York State 14-0 in singles competition and 8-4 in a best-ball foursome.

Jack Littler of Oakdale topped the field with 69 over the Hamilton Ancaster course, one under par. Dick Borthwick of Ancaster and Alex Greer of Buffalo split second prize money with 72 each. Lou Cumming of Toronto won the fourth place with 73.

Other Canadians were Bob Burns of Erie Downs, Bill Chinery of Burlington and Elmer Blower of Weston, all 75; and Bob Gray of Scarboro and Gordon Bryden of Toronto Missisauga, each 77.

Behind Greer on the American team were Frank Comisso of Rochester, 74; Leo O'Grady, Buffalo, George Batke, Buffalo, each 76; Joe Zavodny, Jack Gordon and George Smith, Buffalo, each 77, and George Vanden-Vrul, Rochester, 78.

The Sporting News Saturday named Ritchie Ashburn, 21-year-old outfielder of Philadelphia Phillies, as the Major League rookie of the year.

Ashburn was cited for his 32 stolen bases, his .333 hitting, some "thrilling catches, fast thinking and strong throwing."

Owen Sound Crescents defeated Mimico Mounties 13-8 Saturday at Owen Sound in the third game of their best-of-seven Ontario Lacrosse Association senior playoff round. Mounties lead the series 2-1. The fourth game will be played at Mimico.

Martin Reisman of New York Saturday night defeated D. Miller of New York, top-ranking United States table tennis player, for the Canadian championship at the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto.

With a rapid-fire style that kept Miller off balance, Reisman edged the Toronto-Finalist in the world tournament at London 21-11, 21-15, 20-22, 21-15 to win the Canadian Open singles title.

H. A. Hatch of Hamilton Saturday won 225 Class in the Canadian and International Motorboat Championships at the Canadian National Exhibition. His best time in three heats was 5:42 minutes.

In second place was Ed Pine of Belleville, and third went to Charles Fairlie of Hamilton.

Charlie Conacher, coach of Chicago Black Hawks, and Saturday fourteen players have signed their 1952-53 contracts with the National Hockey League team. They include Gordie Stewart, high scoring winger, and Bill Mosienko, winger who missed most of last season through a broken ankle. Conacher is en route to Moose Jaw, Sask., where the Hawks amateur school opens Monday.

After St. Catharines tied '8-8 with an Ontario All-Star junior lacrosse team at St. Catharines Saturday night, the Ontario Lacrosse Association announced the names of four players to be added to the St. Catharines team for the Dominion play-offs.

Speedy Irish, two-year-old by Swift and Sure out of Mallycois, won the third renewal of the Clarendon Plate at the opening Saturday of the Thoroughbred Racing Association's fall meeting, at Toronto.

Making himself a favorite for the later two-year-old features, the Coronation Stakes and Cup and Saucer, speedy Irish covered the six furlongs in 1.13 4-5.

Montreal Carrisel handed Canadair Falcons a 6-2 defeat in Montreal Saturday and virtually assured themselves of first place in the Quebec section of the National Soccer League.

Carrisel and Falcons now are tied in points but the Steel have one more game to play. A victory or a draw against Stelco next Saturday will send the Dominion champions against the Ontario section winners.

How Nickel Steel in automobiles makes jobs for Canadians
The self-propelled vehicle dates back to the 18th century. As developed by engineers and designers of the present century, motor cars have widened horizons through providing fast, economical transportation.
Through intensive industrial research on design and materials the rugged durability of trucks and buses was improved through the use of Nickel Alloy Steels for parts subjected to heavy stress, strain and wear.
Cars became more enduringly beautiful through the use of heavy Nickel plating under that gleaming chromium finish. In the development of better Nickel alloys and improved Nickel plating methods, Nickel research laboratories gave their full co-operation.
So as a result of scientific research, more and more Nickel was used for rugged dependability, and to give gleaming beauty to passenger cars.
Today the automotive industry is the largest single user of Canadian Nickel. This market for Canadian Nickel has created jobs for a large number of Canadians.
Thus does research develop better products, create more employment.

Aleksey Dupert knew a little knowledge for a dangerous thing. He imposes the half-acre manoeuvres of experts. But he relegiects to employ their methods of follow-up.

It takes a clever and knowing player to sidestep a rule. Not only must he know when it is safe. He must know how to warn partner that a ruse has been attempted.

True requirements for an opening one bid are five tricks, four high cards, to sure tricks. Some experts open with less in the first two hands have passed. Not that it is a good policy.

When they do, however, they shorten their backwing. They pass their second opportunity by bid. Even if the response from partner is encouraging. This warns that the opening is light.

The light opening usually lacks sure or high cards. Opener may have suit length. If so, he is short in some suits. Frequently he is short in the suit labeled bespoken by partner.

It takes restraint to pass an encouraging response. Instead of bidding back, Aleksey tries to coerce that. As a result, partner is encouraged to believe the opening was sound.

North held this hand:

♠X 9 8 6 2
♥K 7 5
♦None
♣K J 7 4 3

When south and west passed, north opened with a spade. It is not a true opening with only three high and two sure. South made a response of two diamonds, as north should have expected.

North should have passed two diamonds, awaiting some action from opponents. He could then bid clubs, if necessary. This would have warned partner that his opening was not true in some item.

But north promptly rescued with three clubs. It encouraged his partner to go very deeply their depth. From such kind of business comes the worst kind of sicknesses.

The Movie Column

By RALPH DIGHTON

Hollywood, Sept. 13 (AP)—Bob Hope hits the air waves tomorrow night with a new show, new cast, new product and a new title.

"It's a whole new deal," says Hope, "practically a new deck — everything's new but the joker.

"I may even find I'm talking to a new audience. For the first time in 10 years, the program's been stepped up one hour—to 6 p.m. here on the coast. That's 9 p.m. in the east and means we may catch a lot of those people who used to move through my show without bothering to turn the radio on. I used to be 10 o'clock in the east when my show went on the air, and lots of people back there got to bed at 9.30 come hope or high water."

Tomorrow night there'll be not Jerry Colonna, no Vera Vague, not even the opening monologue which long has been Hope's trademark. Instead there will be the new movie property, Duke Day, who was a top-flight radio song-writer even before Hope had to stop making cracks about Crosby's girth. And Les Brown's orchestra —with heavy emphasis on a new street piano section. And a new baritone, Bill Farrell.

Sentimental Less

"There'll be a sentimental touch with Jerry and Vera gone," Hope said. "But we think the show wants a whole new show and we're doing our best to give it to them." Last year Hope's hooper rating took a dip for the first time in seven years.

"This year the show's so new it may even stink," he says. "But it's worse comes to worst, we still have Hope."

So thorough-going is the change over that Hope has let eight writers go—men who had been with him a long time.

"I've got six new boys now, with a lot of fresh ideas. The whole framework is different. We're depending more on situations comedy, than just straight gags. It used to be that one writer would do one gag, and another would do a different spot. Now we're criss-crossing the scripts, so that every writer gets a chance to say his piece about every spot."

NAPANEE AWARD GAME

Napanee, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Napanee Athletics were awarded the International title, B. A. playoff round from Phil Stein's Leaside entry Saturday when the Toronto team defaulted the second game. Napanee won the first game in Toronto 8-1. Officials of the Leaside Club could not be by telephone they were unable to muster a team. N. H. L. players Red Hamill, Art Jackson and Harry Watson were in the Leaside lineup for the first game.

Billion Dollar Farm Production Seen in Ontario

London, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP) — Agriculture must progress because it is the "backbone of the prosperity of all our people," Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Agriculture Minister said today in officially opening the week-long West-ern Fair here.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the fair's post-war revival, Col. Kennedy said persons in towns and cities "cannot have a high standard of living unless the farm people are prosperous."

Farm production in Ontario will reach the billion dollar mark this year, he said, compared with an value 10 years ago of $319,000,000 and one year ago of $653,000,000.

The Western Ontario farming area "makes a substantial contribution to the stability of farming in Ontario."

In outlining the progress of farming in the area Col. Kennedy said the progress has been "revolutionary." Over the last 10 years farmers have reduced interest on farm mortgages to less than half and have greatly increased their investments in machinery.

Training School Boy Killed

Hamilton, Sept. 13 (CP)—A 15-year-old boy from Kingston, said day, wasto have escaped from the Bowmanville Training School Saturday, was killed early Sunday on the Ancaster Highway near here. Provincial Police said that on request from the Bowmanville authorities they were not releasing the boy's name.

Police said the boy was struck by a driver who failed to stop. Dr. A. L. Speer of Ancaster announced the boy dead and the body was removed to the morgue at the Hamilton General Hospital.

China in Midst Social Revolution Says Young Chiang

By ROY ESSOYAN

Shanghai, Sept. 13 (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Chiang Ching-Kuo, Russian-educated son of China's President, told a cheering throng today that China is "in the midst of social revolution."

"Our remedy economic policy is a socialistic revolutionary movement," said Chiang Kai-Shek's son in a blunt attack on "unpatriotic" business men," in particular and wealthy Chinese in general.

During the last three weeks, young Chiang has been Shanghai's economic czar—carrying out his father's stringent stop-inflation decrees. He has had more than 100 bankers and business men arrested.

However, prices have continued to rise—in some cases more than 100 per cent.

In his speech to members of the "youth army" at the municipal athletic hall, young Chiang told the wildly-applauding crowd:

"A few rich people, who made thousands and thousands of gold yuan through the erection. and subsequent sale of Metropolitan residences in the western district of Shanghai have increased their fortunes on the blood and tears of the toiling masses of the city.

His speech was the most outspoken admission of a switch to the left in the Generalissimo's policy since his father's assumption of "rule by decree" Aug. 19.

Resume Building Of Cathedral On Small Scale

Guildford, Surrey, England, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Work on the new Anglican cathedral which stands on Stag Hill, overlooking Guildford, is to be resumed on a small scale after being suspended during the war.

Permission has been given to roof the south transept, above the children's chapel, at a cost of £4,500 ($18,000). The original building was started in 1936 and was almost one-third completed when war broke out in 1939. Work since then has been confined to maintenance.

The land about the cathedral was donated by the late Viscount Bennett "to commemorate the association between Canada and the Diocese of Guildford in two world wars," and Vernon Hill, a sculptor, now is engaged on a tablet which is a memorial to his gift.

Canadian bishops who attended the recent Lambeth Conference were taken on a tour of the cathedral by the Bishop Guildford.

FIVE HOTELS RAIDED

Sudbury, Sept. 13 (CP)— Ontario Provincial Police Saturday night raided five hotels on Manitoulin Island and seized quantities of beer.

Fourteen officers under direction of Inspector T. Wilkinson of Sudbury, assisted by a sergeant from Toronto headquarters, carried out the raids at three hotels at Little Current and two at Sandy Ilswaning. An average of four to six persons were in each of the places visited. More than 200 cases of beer were loaded on trucks and taken away by the police.

The police declined to say whether charges would follow the raids. Manitoulin is dry under the Canadian Temperance Act, which prohibits sale of beer and liquor.

MORE NERVES THAN GUTS

The life of a would-be burglar is not it is cracked up to be, and if you want proof, take a gander at 22-year-old James McLaughlin who tried to rob two women in an apartment in New York, lost his nerve when they yelled for help, and then promptly fainted when the women identified him as their would-be assailant. Here is detectives who picked up McLaughlin, haul the insensible prisoner away for booking on a burglary charge.

ASKED TO DO SOMETHING

Prescott, Sept. 13 — (CP)—A coroner's jury Friday told Ontario's Department of Highways it should do something immediately about "Dead Man's Curve."

It recommended removal of the "dangerous condition" which exists on No. 2 Highway a half mile east of here.

It was inquiring into the deaths of William Marshall and Phillip Daly, two Detroit men, who were killed there Sept. 1 when their car collided with a trailer-transport.

GREAT JUMPER

Racers Injured In Spectacular Accidents

Windsor, Sept. 13 (CP)—Two Detroit men were injured in spectacular accidents at the Windsor speedway Saturday night. Both were treated in hospital.

The first casualty came in the "helmet dash" in which winning drivers in the first three preliminaries "hot rod" races competed against each other. Robert Stickley's autocoupe crashed wheels with another racer and went over an embankment into a barbed wire fence.

In the crash he suffered a broken nose, broken teeth in the lower jaw and cuts and lacerations about the face.

Even more spectacular was the mishap to Marion Siroka, who suffered a dislocated vertebra, severe concussion and lacerations about the head.

Siroka, who had just set a track record, was crowded into the fence and his racer leaped over the obstacle, bounced high in the air and crashed against the protective upside down.

With the final impact, the crash bar protecting the driver broke and Siroka was thrown clear of the car, which rolled over on top of him.

Claims Bernonville Saved His Life After Dieppe Raid

Montreal, Sept. 13 (CP)—Antoine A. Masson, former army major who was captured in the Dieppe raid and later escaped from a prisoner-of-war camp, said Sunday night that "Count De Bernonville saved my life and that of my Mountbatten's right-hand man, Lt.-Cmdr. Michael Redvers Prior."

Count Jacques Dudge De Bernonville, under sentence of death in France for alleged wartime collaborationist activities, has been ordered deported by the Canadian government for entering Canada with a false passport.

He managed to stall deportation proceedings by obtaining a writ of Habeas Corpus which would make the government show cause for the deportation order. The writ will be heard in a Montreal court Tuesday.

Masson, 36, said he has been asked to testify on the Count's behalf at Tuesday's hearing.

Masson said he participated in the Dieppe raid in August, 1942, when he was wounded and taken prisoner. After escaping from the Germans, he was taken by Vichy authorities in unoccupied France and later placed in a camp at Schmanzan, Isere.

It was here, according to Mr. Masson, that he and Lt.-Cmdr. Prior were permitted to escape in a simulated break under the orders of Count De Bernonville.

The day the Germans entered unoccupied France, he said, "we just walked out of the camp. We were protected by Vichy and kept from the hands of the Germans."

From the camp commander, Masson said, he learned that it had been on the express orders of Count De Bernonville, through a General Mere, officer in charge of the district, that they had been permitted to escape. Lt.-Cmdr. Prior, who was in charge of landing operations during the Dieppe raid, had been placed in charge of the camp, while Masson was second in command.

Little Benny's Note Book

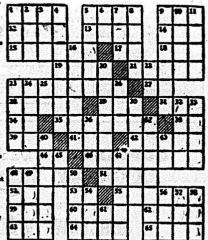
Us fellows were standing outside the firehouse watching Mr. Riley polishing his hooken ladder, and Skinny Martin came up excited, saying, Oh boy, fellows, you ought to of saw what I just saw. Reddy Merfy's ant kissed him rite in the frunt of his face in frunt of his house, and Reddy didn't do a thing to stop her. I bet he dont even know anybody saw it happen, he said.

Gosh, it's a wonder he let her do it, with his disposition, I said, and Shorty said, He probably couldn't help himself, did you ever see that ant of his?

I've saw her, Sid Hunt said. She's a big square lady with a mad face, and I bet if she ever made up her mind to kiss a guy, I bet he'd either have to let her do it or elst get a slap in the face, he said. Oh boy, here he comes now, let's kid him about it, he said.

Which just then Reddy came up, and Isaid, High, Reddy, how's your ant?

Heh? What ant? Why? Who wants to know? What about her? Redy sdaid, looking half suspicious and half mad, and Sid Hunt said, Oh, nuthing, we were just wondering if you had saw her lately.



Well what of it, even if I did? Reddy said, and Skinny Martin said, Cant we even wonder about your unkle?

Can we wonder about your cousin? Glasses Magee said, and Reddy said, Hay, how would you guys like to wonder about a good stiff punch in the snoot and suddinly find it coming true?

The result being we quick changed the subject different.

Montreal Alouettes Topple Ottawa Rough Riders 11-8 In Biggest Upset of Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Football got down to large-scale business during the weekend at the opening of the venerable Ontario Rugby Football Union matches. There was action among 10 of the 11 teams who are in the hunt for the Grey Cup this season.

The biggest upset in the five Saturday games was the win of Montreal Alouettes toppled Ottawa Rough Riders from the unbeaten rank — leaving only Toronto Argonauts, Calgary Stampeders, Toronto Beaches Indians and Hamilton Tigers with undefeated status.

The Stampeders were idle Saturday when Winnipeg Blue Bombers edged Saskatchewan Roughriders 16-13 in the only Western Canada league game. But the Stamps lay their four-game victory streak on the line tonight at home against the second-place Blue Bombers.

Even more unexpected than Montreal's 11-8 victory over Ottawa in the Big Four League was the suspicious beginning of Hamilton in their first season in the O.R.F.U. in 40 years. The Tigers, who got the Big Four in the off season, swamped Windsor Rockets 49-1, largely on the pass-pitching of Frankie Filchock.

Argos Team to Beat

The Argos showed they will be the team to beat for their fourth straight Dominion title when they came from behind Fred Frank Cmcp's Wildcats, 25-13, at Toronto. It was the champions third victory without a loss and sets the stage for a great battle when they clash for the first time with Ottawa at Toronto next Saturday.

Ted Reeve's Beaches Indians got off on the right foot at Sarnia when they defeated the Imperials 8-3 to move into a first-place tie in the O.R.F.U. with the Tigers.

An outside kick, a play almost pushed out of football by the forward passing era, decided the Combies' victory. Veteran Bobby Porter lifted the kick over the goal-line where Johnny Lake took it for a third-quarter touchdown that beat Don Greenwood.

The Imperials, who made an unexpectedly good stand with their razzle-dazzle ball-control after the University of Western Ontario had held a first-half up until then on singles kicked by Andy Sokol against one punted by Porter. The burly Porter booted another single to end the scoring at 11-3 in the third quarter.

Argos spotted Wildcats a 13-1 lead in the second quarter and scored 24 straight points for their victory before a Variety Stadium crowd of about 12,000. The champions trailed 13-7 at halftime and took the lead with a 13-point spree in the third quarter, adding three more in the fourth. Quarterback Keith Creighton converted and two singles — on one of which the ball soared and rolled 72 yards to the Wildcats' goal line. The other two touchdowns were scored by Pete Tinsley and Royal Copeland while Ted Courtney and George Reed combined to bring Jim Oldenburg down for a safety touch.

The Wildcats ran up 10 touchdowns against Windsor before a slim crowd of 2,000 at Hamilton. Filchock threw five forwards for touchdowns, three of them to Jack Stewart who topped individual scorers with his 15 points. Harry Walsh and Jack Harper each scored two majors.

Alouettes took advantage of Ottawa miscues to turn in their first victory in three starts in the Big Four. Playing before about 11,000 fans at Ottawa, the Montrealers used Rider fumbles into a touchdown by Keith English in the first quarter and Rider miscues to bill Tooky in the second. When Chez McCance converted this one, it ended their scoring.

Toronto Leafs Miss Playoffs By Half Game

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal's well-rested Royals ran as favorites today to win the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs and a big chunk of the $30,000 -player's pool.

The league ended its regular season Sunday and the playoffs were scheduled to start tomorrow night. The Royals, who clinched the flag Sept. 5, will be idled while the terrain the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings while the runner-up Newark Bears play host to the third - place Syracuse Chiefs in the other semi-final round.

Both series are best-of-seven affairs with the winners clashing in the final round in another best-of-seven set to determine the leagues representative in the junior Ocelot Series against the American Association's playoff winner.

The Royals, who already have earned $10,000 of the playoff money by winning the pennant, will pick up another ten grand if they top the playoffs. The team that loses out in the final round will receive $5,000 while the two teams eliminated in the first round, will receive $3,500 apiece.

Both the Chiefs and Wings clinched their berths Sunday. The Chiefs divided a twin bill with the Bears, winning the opener 4-3 and losing the finale 2-1. The Wings, although beaten by the Buffalo Bisons 6-3, finished a half game ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs who divided a doubleheader with Montreal. The Leafs took the first game 9-4 but the Royals grabbed the finale 7-5 to eliminate the Leafs.

Home runs decided both games between Montreal and Syracuse. In the opener, Austin Knickerbocker homered with one on in the ninth to give the Chiefs victory. Jay Novikoff's 15th round - tripper with a mate aboard in the 4th decided the nightcap in favor of the Bears.

Three - run homers by Hank Biasatti and Bill Serena Hartford and some fine relief pitching by Al Porto highlighted Tuesday night's game triumph over Montreal. The Royals scored five runs in the first inning to sew up the night cap but were forced to call on their ace, Lou Sockalexis, when the Leafs staged a threat in the ninth. With two on and none out, Sockalexis relieved Walt Nothe and retired the next three batters.

The Jersey City Giants took a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles, 7-4 and 5-0 in the remaining games.

WHITBY TAKES GANANOQUE

Napanee, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP)— Don Yuill's triple to right field, scoring Ken McDonald in the eighth was the margin of victory when Whitby defeated Gananoque 9-2 in the deciding game of their O. D. A. Intermediate A baseball series here Saturday. Each team had previously lost 1-0 at home.

Jockey Britt Vindicated In Eyes of Sportsmen

Doncaster, Yorkshire, England, Sept. 13 (CP)—The most thoroughly vindicated sportsman in England today who has emerged from under a cloud to become the toast of the turf world is jockey Edgar Britt.

Still ringing in his ears are the thunderous cheers of 250,000 fans who saw him ride Black Tarquin, owned by William Woodward of New York, to victory Saturday's St. Leger, worth more than £18,000 ($72,000)—the richest event ever witnessed on the British turf during the St. Leger stakes is no new thrill for Britt. He did it last year on Sayajirao.

Britt, Australian born, had been prominent on Indian race tracks before the war as a jockey for the Maharajah of Baroda's stable there and came to England as the Potentate's aide-de-camp and personal favorite in 1945. When the war ended the Maharajah Marshalls moved onto the British turf in a big way, Edgar signed on and began his first-string jockey.

It came as a shock to turfmen when it was announced that Baroda was not renewing his contract with Britt for 1948 and had instead retained veteran Charlie Smirke as No. 1 rider.

Losing His Ability Claim

The most common story was that chunky Edgar, now past 38, was finding it increasingly difficult to make the racing weight and consequent attempts to keep off pounds were weakening his riding ability.

When the new season opened, there didn't seem much to justify this view. But Britt and Derby's aging ace began piling up winners as in the past. The St. Leger victory was his 108th of the year leaving him second in the jockey's table behind champion Gordon Richards with 166. Smirke currently is fourth with 86 victories to his credit.

As he did on Sayajirao last year, he made his move at just the right moment in Saturday's race and rated a furlong or so from the finish line and then held onto the lead.

The effort had to be perfectly timed for Black Tarquin was considered a horse of doubtful staying ability and Derby's aging second-place Alycidon, which had made an early running, appeared to be closing ground again at Britt's sallied under the wire with a length-and-a-half margin.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By DON HUNT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Sept. 13 (CP)— The 1948 racing season in Montreal ended last week but racing fans who were at Blue Bonnets last Aug. 31, will remember one race for a long time.

For on that day, relates Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, was taken "the most remarkable picture of the racing season, probably a record of its kind for any track in the world."

The picture was taken to decide whether a horse had fallen before crossing the finish line or after crossing the finish line. If the horse —Any How—fell after crossing the line, he won second money, and bettors who wagered on his chances to be second or third would be paid off.

"Everyone," Elmer says, "thought the horse had fallen after crossing the line. That went for three stewards, three judges and two expert charimakers who had the picture of the horses at various points in the race.

"But everybody was wrong. The fall was faster than the eye. One judge happened to be just a trifle doubtful, thought it better to confirm the finish by a camera. And, to the amazement of one and all, and hotly disputed by one or two, the camera showed that Any How had fallen a few feet before reaching the finish line, had slid across on his back hoofs in the scorching his jockey across in front."

Good or Bad?

Several sport fans and writers have denounced the playoff system in hockey and minor baseball. But at least one scribe considers the post-season series a good idea.

Elmer Ferguson, thinking of the scoring race, says: "Imagine what in the International League this season, says the close fight is a great vindication of the play-off plan."

"If it wasn't for the interest developing from the great three-team battle for fourth place in the International League, turnstiles would have been as idle as league cities would have been idle."

Anglers Against Pollution Of Lakes, Streams

Owen Sound, Sept. 13 (CP) — Executive of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters at a meeting here Sunday passed a resolution strongly urging prohibition of pollution of lakes and streams by industries and municipalities.

The resolution said the pollution is considered a serious menace not only to fish and game, but also to the health of residents.

President H.V. Sutton of Windsor mentioned a recent judgment against the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment company concerning pollution of the Spanish River, a judgment which has affected that company, and said "the Federation feels it would be most desirable that existing conditions were allowed to continue."

Mr. Sutton declared: "The Federation insists that the establishment of laws in regard to water pollution be rigidly enforced."

Pollution is being studied by an international joint committee sitting at Windsor in the near future with regard to conditions in international waters of the province.

Kingston Beaten By Peterborough In COBL Final

Kingston, Sept. 13 (CP)—Peterborough Marines Saturday swamped Kingston Locos 13-6, to capture the finals of the Central Ontario Baseall League, three wins to one. Marines advance into the OBA senior A playdowns, while Locos go into senior B playdowns, meeting an Ottawa team in the first round.

Jack Stone didn't have enough on top the Locos batters, was finally shelled from the mound in the third frame. Sam Mulholland, who finished, pitched only one earned run.

Peterborough jumped into a six-run lead in the first inning, hitting Stone's offerings freely, and being aided by some indifferent fielding by Locos. Crowe's long drive to centre bounced over Ferguson's head for a two-run homer. Pagett also homered in this frame with two aboard.

Mackness was the fielding star at his catch of Udall's liner in the third inning pulling Gunner Whitehill out a bad hole. Gunner took over the Peterborough hurling in the final two frames. Lorne Ferguson starred for the losers.

Largest Crowd In C.N.E. History Recorded This Year

Toronto, Sept. 13 (CP)—The world's largest fair Saturday scored its greatest box office success with 2,612,000 paid admissions for 14 days, Canadian National Exhibition officials said today.

The big show, which concluded Saturday, recorded its single record attendance day since opening Aug. 27, with 257,400 through the gates, against 232,000 on the same day last year. The 1948 total also compared with 2,360,000 in 1947, previous record.

Besides the afternoon and night-ly shows before the new $3,500,-000 stadium, the crowds were bulled by the National Horse Show in the Coliseum, the jammed midway shows, the top products of science, industry and agriculture displayed in buildings with 2,250,000 feet of floor space.

For farmers the $123,000 in prizes given for agricultural products in the judging ring proved a main pull. The farmers took over the show on Sept. 8, Agriculturists' Day, when an immense parade of Ontaries finest live stock closed out the agricultural portion of the show.

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto suggested to the C.N.E. directors at their Saturday luncheon that the fair remain open three weeks instead of two. He also suggested building a huge auditorium which would help attract the biggest conventions to Toronto and aid in making greater use of the buildings during the rest of the year.

Deloro Workers At Refinery Given Pay Boost

Negotiations between the Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers, Local 239 and the management of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company have resulted in a new three-year contract that calls for increased pay boosts and a voluntary check off.

Company and union officials agreed on a 44-hour work week with an hourly increase of fifteen cents as of September 1st, 1948.

Prior to the present settlement the company paid a five per cent bonus every three months and this is to continue until the termination of the contract. Workers at the four two twelve and twelve to eight shifts have been granted an additional three cent an hour bonus.

Time-and-a-half will be paid to workers working more than forty-four hours a week, and day-shift employees will receive time and a half pay for Saturday afternoon and Sunday, provided they have completed a 44-hour week.

Double time rates are to be paid for work done on Saturday and holidays.

TELLS OF BERLIN RIOTS

—Central Press Canadian

Dr. Friedensburg, chief acting burgomaster of Berlin, tells the press of how Communists, for the third time in two weeks, smashed into the Berlin city hall. Following these demonstrations, Soviet sector German police and armed Russian soldiers formed a guard around the city hall. Some 19 western zone police who had been in the hall under "siege" were arrested as they left city hall.

ARREST IS MADE IN BANK ROBBERY

Fort Erie, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Provincial Police today arrested George Pelley, 41, in connection with the daylight robbery of $5,000 from the Ridgeway branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada Thursday, Sept. 2.

Pelley was apprehended at a riding club near here where he was living in a suite of rooms with his wife and two childgen. He was taken to the Welland County Jail. Police are still searching for twa other suspects.

BARON NOEL-BUXTON DIES

London, Sept. 13 — (AP) — Baron Noel-Buxton, 79, philanthropist and political figure, died Friday night at his home.

He began his political career as a Liberal member of parliament and later was elected as a Labor member. He served as minister of agriculture in the Labor governments of 1924 and 1929.

JAPANESE BOMB DUMP WILL BE USED FOR SCIENCE

South Pacific Village Will be Blown Off the Face of the Earth

Aitape, New Guinea, Sept. 13 (CP)—This South Pacific village will be blown off the face of the earth early next year in one of the greatest man-made explosions in history.

More than 3,000 tons of bombs, a dump built for use against the Japanese invasion in the Second World War, will be detonated at Tredl, a cocoanut plantation on Aitape's outskirts, in the interests of science.

Australian and British scientists working in conjunction with the Royal Australian Air Force and the Australian Army, will create the explosion to learn more about earthquakes and to study the geological structure of the terrain for oil that is known to be present in this area.

Geophysicists believe the crust of the earth is thinner at New Guinea and adjacent islands than it is in other parts of the world.

When waves from the explosion go into the earth, geological lasers will return them to the surface. Recordings and seismographs will enable the scientists to form a reasonably accurate estimate of the thickness of the earth's crust at the spot.

The recordings will also help geologists in their search for oil.

Apart from atom-bomb explosions, the greatest man-made explosion in recorded history was the navy's detonation of 8,500 tons of bombs on the German island of Heligoland April 18, 1947.

The world's greatest recorded natural explosion was the eruption of volcanic Krakatoa Island in Sunda Strait, between Java and Sumatra in 1883. Reverberations from that explosion, which erased an island rising as much as 1,400 feet above the sea and left in its place a submarine cavity 1,000 feet in depth, were felt at Bangkok, Siam, 1,400 miles distant.

HYDERABAD GOVT. SAYS INVASION STOPPED

Britain to Slow Demobilization Of Defence Forces

Will Improve Equipment Position States Morrison

London, Sept. 14 — (CP) — The government announced today that army, navy and air force demobilization will be slowed because of the tense international situation.

"We must also accelerate the improvements of the equipment position, especially in the field of air defence, and introduce new weapons," Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, told a special session of parliament.

Side-tracking for a moment a bill to curb the powers of the House of Lords — announced reason for the special session — Morrison plunged almost immediately into a discussion of national defence.

He appealed to the country to accept the sacrifices necessary with level headed thinking instead of in "a panicky spirit."

"We regret," he declared, "that such a statement should have to be made."

Morrison said that because of "present circumstances" men due for early release after a year of national service will be required to serve an additional three months.

Morrison said steps are already being taken to double the output of certain fighter planes, and older types of combat aircraft are being reconditioned.

"In regard to aircraft, we have not only to meet our own needs but those of other countries in the midst of those of the western union, which are using British types," he said.

MISSING NAVAL PLANE OBJECT OF WIDE SEARCH

Important Personages Are Aboard Aircraft Lost In Northern Manitoba

Winnipeg, Sept. 14 (CP)— Parachute rescue squads stood by today while the Air Force intensified its search in northern Manitoba for a United States navy aircraft missing since Sunday with five men aboard.

R.C.A.F. headquarters in Winnipeg announced tersely in midmorning that there was "nothing new to report" in the hunt for the missing plane. Headquarters said 13 search planes had taken up the task of criss-crossing the bleak district where the navy plane last disappeared.

R.C.A.F. officials described it as the "most intensive" search in northern Manitoba's history.

Two U.S. army paratroop teams — including a doctor — are standing by while a three-man Canadian army team also is ready to swing into action.

Of the search planes, 10 are Canadian while the remaining three are American craft. In addition, four more American planes are due in Winnipeg today. After refuelling they will push on immediately for the north country to take part in the search.

Aboard the plane when it took off Sunday on a 650-mile flight from Churchill to The Pas were five persons, including Capt. Sir Robert Reading-Hamilton, British naval adviser to the British High Commissioner at Ottawa, and Capt. Benjamin Scott Custer, naval attache at the U. S. Ottawa Embassy.

Others were the pilot, Lieut. Charles Wilcox, U. S. Navy; Chief Petty Officer Jack M. Kastner, radio air pilot; and a staff sergeant named Scalise, who was a passenger being flown south from the Manitoba port on the run to Winnipeg.

Thirteen aircraft, three American and 10 R. C. A. F., Monday flew over the lake - studded and forest-covered terrain, seeking the missing naval plane.

Check Each Flicker

Overnight two R.C.A.F. aircraft continued the search from The Pas to Churchill, the crews checking each flicker of light stabbing the darkness from earth in case it was a flare from the Neechetaw.

Carrying only enough fuel to last 31/2 hours, each plane, early afternoon, the missing plane was presumed to have been forced down. All four officers and eight of a wheel-equipped aircraft to land in the rough Barrenlands of Northern Manitoba would be "very dangerous."

Most planes flying south of The Pas on the pontoons in the summer time could take to water.

Barring mishaps, crew and passengers aboard the plane would be able to survive for a few days on emergency rations contained in two jungle kits carried by the aircraft. Will also would be able to supplement this diet.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP)—Synopsis: Skies will be clear skies and light winds temperatures tonight and across Ontario Monday night in cooler weather stripped all of Eastern Canada. A short-lived heat wave came to an abrupt end in southern regions while frost was prevalent in the north. Fine weather is expected to remain in force today and Wednesday with little temperature change anticipated. The severe Atlantic hurricane that battered Bermuda at last night is now 500 miles south of Nova Scotia.

GEN. CLAY DOES NOT THINK WAR AROUND CORNER

Makes Statement to U.S. Writers Visiting Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 14 (AP)— Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today "I don't think war is just around the corner."

The United States military governor made the statement to American reporters who came to Berlin on a special flight from the United States to view the British-American air lift supplying Soviet-blockaded western Berlin.

Clay added he doubted the Russians will make Berlin the final issue on the entire German problem." He predicted that before the Berlin crisis comes to an end it will be forced to break the 82-day-old Soviet blockade. The United States would exhaust "all other means at its disposal" to reach agreement.

Clay declined to discuss whether the Berlin crisis question will be before a council of Foreign Ministers would mean "negotiation into a discussion of national defence.

He left the impression, however, that the Berlin issue at least would not be prepared to discuss any accord with the German zones with the Russians at such a conference before the Paris meeting lifted.

Clay said the next step, if the Moscow talks fail, would be to take the Berlin issue before the United Nations Security Council as a threat to peace.

Fear Very Great

Clay said the Soviet-sponsored drive for withdrawal of all occupation forces from Germany, the United States commander said: "This could become very popular in Germany, but not now. Fear of Communist domination is very great. The Germans are very much disturbed at the withdrawal of our troops.

"We set out to have a very different kind of occupation because we don't know what the hell we came here for in the first place if we are going to get out now."

Speaking of prospects for the winter, if the city remains under Soviet blockade, the American commander said the Allied air lift would not bring enough coal to Berlin for "anything like heating" but that even so, the winter hardships would not be as severe as two or three years ago.

Take to Rioting

Louis Glaser, veteran United States Socialist leader, today officially declared Russia and Communist-led rioting have lost the political battle for Berlin, but a last card he held, they have taken to rioting and terror.

"The Russians and Communists have been politically, economically and ideologically bankrupted here.

"The proof of this lies in recent events. They now have descended to rioting and resorted to force against democratic procedures to maintain their grip. It is probably never gain otherwise."

Other international observers looked for a climax sometime this week or within four-or-five days after the Berlin crisis. Whether the climax be a success or failure appeared to hinge on what takes place at the next meeting of the western powers with the Soviets in the Kremlin, perhaps tomorrow.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST KILLS THREE COUNTRIES

Berlin, Sept. 14 — (AP) — The British-licensed German press agency said today a mysterious explosion last Wednesday blew up 1,000 tons of munitions and killed two Russian soldiers at Pasewalk, airport in the Russian zone of Germany. The report said Russian authorities had imposed a strict censorship.

Girl Refuses Father's Plan to Get Husband Who Can Pay $7,000

Detroit, Sept. 14 (AP)—Blonde Georgia Martin refused today to leave any of her father's plan to get her a husband who could pay $7,000.

"I'm ruined," wailed the 19-year-old secretary.

But George Martin, her 53-year-old father, insisted he "just wanted to make sure that Georgia would be well taken care of if anything happened to me."

He told reporters he was in financial difficulties after being forced to quit work a year ago. At that time Georgia, who needed but a year to complete work for a law degree from the University of Detroit, was forced to drop her studies.

Debts were piling up, Martin said, when he began to read personal paper accounts of women who offered themselves in marriage to rich suitors.

Although the move might fit some of his own financial burden and help Georgia finish her education, he said he received letters making the marriage proposal to a Miss Georgia Martin, 1600 Montana.

Georgia then announced she knew nothing of the matter until it appeared in a local paper. And it's "no sale," she added firmly.

KIDNAP VICTIM — Dr. David Perlman, Toronto physician, was kidnapped early Monday in his own automobile, driven bound and gagged to a tourist cabin near Cotton in the Windsor area and left tied to a bedpost. Speech from Throne Asks House to Curtail Power of the Lords

London Sept. 14 (CP) — The King drove in royal splendor to Westminster today to read the Speech from the Throne, which asked Parliament, in 74 cautious words, to curtail the ancient powers of the Lords.

The terse Throne Speech opened a special 19-day session of Parliament and a bitter political battle between the Labor Government and the Conservative opposition.

The Throne Speech asked the legislators to "amend the Parliament Act of 1911 and the 1949 Act which first curtailed the Lords' power, would be amended to cut in two the two year period in which the House of Lords can delay legislation.

This is tended to help the government put through one of its most controversial measures — nationalization of the iron and steel industry before the general elections of 1950.

The special session followed on the heels of the Labor Government's third session of parliament which closed Monday. It seemed destined to be one of the most controversial legislative sessions of recent history.

It took a severe lacing from the anti-government press before opening ceremonies began.

One paper termed it a "phoney session." Another spoke of a "cynical political manoeuvre."

There were also strong indications the Conservatives were preparing to undermine the latest demonstration of Labor's parliamentary strength with political booby traps.

Conservative papers indicated a move would be made to put the six government on the spot during the session by challenging it to offer medical services in the India-Hyderabad battle. Failure to move in this direction would strengthen the Conservative charge the government called the special session solely for party advantage.

Foreign Secretary Bevin is expected to make a statement later this week on the Berlin situation.

Thousands of spectators lined the route of royal procession as day to see the Monarch and Queen Elizabeth ride from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords, last used at Princess Elizabeth's wedding last November.

But, like the Throne Speech, written for the King by his Labor Ministers, the royal ceremonies were cut short. The entire ceremony lasted four minutes, with the King requiring only 56 words to read his address.

The King said:

"My Lords and members of the House of Commons: I have summoned you to meet at this time in order that you may give further consideration to the bill to amend the Parliament Act, 1911, in which there was a disagreement between the two Houses of Parliament.

"It is not proposed to bring any other business before you in the present session.

"I pray that the blessing of the Almighty may rest upon your counsels."

Prime Minister Attlee did not attend the session due to illness.

Despite the remark about no other business being transacted, to be a Conservative demand for a statement on the German crisis.

Adrift on Lake For Three Days With Little Food

Simcoe, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Four men Monday told of living three days on the lake and drifting adrift on Lake Erie with only four tins of food.

William G. Smith of Delhi, Ont., Fraser MacFarland and Earl Phillips of Los Cruces, N.M., and Russell Parker of Watford, Ont., were rescued off Long Point.

They left Port Dover Wednesday to spend the day fishing off the point, about 18 miles away. On the return trip that evening they ran into a storm, lost their bearings and finally ran out of gasoline. They waved shirts, fired flares and beat on the sides of the boat in an attempt to attract attention. They drifted helplessly until early Saturday morning started to drift inshore.

Shortly before noon Saturday they were sighted by the fishing tug Clacoe, captained by Peter Murphy of Port Dover. There was no heat on board and only two thin blankets. Their food consisted of two tins of sardines and one salmon and one of pork and beans.

DIES AT AGE OF 86

New York, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Mrs. Caroline Schermerhorn Astor Wilson, 86, a great grandaughter of John Jacob Astor, died Monday. She was the widow of M. Orme Wilson, New York banker. Her mother was known as "the" Mrs. Astor and compiled with the late Ward McAllister the celebrated "Four Hundred" the American society which initiated her visiting list.

Prime Ministers' Parley Will Open In London Oct. 11

Ottawa, Sept. 14 — (CP) — The Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference in London will open Oct. 11, it was announced simultaneously here Monday night and in London.

Announcement of the date was made in a statement by Prime Minister Attlee, released by Prime Minister Mackenzie King's office.

Canadian Prime Minister will left late Monday for Europe. He is to attend opening sessions of the United Nations General Assembly in Paris this month and then go to London for the prime ministers' meeting.

The statement Monday night Mr. Attlee said — as Mr. King did earlier — that it was not expected any formal decisions would be taken by the Commonwealth leaders.

"As is customary on these occasions," he said, "the meeting will be a private one at which there will be no communiques, statements and exchanges of views on matters of common concern between Commonwealth prime ministers. It is not the practice on these occasions to take formal decisions."

SAYS GERMAN HEALTH "IN BAD WAY"

New York, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Dr. Morris Fishbein, medical editor, said Monday he had found German health "in a bad way" during a six-weeks' inspection of the United States zones of Germany and Austria. Fishbein is editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

ONTARIO LIGHTS DIM OUT AS BAN NOW EFFECTIVE

Shortage of Water At Power Sources

Toronto, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Power restrictions, imposing a "dim out" over Southern Ontario until next spring, became effective today.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario announced the restrictions recently as a power conservation measure. They are similar to bans imposed last winter because of a shortage of water at hydro power sources.

From sunset to 6 a.m., all exterior electric signs, whether flood or outline lighting, for decorative, ornamental or advertising purposes, are banned. The ban also applies to outdoor Christmas trees.

Marquees or elaborate canopies on hotels, theatres and restaurants will be restricted to an area not to square foot of floor space or sidewalk area covered.

Stiff penalties of from $100 to $500 are provided for those who refuse to obey the restrictions. Enforcement is left to the individual municipal councils.

Shops during business hours will be limited to lighting of two watts per square foot of gross floor area. Thus a shop with two windows the limit is 20 watts per lineal foot of width between 4.30 and 6 p.m. Stores with more than 20 offices 2½ per square foot of gross floor area. After business hours there is a limit to 60 watts per square foot for protective purposes.

Service stations when open may use 100 watts per gasoline pump. Parking lots and used car lots may use up to 15 watts per 100 square feet of space while open for business and five watts per 100 square feet when closed.

Hotels, restaurants, auditoriums, boilers or any other device for space heating which require electrical power for operation are prohibited in hotels, tourist cabins, hospitals and the interiors of homes.

Five Germans Given 25 Years

Berlin, Sept. 14 — (AP) — The Soviet-dominated German agency Monday said five Germans who took part in the disorders that followed a Communist-packed meeting here last Thursday have been sentenced to 25 years in prison by a Soviet military tribunal.

The giant anti-Communist rally was followed by violence at the city administration in the Soviet sector between the Soviet and Communist police. A German youth was killed and several persons wounded in a clash involving Russian soldiers, Soviet sector German police and members of the crowd.

The news agency said the five, who "confessed their guilt," were sentenced to 25 years at hard labor. They were tried in public order, the lives of peaceful inhabitants and the Soviet occupation troops.

Rotary Urged to Adopt Political Action Committee to Fight Communism

Montreal, Sept. 14 (CP)—Adoption of a Political Action Committee as part of its service was urged upon the Rotary Club of Montreal by Lawrence Bloomfield, Jr., Vice-President and editor of the Montreal Daily Record.

Mr. Bassett called this a "pioneering move." He said it would not be designed to support any one political party but could be regarded as a "clearing house" of all parties other than those which are Communist in the way of life.

Were the idea adopted here he felt it would spread across the Rotary world.

"The evil of Communism and said "the disciples of this evil and enslaving doctrine ply their filthy trade in such a day."

"Can we be less alert in the defence of the ideals of the free and democratic principles of government?" he asked.

Mr. Bassett said the committees which he urged would organize Rotarians and their friends to work in polls, drive cars and get out the vote and would do the work for the democratic cause which the Communists were doing for their cause. It would arrange for political meetings and particularly nominations meetings and urge Rotarians and their friends to attend.

The political laziness of the average Canadian is unusual, which could not be afforded today.

Claimed One Inch Column Lost 100 And 150 Captured

Some Forces Drive Within 100 Miles of Capital City

By MARC FURDUN

Paris, Sept. 14 (AP) — The United Nations announced today the Security Council will meet Thursday on the invasion of Hyderabad by India.

The Security Council was called at the request of Hyderabad, by Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan, President of the Council for September. It will be the first United Nations meeting in the Palais De Chaillot where the General Assembly convenes next week.

New Delhi, Sept. 14 (AP) — Indian troops in a lightning invasion of Hyderabad today captured the town of Rajasur, halfway from the hilltop capital point of Scholapur to Hyderabad City, heart and capital of the princely state.

Another tank led column thundering down from the northwest captured the important rail town of Jalna on the Nizam's railroad after a penetration of 70 miles into Hyderabad. Jalna is 250 miles from the capital.

Rajasur is 90 miles to the west and in the area where the Indian forces had made their deepest penetrance.

The Indians driving in from the east captured Surlapet, 80 miles east of Hyderabad City.

Troops in the northwest also captured Daulatabad, also a communications centre 90 miles west of Jalna against "strong resistance."

The successes were recounted in a defence ministry communique issued shortly after noon when the invasion was less than 36 hours old.

(A Hyderabad communique received in Karachi, Pakistan, Monday night said the Indian invasion had been stopped at all points.)

The Indian forces rolled into the princely state at 4 a.m. Monday under four directions under orders to garrison Hyderabad until its future status and relationship to the Hindu dominion of India is settled. The population of the Hyderabad State, the Nizam claims is 80-per-cent Hindu.

One Indian column, in the Bidar area in the west, had the "one inch column" reported to be dead and 150 captured. Their opponents, the communique said, fled.

The Hyderabad army and Razakars (Moslem volunteers) force under combined control are opposing the Indian troops at Aurangabad.

Airfield Reported Bombed

In north and south no notable advances were reported since the initial successes Monday. Bidar airfield, 80 miles northwest of Hyderabad City in Pakistan, was bombed by Indian planes during the night, as was Gulbarga airfield, 30 miles to the northwest of the capital.

Headquarters spokesmen said that the Indian invasion was met by all sectors of Hyderabad despite opposition in some areas.

Pakistan reported thus far had proved to be mostly Moslems from the Hyderabad territory in the north of India. One of India's demands on the Nizam has been for the immediate disbanding of the Razakars, whom the Indian accuse of committing border depredations.

The Indian fear the future of the wealthy Moslem Nizam and his dynasty, the spokesmen said, if the security of India is threatened by internal disturbances. He gave everything to the Indian police, the courts and the military to keep order.

In Karachi, capital of Moslem Pakistan, there were calls for war against India and the early end of the Hyderabad invasion became known.

At Bombay, an Indian Moslem leader urged Pakistan and other Moslem countries to form a Holy League, to keep hands off. Fifty other Moslem leaders in New Delhi pledged their support to the Indian government. Extra precautions were taken in the capital to prevent outbreaks.

London, Sept. 14 — (AP) — All-India Radio, quoting a dispatch from Hyderabad, said today that all 10 British officers serving with the Hyderabad air force have resigned their commissions since the start of India's invasion of the state.

Commonwealth relations office spokesmen here reported that the 10 officers had been advised to take such a step and had notified London they were doing so.

DEPOSITED COPPERS ON TOP OF METER

Not even the fact that the parking meter was out of order failed to deter a motorist parking at Campbell Street yesterday from thinking that "honesty is the best policy."

When the meter failed to work, the motorist left his car for the required interval and on his departure deposited two bright coppers on the top of the meter, plus a pencilled explanation, "Out of order."

DISTRICT TRAP SHOOTERS MEET

Twenty-five trap shooters of the Belleville Fish and Game Gun Club held a successful meet at Zwicker's Island last Saturday afternoon with most of the gunners breaking more than twenty of their twenty-five targets.

Visitors from Picton, Trenton and Stirling were also entered in the shoot. A large gallery watched the gunners in the sideshoot.

Last Saturday's shoot was the second of the year. A similar event was held the preceding Wednesday. Plans whilch the club have on hand call for a shoot this Wednesday afternoon to commence at their new traps on the island at 2.00 p.m. and another shoot a week later. Also the coming Saturday at the same place.

NORTHERN ELECTRIC EMPLOYEES HOLD GOLF TOURNAMENT

Thirty-nine men and six women took part in the Field-Day held last Saturday morning at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club for the employees of the Northern Electric Company.

Winners of the golf tourney were Val Smith with a low gross of 79. Prize for low net went to Ken Ward with a 68, followed by E. Goddard, Mike Acquafredda and Ernie Pugh with 72's and Clarence Murdock with a 74.

Mrs. B. Brettingham won the low gross among the ladies with a 122. Mrs. Jean Grant captured low net honors with a 96, trailed by Mrs. Vera Daniels with a 98.

Prizes for the events were donated by the committee, Frank Taylor, Pat Devine, James Pearson, Mike Acquafredda and Ernie Pugh were in charge of the program.

ASSAULT CHARGE LAID BY POLICE

Charged with assault of his wife causing bodily harm, Robert Allen, Bridge Street, West, was remanded for one week when he appeared in the police court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills today. Crown attorney B. C. Donnan asked that Allen be remanded in custody but the accused intimated he would like to procure bail and an amount of $200 cash was set.

Allen was the subject of a police hunt during the night following the complaint being made to the police station. Some hours later he was apprehended and lodged in the police cell to appear in court this morning.

AMERICAN CARS ROBBED OF "SMOKES"

Two American tourists stopping at overnight cabins on Dundas Street, East, were minus a quantity of cigarettes this morning when they woke to find their cars entered during the night. The cars had been locked for the night but no-draft ventilators had been forced and the doors opened. A carton of cigarettes was taken from one car, while several packages disappeared from the second car.

THRESHING MILLS NEED NO LICENCE

In response to many inquiries which he has received in recent months, R. Hastings, Director of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, announces that permits will no longer be issued necessary for the operation of threshing mills. Licences are necessary, however, for the operation of peddler. The fee is $1.00 per year to custom and $5.00 per year to private threshing plants. The branch is planning to have its inspectors available for cleaning plants during the coming winter months.

TRENTON R.C.A.F. STATION TO HOLD DIMINUTIVE SERVICE

The personnel of Central Air Command, 6 Repair Depot and the Trenton Air Station will pay tribute to the gallant men of the air services who took part in the Battle of Britain, Sept. 15th, at a church parade and drum head service at the station on Sunday, Sept. 19th at three o'clock.

The Battle of Britain was one of the most outstanding battles of the Second Great War and is of particular significance to the Royal Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force for the brilliant service action that prompted Winston Churchill to say, "Never in the history of human conflict has so much been owed by so many to so few."

Officials of the Air Command extend a cordial invitation to the general public to attend the parade and service.

ROTARY CLUBS TO VISIT WATERTOWN

Members of the Rotary Clubs of Belleville and Picton in conjunction with Trenton will be the guests of the Watertown, N.Y. club at a special meeting in the American city on Wednesday (tomorrow). The guest speaker will be His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, a member of the Rotary Club here. The local party expect to leave about 8.45 a.m. Wednesday.

At the weekly luncheon yesterday, the sum of $20.05 was presented to Rotarian Newt. Thompson, treasurer of the Community Swimming Pool Fund. The money was the proceeds of the recent Rotary-Kiwanis softball game.

Rotarian Gifford Allen gratefully acknowledged the receipt of a substantial cheque from officials of the Grotto of the Women of the Mosque, which will be applied to the Crippled Children Fund of the club.

Frank Lang Becomes Pres. Kinsmen Club

Treasurer of the club for the past four years, Mr. Frank Lang was officially installed as president of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville at their first dinner meeting of the season held last night at the Hotel Quinte. President Lang succeeds Arthur Crull who will remain on the club executive in the role of past president.

Executive members of the club who will serve for the next 12 months include Walter Marden, Jack Hembroff, Ross Bailey, Harry Gourley, Harold Meyers, J. Walker and James Ward. Ross Bailey will act as the new treasurer, while Al Simmie will be bulletin editor.

In turning over the presidency to Frank Lang, Arthur Crull reviewed club activities of the past year, stating that the club's community swimming pool project had become a reality, while two baseball teams had been organized by the club and presented to the city for the use of citizens. He also gave a brief report of the Kinsmen national convention held recently in Toronto.

Kin Harry Rollins reported briefly on the convention held recently. He hoped that the Kinsmen Club of Belleville would hold the peanut day as a separate club venture and not as a joint project of the city service clubs. In this way he felt there could be better organization in preparation for the day. Gross proceeds of the peanut day were slightly in excess of $800, it was stated by President Crull.

A guest of the club for the dinner meeting was W. H. Smith of this city, responsible for money to assist in selling peanuts on peanut day. Proceeds for many years more than $50 being turned in to the community swimming pool fund.

Will Use Proceeds Of Benefit Game To Bolster Loop

Wednesday evening at the Alemite Field the Quinte Dry Beverage squad and the league champion Houston "Knoolers" will play in a benefit game that the proceeds to bolster the league's coffers.

Quinte Dry finished second behind the "Knoolers" during the season and have the scoring leaders their only loss, 7-2. The Beverage men knocked out of the playoff picture by Corbys in two straight games after they had taken the first game in convincing style.

Those fans who have been enjoying the brand of entertainment which the Belleville Rotary ball League has been serving up this year for free, can show their appreciation to the league, to the teams, and to the players, by going to the baseball tournament Wednesday night and digging deep for a little of the money that the league needs to finish operations in the black.

A draw for a ton of coal will be held at the game. Tickets for the coal will be drawn from any player or manager in the Commercial Softball League.

Shannonville Couple Honored by Friends On 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Portt, Shannonville, were the guests of honor recently at a charivari tendered them by their friends and friends, on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary.

A social hour was spent sd an address of tribute from their neighbors and friends was read by Mrs. Fred Dunford. The address was signed on behalf of their friends by Jeane Sine, Helen Shetler and Annie Donahue.

Mr. and Mrs. Portt thanked their friends for the kind words and wishes and for the lovely gifts which they received.

Lunch was served and a three-tiered wedding cake, topped by the figures of the bride and groom was brought in by Mrs. Clifford Reid and was cut by Mrs. Portt.

Rev. Don Amos Describes Visit To Grand Canyon

The majestic grandeur of giant sequoya trees which have stood in the Yosemite Park for ages since before the birth of Christ, the gradual slash that is the Grand Canyon of Colorado; the rich and building expansion of Los Angeles, and the cosmopolitan city of the Y's International at Long Beach, California were high lights of a colorful address given the Rotary Club on Monday by the Rev. Don Amos, minister of the Bridge Street United Church.

Mr. Amos was the accredited delegate to the convention of the Belleville Y's Men's Club.

"The convention," Mr. Amos said, "brought together outstanding young men from all parts of the world including Japan, Egypt, India, Scotland, Australia, the Philippines, South America and other countries. The cosmopolitan quality of the rank and file of Y's Men's International was a revelation. There were no week sessions. It was only on the morning of the convention of Y Men International set together in conclave to discuss their affairs that there was a great experience in a high plane of fellowship."

Fainted Out Beauty

In a vivid description of the Grand Canyon, where he spent a day, the speaker told of one of the wonders and beauty. Four miles deep and a mile deep, the canyon has an elevation at its top rim of 7,000 feet above sea level.

Carved by a rushing yellow Colorado river. Speed of the water in the canyon is said to be one of the formation of the earth's crust. It is estimated that it has taken deeply into the earth. Yearly, engineers estimate, millions of tons of earth and rock are washed still flow down the murky stream.

Mr. Amos told of a visit near the canyon because of varying air currents. A rock pinnacle in a town ten miles across the canyon has to travel like a bird to reach it before it reaches its destination. The roar of the swiftly moving Colorado can be heard for miles in both and south rims. Below a tribe of 250 Indians live in rock and wood-built small ranches for tourist diversion and curio sales.

Descent Made by Mule

Descent into the gorge is made by mule back over a trail that is so narrow that the rider's legs brush the rocky wall while two feet away is a precipice.

His first impression of California was that it was dust, Mr. Amos said. "I felt like getting a giant hose and washing everything away. The "smog" a combination of smoke and fog settles down over the country in the evenings and is a definite nuisance.

Building in Los Angeles is proceeding at a terrific pace. "It seemed to me," Mr. Amos smiled, "that every third American has moved there and is to build something. New four and six-lane highways and freeways are under construction and the building is general. It is predicted that within ten years Los Angeles and is the second largest city in the United States.

Mr. Amos also described his trip through Death Lake, the Yosemite National Park where the giant sequoyas, twenty-nine feet in diameter at the base, have been rearing their heads for over 2,000 years.

He was introduced by Rotarian Howard Clarke with Rotarian Perc McGuire expressing club appreciation.

Child Strikes Rail Torpedo With Hammer

Striking a railroad torpedo with a hammer, 10-year-old "Pat" Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Black, of Chatham Street, last evening suffered injury when powder from the explosive was blown into his face, neck and arms. The extent of his weight is not expected to be impaired as result of the accident.

The young lad brought the torpedo home from Bridge Street United Church, St. Michael's school yard where he said he found the object. Taking it to the garage he struck it with a hammer with result that it exploded in his face.

The father of the lad reported the incident to police who searched St. Michael's school ground for other explosives but reported he failed to find any. How the torpedo came to be in the school yard was not known.

GUNSOLUS—In loving memory of my dear husband, Ernest, who died one year ago today, Sept. 14th, 1947.

One year has passed and left my heart
With many a silent wound to bear;
We have suffered, since we lost you
Our life with loss has been full sore.
In our hearts you memory keeper
Within our minds you are there.
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
You're remembered by Ernest and Ray.
—Sadly remembered by Ernest and Ray. S14

GUNSOLUS—In loving memory of my wife who passed away one year ago today, Sept. 14th, 1947.

My loss cannot tell how I miss her,
My lips cannot tell how I love her,
My heart cannot tell how I grieve.
But God can tell and He knows.
In a home that is lonesome today,
I'm remembered by Arthur Gunsolus. S14

Youth Saved From Drowning By Taximan

Picton—Frank Weldon, 22, was rescued from the Bay of Quinte when Chester Storms, Picton taxi driver, dived fully-clothed into the river at Black Creek, eight miles east of Picton. Storms had just arrived at the bridge there to pick up a fare when he noted Weldon was in difficulty. While other spectators stood by, he dived into the river. Weldon had got beyond his depth and was unable to get back to shore. He had swallowed a good deal of water and was almost overcome when Storms reached him. A boat was brought to the scene and Weldon got safely aboard. He made a quick recovery.

No Blame Attached

An inquest was held last night into the death of William Lavelace, killed when a car in which he was riding crashed into the ditch on Picton-Bloomfield road Coroner Dr. D. S. Lightfall presided. The jury were sworn and a verdict anyone of any negligence caused the accident, evidence in concerning the death of Mr. Lovelace.

Among the witnesses was Jake Buder who was seriously injured in the accident. Members of the jury were Oral Calnan, foreman, Hubert McCormick, Elmer Morris, Everett Scott and Frank Haight.

The late W. Lovelace was a brother of County Constable James Lovelace.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Prices firmed as trading picked up after a slow start on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials traded under the pressure of a heavy ex-dividend list. Bell Telephone, selling ex-dividend $2, was down a point and Fanny Farmer, Donnaconna Paper and National Steel Car were ex-dividend stocks that weakened. Papers, generally showed a stronger tone on good fractional gains. Canada Malting, Harris and Steel of Canada Pfd. were firmer.

Silver Miller, Golden Manitou were the only base metals in a re-awakened base metals list. Consolidated Smelters gained ¼ and Can. Malartic, Noranda and Preston Bay firmed fractionally. Waite Amulet, Pete, Orville, Sherritt, East Sullivan, Base Metals and International Uranium were ahead 3 to 16 cents.

Wright-Hargreaves, La Luz, Hollinger strengthened in senior golds while juniors were mixed in narrow range.

Anglo-Canadian, Roxana, East Leduc, Globe and Okalta advanced 1 to 6 cents in the strong-er western oils.

Expect Statement On Movement Of Trade Unionists

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP) — An official of the United States Immigration Service office here said today that a statement would be made shortly in Washington, concerning the restrictions against the movement of Canadian trade unionists to the U. S.

Monday the office refused permission to enter the United States to Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.). Mr. Dowling had applied to a union conference in San Francisco. Three members of the United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) who applied Monday for permission to attend the international convention next Monday were refused.

U. S. immigration authorities in Toronto said that they "had reason to believe the reason for the ban would be clarified before the end of the week."

Union officials in Toronto say the ban is aimed at barring Communists from entering the United States. However, they point out that several of those listed are avowed anti-Communists.

Murray Cotterill, President of the Toronto Labor Council, and political action director of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) said the action of the U.S. immigration officials "was illegal."

Action of the immigration authorities appeared to be based on "post too accurate information," Mr. Cotterill said.

Pilots Bail Out Over Red Zone

Frankfurt, Sept. 14 — (AP)—Two American air - lift pilots bailed out over the Soviet zone of Germany early this morning and have not been heard from since.

Air force headquarters said they were ferrying a C-47, laden with food, from Wiesbaden to Berlin, when the pilot radioed at 4:20 a. m. that their engines had failed and the ship was losing altitude.

The message said the crew was abandoning ship in the vicinity of Langenalna, about 20 miles inside the Russian zone. It said one motor had cut out and the other had begun to quit.

One unconfirmed report said that the pilots landed safely near Erfurt, 15 miles from Langensalza and 30 miles from the United States zone.

German police at Langensalza said they had heard nothing about the accident, but would investigate.

An American search team entered the Russian zone today to seek the two fliers.

Fine Prize List Prepared by Club

The Kinsmen Club will hold a gala social evening this Friday evening in the Armouries in order to give away $1,000 in cash and merchandise to their many friends in the city and district.

A carefully prized list, which will appear in an ad in this paper Wednesday evening includes such items as a mix-master, a COR electric blanket, a man's or woman's suit or topcoat made-to-measure, a counter museum cleaner, Hudson's Bay blankets, hampers of groceries, and many other valuable awards which are at present on display in the window of W. A. headquarters. He was told he was "temporarily barred." No other explanation was offered.

The barring of Mr. Dowling followed the disclosure that seven delegates of the Sudbury local of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C. I. O.) were turned back at Chicago Saturday en route to a union conference in San Francisco. Three members of the United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) who applied Monday for permission to attend the international convention next Monday were refused.

U. S. immigration authorities in Toronto said that they "had reason to believe the reason for the ban would be clarified before the end of the week."

Limited Quantity Of Butter Likely From N. Zealand

Wellington, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Commenting on Canadian reports the Dominion is likely to receive supplies of New Zealand and Australian butter this winter, G. Pottinger, chairman of the New Zealand Producers' Marketing Board, said today Canada probably would receive limited quantities from New Zealand.

The amount would only be within the 1942 - 43 quota recently-completed New Zealand contract with the United Kingdom. He pointed out this meant only three per cent, or about 3,000 tons of New Zealand's exportable butter would go to countries other than Britain. This was intended to maintain contact with pre-war markets in Canada and India, and consequently the amount available for Canada would not be large.

Prime Minister King in New York

New York, Sept. 14 (CP) — Canada arrived here today from Prime Minister Mackenzie King Ottawa, en route to the United Nations General Assembly in Paris and next month's common-wealth conference in London.

Holder of a doctorate of philosophy degree from Harvard (CP) from Harvard University, the Prime Minister planned to spend the day at New York's Harvard Club.

A member of his staff said King will catch up on "last-minute work" and will not address newsfore boarding the Queen Mary tonight.

"He won't even be doing any shopping," he said.

The Prime Minister arrived by train from Ottawa and went immediately to the Harvard Club.

DE BERNONVILLE

In announcing the postponement in Superior Court Judge A. J. Campbell said this would give the defence lawyers 10 days in which to study a brief on the Court prepared by the Federal Immigration Department and allow the department solicitors three days in which to study the Court's counter-brief.

The hearing is barely begun when it was adjourned for half an hour to allow the Court's lawyers to brief on the Court prepared by J. Maurice Langlois lawyer for the Canadian immigration department.

The Court arrived in an automobile from immigration department detention quarters where he has been held since Sept. 4.

With him were three immigration department men and one of the Court's counsel.

Outside the Superior Court building in the old, downtown section of Montreal hundreds of curious craned to see this man who was sentenced to death in France for alleged wartime collaboration with the Germans.

The Count, wounded in the army of France in the First World War and a servant of Marshal Petain in the Second World War, arrived at the courthouse at 10.25 a.m.

A few minutes later his wife and two daughters arrived.

They were accompanied by an immigration department matron, and seemed in bright cheery spirits — a contrast to the serious mien of the Count.

The courtroom which holds some 250 people, was well filled, with curious who have become interested in the case during the time the Count and his family have been held in detention here.

Meantime a group of persons prominent in the life of French Canada with Mayor Camillien Houde as one of the chief members, have come out in statement championing the cause of the Count. They claim this man under sentence of death in France for alleged collaboration with the Germans is a political refugee that he is a much decorated, much wounded soldier of France.

At a tribunal in Toulouse, the Count, in absentia, was sentenced to death in 1947 for alleged wartime treason.

De Bernonville lived on Cote des Neiges in west central Montreal, a lean man of average height blue eyed and with hair flecked with grey, combed straight back. There was nothing to make him stand out in a crowd unless that, he is partially deaf and wears a hearing aid.

After he applied for regularization of his status, Canadian immigration officials ordered his arrest Sept. 2 on a deportation order signed by Resources Minister McKinnon.

Gustave Adam, lawyer acting for the immigration department said meanwhile that all controversy over Bergdoville's activities to the contrary, he would "simply attempt to prove the fact that de Bernonville violated Canadian immigration laws."

Back-Pay Cheques For 150,000 R.R. Workers Coming

Montreal, Sept. 14 (CP)—Back-pay cheques worth about $176 each before income tax and pension deductions will go out to more than 150,000 Canadian railroad workers within the next fortnight, it was learned here today.

The cheques will be made out on the basis of the 17-cents-an-hour wage increase for workers dating back to March 1. The increase was granted July 14 in settlement of the union-management dispute which threatened to tie up Canada's rail transport.

The Canadian National Railways cheques are due to be mailed Thursday. Canadian Pacific Railway cheques will be mailed Sept. 28.

BANK CLERK FOUND DEAD

Brentford, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Lorne Barfoot, 19-year-old clerk in the Dominion Bank here, was found dead in his room on the third floor of the bank building by a fellow clerk Monday night.

Police said they believed death was due to a seizure, but an autopsy has been ordered.

'Promising' Tests With Solar Energy

Brighton, Sussex, England, Sept. 14 (Reuters)—Scientists at London University are experimenting in the application of solar energy, with "promising results," the engineering section of the British Association was told at its meeting here Monday. Professor S. J. Davies, who made the disclosure, said he could not give further details.

21-Pound Lunge Is Caught

Marmora, Sept. 14 — Mrs. Howard Neal, with the aid of her husband was successful in landing a 21-pound muskie on Crowe River about 7.30 p.m. on Sunday. The fish measured 42 inches in length. Mrs. Neal was using a live herring for bait and the fight lasted for fifteen minutes.

CAR AFIRE DRIVEN TO FIRE HALL

It is not often that a fire is brought to the firehall for fire-hen to extinguish but that is just what occurred last evening when a motorist drove up in a hurry asking assistance of the department to put out a fire in his car.

Apparently the springs of tire on rear axle came into contact with the battery underneath with result that a short circuit caused the metal springs to become heated. Eventually the cushion of the auto took fire, resulting in the hurry-up trip to the fire station. Damage to the auto was only to the cushion seat, it was stated.

Pole Says Canadian Girls 'Too Lazy to Work'

Toronto, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Victor Toussez, handsome Polish bachelor, told Judge Samuel Factor in naturalization court Monday that "Canadian girls are too lazy to work."

The Milliken, Ont., farmer agreed with the judge that he would like a wife who would work as hard as he does.

MORE JOBS for Young Canadians

TODAY CANADA'S manufacturing capacity has been increased—and diversified — to an extent never thought possible in pre-war years. Now Canada can do more — can make more — offers far more opportunities to young Canadians commencing their careers today. While established industries have been expanding, new ones have been springing up. Over 200 new products formerly imported are now being made here.

EMPLOYMENT figures, too, tell the story of our emergence as one of the world's great industrial nations; today almost twice as many Canadians are engaged in manufacturing as there were before the war.

CAPACITY for steel production doubled; chemical output more than twice 1939 level; pulp and paper mills operating at 50% above pre-war; everywhere the magnitude of the advance is evident.

DEVELOPMENT continues: on new plant and new equipment nearly four times as much was spent by Canadian industry last year as in 1939.

"... UNTOLD OPPORTUNITIES"

"If one wants to give service and work, Canada is full of untold opportunities — greater than ever. It is well, too, for young Canadians not to overlook small towns and rural parts, because in these places the labor is spar, life can be gloriously free and very full."

...says ROY SHIELDS of Coboconk, Ontario. He and his brother Charles have, by industry and initiative, supported by loyal, hard-working employees, attained a remarkable success in Rural Merchandising in their rural community. Their store has been referred to as the "Biggest Little Department Store" in the country.

That Memorable Day

This week there is observed a day which is the anniversary of the memorable triumph of British power in the air over the fliers of Hitler's Germany. On September 15th, 1940, the Huns were battered from the skies of Britain. Something of the strength of Britain had been shown in the weeks and months before when the Nazis came to the coast of the Channel and there halted. That was in June of 1940. A few months later Hitlerite effort to dominate Britain's skies was forever crushed. It was a prophecy of the end of the aggressor.

It was on a dim August morning eight years ago that the city of Portsmouth, England, awoke to the growing drone of swarming enemy aircraft. It was the beginning of the battle of Britain, that great campaign in history that was fought exclusively in the air, and says the Encyclopedia Americana.

The enemy sent 500 bombers over on that first day and one thousand were sent over by Hitler across the narrow channel the next day. Hitler had poised 100 divisions of crack Wehrmacht soldiers in northern France. If the Luftwaffe had held the air history could have told a different story of that memorable time, but it was not to be. It was in Britain's stars that her sons would win the fight and they did as Hitler found as he had to change by reason of German losses in the air to night attacks. Britain had won the first fight and she was battling all alone at that time against the prepared menace of the enemy.

That story is one of the greatest in British and world history. Those were the days and those were the deeds which called from Prime Minister Churchill the immortal words concerning the debt of "so many" to the "so few." In the momentous week of September 16th came the last great air conflict — 185 Nazi planes plunged from Britain's summer skies and that day the battle died.

Never shall fade the glory of those days when all alone Britain stood against the world's greatest menace of history. It was a sign of what would come after years of struggle — the end of Nazi terror in flaming ruins.

Rural Fair Time

A smiling sun beams upon the countryside at this important time when late summer and early autumn fairs are in progress. Yearly there are hundreds of these exhibitions which hold before all the evidence of the year's progress and growth. No festival can be a happier one than such a community gathering which reflects the life of the district.

Well may these glorious days of the passing of summer and the approach of autumn be the setting for such gatherings. The farmer and his wife and their family and help look over the result of the year's labors and justly feel proud of what they have done in their contribution to the life of the Dominion, economically, socially and in every other way.

Those who make a habit of attending many of these autumn shows know of no more pleasing functions for they breathe the spirit of pride in what the industry of man has been able to achieve.

For fairs are more than winning of awards, great as may be the satisfaction in winning prizes. It is the spirit of achievement and kindly rivalry that is felt at this time and that promises rewards of like measure in the future, generation after generation.

Such gatherings are true festivals. The spirit of those who meet at these events is moulded by what they see and hear and feel as they realize what the agriculturist is doing for the good of the country.

The festive spirit dominates and there is set in motion the urge to plan for the next season's work. The mood of the fair crowds is not a fleeting mood, but one that is contagious and the spirit of enterprise is given a good lift by what man sees as the result of his labors in the field during the present year.

In the presence of the rich evidence of the season's bounty there is inspiration for city dweller and agriculturist to spur them to greater endeavor to succeed. There is the knowledge that man has been rewarded for his enterprise and faith in agriculture and that a benign Providence and kindly Nature have co-operated to make the season's offerings so bountiful.

These are occasions which cannot be forgotten for they bring rich fruit in the coming years and even on to the years far ahead to individual and community and to the larger units of the Province an the Dominion.

It is not to be wondered at that the fall fair has an appeal which is irresistible.

It is the spirit of gratitude which mounts in men's hearts that so closely draws them to this season of the year.

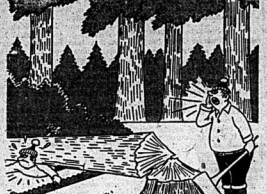
HORNET

A hornet is a fearful thing
Designed to self-defence to sting.

An insect most ill-tempered, he,
Who left alone prefers to be.



But what a hornet least enjoys
Are calls from curious little boys,

And when his home one romps about
With fury his comes darting out

To sting him cheek or brow or nose
'Til screaming home to Ma he goes.

'Tis thus a hornet makes it known
He wishes to be left alone.

Death of Jinnah May Unite Two Hostile Dominions

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The great Indian sub-continent, struggling with the dangerous vicissitudes of its new-found independence, has been plunged into two further fateful developments:

1. Mahomed Ali Jinnah, Governor-General of the Dominion of Pakistan, has died, thus depriving the Moslems of the leader who more than who created it and was its moving spirit.

2. The Dominion of India, chief Hindu state, has annexed and invaded the Premier princely state of Hyderabad with armed forces and there has been fighting. We have declared purpose of this move against the domain of the Nizam, most powerful of all the Indian rulers, is to maintain order. The Nizam is a Moslem while some two-thirds of his subjects are Hindus.

Jinnah, brilliant, 71-year-old statesman, came to lead some 100,000,000 Moslems of the Indian peninsula, and they followed him blindly. There was a time in his younger days when the relations between Moslems and Hindus had in the later years he came out for Pakistan as a fully separate independent government for the Moslems. Gandhi, who worked with him at his home in Bombay in 1945, and he explained that he felt the Moslems couldn't get a fair deal in a federal government in which the Hindus would outnumber them three to one.

May Ease Situation

Now with Jinnah gone, there naturally is speculation whether this may ease the situation between the two Dominions —may even result in union between the two in a federal government. Sources in New Delhi, capital of India, are speculating along that line.

Another comes another angle, and that revolves about the violent and often bloody differences between the Moslems and Hindus, growing out of religious bitterness. This is the reason for the connection with the invasion of Hyderabad.

India had been pressing the Nizam to join his state to the Dominion, Hyderabad being the only one of the hundreds of principalities which haven't joined either India or Pakistan. However, there obviously is no real basis for war between Pakistan and India, since Hyderabad is wholly within India and 80 per cent of its people are Hindus. Moreover, India proposes to settle the question to a popular plebiscite.

Fighting May Spread

Were Jinnah living at the helm, it's safe to say there would be no war over this issue. Still, observers noted with the argument over Hyderabad first started that religious strife might grow out of it and that communal fighting might spread throughout the Dominion. No man can make a certain prediction about that now for both people of the Indian peninsula are highly inflammable.

Some day—maybe soon and maybe far away—Pakistan and India will unite under a federal government, because they are interdependent economically and because it is horse sense.

THIRTY DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER

Some evening when there is nothing more important to do I shall drag down a copy of the Britannica and find out how in the world the old timers got the calendar all right. Why should they have had thirteen months of an even twenty-eight days or four weeks each, with a day or, in leap year, two days on the end for extra holidays. Such a calendar would have saved a vast amount of trouble, for instance the first of the month would always be Sunday, the 10th always Tuesday and the last day of the month always Saturday. With the present freak calendar it takes an astronomer to determine such things offhand.

Even computing the number of days in the month from the fanciful jingle by which most people who learned it in school remember the same is a complex as you suggested. Now she can set and digest whatever she likes, never needs a laxative, and gets around better than she had done for years—we certainly feel grateful. (Mrs. T. M. C.)

Overcrowded Classes And Teacher Shortages Face Canadian Schools

By The Canadian Press

Canadian schools faced the dual problems of overcrowded class rooms and a shortage of teachers today as students started their first full week of study in the new school year. In many cases the crowded conditions could be attributed to the first influx of "war babies" who this year reached school age.

The shortage of teachers was said to be due to a number of reasons such as the slender proportion of new teachers to the number of new pupils, insufficient salary offers or refusal of teachers to teach in rural areas.

In Ontario, the situation was much the same as in the rest of the Dominion although some of the larger cities such as Toronto and Oshawa reported no crowding and no shortage of staff. Some towns have established classes in former pupils from one school to another but many continued such as Peterborough, Hamilton, Trenton, Galt, Woodstock, St. Thomas, Aylmer, Port Stanley and Sudbury have built or are planning to build new schools or additions to schools.

Eastern Ontario centres report they have had to hire teachers not fully qualified and, in some cases, married women have been called back from retirement.

Manitoba reports that all its student body can be accommodated with the exception of a few cities crowded as last year but some schools are without teachers.

A high percentage of Alberta schools were still closed because of a ban on children 14 and under because of fear of poliomyelitis epidemic. They were expected to reopen this week, however, with a decline in the prevalence of the disease.

A REFRESHING CHANGE OF EMPHASIS

Arnold Toynbee, in his stupendous book "A Study of History," lays down the proposition that "the function of history in research — that civilizations disintegrate because of a deficiency in the spiritual life of a nation. He says that the nations perish which make a spiritual emphasis and which are particularly diligent in regards material amenities, improve and press on to heights of creative achievement. The first sign of decadence in the life of a nation is the deterioration or absence of these necessary spiritual factors.

All this is pregnant with meaning for the students of modern world affairs. Without we are bent? Toynbee would say that we stand too close to the scene today to be able to evaluate all the factors involved. But certainly we can get some idea of the direction in which we are going if social justice is the prerequisite of national greatness. If a willingness on the part of citizens to sacrifice makes a nation great, then selfishness and love have political as well as moral connotations, then we had better ponder the policies of modern life.

For a generation or more historical facts have been assessed chiefly from an economic standpoint. It's refreshing to find a great historian such as Toynbee making his appraisal on spiritual. (Reg. U. S. Patent Off.).

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

In Italy one fine day a Kittihawk airplane was wobbling crazily out of the sky and made a lunatic landing in a small field, landing up in a slithering crash into an olive orchard.

When the dust at last hoisted the pilot out, he was semi-conscious and shaking and jerking like a jitterbug. We examined him for injuries, then carried him across the field to where was a medical officer.

The boy had a virulent attack of malaria, which had smitten him in the air in the midst of his patrol. He came up to see us after he got free of hospital to thank us for our small services; and we formed an acquaintance and ship that lasted ever since.

On the night the other day, a hand clutched my sleeve. I turned and saw my young pilot friend obviously in a "state of considerable intoxication. He was pallid and perspiring, staggering and his hands shook as they took hold of my coat.

"Hey, old boy . . . " I admonished, starting to shove him into a store doorway out of the public gaze.

"Wait," he chattered. "Please get me into a taxi. Malaria . . . "

In the taxi, he crouched, jerking and shivering; but still

Expect Climax In Moscow Talks This Week

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Sept. 13 (AP)—A climax in four-power talks on Berlin is expected here this week.

A highly reliable western source predicted there will be some kind of agreement or, failing this, an end to the talks, which began in Moscow July 31.

The three western envoys are reported to be about to request another meeting with the Soviets. Wednesday was suggested as a logical day.

The western source was neither optimistic nor pessimistic about the chances of reaching agreement.

Hope of agreement has definitely not been abandoned. The three western governments must feel there is some chance of reaching a settlement over Berlin, or they would not have sent Francois Seydoux, the political and diplomatic adviser to the French military governor in Germany, back to Moscow.

London, Sept. 13 (Reuters) — Britain, France and the United States have reached agreement on the next step to be taken in negotiations with Russia on the Berlin crisis, a foreign office spokesman said today.

ROYAL BANK APPOINTMENT

HON. J. L. ILSLEY, P.C., K.C., Canada's wartime Minister of Finance, whose appointment as a Director of The Royal Bank of Canada is announced.

Instructions are believed to have been sent to the three western envoys in Moscow.

Says Moscow Seeks No Agreement

Berlin, (AP)—A Liberal Democratic newspaper here says today "X-day" for achieving Communist seizure of Berlin has been fixed for some time after the November presidential elections in the United States.

The newspaper Montags Echo asserts the Russians have given German Communists orders to step up riotous demonstrations to seize control of the city because Moscow wants no four-power settlement of the 80-day-old blockade crisis.

A highly-informed source in Moscow said Sunday night resumption of four-power talks there on the Berlin crisis is "quite likely" this week. The informant made this prediction after the return to the Russian capital of Francois Seydoux, political and diplomatic adviser to Lt.-Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, French military governor in Germany. Seydoux left Moscow Aug. 31 for Berlin, taking important documents to the three western military governors.

CAR WENT INTO RIVER

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 14 — (CP) — Their first trip to Niagara Falls proved disastrous to Mr. and Mrs. Sherlie N. Cooper of Indianapolis, Ind.

Their sedan car containing their baggage and all their belongings started to move after they got out of it to take pictures. Before Cooper could do anything, the car plunged 50 feet into the Niagara River.

Party Delegates For Convention Already Chosen

Ottawa, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Selection of delegates to the national convention of the Progressive Conservative party here Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2 now has been completed, a party spokesman said Monday.

The big task facing provincial associations is the drafting of resolutions which will be submitted at the convention called to choose a successor to John Bracken, 65, who is retiring because of age and ill-health.

Present indications are that the resolutions — about 400 have already been sent to headquarters here — will call for a statement of party policy on all the major problems facing the country, including such controversial topics as freight rates and Dominion-Provincial relations.

A total of 1,313 delegates will be entitled to vote, but age or ill-health may keep away a dozen of the privy councillors, senators and others who support the party and who are automatically given the vote under convention procedure.

While all entitled to vote may not attend, it is expected that the convention will attract more than 3,000 persons. The federal ridings will send 765 official delegates and an equal number of alternates. In addition there will be the ex-officio delegates and the delegates-at-large.

A 193-man resolutions committee will meet Sept. 28-29 to deal with the resolutions now being sent in by provincial associations. Deadline for the filing of resolutions has been set for Sept. 15.

The resolutions committee will be broken down into sub-committees on external affairs, agriculture, labor, natural resources, social security, veterans and trade and taxation.

Representation on the committee: Prince Edward Island, five; Nova Scotia, nine; New Brunswick, eight; Quebec, 50; Ontario, 62; Manitoba, 14; Saskatchewan, 16; Alberta, 14; British Columbia, 14, and the Yukon, one.

It is not known how many resolutions will be accepted by the resolutions committee and the convention. Those accepted will become new planks in the platform on which the new leader and the party will seek election at the next general election.

First test of the new platform may come Oct. 25 in federal by-elections in Rosthern, Saskatchewan, and in Ontario's Algoma East.

REV. DR. SEMPLE NOT CANDIDATE

Peterborough, Sept. 13 — (CP) — The Rev. Dr. James Semple of George Street United Church has replied to rumors suggesting he would be a candidate to the position of Moderator of the United Church of Canada.

"I am not a candidate for the Moderatorship of the Church", Dr. Semple told the congregation of his church Sunday morning.

"It is high time," he added, "that the west or the east had a man for the high office of moderator. We have had too many moderators from central Canada, Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Continued favorable business conditions are evidenced by a number of key economic factors, says the Monthly Review by Wood, Gundy and Co.

"Crop prospects in Canada are good with estimated grain yields larger than last year, while in the United States there is promise of the largest harvest on record.

"Dollar volume of wholesale sales in Canada show increases as do department store sales which were up nine per cent in July over the same month last year, while employment and payrolls in major industries continue to record advances."

The Review continues:

"Canada's total exports for the first seven months of 1948 were $1,651,000,000 against $1,565,000,000 in the same period of 1947 with sales to the United States higher and sales to other countries lower."

"Canada's population at June 1 last reached 12,883,000, an increase of 301,000 over a year earlier. Having in mind the growth of Canada's population in the past—8,787,000 in 1921—and the continued development of new industries and mineral resources, the long-term outlook for the Dominion appears full of promise.

Markets Monday

New York exchange continued weak yesterday while Canadian exchanges marked time. New York, as measured by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down .5 to 67.5, the lowest level since Aug. 16. Toronto showed light gains in small trading. Montreal had about the same picture. Grain markets were without feature.

Hockey Sticks Topic of Argument In Civil Suit

Toronto, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Hockey sticks — 24,000 of them — were the main topic of argument in civil assize court Monday.

Jean Rioux, hockey stick maker from Bic in Rimouski County, Que., claimed Harry Polevoy, operator of the Dominion Specialty Company here, signed an agreement in 1946 for payment of the sticks. He is suing for $1,944 plus interest at five per cent and damages of $6,000.

In a counter claim, Polevoy is asking $10,000 for out-of-pocket expenses. Rioux claims Polevoy accepted one shipment of sticks and paid for them and then accepted three further shipments later the same year but refused to pay for them.

Polevoy claims the sticks were all to have been delivered to him by Nov. 15, 1946. He also charges the sticks were of inferior quality, unlike samples he had been shown.

The case is continuing.

CALVERT 1622 Famous Families YOUNG 1799

In 1818 John Young, Scottish immigrant, wrote "Letters of Agricola" to the press which were instrumental in stimulating agriculture in Nova Scotia. His two sons, Sir William and George Renny, lawyers and statesmen, were both members of the Executive Council and Speakers of the Assembly. George founded the newspaper "Nova Scotian" while Sir William became Premier of the Province and later Chief Justice, a position he held for twenty-one years. A notable record of a truly distinguished Canadian family.

Great Families Create Great Nations

Distinguished English Statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland early in the 17th Century.

Calvert and his descendants encouraged their settlers to clear and cultivate their land. The Calvert family also introduced principles of freedom and tolerance, hitherto unknown in the New World. These Calvert ideals were perpetuated down through the succeeding generations of the Calvert family.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us promote within the great Canadian family, the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family over three hundred years ago.

The Calvert family promote land clearing and agriculture among their settlers.

Petite Secretary To N.Y. Governor Likes Tough Job

By MARIENNE IZSAK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York — (CP) — A diminutive, five-foot blonde who tips the scales at a mere 94 pounds may soon be the United States No. 1 private secretary.

She is Lillian Rosse, personal secretary to Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for president.

Miss Rosse (really Mrs. Allen J. Goodrich in private life) has worked for Mr. Dewey since 1939 when she was given his name in the New York Bar Association as a possible employer.

That the governor has not regretted his choice is demonstrated by a photograph on Miss Rosse's desk of a smiling Tom Dewey, inscribed "To Lillian Rosse—Miss perfect secretary." As for Miss Rosse, she considers him the "perfect boss." When she speaks to him, she does so in superlatives. "I love working for him," she said. "He is so wonderful to take dictation from — very articulate and clear."

But the job of secretary to New York's governor and candidate for president is no bed of roses. Miss Rosse accompanies Dewey on many of his campaign trips and was in Philadelphia for the Republican convention.

"We worked from morning to night during the campaigning," she related. "In Nebraska it was getting up at 7 a. m., taking a bus across the country, with the governor making speeches at various stops. I had to balance a typewriter on my knees on a moving bus — and that's no mean feat."

Easier on Plane

Later she had to do the same on a plane but found that a bit easier.

The first week after the nomination, mail poured in at the rate of 2,000 letters a day. Now it's down to 500 and 600.

Naturally, Miss Rosse couldn't begin to handle such quantities herself. She parcels, out correspondence to a battery of stenographers but she handles all the personal mail, makes personal appointments and takes the governor's dictation of letters and speeches.

What's her average working day? On a "short" day, it's arriving for work at 10, going home at 6:30 or 7 with lunch in the office. On a more average day, she works that same schedule and then drives out to the governor's home for an evening of dictation, returning home about midnight.

"I have a very understanding husband," she says. "He's so much with the state himself, he doesn't mind." Her husband is deputy state comptroller.

And what does she think about her boss' possible presidency?

"We think the governor definitely will be elected," she says confidently.

Department Store Styles Show New Note of Elegance

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP)—A new note of lady-like elegance was reflected in fabric and line at Monday's fashion show of two Toronto department stores.

All indications point to a romantic Victorian influence in detailing fall clothes spotlight. Fabrics are lavish, skirts are long and colors rich. Short styles are wearable and negligee fabrics for both evening and daytime wear were achieved with metallic threads delicately blended. Lace brocades as well as tweeds. Heavy lace bemines of black lace over satin and taffeta were gracious combinations for after-five ensembles and in cans milady has packed away her bustle, she should note that one store showed even a bustle hat—a black lace affair held in from the rhinestone clips and brushed back into soft folds.

Bustles were seen in every variation from the dramatic bustle of roses, lace and pleat, to a modified drape. Belle fullness was seen in almost every ensemble with the exception of a brick wool falling in gracious folds-from front pockets.

The drooping flat-brimmed coats of last season also have been retained into more graceful lines. They're still full and some are longer in the back, but a new touch is the inverted pleat starting just above the waist. Double rows of triple cape backs swing around the shoulders in an interesting collar for both fur and fabric coats.

The Crickets Song

When Summer time is over
And Autumn early strays
With amber eyes and tender
O'er field and woodland ways,
With feathered songsters silent
The pensive autumn brings,
Into the evening quiet
The song the cricket sings.

He brings a flood of memories
Of summer days and deer,
A solemn thrills his music
That but the heart can hear;
He also sings of gladness
Around the quiet hearth,
Of home and friends and loved ones
And peacefulness and mirth.

Again he sings of harvest,
The sheaves all garnered in,
The purple grapes in cluster,
The golden grain in bin;
The sowing and the weeping
The toil and tears are past,
And now the bounteous reaping
And Harvest-Home at last!

Women's Activities

AIKENS' W. M. S.

The September meeting of Aikens' W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Lee Grills.

Mrs. S. Westover, president, had charge of the worship service following the hymn.

During the business period it was decided to get Christmas cards for sale for the W.M.S.

Plans were made for a home cooking sale on the market, in October, with Mrs. B. Hollinger as convener. Also plans for the Autumn Thanksoffering meeting the latter part of October were made.

The president thanked the hostess and program committee and welcomed Mrs. Vandervoort of Stirling as guest.

Mrs. S. Spafford and her committee presented in a very capable and interesting manner the first chapter of the new study book "West of the Gorges" by Dr. Beaton.

The map of China and chart outlining the five periods in the history of the West China Mission was unrolled to show the summary of each period as it was described since the opening of the mission in 1892 to 1941.

Each chapter of "West of the Gorges" opens with the story of a present day Christian leader in the church of Christ in Szechwan. The story of Margaret Li and her family covers the whole fifty years of work in the West China Mission.

Mrs. F. Moon, Mrs. K. Bush and Mrs. F. Schrimshaw assisted in the presentation of this very interesting study.

Members are asked to study, read and bring news items of events in China to each meeting in order to stimulate interest. Also add "news flashes" to the W. M. S. bulletin board.

Mrs. Grills and her assistants served dainty refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S LADIES' AID

Stirling—The members of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bert Third. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. C. Rodgers presided. The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer, Mrs. N. Ray read a poem "The Lonely One", selected by Mrs. Perry, who was unable to be present.

Misses Eleanor Fox and Muriel Devolin sang a duet which everyone enjoyed. Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh gave a reading "The Timid One."

Lunch was served by Mrs. Third assisted by Mrs. McIntosh. Her ladies expressed regret that Mrs. Devolin had met with an accident and Mrs. Floyd kindly took the meeting for her.

Mrs. Hermiston moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and the committee in charge of the program and refreshments Mrs. C. Devolin, Mrs. C. Rodgers, Mrs. Foster and Mrs. S. McIntosh.

TABERNACLE EVENING AUXILIARY

The Evening Auxiliary held their September meeting at the summer cottage of Mrs. R. Johnson. Miss E. Horton who had been sent as a delegate to Whitby School for Leaders gave a very interesting and profitable report that was enjoyed by everyone. The Christmas cards that are being sold by the group were distributed among the members. Wiener rolls and coffee brought a pleasant evening to a close.

CENTENARY W.A. AND W.M.S.

The September meeting of Centenary W.A. and W.M.S. was held in the church Sept. 9th. Several items of business were discussed. Treasurer reported a goodly sum realized from cooking sales recently held. Plans were made for a concert to be put on by Miss Fellowsworth of Sunderland, in the near future. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Wilson Wiles Pres. and committee-and all who had given their time toward the renovating and decorating of the church.

The meeting was then turned over to the W.M.S. President, Mrs. G. McDonald. Mrs. McDonald read the scripture reading. "An article from the Hastings Chronicle" was then read "At Worship in Chicasaw." It seems we could learn a lot from our African Christian friends when we realize the difficulties under which they worship the Christian work. Several items of business were taken care of.

V.O.N. NEWS

The two men sat opposite each other at the dining-car table, where the waiter had seated them. Though complete strangers the younger of the two gave the other a friendly nod.

"I'm tired and hungry," he said "Had a busy morning at the city hospital, which is very over crowded. Under such conditions it makes it difficult for every one to work; nurses, doctors and aides alike."

"Do you find beds are often filled by patients who don't need full time care?" asked the older man.

"Yes, that's true. But, since they do need some care, who is competent enough to look after them? Good nurses are hard to find. There's nobody."

"Here's a suggestion. I happen to be on the board of the V.O.N. As you know, the V.O.N. is an especially, trained group of nurses trained to serve the community in all matters pertaining to health. It's a great waste of time, energy and money spent, if their services are not made available. Now there's your solution, for they are trained to carry on with and finish the work started by all hospitals."

"It sounds made to order! It's the duty and purpose of a hospital to give full time care. It is prepared, thanks to its well-trained nursing staff and equipment, to do this service. The minute the patient doesn't require full time care, it's a waste of time, labor and money spent for all concerned."

"That's just it."

"So it would seem if the hospitals and V.O.N. worked in closer collaboration, the community as a whole would benefit by the over-all service."

Remember the V.O.N. of your community is there for your comfort and help. Your need will be answered by calling 1125 any day during the week, including all holidays.

IN TWO short years we have added over 257,000 telephones, put in hundreds of switchboards and trained thousands of people to extend and improve your telephone service.

We are adding more telephones to meet the continuing demand for service just as fast as equipment becomes available.

All this is being done in the face of rising costs. Yet, up to now, there has been no increase in the basic telephone rates established 21 years ago.

For you, this means greater value than ever before: for us, the satisfaction of providing "the best telephone service at the lowest possible cost".

It's no trick at all to turn "hopeless" gloomy surroundings into an enchanting, cheerful room. Yes, even on a slim-Jim budget! Try a gay print bedspread . . . wallpaper trim around the windows . . . a cozy writing nook. But be sure you start with a sparkling new Gold Seal Congoleum rug! That's the way to get a floor covering that lends excitement to your whole color scheme . . . that is smooth, easy to clean, comfortable underfoot. Best of all, it's such a good "buy"! For Gold Seal Congoleum — both rugs and by-the-yard — has a wear-layer of heat-toughened paint and baked enamel equal in thickness to 8 coats of best floor paint applied by hand! But remember — without this familiar Gold Seal — it isn't Congoleum! So look for it before you buy! You'll be surprised how much quality you can buy for so little money.

Wartime Scotch Largest Earner Foreign Exchange

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Inverness, Scotland, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Whisky distilleries stunned by fight the battle of British economic recovery in Highland glens where, sheep occupy once beef farms turned to grazing by the grouse-shooting season's glory hills faded with the decline in the wealthy families.

In wartime Scotch whisky, made from peaty water and selected barley by past masters in the distillers' art, was the largest single earner of foreign exchange. Today the distillers want more barley to make more whisky to earn more dollars, but Food Minister Strachey cannot give them all they want.

But conditions are better. In the fiscal year 1947-48 production was restricted at 15,000,000 proof gallons, a good gain over the 10,000,000 proof gallons in 1946-47 but helpful in easing the memory of 1943-44 and 1945-46 when all distilling was stopped and barley used for human and animal food. Still, the distillers like to remind their visitors that in 1939 they produced 36,100,000 proof gallons.

Scotch whisky exports in the first six months of 1948 set a post-war record of 4,233,000 proof gallons compared with 1,285,000 in the same period last year. The United States took 2,206,000 proof gallons, an increase of 744,000, while Canada took 332,000, 134,000 more than in the same period of 1947.

Scots, who like their own whisky, soberly note these figures. Total whisky available for distribution in 1948-49 is 10,500,000 proof gallons. The government wants 8,500,000 for export to earn about $17,000,000 ($68,000,000), of which 2,500,000 proof gallons will go to hard currency countries. Last year's earnings were about $15,000,000.

Whisky — known to the Scots as "the water of life" — was world-wide popularity in the last century when blending was accepted. Before that distilleries bottled their own whisky or blended it with that of their immediate neighbors. Today, 20 or more different whiskies go into a blend, some made from malted barley others from grain.

By British law, the distiller must mature his product for at least three years but the custom of the trade prescribes a longer period averaging about eight years.

Portland, Ore. — (AP) — Pilot Lew Leach said today I was going to deliver the goods for his boss — Mrs. Kaiser's gifts, two black bear cubs and an Oregon Penguin.

At stake is $20,000 or more that all millionaire L. L. Horne of Texas has wagered with friends who said he couldn't produce the mementos of his non-landed adventures.

Leach acquired a two-legged alligator so he can start for Dallas today in time for the deadline set by the millionaire. He said the Eskimo girls were located in Seattle by a reporter for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The bears were not hard to come by. He had to arrange with Portland zoo for a swap: the zoo wanted a deer. Wallaby, Leach said he located one in Sacramento, Calif.

The penguin was thrown into the bargain by the zoo director. It is a murre, a first or second or something cousin of the real thing from the Antarctic. Leach said that was good enough for him.

Hamilton, Bermuda — (AP) — For a real thrill there's nothing like diving off a three-metre board in a full hurricane.

At least, that's what Bruce Harlan, Olympic and United States three-metre diving champion, says.

Monday afternoon, when the Bermuda hurricane was at its peak, Harlan, along with the New York Athletic Club's water polo team, decided to dive off the board to "see how far the wind would take us."

The wind took them half the length of the pool, "and it's a terrific sensation."

Brighton, Sussex, England — (Reuters) — Dr. Max Gluckman of South Africa, speaking at an anthropologists' meeting on the Barotse council of Northern Rhodesia, cited this case as an example of Barotse judicial procedure:

A husband brought an action against his wife's lover. The defendant said that the woman was using him as a blind to conceal her true lover. The wife was indignant but the court accepted this as a reasonable defence.

The court, however, found the lover guilty on the basis of testimony that he sat on a deck chair outside the woman's hut while the husband was away and accepted 2s oranges from her.

Since this was the third time the husband had received damages because of his wife's adultery, the court decided that the woman should become "a wife of the country" that it would not award any more damages for her lapses.

RECREATIONAL DIRECTOR

Sarnia, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Ald. James Chaytor Monday urged council to take preliminary steps towards the appointment of a recreational director for the city. A committee composed of Ald. Quinte Club Hosts At Tennis Tourney

With Trenton, Point Anne and Belleville players participating, the Invitation Tennis Tournament of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club over the weekend was productive of some outstanding play.

Unfortunately it was not possible to complete all events on the courts of the host club before dusk, but officials of the Point Anne club placed their courts at the disposal of the tourney and the remaining matches were played there under floodlights.

A fine selection of prizes, donated by merchants of the city, were presented to winners and runners-up of the various events. The prizes were on display in the Quinte Clubhouse during the day.

Refreshments were served at mid-day and in the afternoon under the supervision of the social committee, chairman Marcelle Thomas.

Winners and runners-up follow:

Valley Resort Area Blackened By Forest Fire

Ojai, Calif., Sept. 14 — (AP) — With women and children evacuated from two communities, the picturesque Ojai Valley resort area lay blackened and desolate today from a still-burning 12,000 acre forest fire.

The community of Ojai itself, with a population of 2,500, felt the fringes of the flames, but a wind shift enabled the hundreds of fire fighters to gain control Monday night.

Some 35 homes, including palatial summer dwellings, were destroyed, but the fire was halted two blocks short of the business district. Initial damage estimates run over $1,000,000.

The community of Meiner Oaks, population 1,500, also was threatened by the flames. Women and children were evacuated from both Ojai and Meiners Oaks to Ventura, where the Red Cross disaster relief set up eating and sleeping facilities in the civic auditorium.

The blaze claimed the life of one volunteer fighter, Louis Franklin Hall, 44, of Ojai. Hall was found dead in a field behind his home, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

There was no report of any other serious injury.

HANDS AT WORK... for ONTARIO
LEARNING MACHINE ASSEMBLY

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security . . . and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. But to produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that war veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. They receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts the veteran on the road to skilled craftsmanship. In assembling business machines, for example, veterans must have a thorough knowledge of electricity and must learn to perform intricate work on precision machines having thousands of separate parts. These Canadian-made business machines are sold in all parts of the world, creating new wealth for Canada and Ontario. Therefore every effort of these newly skilled veterans helps to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and contributes to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO).

MACHINE ASSEMBLY

John N. West, 25, of Toronto, a Royal Canadian Navy veteran, is shown here making an adjustment to one of the 10,000 parts in a business machine designed for a New Zealand firm.

Various types of business machines are produced in Ontario factories. Because of their intricate mechanisms it is essential that these machines be checked by expert craftsmen at every stage of their production.

Polo Grounds Gain Reputation As Graveyard of Flag Hopes, Giants Continue Killer Role

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The historic Polo Grounds is fast gaining a reputation as the graveyard of National League pennant hopes.

Burt Shotton brought his Brooklyn Dodgers into New York "Giants" lair over the weekend for a four - game series and left with only one victory.

The high - flying Pittsburgh Pirates showed up Monday night boasting a seven - game winning streak and Lippy Leo Durocher's fencebusters cooled them off, 5-2.

By knocking off the pursuers of the leading Boston Braves, the Giants themselves are sticking in the running for the flag.

Monday night's triumph boosted the Giants into a fourth-place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals, 3½ games behind the Braves. The Giants and Cards are only .0005 percentage points behind the third - place Dodgers, who also trail the Braves by 3¼ games.

Lefty Monte Kennedy, who has lost some tough games for the Giants, stopped the Pirates' surge Monday night. He scattered nine hits in picking up his third triumph.

Brooklyn wrested third place from the Cubs by dumping Chicago Cubs 6-4 in a night game at Brooklyn. A four - run seventh-inning rally enabled the Dodgers to overcome a 3-2 deficit and win. Ted Barney, who batted a 3-0 "to hit triumph over the Giants last Thursday, went the distance for Brooklyn to gain his 14th victory. He has lost 10.

Only one game was played in the American League. St. Louis Brown upsetting the third-place Indians 3-2 at Cleveland. Pinch-hitter Joe Schultz singled in the ninth with the bases full to enable the Browns to break a 2-2 tie and win.

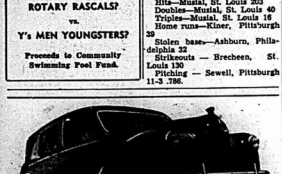
The loss left the Tribe three full games behind the first-place Boston Red Sox.

The Indians also lost the services of pitcher Don Black for the rest of the season. Black is in critical condition in a Cleveland hospital with a hemorrhage near the brain.

Black apparently twisted his neck when he hit a foul ball in the second inning. He fell at the plate, was helped from the field and later lost consciousness. Team physician Edward Castle, however, said Black had an excellent chance to recover.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting, Joe Schultz, Browns—Slammed a pinch-hit single with the bases loaded in the nith inning to give St. Louis a 3-2 decition over Cleveland.



Pitching, Monte Kennedy, Giants—Halted Pittsburgh's seven game winning streak by pitching Giants to a 5-2 triumph over Pirates.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Houston hustling "Knotholers" battled their way into the championship of the Community Softball League and possession of the Whitby Well Trophy Monday evening as they took the fourth game in the final series 5-2. It was a thrilling climax to a great season of ball for the Knotholers who went through fourteen league and playoff games with two loses and twelve victories.

Monday night's exhibition of ball was a reflection of the brand of ball that the sporting faithful will be treated to next season when the diamond wars commence again. This season has seen the calibre of softball improve several hundred per cent over the play that was served in the basement season the year previous. The cutting out of two teams from the league and the addition of several players of former intermediate stamp of the city and district augurs well for future seasons.

Houstons in taking the championship proved that they have a combination of speed and baseball ability that would carry them far in most competition. The "Knotholers" have power at the plate, good on the bases, and all around ability defensively that stamps them of championship quality. In addition to the speed of the individual players the team possesses a knack of stretching a hit for all it is worth. This trait, combined with a will to win, has brought the crown to the team that deserves it most.

Corbys, were worthy runners-up for the title. After a shaky start early in the season, they settled down to play a brand of ball that was constantly improving. They wound up third in the regular season play and in the semi-finals of the playoffs came home with a two straight series victory over the Moose Lodge. They advanced to the semi-finals, Houstons had a bye, and in the first game stretched all their resources. But, and after dropping the first game against Quinte Dry Beverages, came back to win the next two in brilliant exhibitions of softball.

In the final Corbys made Houstons be good to win. They extended the "Knotholers" in every game and showed they were beaten they were not disgraced. They played the best ball that they knew in every inning, and not until the last inning only knocked off they accepted the defeat with good grace. There were no alibis on the Corby bench but just a determination to come through next season.

The Kiwanis kids can now concentrate on their all-important series with the Toronto Interlocutors as the two junior champions who are regarded as some punkins up around the Queen City. It is hoped they get a bad game out of their systems as their last clash, because the visitors are due to kick the ball around too often with teams of the ilk of the Easterners. The games are on Wednesday starts at 6.30 of the clock and the baseball faithful should get out and give the boys their support. Second game of the series is slated for Friar's Park, Eglinton, Toronto, on Saturday at 2.30 p.m.

Tonight at 6.30 of the town clock there should emanate from the Sherwood Forrer Athletic Field a number of men in more or less mortal softball combat. The Bellleking Rotarians, fresh from their upset victory over the Saskatchewan Kiwanians a week or so ago, and still hurling deff's in all and sundry along servic club lines, have accepted the challenge of the Y's Men's Club and the two teams will joust this evening at the aforementioned time.

The vitamin-fed Rotarians, who have rolled back the years since their remarkable victory in the first round, are eager and ready to go. No longer they fear the municipal agency of younger foemen. No longer do aging limbs creakingly protest all enforced action. No longer do their bosoms droop in pre-game anticipation of the "last mile" a hospital cot, or the sudden advent of almost forgotten rheumatics, etc. They're prim, proper, full with vim and vigor and eager and ready to go out there and give their best for dear old Alma Mammy "Rotary."

On the other side of the picture, wisely refraining from any pre-game predictions, are the quietly determined members of the Y's Men. Young, ambitious, capable, they have been in training for the past ten days and the word is that no more-publicised Rotarians hold no fear for them. It should be a good battle. The proceeds, a silver collection will go to the Community Swimming Pool Fund.

One of the most promising boxers to come out of this city in some time is "Soup" Mondeville who is slated to appear on the card being presented at Memorial Arena on Wednesday night. A few weeks ago, Vic Bagnato, sportscaster of the Diamond Boxing Club, Toronto, who has had Mondeville under his wing, had nothing but praise for the lad. "He is a fine boy, lives right, trains hard and has won three or four fights already. I predict a great future for the youngster" said Bagnato. Mondeville will mee Norm Thompson, Brockville, in a mate. Mondeville will meet Norm Thompson, Brockville, in a tag.

Bob Totten and Joey Wilson, not forgetting Carl Clapper, all three of them residing here made a favorable impression on the fans two weeks ago and they, too, will be seen in spectless come Wednesday. The main bout between Chief Emerson Charles and Pete Kolaski should be a wow with the popular chief from Cobourg already installed a favorite. But this boy Kolaski is no pushover and the chief will have his work cut out to defeat the smart young Polish lad. Bud Henry and Bob Blair are carded for the second main bout, all of which spells good entertainment for the faithful.

Man Who Succeeds Will Not Be Another Louis

Washington, Sept. 14 (AP) — There's a growing suspicion that the boxer who succeeds Joe Louis as the heavyweight champion of the world isn't going to be another Louis.

Ezzard Charles, a light heavy who likes to mix with the big boys, heightened that suspicion Monday night.

True the Cincinnati boy won a unanimous, though close decision over Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland. True, too, it was a good performance, with lots of good leading and whirlwind ending that brought the crowd of 11,631 to its feet.

But this fact was inescapable. Both the Ohio Negroes landed blows that had they been tossed by Joe Louis in his prime would have ended the fight. But neither knocked anyone down and neither was hurt.

Yet the heavyweight situation is such that Charles' manager Jack Mintz, was hollering after the fight.

"Charles is the next world champion. Bring on whoever you got."

The clue to this statement are the words "heavyweight crop."

Look over the heavyweight crop, and you'll see the point.

Lots of good boys, but no Joe Louis an night, so far.

Certainly Charles looked as if he has a long way to go before he can be as impressive heavyweight champion.

In the first place, he lost big. He weighed 170, 2 1-2 less than Bivins. But he said even his weight bothered him.

"I feel strong at this weight," he said. "But I got no fire. no pep.

New York, Sept. 14 (AP) — A certain United States football coach, who is on the receiving end this year of some abuse, doesn't "got git 'em" like he used to, suggests it about time they created a purity code for football fans. . . . Yeah, but they're having a tough enough time trying to keep players, coaches, athletic directors and a few "old grads" in line . . . a fan's code would require more enforcement machinery than prohibition — and would be just about as popular . . . publicity Earl Hilligan points out that in 47 years American League pitchers have notched only 224 20 game seasons. Which doesn't make Bob Feller's season look too bad—except by comparison with Bob Feller.

Jack Gallagher of the Austin, Texas. American - Statesman, relates how a baseball fan recently was summonded in the press-box phone at Austin to receive an "important message" . . . The fan trudged in, listened with a solemn look, then turned to leave . . . as he passed the last reporter in the box, the man pulled a scorebook from his pocket and asked apologetically: "How did Bob Feller do?" I was out of touch and relaxed for a minute. A death in the family, mother-in-law." Quote, Unquote

Royals, Bears Likely to Meet In Final Round

(By The Associated Press)

Judging by their performance in the regular season, Montreal Royals and Newark Bears will meet in the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

The semi-final round of the playoffs begins tonight with the Royal entertaining Rochester Red Wings and the Bears playing host to Syracuse Chiefs, defending playoff champions.

During the regular season, the Bears, who walked away with the pennant, won 13 games and lost nine to the fourth-place Wings while the Bears beat the third place Chiefs 13 times in 21 meetings.

Don (no-hit) Newcombe (17-6) has drawn the starting assignment for the Royals and Lefty Tommy Miller (9-9) for the Wings.

The Bears will send righthander Clarence Marshall (9-6) against the Chiefs. Either Ed Erault (15-7) or Lefty Frank Fanovich (9-13) will work for the Chiefs.

Erault has won 12 games and lost only two since June 24.

Both series are best-four-of-seven series with the final vicing meeting the American Association playoff champion in the little world series.

Calgary Stamps Now Assured Of Playoff Spot

Calgary, Sept. 14 — (CP)—Calgary Stampeders today hold a comfortable lead in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union Conference and are practically assured of a playoff spot.

Monday night, the powerful Stampeders wracked up their 5th straight victory of the season by walloping Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last year Canadian finalists, 16-6 before 7,000 rabid home-town fans.

The loss left Bombers in second - place with four points from two victories in six starts, while Saskatchewan Roughriders hold the cellar position with a single triumph in five games played.

Stampeders rolled to their second shutout over Bombers this year by scoring converted touchdowns in each of the last three quarters.

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Sept. 14 (CP)—In an autumn sporting way the public feeling is a trifle better in Montreal since the weekend.

The reasons: Montreal Royals have ousted Toronto Maple Leafs from the playoffs of the International Baseball League and the footballing Alouettes have at last won a game.

To deal first with Alouettes 11-9 Saturday win over Ottawa Rough-riders, Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara says Coach Lew Hayman of the Als is "no longer inconsumiciado. In the quandary room of the Alouette tower."

Baz adds: "His mail is thinner today, so is ours, because he is telling him to run his team, what men to discard, what ones to retain. It is nice to get out in the sunlight again, and from here on his Als should be very much in the race to the wire."

Another suggestion from the Star's man of spo.; is that because of the Als upsetting Ottawa the Montreal Officials-Executive of Ottawa will be forming liner again.

So far as attendance goes Montreal drew 477,564 during the regular season which is good, but Baz doesn't consider this marks "our town" and yet as a major baseball league town.

"At that," he says, "the attendance might increase with the greater prestige that would come from a major league berth but there would have to be higher prices which might be quite an obstacle."

Gardner, Trudel Missing From Hockey School

(By The Canadian Press)

Erstwhile New York Rangers' players Cal Gardner and Rene Trudel were missing Monday when the Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey school opened at St. Catharines. Forty-four "pupils" reported.

Gardner and Trudel informed the National Hockey League club in a telegram they'd had a car accident in Montreal and were planning to have their car repaired. Another former Ranger, Bill Juzda, also was on unit next Monday when Leafs' regulars arrive for the official training camp session.

Juzda was unable to get time off his off-season job.

Young Roy McKeachie, wisecracking Monarchs' starry goalie drew high praise from Frank Selke, Toronto director, for his nifty puck handling.

Said Smythe: "He's the best raw product I've seen . . . in years."

A. G. Kennedy's brilliant filly, Victory Gift, Monday captured the $5,000 invitation event, the 1½ year-old championship race at Winnipeg's Polo Park.

Fooled on Y.R.-Day while her owner was away, Victory Gift, English hospital, Victory Gift, winner of the recent $3,000 Canadian Derby, led all the way over the 1.1-4 mile route to finish 2¼ lengths ahead of Anticipation, owned by E. Albertson of Delray, Alberta. Persephia from the stable of Hatch stables of Toronto, finished third, the Whittier Farms' two-year Fairmont wound up in last place in the four-horse field.

Catcher Hal Wagner of Detroit Tigers was sold to the Philadelphia club of the National League Monday for the waiver price.

The Phillies claimed the 33-year-old Wagner for the regular $10,000 waiver price after notice of the American League clubs bid on him.

A group of 20 amateur hockey players from Canada arrived at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Monday, to try for berths on the New York Ranger squad.

Manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers will conduct the tryouts for several days preceding the arrival of members of the Rangers and two farm clubs next Tuesday for the opening of training.

Laurie Irwin of Toronto, manager of the Canadian basketball team in the Olympic games, blames the team's dismal Olympic showing on interpretation of rules by European referees and lack of team co-operation. In Montreal Monday, Irwin said it often happened the two officials in a game spoke a different language and had a different interpretation of rules.

Bob Carse, who played with Edmonton Flyers of the Western Canada Senior League last winter said Monday at Edmonton he will accept an offer from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. Carse played previously with Cleveland, during a career in which he also has worn the uniforms of Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and the American League Providence Reds.

Two players with last year's Maritime champion Halifax St. Mary's Juniors, Don McLaughlin and Gordon Duggan, leave Halifax today for the tryout camp of the Washington Lions of the United States Hockey League. The camp opens at Kitchener, this week.

St. Catharines Athletics were crowned Eastern Canadian Junior Lacrosse champions at St. Kitts Monday when they walloped the Quebec champions, Cornwall Community Centre, 17-3. Athletics now leave for Winnipeg and a best-of-three series with the Manitoba champs, starting Thursday.

Frood Tigers One Game Up On Coniston

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox won the Intercounty Baseball Association Senior B playoffs Monday night at Galt, defeating Galt Terriers 5-4 in a 10-lanning game. The contest was the seventh of the best-of-seven series.

Only other two final or semifinal games played Monday were in Northern Ontario.

At Thornloe, Skinnyville Maroons blanked Porcupine Combines 3-0 to square their best-of-five Temiskaming Baseball League playoffs at two games apiece. The fifth and deciding game is slated for Wednesday.

Frood Tigers defeated Coniston Bunnies 8-3 in the first game of their best-of-seven series for the Nickel District Senior Baseball League championship at Sudbury. Second game of the set is to be played Wednesday night.

Alex Rogers, 17-year-old boy of Brantford's conquest, winning the game in the overtime inning with a standing 11th inning inside third base, to score Bill Johnson. Terriers threatened to chalk out chance to break the tie in their half of the 10th. With a man on third and first and only one batter out, Clark failed to get the signal for a squeeze play and Yorston was an easy out.

Corby Torti, in right field for the winners, starred with six putouts, in the ninth, he made a throw to the fence to make a one-handed catch.

Macmen's Matt Smith shut out Combines on seven hits, while his team-mates collected nine off Alex Kosick for 10 hits.

Buzzers, fourth place finishers in regular league competition, took the pennant-winning Tigers for three runs in the first inning. At the close of the game they led Frood 5-2. Frood tied the count in the fifth, broke the tie with a run in the sixth and belted the game-clinchers in the eighth.

Winners of that series play in the Dominion finals at Vancouver.

Sports officials agreed Monday that the new electric power restrictions, effective at midnight would rule out night baseball and football. Any night baseball and football may be played under lighting power reduced by probably 30 per cent.

Charlie Conacher, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, probably will never forget his first visit to Moose Jaw. Attending the league amateur hockey school a cop who was hunting a worthless chequer, stopped the Charlie and asked him his name. Conacher wouldn't say, the gendarme threatened to lock him up but friends finally persuaded the policeman he had the wrong man.

Boston's Ted Williams last week widened his margin over Cleveland's Lou Boudreau in six points .368 .342, in their battle for the American League batting championships. John Mize of the Maggio of New York continued to set a fast pace as the league's top power hitter.

Batting marks as a whole slipped in the National League during the last week but Stan Musial's Louis' Stan Musial snapped out of a slump and added four points to .373. Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner topped the loop in home taggers with 39—four more than Musial. Musial also topped the runs batted in and front-ranking departments.

Joseph Rose's Kroger Babs Monday won the 11th renewal of the Reading Fair Futurity for two-year-old.

Trotters to open a five-day Grand Circuit meeting at Reading, Pa. The fleet bay was forced to the limit of three heats by Curtis Hanover, a brown filly fro mthe Philadelphia barn of T. A. Dunn, before taking the $4,412 win over a field of 12.

Houston's Knotholers Eliminate Corbys in 5-2 Thriller to Win Commercial Softball League Title

Houston's noisy "Knotholers" battled their way into the championship of the Commercial Softball League last evening as they downed the Corbys' squad 5-2 in the fourth game of the best-in-five series. It was one of the fastest games seen here in years. Only full nine innings took just 85 minutes to play as both teams fought desperately for the win.

The Knotholers' win was the climax of a great season of ball that saw the team come out on top on the season's play. Dave Sanford, star pitcher for the club, throughout his play-off games with but one loss. Corbys' loss was a defeat which they took gracefully like the true challengers that they are.

Houstons started the scoring in the first frame as Woods led off with a double, Wardlaugh popped up to the pitcher, and Adams brought in Woods' counter run to the right field to give the "Knotholers" the first run of the game. Sanford and Locke went out at first to retire the side.

Corbys came pounding back in the bottom of the first frame to the tune of two hits and a run. Hits a walk, a single and a long fly to the outfield.

And that was all the scoring there was to it until the fifth frame when the Corby infield came apart at the seams to let in two Houston counters on three errors. Houstons pushed over another run in the top of the eighth on a single and a three - base error.

Corby's pitcher Baldwin led off the second inning with a triple but failed to score as the Houston infield took him out on a fielder's choice. Roland then came up to tire hit production of the Corby squad as Cook, on the mound for Houstons, mowed down the opposing batters in fine style, leaving them hitless for the final 6 innings.

Cook went the route on this hill for Houstons, chalking up his second playoff victory of this series with a two hit masterpiece. Near perfect support from his mates made his task easier. Cook struck out one, walked three, and poled out two hits for two runs.

Baldwin, ace moundsman for Corbys, turned in a fine performance for the losers, his lone lapse not good enough to win. In going the route he gave up seven hits, four and gave up five hits in the five innings before by the infield made his job ticklish on occasions.

Canadiens Open Training Season At St. Hyacinthe

Montreal Sept. 14 (CP) —Promising his squad plenty of hard work and a fight for their jobs, Coach Dick Irvin will lead Montreal Canadiens into St. Hyacinthe, Que., tomorrow to open the 1948-49 hockey training season.

Irvin reached Montreal yesterday from his home in Regina and immediately set to work to name the players he will take to camp.

They include two of the brightest rookie prospects, Doug Anderson and Steve Mercier, of Edmonton Both are front line Allan Cup players. Anderson at centre and Merlak a right handed left winger.

Irvin was lavish in his praise of the youngsters and figured they may catch a regular berth with Canadiens. In addition Irvin has George Robertson, a centre from Winnipeg who played last season with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Two other forwards, Charlie Gagnon of Toronto and Eddie Olson of Edmonton, Alta., will also be with the squad.

Except for Toe Blake, all the veterans of last year's team that slipped to a disappointing fifth place in the National Hockey League will report at St. Hyacinthe. Blake, who suffered a broken leg last season in the twilight of a great career, will manage the club for the American Hockey League.

After two weeks of intensive drilling, the squad will head west for a series of exhibition games, opening in Winnipeg Oct.3. Playing six games in seven nights the Canadiens are booked for Regina Oct. 4, Moose Jaw Oct. 5, Regina Oct. 6, Winnipeg Oct. 7 and Port Arthur Oct. 8.

The scramble for jobs is wide open and the players' showing in the western tour will decide who gets the call.

Merchants Drub Kiwanis Jrs. 6-2 To Enter Finals

The Belleville Merchants will meet the Napanee Lions in the finals of the Junior championship of the Belleville Baseball League this week-end. They eliminated a lackadaisical Belleville Kiwanis Junior squad at the Fair Grounds last night by a 6-2 score to win their second straight victory in the best of three semi final series.

The youngsters kicked the ball around for more than six innings and each error proved costly. Southern Junior righthander, who went the route pitched five hit baseball and deserved better fate. But his mates faltered badly in the field; did not come through in the clutches with hits and did not resemble the smart young aggregation that eliminated Corbett Tutorials in their OBA playdown series.

Merchants, on the other hand, played errorless ball against Toronto's starry Eastacourt junior champions should see them back in the finals.

But the fact that the kids booted the ball around does not detract from the Marchant's victory, Fitzpatrick, who defeated he juniors in the first game of the series was given the assignment again by manager Jack Carson, and he came through with a ten hit effort. The Marchants gave him three runs by bobbling the ball only twice, with no damage done. Kiwanis struck seven, issued but one walk, while Dunton whiffed five and sent two to first base on free tickets.

Never Headed

Merchants shoved over a run in the first inning and were never headed although the Juniors tied the score at two all in the sixth. Merchants got another in the fourth and he Juniors poked over their run in the fifth. They tied it up with three hits in the sixth, but the only run scored came when a fast Fitz shoot got past Elliott and Pete Jones who was parked on third romped home. Some neat fielding retired the side.

Merchants came back in their half of the sixth to go one up when Lefty Whitman, who had doubled raced home on Elliott's single just before the catcher was thrown out at second trying to touch the clout. The Carson crew put the game out of the run on Red Carson's single and two Elwood Carson walks, forced over another in the 8th just to make sure when Whitman, who had singled, raced home when Donovan dropped the 2nd long fly out in the evening in Kiwanis left field.

Started Rally in Eighth

The Juniors started a rally in the eighth when Russ Soules poled out a triple and Pete Jones smashed out his second hit of the game to put two on with none out. Fitzpatrick settled down and retired the next three batters on two infield outs and pop fly to Elliott.

"Mouse" Bush lashed out a screaming bouncer through first base to score the first Junior run in the fifth. Ike Fitz hit paralyzed with his homer and a single while Soules got a triple. Jones hit every twice and Art Wright lined out a double and single. Lefty Whitman hit a two-bagger and Carson, Fitzpatrick, Williams and Elliott contributed the remaining hits off Bunton.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many players labor to make bridge a labor, working hard at it. They could relax and enjoy the game. They could make the game more enjoyable for their partners. There is a simple formula.

Here it is: Open only with a better-than-average hand. Respond only with more than two tricks. Bid your own suit first, assist next, no-trump last. Use an easy trick count. Raise once for each new trick.

An opening one bidder shows five tricks. He expects two in the hand of his partner. Such partner raises once for each trick that he is assured of two. This ultimately shows how many tricks he has.

Suit tricks are high cards (aces, kings, queens) and short cards at once apiece. It takes no great intelligence to learn this. But it is as efficient and accurate as any method known.

Take the pair of partnership hands shown here:

SOUTH
♠A 7 4
♥A K 7 4
♦K 8 4 3
♠5 3	♠8 6 3
♥8 6 5 3	♥Q 10 9 2
♦A Q 8	♦7 5
♣K 4	♣J 10 9 6

When they came out in a bridge game the bidding went thus: South, one heart; north, four hearts. They lost two clubs and two spades. They also lost a trick in trumps to opponent queen.

Thus, they took a total of only eight tricks when their contract called for the need of ten tricks.

It was evident, therefore, that one of the pair did not have the number of tricks he promised.

South has five tricks; four high and a short in clubs. These are exactly the number his opening promised. So, it was not at fault if his dud the contract failed to make.

North has three tricks; two high and a short in clubs. He has just enough over one raise to two hearts. He bid of four made three raises that promised five tricks; two more than he bid.

Asked why he jumped to four, north said his hand looked too good for a simple raise. Too many players bid by looks. It looks could kill all their partners would be dead.

London, Sept. 14 (CP)—Ever since King Alfred the Great let the cakes burn, British cooking was "nothing to write home about. Now, it appears, it's not even that.

They're getting used to dull food.

Under subtle changes in eating habits enforced by rationing and shortages, urban workers are being forced out of the home to supplement their diets. Britain by and large is becoming a nation of restaurant and snack-bar eaters.

Volume rather than variety is the target today, particularly in cities and town areas.

People have got so used to dull food they don't want to change from it," is the stock sentiment among restaurant proprietors, "all they want is volume."

A survey on the feeding habits of young workers, prepared by the London Council of Social Service, showed that six meals a day were "almost the rule rather than the exception."

Some even took a seventh meal, a mid-evening snack.

Among 56 boys and girls working in a London engineering plant, the routine was an early snack, fast, 10 a.m. snack, mid-day meal, 4 p.m. tea, tea again at 8 or 8 p.m. and supper between 9 and 10 p.m.

Drab Snack Bars

Most extra "meals" are obtained at snack bars. These, generally are drab, ill-lit stores lacking such taken-for-granted items as table-cloths, saucers and spoons. Canteens in Britain seldom show much appetite for the sticky rolls and margarined buns which form the snack bar's principal fare.

For those who can afford to pay more, many restaurants provide better food in better surroundings. If he wants to pay up to 10 shillings ($5), the rich man at some restaurants can order an a la carte item as fillet of pork. But he has to know where to go, and to "drink" at the restaurant's evasion of the illegal limit of five shillings for food.

"Luxury" Foods

Another food sidelight which helps those with money to spend concerns "luxury" foods such as fruit juices, salmon and tinned milk. These are on points and the working-class housewife letsthem pile up on the shelves because she can't pay for them, in almost every week in London, street sales are held in the open and to dispose of the surplus stock, usually to west end buyers.

But no matter what the "dodge" food generally seldom is pressed to the Canadian taste. Dominion athletes in London for Olympic games evolved a general complaint —the food was too heavy, too starchy, rather unexciting.

"JUNK YARD" PLAYLOTS

Victoria — (CP) — Something new in playlots for youngsters is advocated by George E. Knight. He suggests the city have "junk yard" playgrounds to give the younger generation a whack at automobiles, street cars and even airplanes instead of a sandpile. Denmark and Norway, he said, have found the "junk yard" playlots safe and popular.

Many Convinced Fate Becomes Disenchanted With Efforts

(By B. U.)

Do you sometimes feel that there is a conspiracy between Fate and Hollywood to make you the target? Well you are in good company, because there have been others before you who were convinced that Fate had become disenchanted with their efforts.

Let us take the case of Igor Blertz. Igor was a young fellow in his youth, which in itself is not too unusual, who was bent on devoting his life to opera. Igor sweated and slaved for seven long years to perfect a voice that had all the tonal qualities necessary to put its owner on Park Avenue in a box next to Jean Tennant. Igor gave concerts for charity and the money flowed in the money and entertained the bed-ridden and the helpless. At last his chance came, and with all the aplomb of a Caruso he swept onto the stage at the Metropolitan in the title role of a great Spanish masterpiece. He opened his well-formed mouth to sing, and as the orchestra faded out, and the lights grew dim, Igor hiccuped.

He was ruined. Mr. Blertz was never heard of again in operatic circles except as the butt of a crude, but standard, joke. He finished his singing career moulding plastic shoe lace tips in Milwaukee.

Another incidence of unusual misfortune is the affair "Zero" Q. Zero.Zero was a child prodigy that decided early in life that there were ways to earn a living other than working. He invented a blotting paper memory to acquiring a fund of irrelevant information, such as the number of buttons on a lady's shoe, and the fact that a pound of tea weighs more at the north pole than at the equator, or vice versa.

(Personally Mr. Zero never claimed the latter information was purely technical). At the end of twenty years he felt that he was ready for the quiz programs Exceedingly Fortunate Zero was exceedingly fortunate in landing on the "So You Want To Be A Corporation Executive" program in his first start. Zero could think of nothing better than to become a General Motors because one of the first things he decided that he could was a new car.

The lucky master began to ask the questions . . . and one by one Zero acquired the presidency of Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Oldsmobile and Buick, and then came the climax.

To the fanfare of trumpets and the frenzied mopping of the incumbent executive's brow, the quiz master asked, "For the presidency of General Motors, a $200,000,000 in cash, how many wheels has a bicycle?"

Zero was ready. He approached the microphone with a nonchalance that belied his mounting anxiety, and with the world, including the unions, waiting on his pronouncement, he choked on a stick of gum.

The time limit whipped past and while a stutterling and incoherent Zero was led away by two white-uniformed attendants, the audience screamed "two."

Still a third example of the perverseness of Fate concerns Noodles Grimp who was awarded $20,000 a life membership in the Elks Club, for being the slickest, ringside seat at the Miss America Pageant, and his choice of the first five contestants became he happened to be the one millionth customer to ask for "Dill's Dilly Pickles in the Sea-Sick Green Bottle."

It just goes to show.

Little Benny's Note Book

I broke Glasses Magee's glasses this afternoon on account of having a kind of a fite with him, and I thawt I better tell pop before Glasses's father did, and after supper pop was smoking in his easi in His private chair and I said, Hay pop, I was playing with Glasses Magee today.

That's nice, pop said. It's nice to play with boys with glasses and boys without glasses, and boys that live in glass houses and boys with one glass eye and boys with a glassy stare. Then you'll gradually learn that behind the glass all boys are really human after all, he said, and I said, But G, pop, we started to have a argument.

That's nice, everything has to have a start, pop said. Some of the most famous historical debates started with small private arguments. Many a great telegraff pole started with an obscure little argument, a argument a yey it goes, how a little piggy bath and there is mighty bather, he said, and I said, But jimmy-ny-ny I called me some of the werst names I was ever called, and challenged him to fite me and he said he'd be glad to file me only he felt too lazy to take his glasses off, and he just kept on calling me fierce names, with his glasses still on, till finely a kind of accidenly nocked them off when I got mad and hit the air in frunt of his face, and he picked up the speces and ran in the house, and his mother came out mad and claimed she was going to tell his father and his father was going to make my father pay for them. I mean you, I said.

Well by gollies that's a coincidence, pop said. Old Magee called me up at my office and told me he was glad it happened because it's time that kid of his learned he cant get away with merder and then hide behind his glasses. So he's going to make him pay for the repairs himself, out of his allowance, pop said.

Proving he knew without me telling him and being the happy end of the subject.

Jack Sharkey To Referee Here Fri. Night

"If there's any flisticuffing going on I'm going to be in on it, and it won't be the referee who will sport a gory nose" grimly commented Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world who has been selected as the third man in the ring for the Fred Atkins card Dangerous Curves tournament at Memorial Arena Friday night.

The flistic attack on Referee Ernie Powers by Atkins and O'Connor last week demanded stern action from an arbiter's point of view and Manager Walt Gerow took no time contacting Frank Downey, Toronto, for a referee who will be able to control the pugilistic pachyderms when they feel inclined to bash in the other's pan's nose or conduct an mayhem on his person generally.

"If the boys can't get enough action wrestling and feel inclined to throw a few right hooks and lefts, I'll be glad to accommodate them", smiled Sharkey when last night throw a few right hooks and a lethal left in practically any direction. So it looks like plenty of action here come fish day when the grapple part of the card is on.

Another attraction, who doesn't care what methods he uses is the Masked Marvel, a big bad tough guy who has been using the most of the big boys squirm up around Toronto way. He's going to get to be unveiled and Friday night may be the night. He meets Ed Meeke, the Cavorting Chiropractor from Ohio. Meeke has installed himself as a popular favorite with Belleville fans and they'll be rooting for him to tear the facial fillods from the villainous 'Mask.'

In the preliminary handsome Mike Sharpe, the darling of fandom hereabouts will clash horns with Jack Moore, a big husky who knows a lot of the wrestling answers. With Sharkey in the ring and O'Connor and Atkins ready to tear each other apart, the night's card looks like one of the best to be offered the faithful this year.

BERLINERS CHEER ANTI-COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATOR

—Central Press Canadian

A group of the rioting German demonstrators in Berlin cheer their unidentified comrade who climbed to the top of the Brandenbourg Gate and hurled the Russian flag to the ground, where it was trampled by the crowd. The gate is the dividing point in Berlin between the British and Soviet sectors. It was at this anti-Communist demonstration that dead soldiers floated at the crowd after being stoned.

All Canadian Union Men Said Barred from U.S.

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP)— The Globe and Mail says in a newspage story today that a general bar against the movement of Canadian trade unionists to the United States appears to have been imposed by the American Immigration Service here.

"This is linked with the disclosure Monday that Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), a well-known C.C.F. supporter and a consistent anti-Communist, was refused permission to travel to the United States," the story says.

The Globe and Mail says Dowling would not comment on the report.

The newspaper adds: "Although the U.S. immigration screening activities are aimed at barring Communists in the trade union movement from crossing the border, several non-Communists have recently been prevented from entering the U.S."

Seven trade unionists were refused permission to enter the United States at Chicago Saturday, it was learned Monday.

Three others were denied entry when they applied to the U. S. immigration office here Monday.

The group of seven, all from Sudbury and members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.), were on their way to a union meeting in San Francisco.

Nelson Thibault, President of the Sudbury local of the Smelters' Union, said Chicago officials gave no reason for the order to "take the next plane back." Others in the group were Michael Swiddle, Charles Tomahery, Arthur Michel, J. L. Charlebois, Mrs. Elizabeth Gunter and Mrs. Agnes Cuddy.

The other three are from Kitchener and are members of the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (C. I. O.) Several other members of the same union were granted permits to enter the U.S. for a union conference at Omaha, Neb.

Thibault said: "We made routine arrangements as we have been doing for years, crossing the border to cross the border. When we landed at Chicago after taking off from Malton International Airport Saturday, we were met by at least four uniformed police.

"They did not ask us whether we were Communist affiliated or with Communists or anything of the sort. When they finished questioning us, we were ushered into a room and doors were locked until the time of our departure."

Former Premier Of Bengal Heads Pakistan State

Karachi Pakistan, Sept. 14 — (AP)— Kwaja Nazimuddin, former premier of Bengal, has been appointed acting governor-general of Pakistan, an official cabinet announcement said today.

He will fill the vcancy caused by the death Saturday of Mahomed Ali Jinnah- founder and first governor-general of the new Moslem Dominion. He will be sworn in late this afternoon.

Nazimuddin, who was educated at Harrow and Cambridge and later became minister of the Englih Bar. He had been a member of the government in his native province of Bengal at various times since 1927.

He was premier of Benagl from 1943 to 1945 and became premier of east Bengal after partition las year. He once was Knighted by the crown but renounced the title at a meeting of the Moslem League in Bombay in 1946.

As Education Minister in Bengal in 1929, Nazimuddin fought for compulsory primary education. For ten years he was a member of the working committee of the All-India Moslem League, the organization which Jinnah led and which fought for and won the Moslem Dominion of Pakistan.

He was a member of an Indian food delegation to the United States in 1946 and represented India at the last League of Nations meeting at Geneva.

A keen sportsman, he was president of the India Hockey Federation from 1938 to 1940, His favorite sports were described as cricket, hockey, football and tennis but he also was reported to be an ardent fisherman and one to be interested in shooting.

Three Youths Held Identified By Man Abducted

Windsor, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Identified last night by the man they abducted, two youths from Toronto and one from Montreal will be returned to Toronto today where they are expected to face kidnaping charges.

Dr. David Perlman, 58, Toronto physician who was forced at gunpoint Monday to accompany the trio from his home city to a Cottam, Ont., tourist cabin, 15 miles southeast of Windsor, picked the youths from a police line-up.

Police said the three gave their names as: Allen Decker, 18, Alex, Ont.; William Glover, 18, Toronto; Rex Scott, 22, Montreal.

The doctor escaped his gag and bonds at the cabin and notified provincial police who rounded up the suspects in Windsor. Police seized three guns and 150 rounds of ammunition from the trio.

The youths kidnapped the man as he sat in front of his mother's home. Two of them forced their way into the front seat of his sedan and drove to a nearby house where the third member of the gang was picked up.

Arriving at the tourist camp, one of the youths passed off the doctor as his father and rented a cabin as "that night" might sleep following his trip from "Cornwall, Ont."

Treated and gagged, and robbed of $40, the three left the man in the cabin and drove to Windsor in his car. They were arrested as they were about to enter entering the border city.

Dr. Perlman said one of the youths in the back set accidentally discharged a revolver during the ride and that the bullet narrowly missed the driver.

He was in Windsor the day previous, attending the wedding of a niece, Miss Doreen Cohen.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

The wind — the "trade winds" so dear to the pioneers — was already beginning. Sweet, salty, auspicious. It came in from the sea, scented with sage and water grasses and all the sodgy growth of the low cliffs and the dunes.

"No, this was an inside job," Munro walked along the terrace, and he and I looked at the patio driven in at angles close to the sills to hold the glass - paned doors shut.

"How many doors to the drawing room?" someone asked.

Only the great folding doors and those windows," Mrs. Grisell said. "The folding doors go into the antechoir, and both doors there were locked. There was no way but the keys."

"It's the darnedest thing I ever knew," said Billee, vivaciously. Her hand had fallen quite simply into Burton's big dark thin hand; perhaps she thought that nobody noticed it.

Clay came fumbling his way across the terrace, and Mrs. Grisell began it over.

"Dr. Clay, an awful thing has happened. We discovered it by accident. It may have happened years ago; nobody really looks at anything in there."

"It's asleep, Louise," Clay said, sitting down in a big wicker chair, where he was often to be found dreaming. Listening to the wind in the trees and the steady rise and ebb of the sea.

"Sit down, little one," Munro said.

Louise's color flamed up, as always, when he spoke to her. When she talked of him it was with good-natured scorn and dislike; she said he was too pleased with himself and that she hated men like that. But nevertheless hate is very close to jealous love.

"What's up?" Clay asked. "What has scared you all?"

We sat down on the thick ivy covering of the parapets and on the arms of the other chairs and told him all about it and he seemed deeply impressed. I say 'seemed' because nobody really trusted anyone else by that time. Clay's unseeing face turned to each of us and, when he grasped the situation, shared our own looks of amazement and bewilderment.

"Smeared right down the front of the picture!" he asked.

"Scraped," someone said. "There's a little pile of paint dust at the bottom."

"Ha," Clay murmured, shaking his head.

"And it was a valuable painting, Clay!" Billee protested. "And we lose it!" And again there was that note of jealous proprietorship of concern for the family interest that Billee seemed to feel more keenly than did Virginia herself.

"Anything else injured?" he was asking Mrs. Grisell.

"Nothing that I could see. Why on earth — she began. We were off again.

"Does anyone in this group know anything about this?" Clay presently asked.

My own glances about were. I hope, as innocently puzzled as were all the others. I knew something, and of course someone else did. They all drifted away; Billee and Burton to pack, Vi to chat with and help Billee. Presently, with a fast-beating heart, I was alone with Clay. It wasn't an accident; it was on purpose.

"Dr. Hillyard," I said, coming from behind his chair.

"Eh — who's that? Oh, it's you, Liberty. You see the picture?"

"Yes. That's what I — I meant to speak to you about it."

"Funny thing," he said. "Who'd do that?"

"You might," I thought. Aloud I said, "There was something I wanted to say."

"When you get around the bush——" he helped me. I felt the quick resentment rise in me. I sat down on the matted vines that covered the parapet.

"It was done recently — since I came here," I began.

"You didn't do it, I suppose, Liberty?" he asked idly.

"I don't think it's so funny," I said.

"And I don't think it's so very important, my dear." Of course he never looked directly at one for the excellent reason that he could not see anything clearly. He was not looking at me now. He was lying back, looking up at the treetops, half smiling.

"A — a beautiful painting ruined?"

"A beautiful painting ruined, and not important — no, I don't think it's important."

"Then, since you're one of the Hillyards, it isn't, of course," said, trying not to show that I was out of temper.

"Don't go," he said. "There are some things I want to ask you. What do you think of all this?"

"I'm perturbed."

"No, not the portrait. How do you like living here on a lonely cliff so many miles from civilization?"

"I love it." I answered. There was a silence in which the words seemed to go somewhat flat.

"I expected better of you," Clay observed finally.

"What was the matter with that?"

"Unimaginative." He said it dreamily, not unpleasantly. "I am all the more surprised. Every one is kind to a blind man, but this man seemed to make no effort to be agreeable in return. When he spoke again I was in a quaking state, as if he were thinking aloud. "Funny thing for anyone to do — treating, at least two pieces. Any idea of what his motive could be?"

"His? Whose?" I asked.

"Whoever did it."

"No. I have no idea," I said. "But I think that if I had lived very long in this house I'd know."

"How do you mean?" He wasn't interested and he didn't sound interested; he was still looking up one to go — treating, or at least his face was turned that way.

"I mean that I'd know what people felt about each other, who was trying to spite whom."

"Trying to spite someone," he echoed musingly, "but the point is who? I can't think of anyone who'd deliberately destroy a beautiful thing — unless it might be Miss Hoxleigh."

"Billee?" I ejaculated, taken completely by surprise.

"Well, why not? She is the one who seems to resent Virginia's interest in the place; she takes it far more seriously than Virginia does."

"You've noticed that too?" I said, half to myself. "But how would she get into that room, and why a month later? Why, at all?"

"Well, there you have me," he said indifferently.

Evidently it was not for me to speculate further in this company and I was very silent awhile.

"Munro?" he said then, half aloud.

"But why?"

"Why anyone? You saw it, I didn't. Could it have been moths — mice — something of that sort?"

"Oh no. It was deliberate scraping, and just for the face and figure."

"You suspect me, I suppose?" he said idly.

I could laugh quite naturally, at last, with him for one fleeting second. "Do you me?" I demanded in return.

"Of course."

"There is one thing, Dr. Hillyard——" I began, and stopped.

"And what's that?" He was still dreamily unconcerned.

I wanted to tell someone, Mrs. Grisell, maybe — someone, anyway," I said. "It was done — I mean the picture was ruined — very lately. In these last ten days."

"What makes you think that?" He was concerned at last; the question came crisp and quick.

"Because one morning, ten days ago maybe, when I was in the garden, I crept in close to the window of the big drawing room and looked in. It wasn't scraped then."

"Do you mean it?" he asked, but without any real interest.

"Yes, I could see the figure and the dress and the hat and face and all — but simply it was dark in there. Only — I did see it."

"Well, that narrows it down," his tone was the tone of one thinking perplexedly. "That narrows — it down," he said.

"So it was one of here."

"It looks that way," Liberty."

"Would Mrs. Grisell?"

"Why should she?"

"Well, it is just that she has been here a long while and knows all the ins and outs of Hillyard House."

"I suppose she does — a lot of secrets about everything."

"And a knack for this type I'm sure to have grim secrets. You know, I might have a piece of advice for you, Miss Dryden," he said.

"I would be glad to have it, I'm sure." his was said in high irony. He did not smile, he could not long feel any pity for Dr. Clay Hillyard. He was too coldly, arrogantly sure of himself.

"I'm sure you would." A pause. "It would be that you give up this position as companion to young Virginia, I think."

"Not really?" My tone was as quiet as his own.

"Yes, really. I'm serious." And he did seem so. His face, still, had begun rather banteringly.

"May I ask why?" I had got to my feet and walked to the parapet and had my back turned toward him.

"Because, for one thing, you're much too good for it." He answered unexpectedly.

"That isn't the reason, I suppose?"

"That's one. You're a cultured woman. You're wasting your——"

"Twenty-four!" I answered, as startled as if he had said ninety-four. "Well, I am sorry you know you go by your voice."

"I have an old voice?"

He laughed in his secretive chuckling way as some thought this suggested but resumed seriously. "Because, if you don't get out of here if I were you. It isn't too healthy — Hillyard House. How'd you ever happen to come here?"

I told him of my knowing Mrs. Grisell through Mrs. Liffey's boardinghouse and that I hadn't come tired of the routine of the library.

"Love affair go wrong?" he asked.

"That too," I answered coolly, too angry to give him the satisfaction of seeing me confused.

"Didn't like him as much as he thought you did?"

Again the blood flamed in my face and I saved myself by a show of cold indifference. It gave me satisfaction to shock him.

"No, it was quite the other way round. Well," I said, all sick quake and chill inside but outwardly calm. "I'm going to get a handful of flowers and freshen up a little for dinner while brooding upon the mystery of Hillyard House."

"There is no mystery here—lots of stupidity and suffering and dullness," he said regressively. "Nothing more interesting."

"It might not be interesting to you," I agreed, going down the overgrown brick steps.

"I might be trying to conceal something?"

Throne Speech Urges Increasing Degree of Union

London Sept. 13 (Reuters) — The King said today in the Speech from the Throne proroguing Parliament that it is his prayer that out of the "hopeful beginnings" of the Brussels treaty "there will develop an increasing degree of union between all the countries of Western Europe."

The Speech reviewed the past year's legislation as it prorogued the third session of Parliament.

It was read by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowitt, in the House of Lords and by the Speaker in the House of Commons.

A new session, at which the King will speak in person, begins tomorrow. It has been called specially to pass a bill to curtail the powers of the House of Lords o delay legislation passed by the Commons.

Close links had been forged "with our neighbors in Western Europe," the Speech said.

A treaty of economic, social and cultural collaboration and collective self-defence had been signed with the governments of Belgium, France, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

Permanent machinery for the co-ordination of defence with these countries had been established and "satisfactory progress" was being made with the other matters dealt with in the treaty.

The Speech expressed hope that ultimately in furtherance of the aims of the United Nations, "they may with their common heritage of culture and freedom constitute an area of peace, prosperity and ordered progress, in association with the peoples of my Commonwealth overseas and with the United States of America."

SUSPEND SENTENCES ON VICE CHARGES

New York, Sept. 13 — (AP)— Mrs. Winnifred Nixon Fletcher Chomeni, daughter of a United States career diplomat, received a suspended three-month sentence today on her conviction in connection with vice charges.

Similar suspended sentences were imposed upon two other women tried on vice charges with the shapely 27-year-old brunette.

The two other women were Madeleine Blaizot, 33, a native of Belgium, and Margaret Starr, 30, daughter of a retired minister.

SECOND LARGEST CITY IN HYDERABAD FALLS

Aurangabad Taken By Indians Without Shot Being Fired

Invaders Encountering No Opposition from Populace

New Delhi, Sept. 15 (AP)—India threw parachute troops into the invasion of Hyderabad today and quickly captured 84 miles from the capital. The drive was from the west.

The second largest city of the princely state, Aurangabad, and its cantonment surrendered in the northwest, giving India virtually all that portion of the state, the defence ministry said.

India simultaneously threw its troops struck into the south central state of Warangal to quell disorders was afoot and the will of the people, 80 per cent of whom are Hindus, was being thwarted.

(A Karachi dispatch said Pakistan and Hyderabad have not confirmed the loss of Aurangabad. Hyderabad advices reported a stiff fighting on the border of Berar, which joins the state on the north. Hyderabad claimed 2,000 of its irregular troops "the possibility of introducing more stringent restrictions and saying modifications to suddenly emerging issues."

Despite yesterday's "ideal" weather conditions, the combination had to reduce consumption by 2,700,000 kilowatt hours, effective nearly a dozen Southern Ontario industries

Hon. Saunders said Hydro engineers are trying to determine the reason for the sharp increase in power demand Tuesday despite brighter weather. He said it may have been due to "an exceptionally strong local demand" or added housewives to refrain from using electric ranges.

"This is really a very serious matter and we are all the time at minimizing it and we want the people to know the facts. We must have a all-out voluntary saving or we will be compelled to take very drastic steps in placing power."

Preliminary reports indicated consumption is restrictions will went into force at midnight last night but there were still shortages.

"But, unfortunately, the restrictions are not enough to give us the required margin.

Mr. Saunders did a little checking for himself on the commission's power restriction program.

Driving along Toronto's Bloor & Clair Avenue and Yonge Street Tuesday night he took a list of the number of stores which are obviously breaking the restrictive regulations. Mr. Saunders said there would be a warning sent to the owners of the first time and "we'll simply have to prosecute."

Hyderabad radio, heard in Karachi, said an Indian bomber flew over Hyderabad city Tuesday but dropped no bombs.

An informed government source in New Delhi said the bombing moved in from Bhadrachalam in the southwest, are expected to be over the city of the state capital. Bidar, about 75 miles northwest of the city of Hyderabad, is reported to be the most powerful stronghold of the Razakars, private moslem volunteer army. Indian planes have bombed the city and attacked it.

This informant said it was wrong to use such terms as "war, invasion or enemy operation" in referring to the actions in Hyderabad. What is going on, he said, is "mere police action on a wide scale."

BRITAIN CHARGES RUSSIAN TROOPS PROVOKED RIOT

Rejects Accusation Of Red Commander

Berlin, Sept. 15 (AP)—Britain charged today Russian troops provoked German anti-Communists into the rioting last Thursday which resulted in street fighting at the Brandenburg Gate.

The statement by an official British military government spokesman rejected an accusation by the Russian commandant, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, that inactivity of British military police encouraged "fascist provocateurs" to attack Soviet soldiers and the Soviet war memorial.

Britain told Kotikov he had his facts wrong and is guilty of a "piece of calculated self-justification."

Brig.-Gen. Jean Ganeval of France rapped Kotikov and said: He implied publicly the Russian commandant was a liar as well as a breaker of pledges for permitting Soviet troops to kidnap 18 western-Berlin police who had been guaranteed safe conduct by the Russians from the city and the German Communists were besieging. Col. Frank Howley, United States commandant, recently said Kotikov was responsible for the kidnapping and for failing to protect Berlin's elected city council against Communist rioters.

One Youth Killed

One youth was killed and several persons wounded in the disturbances returning from a huge anti-Communist demonstration around Russian soldiers near the Soviet war memorial.

A Soviet military tribunal sentenced five youths to 25 years at hard labor for taking part in the fighting.

Kotikov's letter, directed to the British commandant, Maj.-Gen. E. O. Herbert, charged that "criminal elements" (Communists) in the movement in honor of Soviet soldiers who died in the struggle for Berlin."

"This took place after a peaceful democratic demonstration which you permitted, in the presence of units of British military police and German police of the British section of Berlin," the letter declared.

The Russian commandant asked Herbert for assurances that "such incidents will not occur again."

Whenever this has been absent saw no shooting at the Soviet war memorial. They said the firing took place at the Brandenburger Gate, border line between the British and Soviet zones.

Magnolias Grew Once Upon Time In Greenland

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—It was once so warm in Greenland, says a Harvard scientist, magnolia trees flourished there.

The earth," Donald Menzel Tuesday told the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "has undergone a number of separate and distinct periods of glaciation, with interim periods when the climate was appreciably warmer than at present."

Charges, Denials Contained In Two Interviews

Winnipeg, Sept. 15 (CP) — Charges and denials concerning Communism with Canada's trade Union movement were contained in interviews given here Tuesday by two of a group of Canada's top labor leaders.

Frank Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, whose group was suspended Saturday by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said the only issue was one of Communism within the trade union movement in the Dominion.

Carl Berg, vice-president of the T.L.C., said the dispute between the two groups was not entirely Communism but was rather a matter of jurisdiction which broke down at the Congress' last national convention.

The Congress suspended the B. R. S. C. on the ground it was set up a dictatorship by merging the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, formed in 1944, with the more recently-organized Seafarers International Union, an American Federation of Labor organization.

In statements leading up to the merger it was two separate unions Mr. Hall had contended that the T.L.C. was trying to smash Communist tendencies within the Lake Seamen's Union, of which he was seeking to combat.

Mr. Berg said in Tuesday's interview the Congress did not have jurisdiction for its stand on Communism.

"Since its inception it has stood against Communism in any and all kind and has long been recognized by Canadian labor as an organization working on the side of democracy. There is no place in the phony issue of Communism is only but this action inconsistent with the policy of the Congress laid down by its convention."

Mr. Hall said after making the merger, the B.R.S.C. had played ball with the steamship owners, the group against which the C.S.U. inhibited by its red label, not never by the steamship management for the protection of the men who work these ships."

Vitamin E Used Successfully In Diabetic Cases

London Ont., Sept. 15 (CP) — Vitamin E has been used successfully in London and Guelph in the treatment of diabetes, Dr. Arthur Vogelsang announced here today.

Discovery of vitamin was first made public two years ago by the research team of Dr. Vogelsang, Dr. Evan V. Shute of London, his brother Dr. Wilfrid E. Shute of Guelph and Dr. Floyd Skelton of Ballymote, who also is a practising physician.

Vitamin E was offered as a treatment for heart disease and has been used sensationally very in the medical world which it is in London.

It is the second time a treatment for diabetes has been started in London. Dr. Frederick Banting perfected insulin during early days.

MARKS 95TH BIRTHDAY

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP)—William Evatt Brown, who, as Arthur William Brown is a widely known New York financier, celebrated his 95th birthday today at his home here. He was wed at the wedding anniversary a month from now. A native of Hamilton, Mr. Brown enjoys smoking his pipe or an occasional cigar but as for drinking, "nothing doing for me unless the doctor prescribed it and he hasn't prescribed it yet."

BIG 1948 WHEAT CROP INCREASE SURVEY SHOWS

Will be Fifty Million Bushels Over Last Year

Ottawa, Sept. 15 — (CP) — A 1948 wheat crop of 381,000,000 bushels — more than 50,000,000 bushels over the harvest of 1947—has been forecast by the Bureau of Statistics.

The forecast was made Tuesday in the bureau's second estimate of Canada's field crops. The first estimate, made Aug. 17, placed the wheat crop at 372,000,000 and the bureau attributed the larger prospects to exceptionally good maturing and harvest weather during August.

Indian wheat estimates includes 362,661,000 bushels of spring wheat grown principally on the three Prairie Provinces, and 28,331,000 bushels of winter wheat, principally produced in Ontario.

The enhanced crop prospects, which mean more money in the pockets of Canadian farmers, included estimates that the oat crop would total 361,728,000 bushels compared with 302,714,000; barley 157,123,000 bushels against 141,451,000, rye 26,808,000 against 17,547,000 and flaxseed 17,748,000 against 12,240,000.

Estimated potato per crop included 20,551,000 bushels of fall rye and 2,000,000 bushels of spring rye.

Production of the five leading grains on the Prairies follows: with 1947 totals in brackets:

Three provinces — wheat 338,-000,000 (319,000,000); oats 225,-000,000 (194,000,000); barley 144,-000,000 (123,000,000) rye 25,000,000 (11,630,000); flaxseed 17,000,000 (11,530,000).

Average yields per acre, in bushels, are estimated as follows, with the 1947 figures in brackets:

Wheat 16.3 (14.0); oats 32.3 (27.0); barley 21.1 (18.1); rye 11.4); dry peas 19.9 (14.6); dry beans 13.0); mixed grain 32.0 (28.2); buckwheat 23.1 (17.9); mixed grains 40.8 (30.4); flaxseed 9.6 (7.8); shelled corn 31.0 (37.3).

Prime Minister Sails for Europe

New York, Sept. 15 — (CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King sailed early today aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France for London to head the Canadian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

The Canadian leader boarded the liner Tuesday night and retired to his cabin to rest for a busy day and declined to be interviewed. The Empress of France sailed with the morning tide.

Also aboard was Paul Martin and Simonds, commander of the 2nd Canadian Corps during the war. He is returning to Canada as senior army instructor at the Imperial Defence College. Later he fills while on loan to the British Army.

Gen. Simonds spent five weeks with his family in Winnipeg and on trips to Washington and Ottawa.

HALF-PINT BOTTLE OUT

Cincinnati, Sept. 15 (CP)—Liquor Commissioner William A. Grieshop said Tuesday that there's little hope that the half-pint bottle of beer will be introduced in this country. He said he couldn't see the advantage of the "stubby" bottle.

Crews Learn to Fly with Efficiency In Arctic Cold Near Top

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—The United States bomber force has solved the problem of operations in the stormy but strategic Arctic, its chief disclosed today.

Gen. Curtis LeMay, Strategy, Canadian-born boss of the strategic air command, said crews "are learning how to fly from the 'wilderness' to the 'high efficiency'" in the bitter cold of the top of the world.

"Last winter we took all the people we could to Thule (Greenland) and we had a B-29 in Arctic," he said in an interview.

"The whole thing is ready for Arctic operations," Kenney said, "It's just about twice as many people because it is more efficient there is just about half of nothing."

Failure of equipment in the Arctic including, however, was pared down until it was no greater than it was for bombers operating over the deserts of the south western United States.

To demonstrate that it could be done, maintenance men changed engines on a B-29 in the Arctic in 30 minutes.

Kenney had no comment on the status of the polar bastion's other defenses, such as aircraft warning networks, anti-aircraft guns and interceptor jet fighters.

The United States Air Force however had disclosed that operations in the Arctic in the far north is getting close attention.

Lieut.-Gen. Nathan Twining went to Alaska last December for six months of training and last flights.

BIG FOUR FAIL TO AGREE ON ITALIAN COLONIES

Problem Will be Referred to United Nations for Their Decision

By HARVEY HUDSON

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—The problem of what to do about Italy's pre-war empire in Africa will go to the United Nations for decision.

Representatives of Britain, Russia, the United States and France wrangled over the question until 2 o'clock this morning but agreed on only one thing: That they could not agree.

By the terms of the Italian peace treaty, signed a year ago today, the problem now passes to the U.N. Assembly if the four governments here next Tuesday. The veto does not apply there.

In two days of conferences, the Big-Four delegates summoned to consider the future of Eritrea, Libya and Somaliland, spent most of their time subjecting to analysis whether they had the necessary authority to do anything. Russia said they hadn't because only France had a foreign minister present.

When they did get down to the subject matter, Russia demanded that all three colonies be placed under International trusteeship. The western powers said no, then got together on a new proposal to put Somaliland under Italian trusteeship. Russia blocked that.

In Washington, the State Department announced that United States is backing a British proposal to turn over Cirenaica, one of Libya's three provinces, to Britain, under U.N. trusteeship until it can be independent.

The Russian proposal for international trusteeship for the three colonies constituted an abrupt shift. Earlier, the Soviet Union had come out for putting them under United Nations trusteeship shifted course in the middle of an exploratory speech.

Called Act of Aggression

"Whatever the rights or wrongs may have been in the earlier stages of this dispute . . . it does seem impossible for us to come to any other conclusion that the invasion of Hyderabad by the armies and air forces of the Dominion of India is in fact an act of aggression."

Neither the British government nor the government of India could be expected to that there can be any justification in the circumstances for a resort of force.

"Unless this deplorable situation can be brought to an end it may well lead, I fear, to a renewal of that communal strife which shocked the world not so over a year ago.

"I have no doubt that we should do everything in our power to invoke the assistance of the United Nations. This was precisely what Mr. Jinnah (opposition leader Winston Churchill) suggested a few weeks ago.

"If U. N. acts quickly and acts with authority it will not only do a considerable service to its own reputation but will perhaps save in vast area of the world's surface from untold suffering and human misery," he said.

The Security Council is due to take up the Hyderabad situation tomorrow at Lake Success.

A three-phase armament program was dropped before a shocked House of Commons Tuesday by Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister.

Morrison set forth his plan shortly after the opening of the 10-day special session, ostensibly called to pass a parliamentary bill curbing the power of the House of Lords, but clear the way for nationalization of the iron and steel industry.

Anxiety Over World Situation

The world situation "gives cause for anxiety," Morrison said in his surprise statement. To meet it, Britain will slow down on demobilization of its veteran troops ordered up recruiting of the armed forces, and accelerate improvement of air defence, armor and anti-aircraft guns.

Production of jet fighter planes will be nearly doubled, Air sir ministry spokesman said British will sound jets as fast as possible to all overseas stations and also to the other four members of the western European pact —

Says Hydro Construction Causes Cement Shortage

-Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) —Two million barrels of cement are going into hydro-electric power construction alone in Ontario and until these are completed will be scarce and expensive, Sam McCord, head of a Toronto building supply firm said Tuesday.

Mr. McCord, president of Black market existing along the Niagara-Toronto area, Mr. McCord said. He was commenting on a report by Councillor Charles E. Pullen of Fort York Ont., that a black market existed along the Niagara River.

Moscow Talks Near Conclusion

Moscow, Sept. 15, (Reuters) — The Moscow conference of foreign envoys and Soviet leaders which started July 31 now are nearing conclusion, well-informed western observers said today.

"I should say we are of guarded optimism.

It is not yet known whether Tuesday night's 90-minute Kremlin meeting between Foreign Minister Molotov was the last whether there will be one more session.

A British spokesman said today he was unable to disclose anything about the future plans of Frank Roberts, Britain's special envoy.

"No comment" was his reply when asked if Roberts planned to leave Moscow shortly.

Other usually well-informed diplomatic sources, however, suggested Roberts would probably be leaving shortly and the current Moscow discussions would be ending next week.

This morning Roberts conferred with Geoffrey Harrison, British Minister in Moscow, and also consulted Hugh Lunghi, Russian-speaking attache who has been serving as British translator and note-taker at the Kremlin meetings.

Roberts and Harrison called at the United States Embassy at mid-day for conference with Smith and Foy Kohler, counsellor at the Embassy.

4,500 Strike Crowd Rushes Aviation Offices in Paris, 95 Police Injured

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—A strike crowd of 4,500 rushed the National Aviation offices in the central Paris today and injured 95 policemen, it was said.

An estimated 2,500 of the crowd were workers of the nationalized aviation industry, demanding the recent layoffs of workers from the government-owned Air France and 2000 strikers from the nationalized Renault Auto Plant joined them.

They threw paving stones and bits of iron pipework at the police, who fought back with night sticks and fists. About 2,000 Paris police and two squads of mobile guards fought off the strikers on the Boulevard Haussmann. The riot flared for two hours, subsided and then was renewed.

Members of the Communist-led Confederation Generale du Travail at the same time organized a demonstration at Bullancourt to demand a minimum monthly wage of 13,500 francs ($40).

Employees of the aviation plant struck this morning, protesting the recent layoff of workers from the government payrolls. The French aviation industry is nationalized.

Some 31,000 workers of the Renault Motor Plant also voted to go out this afternoon.

Six were torn up the iron grills work around trunks of trees lining the sidewalks, broke the barriers and used the pieces as missiles to hurl at police. The strikers littered the street with paving stones and bits of glass.

About 30 strikers were severely injured. Some 15 police were taken to hospital, police reported.

Careful Saving of Hydro Power Or Drastic Cuts

"Restrictions Not Enough to Give Us Required Savings," Says Saunders

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Chairman Robert H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission said today the commission may be faced during the day with the possibility of introducing more stringent restrictions and saying modifications to suddenly emerging issues.

Despite yesterday's "ideal" weather conditions, the commission had to reduce consumption by 2,700,000 kilowatt hours, effective nearly a dozen Southern Ontario industries

Hon. Saunders said Hydro engineers are trying to determine the reason for the sharp increase in power demand Tuesday despite brighter weather. He said it may have been due to "an exceptionally strong local demand" or added housewives to refrain from using electric ranges.

"This is really a very serious matter and we are all the time at minimizing it and we want the people to know the facts. We must have a all-out voluntary saving or we will be compelled to take very drastic steps in placing power."

Preliminary reports indicated consumption is restrictions will went into force at midnight last night but there were still shortages.

"But, unfortunately, the restrictions are not enough to give us the required margin.

Mr. Saunders did a little checking for himself on the commission's power restriction program.

Driving along Toronto's Bloor & Clair Avenue and Yonge Street Tuesday night he took a list of the number of stores which are obviously breaking the restrictive regulations. Mr. Saunders said there would be a warning sent to the owners of the first time and "we'll simply have to prosecute."

Winds are light and variable. Temperatures are warmer air over the midwestern United States is moving eastward and by Thursday increased temperatures will be noticeable especially in the southeastern part of the province. An area of showers now over the Great Lakes is expected to pass through the southwestern regions during the next 24 hours.

WHY POLICE COMBED HAIR

Islington, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Provincial Police related in court in this Toronto suburban township Tuesday why they combed their hair when they raided a suspecting betting house. Static electricity from the hair which remained in the comb enabled them to pick charred bits of paper from the stove. It formed part of the evidence in the case against Geo. W. Reid in charge of keeping a betting establishment. The case was adjourned.

Aurangabad Taken By Indians Without Shot Being Fired

Invaders Encountering No Opposition from Populace

New Delhi, Sept. 15 (AP)—India threw parachute troops into the invasion of Hyderabad today and quickly captured 84 miles from the capital. The drive was from the west.

The second largest city of the princely state, Aurangabad, and its cantonment surrendered in the northwest, giving India virtually all that portion of the state, the defence ministry said.

India simultaneously threw its troops struck into the south central state of Warangal to quell disorders was afoot and the will of the people, 80 per cent of whom are Hindus, was being thwarted.

(A Karachi dispatch said Pakistan and Hyderabad have not confirmed the loss of Aurangabad. Hyderabad advices reported a stiff fighting on the border of Berar, which joins the state on the north. Hyderabad claimed 2,000 of its irregular troops "the possibility of introducing more stringent restrictions and saying modifications to suddenly emerging issues."

RANSACKING OF AUTOS NIGHTLY OCCURRENCE

Ransacking of autos left overnight at local tourist stopping places is becoming a frequent occurrence with no less than four such incidents being reported to police during the past two nights. Last night the car of Mrs. Ethel Hall entered at a tourist home on Dundas Street, while last night the automobiles of Thomas Ferris on Highland Ave., where again the doors of 3 American cars were entered. In one auto a camera and cigarettes were taken, while petty cash was reported missing from the second car. Police of both points were hands by forcing the no-draft ventilator.

21-POUND 'LUNGE' TAKEN FROM BAY NEAR TRENTON

While on a fishing trip Sunday, August 13th, with Maurice Callaghan still in the boat, called "Dream," Mr. William Frawley of this city had the pleasure of landing a twenty-one pound lunge. The party was trolling in the Bay of Quinte near Trenton when the catch was made.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION HOLDS ANNUAL THANKSGIVING SERVICE

St. John's Mission, Herchimer Avenue, was prettily decorated with fruit, vegetables, grain and flowers and was used for the Harvest Thanksgiving Services on Sunday last. At the morning service the choir sang "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling" and at the evening service Mrs. W. Formark sang "The Stranger of Galilee." She was accompanied by Miss Redner at the organ and Mr. W. Weymark with the violin. Both services were well attended and conducted by the rector Rev. E. Caldwell.

ROSSMORE GRASS FIRE QUICKLY CONTROLLED

For the second time this season members of the Belleville Fire Department yesterday afternoon were called to the village of Rossmore to extinguish a grass fire which threatened to get out of control. The alarm was first turned over a large area of dried grass and was endangering some buildings when the Belleville Fire Department was called. A small watch at the end of three and a half inings because of darkness. At that point the Y's Men were leading the rotating Rotarians 7-6 by virtue of a three-run rally in the top of the fourth.

Neither team was able to field nine players from the service club and it was necessary to enlist the aid of some, more or less reckless, bystanders.

Rotary opened the scoring in the bottom of the first frame, adding a few more runs, but that means pushed, on one hit and two walks.

The Y's Men came back in the top of the second to score four runs on two walks, two hits and a passed ball. A smart double play by Rotary in the first inning put off a threatened rally by the Y's Men.

Rotary came charging back in their end of the second to count twice and pull up even with the opposition. They added another pair in the third to take two runs lead.

With the shades of night being drawn swiftly the Y's Men batted three tallies across the plate to make a one run lead, at which point the umpire called it quits and both teams adjourned, each claiming the victory.

However, official ruling from the president of the O.A.S.A. was it that neither team can claim the verdict because the game did not go the minimum four innings out of seven.

Therefore, the Rotary squad are still champions of the Service Club Softball League for the year, two starts this season they have won once and broke even in their second one.

Lineup:

Rotary: Houston 2b; Marshall 3b; Hagerman c; Mott p; Willies 1b; Reid ss; Dickey rf; Francis lf; J. Hagerman cf.

Y's Men: Hunt c; Boyd 2b; Sine c; Watkins 1b; Amos 3b; Hyde p; Gilbert rf; Hiles lf; Upper ss.

Camera Club Holds First Meeting Of Fall Term

The first meeting for this season of the Belleville Camera Club was held in the upper room of the Corby Public Library Tuesday evening. Fifteen members were present. Lloyd Thompson presided at the meeting with Dorothy Stewart as secretary.

The meeting was opened with the president expressing a welcome to those present, and outlining the programme of activity for the season.

Norville Tonkin, charter member of the club, gave a talk and demonstration on film developing discussing the various phases and methods employed. Following his talk, Mr. Tonkin held an open discussion period in which the junior members filled questions on things not familiar to them.

A snapshot contest was also the prints judged by some of the senior members. Winners for first, second and third respectively were: Ronald Godden, Joe Saquet-Dupuis and Marion Rafuse. Prizes were awarded the winners by the president.

Memberships were issued to those present for the coming season, after which a print judging contest was held. The larger pictures, involving the senior members, were adjudged on their photographic ability by the votes of all present. Winners of the three positions were: Hedley Jones, Norville Tonkin and Dorothy Howard.

Tuesday, September 28, will be the next meeting night. At this time an election of officers will be held. Following which the meeting will adjourn to the home of Mr. Tonkin to allow the junior members to view his excellent collection of photographic equipment, and learn something of the operation and purpose of the same.

An invitation is extended by the president to any person who feel that simply clicking the shutter on the camera is not enough and would like to experience the undeniable thrill of seeing their pictures develop and print before their eyes. Meetings are held on the second and last Tuesdays of the month at the library.

Insects, Parasites Subject of Talk By Geo. Wishart

"This is an age of specialization and entomology is no exception" said George Wishart, speaking to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly meeting at the Quinte Centre on Tuesday on the subject "Insects and Their Parasites." Introduced by Kiwanian Campbell at the luncheon and on behalf of the members Bill Goodyer in Walter Englestead, who is leaving for Montreal, Mr. Wishart expounded on the formation of the new Kiwanis Club at Cobourg and hoped that members would visit the club. The new club has 28 members and will have a Charter Night in the near future.

Kiwanians were told not to forget the band concert by the R.C.A.F. Central Command Band to be held in the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday night and also the Big Parade and Show at the Fair Grounds on the same evening. Kiwanian Bill Goodyer, in addition to the band concert, announced that the Kiwanis Club of Belleville and Trenton Fairs Committee through the Fairs Committee organization.

Two Sections

Mr. Wishart stated there were two sections of entomology, that of the subject and the insect and there were artificial control methods, natural control and also the natural control which is biological. "Insects attack everything because their numbers are untold," said the speaker. "The biological aspect is more than the weight of all land animals and there are now known about 600,000 species of insects and that is only about half the number. They are older than mammals and if man is not careful they will destroy him" said Mr. Wishart.

The speaker explained that insects were very adaptable being able to suit the environment and that they were found in all conditions in a year. Incidents cited showed the fact that insects in one time lived on outdoor growth but later it feeds and lives on stored grain products. Another example is the building mode which 20 years ago was easily controlled by spraying but today lives inside the walls. It is found that the power of increase in insects was colossal but the hazards encountered in their lives was many. Mr. Wishart pointed out that some insects were pretty well segregated in their own countries but when put in other countries the insects got free transportation and practically without any restrictions are all from foreign countries and it was necessary to import their parasites.

Functions of the laboratory in this city have been most beneficial to residents of British Columbia but it can be said that pests never eliminate entirely the pest being controlled. It is also noted in the work that parasites do not behave the same in this country as they behave in Europe, in conclusion Mr. Wishart explained the mechanical or biological control. His address was most instructive and interesting.

League Season Gets Under Way At Bowl-O-Drome

The official league season at the Bowl-O-Drome got under way this week with two loops swinging into action. Belleville Sargent will bost twelve teams this year while the Commercial Mixed League will see fourteen squads into competition.

Many veterans of the alleys turned out bolstered with a number of new bowlers with augers well for the success of the sport for the coming season. Scores were good considering the lengthy summer lay-off.

Following are the scores of the Commercial Mixed League:

New Empire Groceteria Last Word In Modern Food Merchandising

Boasting the most modern appointments in grocery merchandising and one of the finest privately owned groceterias in the Eastern Ontario district, the new Empire Groceteria will open its doors to the public for the first time on Thursday, Morley saving specials, as well as a complete line of groceries, for the first day's opening day.

Faced with alumite and vitrolite, the plate glass windows of the new store are unusually attractive, inviting the shopper into the spotlessly clean and well appointed and equipped interior.

Combining the popular grocerteria "self service" style of grocery merchandising along with well stocked and courteous clerks the new store features grocery shelves that can easily be reached by children but at the same time attractively and conveniently displaying the goods. Modern shelving, refrigerator, dairy and fruit counters are also a feature.

Special Ice Cream Dept.

On entering the well lighted store the customer will find the special ice cream department immediately to the left. In this department not only the best ice cream will not have to enter the store proper.

An account of planning has been spared to make the new Empire Groceteria completely modern in detail. For instance there is a lavish number of fluorescent lighting units making the store as light as day, while a specially designed air conditioning unit assures the air supply to be constantly fresh.

The store's meat is kept in refrigerator counter for meats, a special unit for the display for butter, cheese and other like commodities. Here, at a temperature of 36 feet in length, capable of displaying the widest range of fresh fruits.

Also speaking of the lavish appointments of the store, the combined warehouse with its separate weighing department and modern delivery service must be mentioned. This warehouse, 60 by 100 feet is completely insulated for protection of produce. The store itself is 30 feet in width at the front and 100 feet back to the rear.

But the pride of Mr. Frank Domenico, Empire Groceteria manager, is the self contained bakery where all bread, pies and pastry sold in the store will be made. The modern bakery with its 200-loaf oven and electric mixing equipment, is situated in a separate port of the basement. The current bread will be featured in the special bread and pastry department of the store.

Delivery Service

The present delivery service offered by Empire Groceteria will be continued. Customers may emerge from the store through two modern check out counters where their purchases may be also checked for delivery.

Groceteria delivery to customers will not be taken through the front entrance of the store but by way of a special elevator will go to the basement of the store in the rear. The fruit trimming department is also in the basement. Here the daily supply of fresh fruits will be trimmed. The elevator will also be used for the necessity of supplies being taken through the store for placing in the fruit counter.

The same motto of quality foods in low cost which has been a motto of the Domenico family in Belleville for years will be carried on by the new Empire Groceteria. The staff as well as customers are cordially invited to visit the new store on opening day.

All Must Co-operate to Save Power to Prevent Shut-offs O.H. Scott Tells Merchants

Co-operative effort on the part of every householder, retailer and industry to conserve power at all times, if necessary, to prevent general shut-offs are to be avoided here, O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Hydro Electric Commission told the Retail Merchants Association at a meeting of Commerce yesterday.

Mr. Scott pointed out from a survey made by the Commission, that 70 per cent of all power used in Belleville is for domestic purposes. Therefore it is just as necessary for the householder to conserve power as it is for commercial users.

Drawing attention to the large increase in power used, Mr. Scott increases in 1948 over that for corresponding months in 1947 as much as 4 per cent, he projected the outlook for the balance of the year.

He stated that daily power quotas here was 113,000 kilowatt hours and at present the average consumption is approximately 120,000kwh's or an increase of 7,000 over the quota.

"These are facts are considered," he said, "and in view of the shorter days for production in the winter months, it is very clear that every effort must be made by householders, retailers and industry to conserve power at all times."

Rests With Householder

Restrictions have already gone into effect for commercial users but householders who use 50 per cent of the quota are only asked to voluntarily make power savings. It rests with every household to conserve his share.

"Power must be saved by every domestic user as well as commercial user, or else general shut-offs will be made," Mr. Scott warned.

Following Mr. Scott's address the committee moved to hold another meeting next Monday, Sept. 21 at 9 a.m. at the City Council Chambers to hear a report on the week's activities and progress by Mr. Scott, and to discuss necessary legislation. The public the Committee are requested to attend.

Members of the proposed Santa Claus Parade, chairman W. J. Brown and Mr. Hamilton that a canvass would now be made to raise the balance, $850.00 necessary before the parade and the fair. Names of those contributing funds to the Parade will be published.

Law Anticipated

Investigation into the anti-noise by-law No. 1500 found that the law was more or less anticipated and would not cover the prohibition of the use of sound trucks.

The committee, following discussion, passed a recommendation to be presented to the Council requesting that a new by-law be drawn up which would prohibit the use of sound trucks on city streets for commercial purposes.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

The quiet thinking that has been going on in Britain lately in the more controversial arguments that catch the public eye, is demonstrated in a machine tool exhibition in London.

In Britain, as elsewhere, the picture of things to come is being drawn by the business of people doing their daily tasks, and planning for the future.

Canada has seen samples of it and producers coming over with good articles to offer, and seeing them in competitive markets. That is the criterion and the question mark, whether Britain still has the know-how which once established her industrial greatness of the current London exhibition of machine tools, a United Kingdom information office news release says:

"Almost all the machines are of post-war design or show developments and improvements of pre-war types. One remarkable feature is that 4,000 tons (£125,000,000) worth of complex machinery was assembled in only 13 days."

George Strauss, Minister of Supply, states it is almost certain nearly £35,000,000 ($145,000,000) worth of small and wood working machinery will be produced in Britain this year as compared with £7,500,000 in 1935.

"Strength in machine tool industry is well abreast, and in many instances ahead of the rest of the world in design, production and new ideas," the information office release states.

Markets Tuesday

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Industrials continued Tuesday's stronger tone, advancing on scattered fractional gains on the stock exchange here today. Base metals were also firmer while golds and western oils held steady as trading slowed down.

Papers led the advance in industrials as 15 issues ranged up to more than a point. Steel of Can. added peace a stronger steels group, advancing 1 1-2.

Senior golds advanced narrowly while trading was very quiet in the weaker juniors. Lamaque rose 23 cents and Kerr Addison and Dome firmed. Malartic, Macassa, Kirkland Lake, East Malartic and Cochenour dipped to 5 cents in the second list.

Base metals moved ahead at a slower pace than Tuesday but continued to show a majority of good gains. Consolidated Smelters was 2-8 better and Falconbridge advanced 12 points. International Nickel, Pend Oreille, Sherritt and East Sullivan also strengthened.

Home Oil rose 25 cents in a lethargic western oils list. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Hexana and Pacific Petroleum weakened.

Marmora Chamber Holds Dinner Meeting

Marmora, Sept. 15 — The monthly meetings of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce were resumed on Monday evening with a dinner meeting at Marble Point Cabins, Crowe Lake. Following the excellent repast, served by host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gunn, the vice-President, took charge of the meeting, which boasted the attendance to thirty-six. A two-minute silence was observed in memory of two deceased members, Dr. Col. A. V. Yates and H. A. Burwash.

Guests and new members having been welcomed, President Fraser mentioned that a new entertainment committee of three would have to be appointed, consequent upon the death of Col. Yates, the resignation of Rev. E.M. Cadigan to Ottawa and the absence on a holiday in England of H. J. Neath. He further referred to accomplishments by committees since the last meeting in June. Minutes of the June meeting having been approved, the secretary, R. E. Neal, read correspondence in which it was announced motion of the Steel Company of Canada holding open through the winter months and 6 and the national convention of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce which is being held in Vancouver, October 26 to 29.

Don Marett gave the report of the Advertising and Publicity committee, in which attention was given at the approaches to the village and the advertising booklet which had been distributed. The report of the Tourist Development Committee was given by C. H. Buskard. In the absence of James Sharron, the Membership Committee's report as prepared by him, was read by the chairman.

The membership of the Chamber was stated to be eighty-four. The report of the agricultural committee was presented by H. A. McNally reported for the industrial development committee and mentioned the survey of local resources.

R. E. Bonter for the Halson committee reported the relations between the Chamber and the municipal authorities as being of the best. The report of the Rec. work in the arena was sketched by Bernard Hughes. Apart from the plumbing the building will be complete with two rinks. Mr. Hughes also outlined the proposed program for opening ceremonies to take place during the next month.

The report on the Marmora Day was jointly given by Reeve V. M. Lynch and R. E. Neal.

Water Discussed

Discussion on the water level of local waters and the request for a water authority for the Crowe River was followed by keenly waged. The Chamber is awaiting reply to a letter sent by its secretary to the Chief Conservation Engineer of the Department of Planning and Development, before taking further action. Before the meeting adjourned short speeches were heard from guests.

MUSKIES START TO RUN

Fort Erie, Sept. 15 — (CP) — A nine-pound muskellunge was landed from the Niagara River by Dr. W. C. Reid of Fort Erie, just south of the International Bridge. The fish was caught on a plug and is taken as an indication that "muskie" are running with the advent of cooler weather.

School Association Honors Graduates At Social Evening

Six graduates of the Canniton-Corbyville Public School were honored Monday night at graduation exercises held in the school. Graduating were Grace Hall, Eldridge, Audrey Archibald, Patsy Gilbert, Betty Lyon, Jim Fox and Sam Morgan.

The ceremonies were opened by the singing of "O Canada" with Mrs. J. Pearce accompanying the singers on the piano, Mrs. R. H. Plumpton, chairman of the Home and School Association, acted as chairman for the evening. Mr. Gordon Locklin, in presenting the graduates with their diplomas, said that he was very pleased that all the graduates were continuing their education.

Mr. Fred Partridge, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented the girl graduates with a corsage, and Mrs. Plumpton, on behalf of the Association, presented each graduate with a B.C.I. ring. The presentation was followed by prayer conducted by the Reverend Mr. Trumpour, and Mr. Eric Coppella sang "My Task."

Mr. Alden Boyd, vice-president of the Association, then presented the prizes to the two pupils from each room making the most progress during the past year. They were: Junior Room, Allan Jones and Beverly Cook; Intermediate Room, Melville Jeems and Myrna Milton, and Senior Room, Max Watts and Floyd Milton.

Mr. Eric Cappella, sang some very plaintive ballads accompanied by Mrs. Wesse. Miss Nancy Devid of Trenton Sunday, ventriloquist, gave his impressions of school, using his dummy "Willie McGee."

J. Musgrove Speaker

Mr. J. Musgrove, director of Vocational Guidance at the Belleville Collegiate, was the principal speaker of the evening. He outlined the work of guidance directors with students, and stated that today, as never before, a man or woman must know what they can do and how well they can do it. He stated that it was the legislate's aim to present the students with the opportunity for gaining he knowledge which would best suit them for their future activities.

Mr. Norman Curlette thanked the speaker and the guests for giving their time and talents.

Mr. Darling, the principal of the Canniton-Corbyville School, Mrs. Darling were presented to the members of the Home and School Association by Mr. Furnidge.

The social committee served refreshments with the students of Grades 7 and 8 acting as waiters and ushers.

BRITAIN PREPARED

France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The British press today generally approved the government's defence plans.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph described the government plans as "obviously the very least possible."

Peace and Strength

"We are approaching a stage, as the government announcement testifies, when peace must depend on strength rather than upon other arguments," the newspaper declared.

The Liberal News Chronicle said, however, that the new British policy "represents a victory for the Russian policy of embarrassing the democracies at every possible turn."

Opportunities in Canada

The future is bright for this country, says 'Canada Today,' a very attractive publication of the Bank of Montreal, just issued and giving a comprehensive view of the Dominion, the people and the resources of this new land. Whether Canada is considered from the standpoint of a new permanent home, a land of opportunity in every respect, or as a vacation land, "you will find in this great land of contrasts many interesting possibilities".

To the manufacturer seeking the establishment of a new industry or of a Canadian branch of his business operating in another country, the Dominion is seen as offering as especially warm welcome and far-reaching possibilities. Proof of this is shown in the number of British and American firms already operating successfully in this country. Among the attractions offered are abundant power at low cost, immense sources of raw materials, unlimited labor supply, fine economical transportation by air, water, rail and motor highway as well as the appeal that can be made on the score of national health.

Canada is a young land and her resources, it is pointed out, are in spite of her magnificent development, still untouched in their immensity, for nature has endowed Canada with riches equalled by few other countries. Canada needs a larger population, the appeal of which is an opportunity beckoning to peoples in other lands where population is dense. So in this youthful nation there is found abundant opportunity for individual or family to settle here and record for the rewards will be a participation in a high standard of living. Investors find this a land of opportunity. Vacationists see in it an unbelievable appeal of scenic beauty and recreation.

"Canada Today" with its 96 pages and large map and abundance of illustrations brings this appeal to the fore for it is undoubtedly of no small importance to the attention it focuses upon Canada's Constitution and Government and her position in the Empire. Such an attraction looms large to an intending immigrant.

Then there is an interesting group of facts and figures as to the production of this country's forty leading manufacturing industries which have a total output of $6,285,806,906. But that is not the whole story of manufacturing for the total production of all manufacturing industries amounts to $8,250,388,866 in 29,050 establishments in which are employed 1,219,972 persons. Such figures easily explain why Canada is now the third trading nation in the world.

New Highway Signs

Ontario's Department of Highways is being complimented on a new type of sign which is being erected along the many miles of the provincial system of highways. The change to the new sign is in the fact that it is of weather-proofed, glass-impregnated cloth which clings tightly to the metal sign to which it is attached by the vacuum process. At night motorists see the signs stand out with the necessary brilliance in the glare of automobile headlights.

The sign is marked by readability — one of the necessary requirements on the much-travelled roads of this country.

There is an old saying that it is important that he who runs may read. The same is true in motoring, he who drives must be able to read the signs at a glance and for that reason the Highways Department has decided to limit the number of words on these highway guides to four only. He who drives has not time for reading too many words and is grateful for brevity.

DUGOUTS FOR DUCKS

"Landscaped" dugouts for ducks is the newest idea in waterfowl conservation, says Angus Gavin, project manager of Ducks Unlimited. In an experiment near Swift Current, Sask., bulldozers on which attract ducks — are being used to make dugouts in water areas look more like home.

LOOK vs. SPEECH

Question a wife and she will say
She needn't ask how went the day
If she can glimpse him through the gate
When he is coming home again.
The way he walks the street will tell
If everything for him went well.

It head be down and step be slow
That wife-sister's wrong she'll know
Her heart will sink with rapid stride,
Her face will flush and swelled his chest with pride.
Full well I know we men are made
That strangely are our moods displayed.
The drooping chin, the dawn-like gray
The dragging step can never stray
They tell, when men are trouble bent
What they with speech would try to hide.

Ask any wife, she'll say his is clearer than an open book
His every action will display
At half a glance, how went the day.
Ally's to before a word is said,
By how a husband holds his head.

Full well I know we men are made
That strangely are our moods displayed.
The drooping chin, the dawn-like gray
The dragging step can never stray
They tell, when men are trouble bent
What they with speech would try to hide.

Ask any wife, she'll say his is clearer than an open book
His every action will display

Mrs. Margaret Ote of Detroit Michigan, is visiting her mother-in-law, Mrs. G. Green, Coleman St. after an absence of 26 years.

Mrs. S. Ryan of Crookston is a guest of Mrs. Palace in this city.

Mr. Robert Andrews, Coleman Street, of the mail carrier staff in the local post office, wounded a large timber wolf which was stretched full length in the centre of the road near St. Ola to which place Mr. Andrews was travelling in his car. It gave him quite a shock, for a second or two feared the lights of the car frightened the animal and it dashed into the underbrush and disappeared. Mr. Andrews says that what he saw dispelles the story that wild animals have disappeared from the north country.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

WE MAY WELL HAVE HOPE

Meetings of extreme importance have been held in Europe during the present summer by the great religious bodies. The outstanding meetings were the Lambeth Conference — a meeting of all the Anglican bishops throughout the world, including the bishops of the Episcopal Church of the country — and the first meeting of the World Council of Churches.

We are inclined to become downcast and discouraged these days about general moral conditions, and there is justification for this pessimism. But we should also be conscious of the fact that in the Christian Church throughout the world there is a multitude of fine and intelligent leaders. More earnest, learned, intelligent, and consecrated men have seldom been found in the ministry of the Church.

The great handicap to clergy and laity alike is an absence of firm settled belief. This unsettlement began with the rationalism of the 18th century, and for the past 200 years has been gaining and worse. Today many church-members are almost afraid to say what they do believe; and many of the clergy are looking for their leader's own intellectual unsettlement, to find these bewildered people much guidance.

Religion is a matter of faith, and faith is built upon belief. The Church is led by good and great men today, but it is retarded by the lack of overwhelming conviction in the varieties of religion.

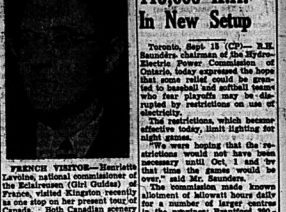
Knows Tricky Arctic Route

On Board H.M.C.S. Haida, Sept. 18. (CP) — At least one man on this destroyer knows the Arctic with the tricky Arctic route now being followed by the Royal Canadian Navy's northern task force.



He is Cmdr. George H. Stephen, who spent years plying northern waters before he was called to active service by the Navy in 1939. From 1934 to 1938 he was in command of the famed Hudson's Bay Company's Eastern Arctic supply vessel Nascopie, which sank last year.

In 1939, up to the time he was called for active service, he was captain of the "Lady Theresa" the Roman Catholic mission ship which travels to northern areas. So when the Haida and the destroyer Nootka met with Fox from Halifax for Churchill, Man., Cmdr. Stephen left his wealth of knowledge of the Arctic to good use.

His current civilian post is supervising director of yard craft and assistant King's Harbor Master in the Halifax dockyard. When the northern trip was planned he was taken on to help guide the ships safely to their destination.

Arrival of the task force at Churchill marked the first time that Canadian warships had touched the northern Manitoba port.

Destroyers are not unfamiliar to Cmdr. Stephen. He was in command of a destroyer in the latter years of the war and was decorated for successful action against enemy submarines, for sailing 4 ships torpedoed and sunk and a tanker to port from mid-Atlantic and for maintaining a fight against fire in another vessel.

Mackenzie's Column: Three Tense Weeks Changed History Of the World

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

This day 10 years ago your reporter left the port of Montreal plane in London and pursued Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's every step leading to Adolf Hitler's Alpine retreat at Berchtesgaden in the first effort at appeasing the Nazi dictator.

That was the beginning of 3 tense weeks which changed the history of the world. Those dramatic days were the crux of my journalistic life, and I venture to recall them briefly because after only one decade we again face a crisis in international affairs having momentous potentialities.

The 69-year-old Chamberlain, an honest and high - minded but unlucky statesman, flew to Berchtesgaden in an effort to "find a peaceful solution to the crisis" which was menacing world tranquility. The "peaceful solution time" was an irresistible magnet, and so the prime minister and I were made a date with the mad-dog dictator.

War seemed to be approaching with terrible swiftness. Great Britain, France and Russia resigned his position as foreign secretary because of opposition to the prime minister's policy, was insisting that concessions to dictators "are not the way to peace." On Sept. 12 Hitler made an appeal for "self-determination" for the Sudeten Germans in Czecho-Slovakia. There was bloody fighting near the German frontier between Czechoslovak gendarmes and Sudeten Germans.

It was in this tense atmosphere that Chamberlain telegraphed Hitler a conference, which Hitler set for Berchtesgaden. French Premier Daladier had urged Chamberlain to make the effort. France pinned her hope of peace on the latter's parley.

So the two chiefs of government set in the Fuehrer's "eagle's nest" high rising from the valley of Berchtesgaden. I find from the files that I reported as follows:

"It was clear to observers that the peace grew more hopeful since it would be predicated on the principle of self-determination of some Sudeten territory to Germany. The supposition is informed circles here is that Chamberlain would take back a proposal for the peaceful annexation of Sudeten Germans by Hitler."

Chamberlain returned to London the next day. He was met on the airport by a crowd which greeted him with cries of "Good old Neville" as a token of appreciation for his efforts to preserve peace. He told the assemblage:

"It was a frank talk, but it was a friendly one. I feel satisfied that each of us fully understand what is in the mind of the other."

Republicans Make Clean Sweep in Maine

Portland Me., Sept. 15 (AP) — The Republicans did it again in Maine — with bigger majorities than usual. Party leaders called Monday's general election a portent that the GOP will come nationally in November.

It was the seventh consecutive time the Republicans have captured all major offices.

The principal victor, Senator-elect Margaret Chase Smith, said in Washington that she expected and 97,000 majority of the total vote cast Monday. That would be a great Republican National victory.

The 50-year-old member of the House of Representatives armed forces committee had first won man elected to the United States Senate without having first served a full term in the house.

Democrats generally conceded a 50,000 majority for Governor-elect Frank Fellows and Robert Hale to Washington and named Charles P. Nichols, Democrat, Augusta, to be Mr. Smith's House seat.

Pearson to Heed King's Warning, Will Visit Algoma

Ottawa, Sept. 15 (CP)— Newly-appointed External Affairs Minister L. B. (Mike) Pearson will pay a visit to Algoma East before Minister Mackenzie King and "look after his political fences."

He will make a three-day visit to the Ontario riding where the Liberal party leader has a political appearance of the former diplomat, Hon. Wishart Robertson, K.C., as the party candidate.

Mr. Pearson's appointment Friday, he told reporters, "I think Mr. Robertson plans—if he doesn't be ought to—to look after things in Algoma East."

Progressive Conservatives already have announced they will oppose Mr. Pearson. It may become a three-cornered fight with the possibility that the C.C.F. will nominate a candidate.

Meanwhile Buchar, 73-year-old Liberal who held the seat for 12 years, has been appointed to the Senate.

Seeding of Fall Wheat Delayed By Drought

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) — The delay in seeding of fall wheat in Ontario is emphasized in, the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Seeding of fall wheat is delayed by drought and there are indications of a considerably reduced acreage this year. Where there is a heavy rain within 10 days, Pastures are burned up and many ploughs are idle. Farmers feeding in an effort to maintain milk production.

Cool weather last week helped the tomato crop and harvesting now is general. The tobacco harvest is well advanced and the report says a good crop is indicated in most sections.

High temperatures and dry weather reduced the vegetable crop.

$10,000 Bail Ordered Estreated

Hamilton, Sept. 15 (CP) — When John Brown, of no fixed address failed to answer when his name was called in assize court in court, Monday, Judge William F. McKeown ordered the estreatment of his $10,000 bail.

As a result, all Hamilton citizens are involved, having put up bonds for the accused man, who is charged with theft from a person which he could easily conceal in the car in which he was riding.

"We will either get the money from those who put up the bond and bring them into court," A.C. Caldwell, County Sheriff, declared.

In addition, Harvey C. McCulloch, 24, Hamilton attempted jail in court Monday he wanted a warrant for the arrest of Brown. He also asked that bail of $1,000 or two sureties of $500 each, be set for the bondsmen when they were arrested.

City Allowed 113,000 K.H. In New Setup

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP)— R.H. Saunders chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, declared today that hope that some relief could be granted to hospitals and industries who fear payoffs may be disrupted by restrictions on use of electricity.

The restrictions, which became effective today, limit lighting for night scenes.

"We were hoping that the restrictions would not have been necessary until Oct. 1 and by that time the drought would be over," said Mr. Saunders.

The communities made known allotment of kilowatt hours daily for a number of larger centres in the province: Brantford 280,000; Chatham 138,000; Galt 138,000; Hamilton 2,400,000; Kitchener 414,800; London 638,800; Merriton 139,000; Niagara Falls 132,000; St. Catharines 367,000; St. Thomas 139,000; Sarnia 160,000; Sault Ste. Marie 240,000; Stratford 250,000; Welland 139,000; Windsor 690,000; Belleville 113,000; Kingston 355,000; Oshawa 1,000,000; Ottawa 430,000; Peterborough 260,000.

Figures on previous allotments were not available.

JOURNEY'S END — A boulder pierces the hull of a small New Brunswick coastal freighter, Ella Pearle, ran aground in a dense fog during the Bay of Fundy coast near St. Martins, N.B. NEED MORE ROOM IN YOUR HOUSE?

Most families could do with another room in the house during days. And it's possible too! Take a look at that "waste space" under attic or basement. This space can be turned into a delightful recreation room at very little expense.

Johns-Manville has just the thing for the job — a fireproof, sound-deadening material, called Fiberboard. Made of asbestos and wood fibres, Fiberboard is like a sheet of wood, yet it can be sawed, nailed, painted and used in the best to conform to modern city curved surfaces. Fiberboard comes in the position formerly held by his friend and colleague, the late Rt. Hon. Sir James H. Ralston.

EMPIRE GROCETERIA

Takes Pleasure in Announcing the

GRAND OPENING

Of Their New, Ultra Modern Groceteria at 282 Front St. on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th at 9 a.m.

THE GRAND OPENING OF THE NEW EMPIRE GROCETERIA will take place THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 16th. After years of planning and months of hard work and difficulties we are proud to announce the opening of one of the most modernly equipped independent food markets in the Province.

THE NEW EMPIRE will carry a complete line of Groceries, Fruits and Vegetables, Fresh and Cooked Meats; our own Ice Cream manufacturing department and last, but not least, our own Bakery Department, where Cakes, Pastry and Bread will be made fresh daily. We are very proud of our Bakery Department and we invite any one to visit our bake shop at any time and see the spotless, clean, white painted bakeshop, where we will endeavour at all times to bake nothing but the highest quality goods and at prices that we know will save you money.

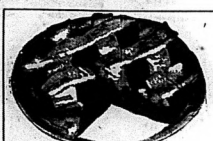
MEAT DEPARTMENT. Our Meat Department will be unexcelled, both from a standpoint of equipment and the high quality of the meat that we will endeavour to have at all times.

FRUIT and VEGETABLE DEPARTMENT. Our Fruit and Vegetable display stand is the latest and most modern piece of equipment that could be purchased. Made of pressed steel and stainless steel with high pressure sprays for vegetables and two electric fans that keep the air circulating underneath, the fruits and vegetables, this helps to keep them fresher longer.

GROCERY DEPARTMENT. A word regarding the shelving for Groceries, Cereals, etc. These shelves are made of steel and enamelled in white with black trim. The top shelf is about five feet in height which will make it a pleasure for the housewife to pick and choose her items in comfort and without exerting herself in reaching for items on the top shelf or the lowest shelf.

DAIRY GOODS DEPARTMENT. We will have eighteen feet of refrigerated dairy counters. This will enable us to carry all varieties of dairy goods and have them under refrigeration at all times.

BAKERY DEPARTMENT. The bakery department is placed near the rear of the store and all baked goods will be placed on shelves where they can be seen at all times. Competent service will be given in this department.



ICE CREAM DEPARTMENT. We have placed the ice cream department at the front of the store. This will enable us to considerably speed up our service in this department. Any person wishing to make an ice cream purchase alone will not have to go through the store and lose considerable time.

AIR CONDITIONING. Yes, we are the first food store in this part of the country that is air conditioned. Do you realize the advantage of this feature? Not only will it make it more pleasant to the shopping public to do their shopping at the Empire, but Cereals, Biscuits, Sodas, etc., will be kept in a much fresher condition and won't be soggy in warm weather. Air-Conditioning will also help to keep fruits and vegetables fresher looking and better to eat.

We have purchased a number of push carts for the convenience of the shoppers who make heavy purchases. These carts carry two wire baskets and are easy to handle and to move around with. We could tell you a lot more about the New Empire Groceteria, but we want you to see for yourself just what we have in our new store. Pay us a visit at your earliest opportunity and be a regular shopper at the New Empire Groceteria. May we ask the co-operation of our many old and prospective new customers to use shopping baskets, placed at the front of the store for your convenience. This will not only save you time in your shopping but will save us many paper bags.

A DAUGHTER BETRAYED, A SUITOR HORSEWHIPPED

—Central Press Canadian

Here are the principals in the sensational court action in Maidstone, Kent, where Horace Isaac Caro, Westminster city councillor and London business executive, must stand trial on charges of having horsewhipped 26-year-old Kenneth Coates, former R.A.F. officer (left) by whom, it is alleged Caro's 20-year-old daughter Jacqueline, a screen actress known professionally as Jackie Henderson, centre, is expecting a child. Caro (right) was bailed for trial after a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court in Ashford, Kent.

The wedding music was played by Sister Mary Philomena on "Ave Maria", "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" and "O Sacramento Divino".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown with fitted bodice, long yoke, and sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil fell from a headdress of white lace and tiny white flowers and she carried a bouquet of red American Beauty roses with baby's breath and fern. Her only jewelry was a necklace of the bride's pearls.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Bernard Bennett of Belleville, sister-in-law of the bride who was matron of honor. Mrs. Bennett wore a floor-length gown of pink chiffon with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, full skirt, long sleeves ending in points over the wrists and a matching headdress of pink chiffon trimmed with pink lace and a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses with white baby's breath.

Mr. Bernard Bennett, brother of the bride was groomsman and the ushers were Vincent and Ambrose Gilhooley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Lanthorn Inn. The bride's mother received wearing black flowered jersey dress with black accessories and corsage of yellow Talisman roses.

Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

PARKER—BRICKMAN

Qu'Appelle United Church Manse was the scene of a pretty double ring ceremony on Saturday, Aug. 23th, when Miss Stella Brickman, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brickman of Carrying Place, Ont., became the bride of Mr. Hugh Oval Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Parker of Avonhurst, Sask. Rev. W. H. Black officiated.

The bride who was given in marriage by Mr. Archibald Macdonald wore a street-length dress of aqua crepe, sequin trimmed. Her white plaited net hat was a halo model and with her white accessories, she wore a corsage of sweetheart roses.

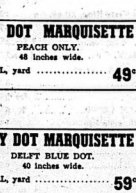
Miss Daisy Pennington, of Rhyl, North Wales, attended the bride and she chose a street-length frock of raspberry - rose crepe with navy blue accessories, her corsage of carnations was in harmonizing shades.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the groom wore a grey mesh dress with draped effect, her hat in turquoise mohair, flower trimmed and her corsage was vermillion gladioli.

Mr. Mervin Jones of Edgeley attended the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Mrs. Winter's Tea Room in McLean, where about twenty guests sat down to a daintily-arranged supper. The bride's table was centred with a three - tier wedding cake banked in tulle and sweet peas. Tall white tapers and summer flowers graced the table.

Rev. Mr. Black proposed a toast to the bride and a toast to the bride's grandmother and the groom's mother was proposed by Mr. Macdonald.



For going away the bride donned a soft rose-colored suit dress with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker left by motor for Clear Lake, Manitoba, where they will spend a honeymoon before returning to reside on the farm north of Avonhurst, Sask.

As a fitting opening for the fall season, the Anglican Young People's Association of Christ Church held a garden party and sale of home-cooking on the spacious lawn of the residence of one of the members on West Bridge Street.

A good attendance was realized during the afternoon, and the funds raised through this effort will go towards the piano being purchased by the organization.

The success of the affair was largely due to the efforts of Miss Barbara Carr who conveyed the home-cooking sale; Miss Vera Flindall, refreshments, and the united efforts of the members who assisted in the project.

Tea was poured for the occasion by Mrs. J. Grant Sparling.

The second meeting of the season will be held in the form of a wiener roast and social outing at the Outlet tonight.

ACTRESS STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Hollywood, Sept. 15 —(AP)— Actress Rita Johnson today remained unconscious for the ninth day from head injuries which police now concede must have been caused by a falling hair drier. Detectives ruled out foul play in a formal report Tuesday and said they found nothing except the heavy drier which might have caused the severe brain concussion.

Mrs. Sara O'Shea Very Grateful For Help Given

"I cannot find words to express how wonderful, and in what ways ready to help, is the Canadian Institute for the Blind and Belleville Lodge," said Mrs. Sara O'Shea, 24 Harriet Street in a letter handwritten at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. O'Shea is totally blind, and has been so since December 9, 1943. Her sad history is relatively simple, and like the sad history of many others in this country who have suffered loss of their sight.

Prior to losing her eyesight, Mrs. O'Shea was working in an office. First one of her eyes became useless, and then two years later the other. She was very dependent at the time, being a woman of mature years faced with the chances prospect of going through life without the use of her sight.

However, a ray of light entered into her gloom when she registered with the Canadian Institute for the Blind in August of 1942, with Mr. Milne who was then Field secretary for that district at the time.

In September of the same year Mrs. O'Shea was assigned an instructress, Miss Rosabelle Munro in a very short time, Mrs. O'Shea found that the outlook was not as dark as she had thought imagined. The science of Braille reading and writing was imparted to her under the careful guidance of Miss Munro. Through the kind instructions in leathercraft, woodcraft, knitting, weaving and other useful arts have followed in keeping with the Institute's training plan.

At present Mrs. O'Shea is looking forward to Miss Munro's next visit this week when learned to typing will begin. Of her instructress, Mrs. O'Shea says, "Miss Munro is so kind, very nice and cheerful and was totally blind. She always seems to be the bright side of things, and won me out of my despondency in very little time."

A widow, Mrs. O'Shea resides with her sister, Miss V. LaBerge who manages household duties daily, and often goes out in company with her sister.

Mrs. O'Shea is just one of more than one hundred such handicapped persons in Hastings County who are finding a ray of hope and cheer under the guidance and assistance of the Canadian Institute for the Blind. This aid and assistance is made possible through the generosity of the public who extend a helping hand to their handicapped neighbours through their contributions.

Women's Activities

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

Madoc Jct.—The September meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held Sept. 5th at the church.

The W.M.S. President, Mrs. Carl Bridge presided over a program which had been prepared by Mrs. Warner Hamer, Mrs. A.E. Christie.

Worship service was conducted by Mrs. W. Harlow and Mrs. Bridge. Poems were read by Mrs. Hamer, Mrs. Ross McMullen and Mrs. Milton Reid.

Piano selections were given by Mrs. C. Plchett and Mrs. H. Clark.

The collection was taken up by Anne Mae Clarke.

Minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. Bruce Stapley and Roll Call showed eleven members present.

An invitation was received from the West Huntingdon W.M.S. inviting the members of the Union Auxiliary to attend their "Guest Dinner" the first Thursday in October.

Meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Harlow.

HAZARD'S W.M.S.

The meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the church on Tuesday, May. P. Harris opened the meeting with quiet period. The Worship Service, conducted by Miss A. Moorcroft was very inspiring.

The president visited the sick presenting them with boxes of candy. The business period was conducted by Mrs. N. Broad. It was decided to have a Silver Tea. Mrs. Broad and Mrs. F. Harris gave a brief talk on the highlights of "The School for Leaders" at Whitby. Mrs. S. Moorcroft displayed dollies sent from China, as a gift. The program conducted by Mrs. Broad consisted of readings, taken from the Study Book "West of the Gorges" along with maps and pictures of China. The meeting closed with the benediction.

BETHANY W.M.S. AND W.A.

The monthly meeting of Bethany W.M.S. and W.A. was held jointly at the home of Mrs. Geo Sills on Thursday. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed at noon in aid of W.A. work. Later Mrs. W. Clark called the meeting to order and took full charge in the absence of the president. Mrs. Frank Walker offered her home for the October meeting and Mrs. John Hitz will be in charge of the program. Offering was received at this time.

The theme, "A Christian's Responsibility Towards the Liquor Traffic as Viewed by Women" given by Mrs. W. Clark as was suggested in Missionary Monthly.

After singing "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," the scripture lesson was read after which Mrs. James Sills led in prayer.

Mrs. G. Kerr gave a short reading on "Be Your Best." Mrs. R. Sills sang "Prayer Perfect" which was much enjoyed by all. A playette was presented by Mesdames Sills, H. Clark, Mrs. Ritchie, Sills and N. Casey entitled "What Does Freedom Mean to Us." Mrs. Cooley closed the meeting with prayer.

BURR'S WOMEN'S ASSOC.

Burr's — The September meeting of the W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Huffman. The attendance was much smaller than usual due to so many of the members assisting in picking tomatoes and corn for the canning factories. Three visitors Mrs. Geo. Harris, Sr., Mrs. Andrew Harris and Mrs. Geo. Harris Jr., were welcomed. In the absence of the president, Mrs. P. Osterhout conducted the meeting. Mrs. Ronald Burr acted as secretary in Mrs. Don Osterhout's absence. Following a brief devotional period, a letter of thanks was read, received from Mrs. Percy Clements thanking the W.A. for flowers. Ten dollars was voted to the flower fund. Mrs. Fulford gave two reflexible readings. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants. Miss C. Tull joined the group at the tea hour.

Beauty Care for Hands

A hand mask cream you can leave on all night is excellent if hands have been rough

By HELEN FOLLETT

SAYS a beauty specialist: "Your hands are as if they were two more faces you have to look after." The skin of the hands differs not a particles from the skin of the face, except in the treatment you give the latter. The complexion is coddled and petted, creamed, powdered and protected. But the hands, the hard-est only the leavings of the cosmetic fiend, sometimes not even that. Considering that they are more subjected to dust and hot water, they should have frequent shampooings with a creamy cosmetic to make up for the natural oils that are continually being removed by washing.

Hand Lotions

There are excellent hand lotions on the market; they should be used freely. There are cosmetic cleans that are helpful if one has been gardening during the past summer and neglected to protect the hands with gloves. There is the old-fashioned combination of peroxide and strained lemon juice that will remove discolorations, because summer freckles to vanish. the flesh to grow heavier.

There is also a hand mask you can leave on all night.

This, scrawny hands, especially, need plenty of friction with some creamy substance. Cocoabutter and lanoline are both recommended for this purpose. Thumb either one into the knuckles, friction it into the cuticle that surrounds the nails.

If you can spare time for the weekly manicure these busy days you are in luck. If you can't, you must learn how to give your nails the best possible care to keep them healthy and of good color-ing.

Emery Boards

Use emery boards for shaping, working from sides to centre. Apply a cuticle cream to loosen the cuticle from the nail fabric. While it is on, litt thy flesh gently by sending the orange wood stick in small circles. If you flush up any little shreds, snip them away with the curved, needle-point scissors, otherwise do not cutting at all. Continued-cutting, especially at the sides of the nails, will cause

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Keeping Your Face Clean

Cleansing is of the most fastidious kind is the first law of beauty. If that fact could be forced into the minds of teen-age boys and girls, there would be fewer cases of blackheads and acne. Soap is the queen of cosmetics. It may not appeal to one as much as those lovely fragrant creams and lotions that one totes away from the cosmetic counter, but it is indispensable. Its good works are far-reaching.

Those who live in large cities, where the air carries soot, must wage a continual warfare against dirt. It is as destructive to the skin as it is to fabrics. Soot carries a large percentage of black grease and, unless it is removed twice a day, it is bound to find its way into the pores. There is no way of camouflaging the dark pellets with rouge or powder. To remove this debris one must use a competent solvent.

There are women who use liquid cleansers or creams, but the average woman doesn't "feel right," unless she uses a gorgous lot of lather, together with friction. Soap lathers in varying degrees. Of course, hard water is a hindrance. Water softeners are obtainable at cosmetic counters. A pinch of borax will help, and will do no harm to the skin.

Toilet soaps have reached a high degree of perfection, yet the brand that may be good for one skin may not be the happy choice for theneat one. If the flesh feels firm, stretched and smooth, try out another kind.

Perfumed soaps may be pleasant or unpleasant to you. The fragrance does not change the cleansing value. Lavender, pine, and lemon verbena seem to be the favorite of soap makers. They are nice, fresh odors.

Don't be stingy when using soap, simply passing the washcloth over the cake and passing the cloth over your face. If you are troubled with blackheads, use a complexion brush. Foam up a rich suds on the bristles. Pass the brush over your face lightly. The friction will bring good color.

Every particle of soap must be rinsed away. If it isn't, the dry skin will get drier, the oily skin oilier. After the nightly overhauling of the complexion, rinse with warm water, dry with gentle pats and rub in a little cream. Let it remain on over night; the flesh will sip it up, be all the better for it.

If the skin has a soap complex, simply will not endure it, get a cosmetic meal. These meals are as cleaning as soap, but starchy content tends to make the cutaneous surface smooth and fine.

GOOD MANNERS

Exception to Rule: Here Hostess Should Have Been Served First

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening, at dinner at my home, it so happened that I was the only woman at table: there were my husband, his closest friend, a famous doctor who was like roommate in college; our 30-year-old son and a friend of his who had just returned from Europe; and a cousin of mine who was passing through town. My husband, as always, did the carving and vegetable-serving at table and passed the first plate to me, saying, "This is for you, Martha." Was it correct for him to do this, or should he have first served one of the men guests, in deference to his distinction? I have not mentioned this to my husband, nor have we discussed it at table as I just took it for granted that he was right.)

M. B. S.

And right your husband was . . because, in the one circumstance (when the hostess is the only woman at table) the hostess should be served first. And it was quick and courtly for your husband to make it clear to you that the first plate-serving was for you, not for you to pass on to one of the guests.

How to Reply to an "... and Friend" Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received an invitation to a church wedding and reception, addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones" on the outside envelope and to "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and Family" on the inside envelope. Living with us are four grown-up members of our family: two sons and two daughters, and only our two daughters will be able to go with us to the wedding and reception. How should we correctly reply to this invitation?

J. J.

The most polite way would be for you and your husband to send one reply:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones accept with pleasure etc.

for each daughter to send her own reply:

Miss Dorothy Jones accepts with pleasure and for each son to send his regret:

Mr. Thomas Jones regrets that he is unable to accept

Or, since the invitation was sent as a "blanket invitation" to "Mr. and Mrs. and family," the following might be sent (though not with such complete courtesy):

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones

Miss Dorothy Jones and Miss Florence Jones accept with pleasure etc.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mothers, Don't Tie Your Children to Your Apron Strings

Perhaps it will sound like heresy to some very possessive mothers and some very dependent daughters but there can be such a thing as too close a mother-daughter tie.

Some mothers pride themselves on being such chums with their daughters that they go everywhere together and seem almost like two people of the same age.

I have been under the doctor's care for nervousness and he told me to go out more often. I don't dare ask this boy to come and see me more often because if I do, Mother will make me give him up and I don't want to."

This is a situation already well on its way to serious trouble. No doubt the mother prides herself greatly on the fact that she and her daughter "pal" around together which is a matter of choice fact, she is doing the girl serious harm. In keeping her so closely tied to her apron strings.

What she should be doing instead of making her daughter accompany her wherever she goes and cutting her off from normal companionship with boys and girls of her own age is to overhaul the whole family setup to bring about a healthier state of affairs for her daughter. Not only the maternal attempt to break up her friendship with the boy, but the love but the necessity imposed upon her of staying home to keep house and look after the younger sister has already obviously begun to undermine this girl's health. There are this mother's eyes and where is her conscience not to see that the nervousness for which the girl has been sent to the doctor is entirely her own fault?

It would be a very wise thing if this doctor, instead of telling the girl she ought to get out more, would tell the same thing to the mother. If he does not think of doing this himself, then the girl should ask him to do so for it is probably the only way of even making a start at solving the problem.

HEAT JAMMED FRIG DOOR

Autumn Ensemble

Jacket and Skirt Outfit

By VERA WINSTON

THE STRIPED jacket teamed up with a monotone skirt is still a favorite and is encountered frequently for fall. This one, a very smart suit, has a jacket of striped fabric, gray with wine red. It has a simple round collar and dark red self-covered buttons. The skirt is of wine red flannel, cut on softly full lines, and to complete a nice outfit, there is a wine red jersey blouse.

Fashion Flashes

IDEAL for the traveller as well as for the college girl and the country cousin, and good for general wear in town, is the fine camel hair coat, perennially popular. A handsome double breasted model has a wide-spaced Barrymore collar and a modified front panel while a back belt with a decided set of buttons controls the bulky fullness of the coat.

WE APPLAUD the consideration and good style sense of one fur designer, at least, in the use of suede and satin, a dainty small purse bag which has a keystone shaped satin tab on the flap that is ornamented like a tiny pocket so that a jewelled clasp or ornament may be securely attached without leaving pin marks on the suede.

VERY SLIM suits longer of jacket, as well as of skirt, are registering in the high-bracket shops. Navy blue broadcloth is used for a handsome suit with a flash of red in the insets of the tiny, self-tailored pockets, revers. Double breasted closing above a slim skirt with a flare flung by a narrow self belt. Knuckle-length jacket is cut but distinctly flared. Skirt is very slim.

TO ONE SIDE go some of the smartest fall hats. Soft green velour is seen in an irregular cushioned cloche, the low side accented by a fold of pointed revers. Twisted ostrich in a sort of palm tree effect.

PRETTY PICTURES will be the order of the evening, when the autumn season gets under way and bright young things go out dancing. A delightful dance dress is composed of a slim bodice of black velvet with a drop shoulder ruffle of white Venise type lace, and a full skirt of white net with appliqued garlands of black velvet roses.

THE DEMAND is growing for the fitted fur coat, for the young figure, as well as for the more mature type. One shop is doing nicely, promoting a fitted coat of natural gray Chinese kidskin. A shawl collar, shirt cuffs and side pleats are new, as is a belt in the back.

BATHROOM TO LET

"NOW, WHO CAN I NAME AS EXECUTOR?

There's Uncle Frank, of course, but..."

How WISE of them to reflect on the "buts" and "ifs" before they appoint any person as Executor of the estate!

"I wonder if Uncle Frank knows how to make the most of the estate? How to deal competently with Dominion and Provincial succession duties and taxes? Will he have the time to spare? What if he becomes ill? If he died, who would take over?

"Instead of leaving anything to chance, dear, I'll appoint National Trust as Executor. It's their business to administer estates. And their knowledge and experience will relieve you of a lot of needless worries."

For your family's security, name National Trust as Executor in your Will. We welcome your inquiries.

Party Voters In Seven States Pick Candidates

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—Party voters in seven States had their candidates all picked today for political offices ranging from Governor and Senator down to minor town positions.

These were the major results in Tuesday's primaries across the United States:

Senator Joseph Ball again won Republican nomination in Minnesota, while Mayor Hubert Humphreys of Minneapolis snagged the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Another incumbent Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado rolled up a heavy victory margin in his State's Democratic primary. Republican Senators Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire were unopposed. Saltonstall will get his November opposition from John I. Fitzgerald, while Alfred E. Forrin will square off against Bridges.

Both Michigan senatorial candidates—Republican Senator Homer F. Ferguson and a former Democratic representative, Frank Hook—also lacked opposition within their own parties.

A number of candidates for Governor also were chosen in Tuesday's primaries.

Massachusetts Republicans renominated Governor Robert F. Bradford. Democratic candidate Paul A. Dever was unopposed.

Governor Thomas Mahoney of Rhode Island, the race to accept appointment as Professor Truman's Secretary of Labor, his name was on the ballot. Mahoney polled more votes than Bradford's Republican opponent.

Michigan Democrats handed a slim lead to G. Mennen Williams, running with C.I.O. backing, over two opponents—Victor E. Buckley, supported by the Teamsters Union (A.F.L. and industrialist Harnett J. Abbott. Republican Governor Kim Sigler, although unopposed for renomination, garnered a heavy broken vote.

In one important congressional contest in Michigan, Republican representative Baytal J. Konkman was upset in his bid for another term by a political newcomer, Gerald R. Ford, Jr., who had accused Konkman of pre-Pearl Harbor isolationism.

U.S. Airmen Who Bailed Out Land Safely

Frankfurt, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Two American airmen who parachuted from the Soviet zone in Germany are back safely today in the United States zone, the United States Air Force announced today. The two are Capt. Kenneth W. Slaker and Lieut. Clarence R. Steber. They bailed out over the Russian zone early yesterday when their plane developed engine trouble.

Steber was brought to Frankfurt by United States liaison officers.

Slaker, pilot of the transport which was ferrying food from Wiesbaden to Berlin, was said to have been turned over to constabulary units on the Russian border shortly after midnight. He was flown to Wiesbaden.

Officials said Slaker suffered a minor back sprain in jumping from the plane after it developed engine trouble.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency in Berlin said the transport was flying 10 to 15 miles outside the air corridor to Berlin "and thereby violated air regulations."

LARGEST IN WEST INDIES

Jamaica is the largest island of the British West Indies.

300 Employees Of Protection Co. Out on Strike

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) — Some 300 employees of the Dominion Electric Protection Company went on strike shortly after midnight in four Canadian cities in enforce demands for a 15-cent hourly wage increase and a 40-hour week.

Members of the United Electrical Workers of America (C.I.O.) they stopped work at Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London where the company provides burglar and fire alarm services to banks, factories, warehouses and other places of business. Six union men employed by the company at Ottawa have deferred strike action for a day.

The workers voted to strike after an Ontario Conciliation Board recommended a seven-cent wage increase retroactive to April 1.

Last March the employees staged a five-day strike over the issue of union recognition.

Ernest Brigindshaw, business agent of U.E.W. Local 512, said the strikers have placed a picket line at the company's office in Toronto. He added: "The strike is in effect in all other cities where the company has offices. There will be no burglar or fire protection until the strike is settled."

An official of the company estimated it would cost $10,000 a year for the 15-cent wage increase. "We just can't pay it," he said.

Meteorologists Prefer Blondes

Toronto — (CP) — Meteorologists prefer blondes.

For business reasons only, the weathermen have found blonde hair to be more sensitive to moisture, that is. And moisture-proof hair is a vital part of the hygrograph, a machine that records atmospheric conditions.

Brunette locks, they have learned, are too greasy while red hair is without sensitivity.

Once they have clipped the locks of the lady of their choice, a delicate operation takes place. The strands are washed and dried and then straightened by a machine.

In groups of about 20, the strands are strung from each of the same length and tension. The finished object resembles a miniature antenna with vertical wires.

Next the sealed strands are linked to an arm operating a pen that records moisture changes on a revolving drum. As the moisture increases or decreases the golden strands expand or contract.

FROM ARABIC

Alfalfa is probably a Spanish version of the Arabian word alfacfach, which means "the best fodder."

FLYING WING—Canada's tallest glider, after two years of tests at Namao, Alta., airport, is headed for eastern Canada for further tests at Arnprior, Ont. The National Research Council hopes to prove the bat-like wing will provide the basis for flying planes more lift and greater speed with less power. Here is the flying wing prior to leaving for the east. To date it has survived a crash landing and has some 50 flying hours to its credit. (CP Photo).

Crucial Battle Will be Recalled At RCAF Stations

Ottawa, Sept. 15 (CP)—A crucial air battle in which lay the fate of a nation's survival will be recalled by hundreds of Canadians in special ceremonies across the Dominion Sept. 18.

The occasion is the eighth anniversary of the culmination of the historical "Battle for Britain" fought from the second week of July, 1940, through October of that year. On Sept. 15, 1940, the critical period ended.

Forty-seven Canadians lost their lives when the Germans pitched their air might against the air might of the R.A.F. and other forces over British skies.

But by mid-September of that year, recalls air force headquarters, the Luftwaffe suffered such devastating losses that it could no longer form the assault of an immediate invasion and Hitler's plans failed.

The battle had a special significance for the R.C.A.F. in August, 1940, for the first time of the war a Canadian Air Force squadron received its baptism of fire. Three officers and men lost their lives; another 44 were killed in action with the R.A.F.

"Battle for Britain Sunday" has been set aside to mark that battle, headquarters says. Special parades will be held cross the Dominion. At all larger centres, an R.C.A.F. march past will take place. In the ceremonies will be veterans of the battle, officers and men of the regular air force, members of auxiliary squadrons and Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

NANKING BLOWN UP

Nanking, Sept. 15 — (AP) — A Communist railroad mine Tuesday night blew up a Pukow-bound train 90 miles northwest of Nanking, killing at least 100 persons.

Railroad officials said the mine was planted near Pangpu and that the locomotive and the first car of the train were destroyed completely.

Hope Almost Gone For Agreement On Ex-colonies

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP) — Hope is all but gone today for any Big Four agreement on the knotty question of what to do about Italy's pre-war African Empire.

With a scant 24 hours left to reach a decision, delegates of the Big Four are not even agreed on whether they have the power to decide the future of Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland. Russia says they haven't.

If no agreement is reached by tomorrow, the issue automatically goes to the United Nations Assembly under the terms of the Italian Peace Treaty.

There was in prospect only one faint chance for any agreement. That was a report from the Deputy Foreign Ministers' Council containing an agreement in principle that Somaliland be placed under Italian trusteeship. The British delegates said they didn't think much of the chance.

The delegates representing Britain, France, the United States and Russia, got together for the first time Monday and spent more than four hours arguing about whether they actually constituted a Foreign Ministers' Council as provided in the Potsdam agreement. The Western Powers said yes. Russia, in the person of Andrei Vishinsky, Deputy Foreign Minister said no.

Only France actually is represented by a foreign minister — Robert Schuman, state minister Hector McNeil represents Britain and Lewis W. Douglas, ambassador to London, is here for the United States. McNeil and Douglas said they had full power to act. Vishinsky said he lacked such authority and accused Britain and the United States of violating the Italian Peace Treaty by failing to send their top men Foreign Secretary Bevin and State Secretary Marshall.

Schuman asked him:

"If you did not consider this a council of foreign ministers' session, what practical reasons did you have for coming?"

"It's incorrect to put questions to me this way," snapped Vishinsky. "I won't be cross-examined."

20,000 Pheasants Released in Four Years by Assoc.

St. Catharines, Sept. 15 (CP)——Almost 20,000 pheasants have been released in the last four days in Lincoln and Welland counties by the Niagara district Pheasant Breeders' Association, poerators of one of Canada's first sportsman owned pheasant farms.

During last weekend 200 birds grown almost to maturity were released in orchards and asparagus patches of the peninsula by hunters who have decided to help Ontario government increase the pheasant population. The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has released 1,200 birds in each of the two counties since 1945.

The association raises its birds in incubators at a large nearby tract of land. It is equipped to handle 10,000 eggs each season.

CASE DISMISSED

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — This was the defendant's story: When he was servicing a refrigerator he was affected by escaping methyl chloride gas. The householder found him and gave him a "jigger' 'of rum. While still groggy he started up his car; a policeman came along, smelled his breath and arrested him for being in charge of a car while intoxicated. The outcome of the case? — Dismissed.

Open School To Help Prisoners Redeem Selves

Brantford, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Burtch Industrial Farm, a reform institution, designed to help lawbreakers redeem themselves, rather than to punish them, will admit its first group of selected prisoners today.

The prisoners, between the ages of 16 and 45, with between 30 and six months of their sentences remaining, will be selected from eight county jails within a radius of 30 miles of here. They will come from jails at Brantford, Cayuga, Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Simsoe, Welland and Woodstock.

"The inmates will be carefully selected so that Burtch will get the more desirable type of prisoner," said H. M. Hooper, superintendent of the farm.

The farm, a former R.C.A.F. wireless training school, contains 325 acres of arable land which will be cultivated by prisoners.

Says Death Due To Asphyxiation From Strangulation

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Dr. John Wyatt, pathologist, testified on Tuesday that Mrs. Lila Adams whose body was found last June 26 in an east-central Toronto back lane, died of "asphyxiation due to strangulation.

The doctor was a witness at the trial of Leonard Bernard Smith, 25-year-old foundry worker, on a charge of murder. He said a stocking had been wound twice around Mrs. Adams' neck and tied in a double knot. He described cuts and bruises he found on the woman's body.

Police testified they found Smith the morning of June 27 in the foundry where he worked. He was asleep in working clothes and without shoes. Detective-Sgt. Jas. Ledlie identified a blue shirt as the one he had found in Smith's locker. Earlier witnesses testified they had seen him wearing a blue shirt on June 25 and early June 26.

TO ISSUE DEBENTURES

Oakville, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Town council was urged Monday night by the water and light committee to approve expenditure of $210,000 for improvement and expansion of the waterworks. This would provide four times the present water supply. Second reading was given a by-law to issue 20-year debentures for the sum.

Eskimos Get Civilization Says Biologist

Montreal, Sept. 15 (CP)—Dr. Marie Hammer, Danish biologist who is just back from the area around Aklavik says the Eskimos have become civilized and you'd never know the old place.

He said, during a stop-over in Montreal, Eskimos get the evening meal from a can just as so many city folk do. They sleep on proper beds, enjoy electric toasters and sewing machines and light their homes with electricity instead of whale-oil lamps.

During her four-month Arctic trip Dr. Hammer collected insects and mites for the Arctic Institute.

Burmese Premier Is Re-elected

Rangoon, Sept. 15 — (Reuters) — Parliament yesterday unanimously re-elected Prime Minister Thakin Nu as head of a new Burmese government. His cabinet list will be announced shortly.

A cabinet list of 21 ministers was approved but not immediately announced. It was believed Thakin Nu would hold the portfolios of defence and home affairs as well as the premiership.

Thakin Nu, when appointed Burma's first prime minister after the country gained independence in January of this year, declared it was his intention to hold office for six months.

World Population Must be Limited Says Chisholm

Washington, Sept. 15— (CP) — Dr. G. Brock Chisholm, head of the World Health Organization of the United Nations and former Canadian Deputy Minister of Health, said "the virtue of large families has become obsolete" and sooner or later there must be a limitation of world population.

Here from Geneva for a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Chisholm said the question of limiting population must be faced.

"It may come in a year, 10 years or 50 years but it is inevitable."

People would have to "reorient their views on the virtue of large families," because of the obvious fact that population is increasing beyond the capacity of the resources of earth, water and air to sustain it.

He and a number of other scientists held a press conference in advance of their appearance at a discussion meeting of the A. A. A. S. on mankind's hopes for the future.

He was supported in this view by Dr. Fairfield Osborn, president of the New York Zoological Society, who said that in the United States, in spite of all advances in efficient production and living, the population is fast reaching the saturation point with respect to the capacity of resources to feed and support it.

Public Health

One field in which there is full co-operation by Russia and other Soviet states with the rest of the world is that of public health, Dr. G. Brock Chisholm told a press conference.

Dr. Chisholm, former assistant director of Canadian army medical services and now head of the World Health Organization of the United Nations said the Russian countries send their best men to Geneva for W.H.O. sessions and they co-operate fully.

The W.H.O. is the only specialized agency of the U. N. in which Russia co-operates completely and without reservation, he said.

"They don't send politicians to Geneva — they send their best medical and scientific men. There is no party line in the Soviet delegations to the W.H.O."

BURIED BY WOODPILE

Teeswater, Ont. — (CP) — Mrs. Harry Culliton of Teeswater rescued her three-year-old son Jimmy unhurt after a pile of wood toppled on him, almost burying him.

FIRED THRU WINDOW

Windsor, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police are checking on the source of a single shot fired through the window of a speeding Canadian National Railways mail train Monday at nearby Stoney Point. Police said the shot nearly hit the fireman, Ernest Murphy, of London, Ont.

According to information given by the crew, the train was about two miles west of Stoney Point when there was a sudden explosion and the shot crashed through the window.

They were unable to say whether it was fired from a rifle or shot gun, but said the fireman escaped injury by a matter of an inch or two.

ASK TAMBLYN'S BY Kate Aitken

STIFF RUGS: "I have an Axminster rug that has lost its stiffness on the back. I understand there is a glue which can either be made or bought and which can be brushed on the back. Do you know what it is?"

It's a solution of gum arabic. To make it dissolve a pound of the gum arabic in hot water. While still hot, brush the back of the rug, let it dry, then brush again.

CANNED CARROTS: "We have plenty of carrots in the garden. I would like to can some of them. How do I go about it?"

Clean the carrots. Plunge them with boiling water then with cold. Pack them either whole or sliced in pint or quart jars. Add one teaspoon of salt per quart jar. Fill to within ½" of the top. Loosely adjust the tops. Process in a boiler of boiling water for 60 minutes. The water should be at least four inches over the tops of the jar, lift out, tighten the tops and there you are.

Skating: "I am very much interested in giving my eleven-year-old daughter figure skating lessons this coming season. I would appreciate any information you could give me concerning tuition and approximate cost of same."

Detroit Coach High on Goalie Terry Sawchuk

Saskatoon, Sept. 15 (CP) — Coach Tommy Ivan of Detroit Red Wings feels that a number of youngsters will make things really hot in their bid for places on the National Hockey League club when the squad leaves here to complete final training at home.

Half the club is training here and the other half at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Ivan is particularly nigh on his young goalie from Winnipeg, Terry Sawchuk, who last year put up for Omaha Knights of the United States League.

"In all my hockey I have never seen a young goalie handle himself as well as this Sawchuk," said the Wings' coach. "Why that Terry is terrific and while we have relatively have him hooked for our farm club at Indianapolis, the way he's going here in Saskatoon would make me believe he'll be ready for the N.H.L. right now."

As far as defence positions go, Ivan thought that Lee Fogolin, the youngster who made such a hit in playoffs with the Red Wings last spring after being moved up from Indianapolis, is coming along so he'll make all the veterans take notice.

"Those Wings in the Sault Ste. Marie training camp will be fully be surprised when I turn Fogolin loose against them towards the end of the week," he said.

The first of four exhibition games between the Red Wings and a combined Indianapolis-Omaha team will be played Wednesday night.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Young Mirk "Goose" Goodlin, who flings 'em from the knife side, experienced one of the thrills of his brief lifetime the other day. He hurled his team to a smashing 2-1 victory over the opposition and won for them a Toronto championship, the coveted young Mr. Goodlin, who, it seems, has for some years before he can naturally acquire the natural facial requisite of a House of David player, was aided and abetted by the silent blockings of one of his team mates that fact does not depreciate he ability of the Gooling who can slice the corners and split the middle with blinding speed.

And just in case you are curious, Master Goodlin is the ace flinging attraction of the Toronto Earlscourt baseball club, Toronto junior champions, who will offer their wares against the Kiwanis Juniors, pride of the North Hastings and west, this evening at the Fair Grounds. At 5.30 of the clock to be exact and under the kleigs.

The starry Hoglown-pardon-Toronto kiddets pushed the Oshawa Raiders, junior baseball prides of "Sour" Campbell's softball bailiwick, out of the way in two straight games in their march to the provincial title. And with a lot of those playing on the senior club, these Earlscourtians should boast a team that should take a spot of beating. But they're a long way from meeting the New York Yankees, and they are to be on. And it would not surprise us in the least to see our hopefuls turn the trick tonight.

Campbell, in his columnar oration following the two-game defeat at the Oshawa Hunters, jabbed at the Earlscourt beardless, or are they, ones to win the provincial title. But then "Sour" picked the Belleville Bobcats to cop the whole COBL title away back in the season—and you know where they finished. However, that's neither here nor there, and tonight's another day and one for the lions.

It is altogether likely that the Kiwanis powers-that-be will send in young Art Wright to do the flinging chore, and if the kid is in the same form that defeated Oshawa Victorias in the two games of the best-of-three series, there should be no qualms regarding the Kiwanis hurling. A kid that can set back the Oshawa Merkley Junior champions for seven and in a row, has something on the ball, and pre-game ballyhoo from the west ender the Brown Bruces ability of these Earlscourt kids won't shock the Wrightian chucking arm.

The rest of the team is said to be in good shape and rarin' to meet the highly-touted Toronto squad. Soules will do the receiving while Reeves at short, the reliable Pete Jones at first; Dave Lockyer at third and "Mouse" Bain at second. Bob Bunzen and Don Semark will be hanging around the corners headed up in case a relief hurler is necessary. So there it is, people, the game should be a thriller.

For the boxing faithful, those who like plenty of agressive action, there's the mat tidbit at Memorial Arena tonight when Stevenson and Jack Stevenson will mix it up in one of the current season. Headlining the card is the fast-stepping Jack Stevenson of Belleville who will box Stevenson at Pete Kolaski of Toronto. Stevenson has won his last four starts and seems headed for a pot in the finale run, but young Jack Stevenson has really rated in the boxing game and the result should be the answer to the fans' prayer.

Bud Henry, another clever Oshawan, who already has made plenty of friends here with his willingness to mix matters with the fists in the squared circle, tackles Bud Henry of Brockville battler who, it is stated, fears none and slops away from nobody. On the main preliminary is Davey Thompson, another clever boy from Oshawa and Johnny Warner, Brockville, and this bout has all the earmarks of a crowd-pleaser. Soup Mendeville, one of the most improved lads to wear the colors of Belleville will clash with Norm Thompson of Brockville while Jody Wilson, Bob Tooley and Carl Chrone all Belleville boys will meet Jimmy Wise, Brockville, Harold Hamlin, Brockville and George Charles, Cobourg respectively.

All in all the card is one of the best offered fandom here and should attract a large crowd of fans. There are eight bouts all told with the two main bouts going five rounds and the main preliminary four. The remainder are three two-minute round affairs.

This evening at 5.30 the Trenton RCAF Flyers baseball team will meet the Port Hope squad in the deciding game of their best two-for-three first round Intermediate "B" OBA playdowns. The game is being played in Port Hope with the second game scheduled for Belleville later in the week. The Flyers have been practicing faithfully since they eliminated the Picton squad and in a recent game with the North Hastings All-Stars played at Coe Hill emerged victors by a 15-2 score. Big Jim Titus will start on the mound for Flyers tonight.

Napanee Lions will meet the Belleville Merchants in the final series for the Belleville Baseball League championship and dates to be announced later. Napanee disposed of the Trenton Flyers in their section of the semi-finals while Merchants brushed aside the Kiwanis Juniors in two straight games.

Louis Will Take Full Six Months To Make Decision

Philadelphia, Sept. 15 (AP)—Joe Louis intends to take the full six months to decide whether he'll retire as heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The Brown Bomber, who previously said that his June 25 fight against Jersey Joe Walcott was his last, told delegates to the National Boxing Association dinner Tuesday night:

"I have six months from the date of my last fight to make known my plans of retirement and until that time I should be free to act as the heavyweight champion of the world."

He then turned to Abe Greene, President of the N.B.A. and said: "Mr. Green, at the end of six months you'll have my answer on whether I'll retire or fight again on your desk."

To a reporter's query as to whether he would fight again, Joe replied:

"I don't know. Maybe yes, maybe no."

END OF PERFECT TRIP

St. Ann Des Chenes, Man. — (CP) — Norman Carr-Chrone all Belleville boys will meet Jimmy Wise, Brockville, Harold Hamlin, Brockville and George Charles, Cobourg respectively.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 15 — (AP) — Except for an occasional anticlimactic shudder over coming games against the Boston Braves, Billy Meyer, Pittsburgh's grey - haired, stoop-shouldered pilot, can look at his club without fear and with considerable satisfaction.

"We have a good unit," is the way Billy describes his pennant-contending Pirates. He has no stars — not even Kiner. They all work for the team. That way we have been able to spot our pitchers and hitters where they'll do the most good." . . .

No Stars, Eh?

Meyer still is chuckling over Ralph Kiner's pinch home run in Chicago the other day — the way Billy tells it, Kiner was so sick that day he could barely stand, but when Meyer tried to send him back to the bench, Ralph refused because "I might be able to hit one . . . Late in the game, with the Bucs behind, Meyer decided the time was ripe and wanted to put him in for Murtaugh because he hits that long ball" says Bill, "but I couldn't get him dressed in time. So Danny had to go up and he got a hit. Fitzgerald was neat but I had used up all my catchers and could not take them out. He got on too . . . Kiner finally came up and missed the first two that far (including that one two feet). Then he hit one over there (pointing toward the left-field stands) and nobody ever saw it again.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Sept. 15 —(CP) — Baseball writers here like to refer to Montreal as the best baseball city in the minors," and every so often suggest the Canadian metropolis is ripe for a major league franchise.

If the number of fans Montreal Royals drew into their International League ball park this season can be taken as a criterion, Montreal might possibly have a major league club in the not too distant future, despite all the obstacles that first must be removed.

Royals set a new attendance record with 477,604 witnessing their home games this season. It was 35,000 more than a year ago, when the previous record was set.

At that Royals will only outdraw one major league club, the St. Louis Browns. The Browns had 508,000 customers but won't go much above 350,000 for the season.

But Lloyd (Montreal Star) McGowan, doesn't visualize a major league franchise for a long, long time.

"Not in your time or mine" says Lloyd.

Sweat Boy

Buzzie Bavais, Royals General Manager, should have little trouble winning the crystal peering honors for 1948. Bavais predicted in May 15 (AA) Royals would win the International League flag by 12 games and (B) that they would be followed by Newark Syracuse and Rochester in that order.

Well Royals won the pennant but "Sweats" Bavais was a little out on his first prediction. They won it by 7½ and not by 12. But on the second count, he was 180 per cent correct which is quite a feat as anyone will verify that has tried to pick the order of finish in any sporting event.

With Salm, Spahn and Five Game Edge, Boston Braves Look To be in in National League

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It looks as if the Boston Braves are in.

With a five-game lead and only 16 games left to play, the Braves appear unstoppable in the National League today. At the most it seems that only a major nosedive would deprive the Braves of their first pennant since the "miracle team" of 1914.

As for hitting a serious slump, manager Billy Southworth isn't worried. He has the best remedy possible in his double "2" stoppers — Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn.

The Braves have won eight out of their last nine starts and Sain and Spahn have won five of these games.

Sain became the first pitcher in the loop to win 20 games when he pitched the Braves to a 10-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday.

The triumph enabled the Braves to pull five games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates who suffered a severe jolt by dropping a double-header to the third-place Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-3 and 7-6.

Sain, who now has won at least 20 games for the third consecutive season, coasted home, thanks to an eight-run second-inning rally against Hank Borowy and Ralph Hamner.

The Dodgers blasted 37 hits in shaking the Pirates at Ebbets Field. Marv Rackley with six blows and Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson with five apiece paced the Dodger bombardment.

Idle today, Boston and the third place Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

Counts Mucks fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics drubbed the Browns, 12-3, in a night game at St. Louis. Eddie Joost banged out five hits and Ferris Fain knocked in four runs to spearhead the A's 19-hit attack. Letty Lou Brissie scattered nine hits by coasting to his 14th triumph.

The Detroit Tigers took a doubleheader from the hapless Washington Senators, 3-1 in 11 innings, and 2-1. Paul Campbell's bases loaded single enabled Hal Newhouser to pick up his 15th victory in the first game. Virgil Trucks yielded three hits in pacing his 13th success in the finale.

SEVEN-YEAR TERM

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Chung Lee, charged with breaking into a suburban Leaside house last week, yesterday was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary.

Above are pictured from left to right Jimmy Wise, Brockville, and Johnny Warner, Brockville, a duo of smart young leathe-lungers who will be seen in action on the boxing card at Memorial Arena tonight. Headlining the bout is the clever Jack Stevenson, classy Brockville batter who will mix matters with young Pete Kolaski of Toronto. This bout is the best main attraction offered the fans to date and should be a "must." Several other bouts are on the card including Jimmy Totten, Carl Clapper and Joey Wilson, Belleville fighters who are rapidly making names for themselves in the realm of fistiana.

Hockey Seems Somewhat Of A Family Game

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 15—(CP)—Hockey seems somewhat of a family game, judging from the number of young Toronto Maple Leaf training school students who are either related to or chummy with the parents of key League stars.

Some forty youngsters from all over Canada are attending the school, which went into its second day today.

One brother act at the camp features Chuck and Dusty Blair of South Purcupine. Chuck was one of the top goal scorers with Tommy Anderson's Oshawa Generals last season. Brother Dusty came under Toronto playing guardianship last week in a transfer from Windsor Spitfires.

Then there's northerner Alex Barilko, big brother of Bill Barilko, jarring defenceman of the Leafs Stanley Cup and world championship team. Also a defenceman, Alex played hockey on the Pacific Coast and in the Quebec senior league. The Timmins boy hopes to team up with Bill on an all-Barilko major league defence line.

Another brother of a big leaguer is Gene Martin, 20-year-old Waterloo, defenceman who has been knocking down forwards with a thoroughness that had sidelipers recalling him to elder brother Clare Martin of Boston Bruins.

Hugh Riopelle, 20-year-old Ottawa lad, has been setting up plays in the last two practices for a cousin of Montreal Canadiens' Rip Riopelle.

Pitcher Given An Even Chance

Cleveland, Sept. 15 — (AP)— Don Black, the Cleveland Indians' hurler who suffered a hemorrhage near the brain, Monday, continued to improve in critical condition today with physicians giving him an even chance to live.

"For the time being there's nothing we can do," Dr. Edward Castle, team physician, said. "It's up to Don himself. If he can fight it off we can't do something. In the meantime, we just have to sweat it out with him."

The 30-year-old player became unconscious Monday shortly after he twisted his neck in batting against the St. Louis Browns.

Physicians said he had suffered a sub-arachnoid hemorrhage when an aneurism burst, broke open as he swung at the ball.

Dr. Spencer Braden, brain specialist, said that although the player's condition remained critical, he believed he was "a little better."

HIT WIFE ON HEAD

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Charged with wife beating, Anthony Durnford, cold nearby Cookstville Monday was fined $50 and costs. Evidence showed he hit her over the head with a tennis racquet in the argument over what their two children should wear.

Junior 'A' Race Will Have Nine Clubs This Year

(By The Canadian Press)

Nine clubs will enter the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" series this season, and five in the Senior "A" race. This was made known Tuesday at Toronto by O.H.A. officials who said Toronto Young Rangers are expected to drop from the junior series and Hamilton, Paris and Brantford have withdrawn from the senior. The nine junior clubs are: Toronto Marlboros, Toronto St. Michael's College, Barrie, Stratford, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Windsor and Guelph. Senior clubs are Toronto Marlboros, Hamilton Tigers, Owen Sound, Kitchener and Stratford.

Burly Bob Sandberg of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers holds the lead in the individual scoring race with eight games completed in the Western Inter-Provincial Football union.

Canadian Press statistics released Tuesday at Winnipeg, gave Sandberg, import halfback from Minnesota, a total of 18 points on three touchdowns and three singles. Ken Charlton of Saskatchewan Roughriders has 17 points for second place.

Charlton has scored two touchdowns and seven singles. Calgary Stampeders' plunging backsleder, Paul Rowe, is third with 15 points from three touchdowns.

General Manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens announced Tuesday at Montreal that defenseman Roger Leger has signed his contract for 1948-49 season. Leger, a bruising rearguard who tips the scales at 220 pounds, will be starting his third season with the team.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association announced Tuesday at Toronto that the executive has endorsed a recommendation for a series of meetings for referees. The aims are to improve standards of refereeing, to attain uniform interpretation of rules and to encourage keener public to become referees. The meetings are to be held in Strathroy, St. Thomas, Mitchell, Brantford, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Bolton, Midland, Oshawa and Trenton.

Players, officials, radio and newspaper men left Toronto Tuesday by train for the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Vancouver Sept. 23-25. Officials in the "golfers' car" included: F. N. Robertson, of Saint John, N.B., president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association; C. S. Watson of Toronto, vice-president, and Mrs. Myles of Toronto, Ontario representative of the R.C.G.A. Board of Governors; Harold Banks, R.C.G. A. assistant secretary.

Ora G. Herbert is no "homer" but he saved the greatest race of his brief lifetime for the track on which he was born when he set a new record for three-year-old futurity pace in winning the event at London, Ont., Tuesday. Never pressed too much in any of his three winning heats, the brilliant colt stepped off the mile in 2.06 1-5 as he captured the final whirl.

For the second straight day of Grand Circuit harness racing at the Exhibition fair a Toronto-owned colt won the featured event Tuesday when Cohesart took the $3,521 Reading futurity for three-year-old pacers. Winning time was 2.06.

Listowel Legionaries, Western Ontario Athletic Association intermediate champions, have accepted the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association playoffs and will meet Goderich at Athletic Park in the first game Wednesday night. officials said Tuesday at Listowel. Champions of the Huron-Perth League this year, Goderich will be bolstered by the addition of several players from the powerful junior entry.

Ottawa Nationals Take 11 Frames To Win Game

(By The Associated Press)

Ottawa Nationals, victors in the regular season, edged Cobourg Maple Leafs Tuesday night in 11 innins to score their first victory in the Senior Baseball League semi-finals.

The Maples now hold a 2-1 advantage in the best-of-seven series. In the parallel series, Geneva Redbirds downed Watertown Athletics 5-1 and also took their lead in three.

Ottawa tied the score 5-5 in the ninth inning when shortstop Mike Pontarelli hit a single. Right fielder Bill Scally juggled the ball long enough for Pontarelli to come home from first. Karpuk was running for Bob McCallard who had walked.

Pontarelli singled again in the 11th and set off on the winning run. He went to second while centerfielder Scotty Turtellelli was holding the ball and came home on Johnny Rumiatti's onebaser.

Herb Bantin went the route for Geneva, yielding five hits, while fanning seven and walking four. Watertown's Frank Swartz gave up seven, while striking out four and walking five.

Geneva opened with a pair of runs in the first frame on two hits and a walk, scored on Zanin's single in the third and parlayed two more hits and a couple of walks in the ninth for another brace of runs.

Watertown's lone score came in the seventh when Tony Romeo came home on a double by Swartz.

Royals, Bears Win First Games Of the Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

The pennant - winning Montreal Royals and the runner-up Newark Bears ace out to flying starts in their bid to win the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs.

Both the Royals and Bears scored impressive triumphs Tuesday night as the semi-final round of the ball loop's playoffs got under way.

The Royals, behind the brilliant two - hit pitching of Dan Newcombe, edged the fourth - place Rochester Red Wings 4-3 before a crowd of 18,862. The Bears thumped the third-place Syracuse Chiefs 12-5. With only 3,196 fans in attendance.

Newcombe, winner of 17 games during the season, including a no-hit triumph, blanked the Wings on one safety going into the top of the ninth when he suddenly lost control. The six Negro right-hander walked two batters and hit another to load the sacks with two out.

Nelson promptly unloaded the bases with a triple. Newcombe then fanned Chuck Diering on three pitches to end the game.

Newark's vaunted home - run power spelled doom for the Chiefs. The Bears clouted four homers with Ken Silvestri leading the way with two. Lou Novikoff and Hank Workman socked the others.

The second games of both series, which are best-of-seven affairs, are scheduled for tonight.

Close Concession At London Fair

London Ont. Sept. 15 (CP) — An amendment concession on the midway at the western fair was closed at police suggestion Monday night following complaints of adults and children they were not getting enough for their money.

Police said the attraction was the motorcycle lion show and declared no riding of motorcycles had been done from the time the show opened until it was closed. Several persons told police that although a motorcycle was started no person appeared on the machines and two lions walked around the foot of the wall.

It was learned the man who does the trick riding is suffering from a broken ankle and is unable to ride. Admission to the show was 25 cents per person for adults and children.

OUTWITS GUARD

Budapest, Sept. 15 — (Reuters) — One defendant in the mass treason trial of 84 Hungarian yesterday managed to outwit his guard and escape during a recess after a 200-page indictment was read.

Istvan Benadics, former section chief for foreign trade in the ministry of agriculture, is said to have escaped while purportedly going to the toilet just outside the courtroom.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The dazzle of a grand slam contract may dull your vision of an easy play. It happened in a case we're watching. Before reading how it works you will probably see it in this deal:

	SOUTH
	♠A 8
	♦K Q J 9 6 4
	♣K 6 5 3

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 D	2 H
3 D	4 NT
5 S	7 D

Four no-trump is the ace and king asker. Five spades is the Kibitzer convention reply for one ace and two kings. North then decided to go all out for a grand slam.

Opening lead from west was spade king. South may be unhappy when he sees the spade queen at least one club in the lower class. It may cause him to think a squeeze or other coup will be necessary.

Concentrating on a difficult plan, he may overlook the simplest. With five clubs in the opponent's hands, usual split is three and two. It makes his plan comparatively easy. But he may get careless.

He may take trick one with spade ace, draw three trumps, stuff two south clubs on dummy's top hearts, ruff a third club. Fourth dummy club is then good. On it can be shuffled the south spade.

Looks good. All of a sudden, however, he finds himself on the indefinite list. John Wayne plans to transfer his talents. The rugged actor may sell sign for the lead in "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" and go to work "as soon as I can grow a moustache."

John Agar and Ben Johnson are already cast in the outdoor story to be filmed in Monument Valley, Utah. Harry Carey will be working for his old friend, director John Ford.

Wayne was set for several films at Republic, including his pet project "Alamo." But since the studio's recent production cut he's not sure when they'll be made.

Stage Better

The stage is a far better medium than the screen for presenting Shakespeare, says Sir Ralph Richardson. The value of movies, says the noted Shakespearean actor, is in bringing the classics to people who otherwise would never see them. "One can never be the worse for any association with a noble mind," quoth he.

Danny Kaye will fly to London, stay a day, then fly back. Occasion for the harried funnyy is the King and Queen's command performance. Determined not to miss it, the actor will take time off from his "Happy Times" duties.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

Loretta Young sporting the hat among visitors on the "Mother is a Freshman" set. "We put on a good show for them. Why shouldn't they pay for it?" she said. The money goes for a party for the crew . . . Humphrey Bogart scooting through Hollywood traffic on his tiny foreign convertible . . . Joan Crawford walking around the Warners lot, trailed by her four children and two French poodles . . . Canada's Raymond Massey reading unsuperstitiously under a ladder on "The Fountainhead" set.

89-Year-Old Mill Being Torn Down

St. Catharines, Sept. 15 (CP) — The flour and chopping mill Andrew Dean built in nearby Clinton township 87 years ago for "the good of man" is being torn down. The material is being used to build a house at Vineland. A granite slab, with a suitable inscription, will keep alive the memory of one of the district's best known landmarks.

Mr. Dean consecrated "a tenth of all the proceeds to the support of spreading the Gospel of Christ on earth" and all his life he lived up to this pledge which was recorded in an inscription over the door of the five-storey stone structure. Despite a heavy capital investment for his day — interest charged on the debt amounted to $9 a day at the start — Mr. Dean amassed a considerable fortune.

Police Ordered Out to Prevent Further Trouble

San Francisco, Sept. 15 — (AP) —Police were ordered out in force this morning at striking C.I.O. oil workers, massed to prevent more A.F.L. unionists from going to work at the big Standard Oil refinery at nearby Richmond, scene of a bloody fight Tuesday.

An estimated 2,000 strikers, many of them wearing the white caps of longshoremen, brawled with police for an hour Tuesday in the bitterest clash of the 11-day strike wave against six major oil companies in the Pacific fired issue; the strikers buried stones, clubs and fists.

The 200 A.F.L. oil workers who entered the plant remained overnight rather than face the picket lines again today. Already police were an estimated 700 nonstrikers who have slep and eaten there since the strike started.

Nine persons, including policemen and bystanders, were injured badly enough to need hospital treatment.

An oil industry spokesman, Reese Taylor, charged in a statement that C.I.O. longshoremen "are leading riot" in Tuesday's riot. He declared that longshoreman Harry Bridges is seeking control of the oil workers in retaliation for Standard's control over strategic west-coast industries.

Union lined up against union over whether the A.F.L. oil workers should cross C.I.O. picket lines. The A.F.L. Truck Drivers' local issued a statement saying "No good union man will go through a picket line when the union involved is fighting for wages, hours and working conditions."

The chief issue is a union demand for a 21-cent-an-hour wage increase against an employer offer of 12½ cents.

J. Elro Brown, union district director, said the company offer would boost the present $1.60½ hour pay scale to $1.80½ and that eastern United States and Texas workers have received boosts making their scale to $1.95 an hour.

SCANTILY CLAD MAN ARRESTED

Port Credit, Sept. 15 (CP) —A Montreal man was arrested here Monday night wearing nothing but a leather belt around his waist and carrying a handkerchief in which a $5 bill was carefully wrapped. He was picked up after a number of excited phone calls informed police that a scantily clad man was walking on the railway tracks.

Charged with vagrancy and indecent exposure, the man said he had been drinking in Toronto.

USED FALSE TEETH

The wearing of false teeth was common among the Romans.

Director Would Like to See Price Of Shirts Reduced

Ottawa, Sept. 15 — (CP) — A department store executive told the Prices Commission Tuesday his firm "would like very much" to see men's shirt prices come down. But he gave no indication when this would take place.

H. G. Colebrook of Toronto, a director and general merchandise controller of the Robert Simpson Co. Limited, was confronted with an assertion by Prof. C. A. Curtis, commission chairman, that the public pays retail distribution costs are "unduly high in our system" in relation to the costs that precede them.

Mr. Colebrook said Simpson's had netted 2.4 per cent profit on $2,348,000 in total shirt sales over an eight-year-period. He argued that that "doesn't suggest we are keeping up prices" and asserted that the firm wished "very much" to see them come down.

Prof. Curtis was speaking about Simpson's statistics which showed the shirt the store sells for $3.95 cost it $2.57. Mr. Colebrook said he ordered a 33 to 35 per cent profit on the basis of the sale price "fair and reasonable." In one instance, from 1945 through 1947, the Toronto store alone subsidized shirts made from specially imported American cloth to the extent of $100,000 in its "anxiety" to serve its customers.

J. V. R. Porteous of Montreal, president of the wholesale firm of Greenshields - Hodgson - Racine Ltd., said the only complaint half 'the shirts it could market but he hoped the day of competition was nearing again.

W. G. Imrie, proprietor of the Toronto gentlemen's furnishings store of Imrie Brothers, said the largest demand for shirts was in the $3.95 to $5.50 class but shirts costing more than $6 still sold swiftly. He could get shirts in quantity but not in variety.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Prairie"

According to the Hollywood standard, which, of course, is money, Zenith's "The Prairie" is that rare avis among productions in that the picture-making considerations are not keyed purely to box-office.

The Frank Wisbar production which starts at the Capitol Theatre Thursday for a run of three days, has the further distinction of bringing an extremely powerful and well-loved story to the screen.

Arthur St. Claire has adapted the James Fenimore Cooper classic with the spectacular—a stampede, a brush fire—as well as the subtle—delineation of personality character and psychology. Jim Brown is the veteran at the camera who caught the clouded and windswept prairie background to the action.

Alan Baxter and Lenore Aubert play the romantic leads. Charles Evans, who was the insufficiently cautious detective poisoned by "Monsieur Verdoux," has the part of a dictatorial and harsh pioneer father of five sons. Among them is Jack Mitchum, Bob's brother who is getting his first screen role after some theatre background and considerable singing.

The key role however, is the son played by Russ Vincent, the heavy of the piece. Vincent was drafted for the part after a similar chore in Howard Hughes' film, "Vendetta," which is still unfinished.

"Bandits of Dark Canyon"

Action, thrills, and suspense are the theme of the new Allan "Rocky" Lane western, "Bandits of Dark Canyon," which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday as the second attraction. Rocky plays the role of a Texas Ranger charged with the task of returning to jail an escaped convict whom he believes is innocent of the murder charge against him. In tracking down the real murderer, Rocky's adventures lead him to a deserted and eerie old ghost town which comes to life in a most unusual way, with some of the most thrilling scenes ever filmed.

A Pop Eye cartoon and fourth chapter of "The Sea-hound" complete the family weekend bill.

BODY FOUND NEAR OFFICE

Niagara Falls, Ont, Sept. 15 — (CP) — The body of 56-year-old Hartley F. Upper, K.C., Niagara Falls lawyer, was found yesterday in the hallway outside his office in a downtown building. There was a 38-calibre revolver wound in his head.

In ill health recently, Mr. Upper was returning officer for Niagara Falls riding in the last two provincial elections. He was born at Beaverdams, Ont., near here, and graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, in 1906. He has been in partnership for the last 26 years here with Wendell M. Musgrove, K.C.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sewing on her sewing machine and I was on the floor looking at Pude Simkins's new comic book that I swapped him for my new one, and ma said, Oh dear, oh dear, now I'm going to find myself out of white thread just when I've practically finished this job!

Saying it out loud to herself and to thand. Aw heck, I said.

Thinking pits, on account of ma saying Benny, I want you to run up to the 5 and ten for me and I dont mean some distant time in the hazy future.

Okay, Ma, but maybe I better not run, maybe I better just walk fast, I said, and ma said, Get started and get back (that's the only consideration that intrists me.

Sure, ma, but maybe I better not even walk too fast, I said.

Maybe I better just move slow and careful, I said, and she said At least you better move, if you know what's good for you.

That's just the thing, ma'thin is Friday the 13th, and nothing is libel to be good for me, even if I look both ways before I cross the street and dont let any black cat walk in front of me, I said and me, oh my goodness and this really is Friday the 13th, I just realized, oh dear.

Don't worry me, I said. I wont walk under any ladders unless I dont happen to notice them. Even if I do slip on a bananana skin or something, I may not break anything serious. I'll call you up from the drugstore and let you know if I'm all rite or not, I said and ma said, Are you sure you are under your own safe roof. I'll make this thread do, but please dont get the mistaken idea that I dont see through your little game.

Well G, ma, I told you I'd go, didn't I? I told and ma said, And I told you I'm smarter than you are, even if I do happen to be a little superstitious in a conservative way.

Being the end of the subject with the score tied on account of both of us, maybe not.

ERREKA—Commander Donald B. MacMillan, veteran arctic explorer, arrived at Sydney, N. S., last week after completing his 37th expedition to the far north. His ship, the Bowdoin, according to Commander MacMillan sailed within 660 miles of North Pole, the closest man has ever sailed to that point. Here is an iceberg inside the Arctic circle as viewed from the explorer's ship. (CP Photo)

Medical Quackery Rampant in Korea

By WILLIAM PARROTT

Seoul, Korea — (Reuters) — The United States military government in South Korea is trying to divert Korean medical practice from its traditional commercialism and quackery to the ethical levels of a western service.

It is trying to persuade Korean doctors that medicine is not a business enterprise in which money is the dominating factor, but a responsibility inspired by a desire to help the sick and injured.

But it is fighting an entrenched tradition, fostered through 40 years of Japanese occupation, that there is no sentiment in the business of saving lives.

VETERAN EXPLORER—Commander Donald B. MacMillan, 73-year-old veteran of 37 trips to the Arctic with his wife, following their arrival at Sydney, N.S., to complete the fifth trip to the north. Mrs. MacMillan was the "best sailor aboard" according to Cmdr. MacMillan. (CP Photo)

A small team of American doctors supervise the main lines of health administration. They have brought a heavy reduction in the incidence of epidemic diseases such as cholera, small pox, typhus and typhoid. Supervision was badly needed, for Japanese occupied all important posts under the former regime and Koreans had no administrative experience.

Refuse to Change

Yet many Korean doctors have remained impervious to efforts to induce them to change their professional conduct. The average physician shows callous indifference toward his patients, fails to appreciate elementary hygiene, and makes a deliberate policy of assessing a patient's wealth and charging him accordingly.

The Americans say the average Korean doctor will give a patient what he wants — at a price. If the patient believes he needs an expensive treatment the doctor will give it even if he knows that a cheaper prescription would suffice.

The Koreans play upon public veneration for such drugs as penicillin. They give the dose dictated by the patient's financial status, not by his physical needs.

One of worst habits to be overcome is black-marketing of penicillin and other scarce drugs. The Americans express belief that some doctors are heavily involved in the racket.

China's Civil War Tough on Reporter

Nanking — (AP) — Covering China's civil war is harder than trying to watch a football game in the rain through the wrong end of a pair of binoculars. At the football game you can see something, even though dim and distant.

In China, correspondents must depend for the bulk of their war reports on what comes as slanted and biased that the degree of truth is a constant question.

Without doubt, there is less first-hand reporting of the war in China than of any conflict of modern times. The very nature of the fighting — with guerrilla actions, sudden thrusts and quick fadeouts — is partly responsible.

Despite a large information office and a special information section of the defence ministry headed by a lieutenant-general, the Chinese government discourages first-hand, unbiased reporting of the war. The Communist's "iron curtain" is even more effective.

The result of this policy is that war coverage depends on official "news releases." These handouts usually contain more propaganda than fact, and Chinese newspaper reports are sharply controlled.

Several Types Of Contributions Not Deductible

Ottawa, Sept. 15 (CP)—Tightening of regulations governing income tax allowances for charitable donations was disclosed Tuesday by the revenue department.

Several types of contributions previously regarded as deductible from taxable income, now will be eligible for this concession.

Main changes are in the regulations dealing with donations for "purposes beneficial to the community," in which allowable deductions are narrowed down to contributions to projects that benefit all members of the community.

No changes are made in regulations permitting deductions for gifts for the relief of poverty or the advancement of religion or education, when made through recognized agencies.

In all cases, the deductible amount remains the same—up to 10 per cent of an individual's taxable income and five per cent of a corporation's taxable income.

Under the new set-up, tax deductions will not be allowed when gifts go to:

1. Projects not used for the general benefit of community or which are restricted to selected groups.

2. Organizations formed by individuals for a particular purpose peculiar to them.

3. Organizations whose purposes are frankly benevolent or patriotic of which advocate political action.

4. Organizations in which any members make profits.

JEWISH CHILDREN KILLED

Jerusalem, Sept. 15 — (AP) — Two Jewish children were killed and four were wounded Monday when an Arab shell landed in a Jerusalem school yard, an official Israeli source said.

The Holy City was relatively quiet, however, after a Sunday of heavy gunfire and reports that 12 persons had been killed in a 24-hour period.

Accused Collapses On Witness Stand

Fort Arthur, Sept. 15 — (CP) — John Germaine, 20, of Fort William, Tuesday collapsed on the witness stand during his Assize Court trial for the murder of his wife, Elsie, 21, when his mother was taken from the courtroom moaning and sobbing.

Mrs. Germaine later became hysterical in the courtroom corridor, screaming "My baby, my baby, I want to see my Johnny."

She was taken to a nearby hospital.

A doctor attended Germaine after court had been adjourned by Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier. Germaine later returned to the courtroom but did not undergo further cross examination by the Crown.

The case is expected to go to the Jury this afternoon.

Earlier, Germaine said his bride of a year struck her head during a scuffle which started when he awakened her to "kiss and make up."

That is all he remembers of the fatal accident in their three-room apartment in neighboring Fort William early last July 30, he told an Ontario Supreme Court jury.

He and his wife had quarrelled the previous night. When he awakened her about 6 a.m. to "kiss and make up," he said, she jumped upright in the bed.

"I tried to grab her by the leg and pull her toward me and at the same time she fell and struck her head on the radiator."

Mrs. Germaine was dead when found by police. The body was covered to the chin with a bedspread. There were bruises about the head and throat. An autopsy disclosed she had been throttled.

Says Churchill Asks Duke Stop Writing Memoirs

Paris, Sept. 14 (AP)— France Soir says today Winston Churchill has asked the Duke of Windsor to stop writing his memoirs.

In a front page story from its correspondent in Cannes, the French afternoon newspaper says Churchill made the request when he and his wife visited the Duke and Duchess last weekend.

A series of articles published by Life Magazine about a year ago brought the story of the young Edward up to the close of the First World War.

There hasn't been an official announcement on whether or not the Duke plans to finish the story of his life, especially the controversial period when he abdicated his throne as Edward VIII.

FINED FOR OBSTRUCTING

Toronto, Sept. 15 — (CP) — Charged with obstructing police, five employees of Continental Can Limited at suburban New Toronto Monday were fined $50 and costs. The offence occurred Aug. 6 during a strike at the plant. Those fined were Howard Cornsweet, Alfred Wilson, Keith Smith, Johnston and Norman LaCombe.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"You might indeed," I said, my voice probably almost inaudible at the distance between us lengthened, for I scarcely knew his. I was trembling from the uncomfortable shock of his last few remarks, his rough touch on my heart that was still so sore with the memory of Bill, his cool advice to go away from Hillyard House, get out of the picture altogether. "Well, possibly you have some motive for wishing me away, Dr. Hillyard," I said half aloud, shakily gathering white Shasta daisies and stout sharp - scented marigolds from the jungle beyond the overgrown laurels.

"There's always that! That you might have something to hide."

But what? If there was some mystery here at this place, where did it lie? Long before the riding incident of this attention, the discovery of the destroyed canvas, I had felt it pressing down on me, the secret of Hillyard House. Who was in possession of it?

Twenty years earlier the body of the murdered son of the house had been found in the turret room we had visited this afternoon. But that had been all cleared up, no mystery there.

But there was something in the air — something queer. Who had destroyed the Richardson portrait? Who were the photographs Mrs. Grizzell had pushed into a drawer?

Billee and Burton left us next day, driving off into the soft morning fog. Va and Munro and I stood on the wooden front steps between the big industries to see them go. Warm mist moved thru the garden as they shut away the drive, and we could hear the big horn blaring at Chipman's Light five miles to the north, and underneath its intermittent clamor the rush-rushing of the sea rolled on and on, and the gulls' cries came weird and faint.

Somehow it was a great satisfaction to me to see the car drive away; to say goodby to Billee and the chauffeur. It seemed to make Hillyard House belong more to ourselves. We were a smaller, closer party at lunch; Clay fumbling for his knife and spoon at the head of the table, Munro at the foot, Va and I next to Clay on either side, and Mrs. Grizzell and Louise Ring — the latter always a little late and breathless—filling up the six places. The fog held and the horn droned on and we seemed shut away from the world behind the wavering, milky curtains, and as completely forgotten as we were forgetting.

It was two days later that something else happened, very personal this time. It flattened me in a way and angered me in another, and almost immediately I could persuade myself that it wasn't important.

For some days I had been experiencing a feeling of great felicity at Hillyard House, Felicity, that's the only word I can find for it. I mean a sort of warm feeling, as if everyone liked me, and my feet were light on the earth and the sun was always touching my hair. Not that my feet were any lighter than usual as Munro and Virginia and I scrambled about on the rocks or walked on the cliffs; indeed, they felt quite heavy in the good laced boots with kid lining; boots I bought at the Indian Mill store.

And not that the sun always was shining, either, for the summer days always started with a slow-swirling fog from the ocean and warmed into summer warmth and peace only for a few hours in the middle of the day. Then the sharp gusty trade winds began to rise, to send us all indoors for the afternoon, when we amused ourselves with reading and shuffleboard and ping - pong and naps, until beauty and warmth and peace came back to the dunes and the shore with the sunset.

When they first had arrived both Billee and Virginia had shown an instant appreciation of Munro's attractiveness; a girl would have to be dead not to feel it. Munro had seemed to prefer Billee, and Virginia had devoted herself prettily enough to Clay, quoting the morning newspaper to him, stretching a ready hand to straighten out his glass or pepper shaker at dinner.

It was when Munro spoke of this quite obvious interest of Virginia in Clay to me that I obtained that wonderful feeling, of eighteen, take seriously a man so much older, and her cousin, at that.

"He isn't — exactly — her cousin," Munro said. "They're kin, I suppose you'd say, but not very close."

"Then Va could marry him?" I said. "I mean, daughter of Hillyard House. Who was in possession of it?"

"Billee'd be the one who ought to marry Hillyard — say Hillyard," I mused, thinking aloud. "She cares twice as much for this place as Virginia does."

"Think she does? Well, yes, I guess she does."

"I think." I said idly and foolishly, not thinking much one way or the other what impression I was making on him, "both of them sorted of expect Louise would like to know who your choice is."

It was a silly way to talk; I think perhaps I meant it to show him that I didn't consider myself in the running.

"And you know the answer, don't you?" he said, with a look that brought the blood to my face. He pulled me close to him and said in my ear in a low tone, "You like me, don't you? I'm crazy about you."

This was so unexpected that I found no immediate answer to it. There were several explanations that occurred to me at once. One was that for some days before she went away Billee had somewhat snubbed him; one was that he had been drinking and eating with extraordinary carelessness for several hours and possibly had no idea of what he was saying.

It was the occasion of the barn dance and pig dinner, and it was late. It was midnight already; the evening had vanished in smoke. All day long we had been up at the ranch, setting the table for twenty, making applesauce, rushing back and forth on errands for luncheon in the "cookhouse," as they called the ranch house, didn't have, and above all, preparing the stuffing and cooking the porker. The main responsibility for this last fell upon me, and I loved it.

I loved the hilarious discussions and the flying brooms, the big men in the checked shirts helping and roaring with laughter the kids that did, the foreman, planted on the back of my neck at an opportune moment. After the dreamy idle days at Hillyard House, when for hour after hour Va and I drifted about those silent rooms and out on to the foggy terrace to listen to the gulls and the crash of the sea, this was activity, this was excitement, and, we hurled ourselves into it. Munro was with us, of course, but Virginia was coquettish and difficult today and was paying great attention to a bushy-headed adoring boy called Tally Brand who had come up from the village to lend a hand.

It was all great fun, burning rubbish in a dooryard fire, putting a bowl of orange poppies and blue lupine on the long table, folding paper napkins into triangles, and stacking paper plates. Our dinner and the evening supper were to be served in the barn; we draped the walls of the barn with musty cheesecloth discovered in an empty feedbin and stuck branches of huckleberry and the long woodwardia ferns in the loops. Jed had got two locomotive headlights to illuminate the evening's festivities, the girls—thirty girls were coming — and about forty men were bringing cakes and hams and sandwiches and stuffed eggs.

At about two o'clock I put my roast in, keeping only a sleepy wood fire in the cracked old rusty stove; by five delicious odors began to permeate the cookhouse and a little after six we all sat down to rave over the epicurean meal.

There was still strong daylight in the clean-swept barn and the late sunlight was slanting in thru the big open doors when the first of the guests arrived, joyous boys and girls, invited for the occasion like red apples, came in, laughing, to the long boards on trestles, to take, seriously a man so much older, and her cousin, at that.

"He isn't — exactly — her cousin," Munro said. "They're kin, I suppose you'd say, but not very close."

"Then Va could marry him?" I said. "I mean, daughter of Hillyard House. Who was in possession of it?"

BUTTER SHORTAGE THREAT BLOCKED BY HON. C.D. HOWE

Minister Discloses Contracts Made With Denmark, New Zealand for Supply

Ottawa, Sept. 16 (CP)—Canada's fears of a butter shortage were stilled today but there was the strong possibility dealers may press the government for removal of price ceilings.

Trade Minister Howe said in an interview Wednesday night the government has completed negotiations with Denmark and New Zealand for the importation of some 2,000,000 pounds of butter.

The government also was negotiating with a third country, Mr. Howe said, to meet the threat of a winter butter shortage of between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 pounds.

Agreements so far completed call for supplies from New Zealand of 1,000 long tons and supplies from Denmark of 3,000 long tons. The amount of money Canada will spend under these agreements was not disclosed.

Acclaiming the government move, the National Dairy Council which represents 600 to 700 milk dairy dealers in Canada, said it had strongly recommended the immediate action in a brief presented to the Cabinet last August.

The council's president, J. H. Dinjan, said in a statement Canada's government is to be congratulated on its realistic approach to this acute problem.

He hoped the imports will be sufficient to meet the needs of Canadian consumers and that the butter industry now be permitted to adjust its operations in orderly marketing of supplies and restoring shortages in future years.

Mr. Howe's move to meet the butter shortage does not affect the oleomargarine issue. The 22-year-old Canadian ban on the importation, production and sale of the butter substitute comes up for a legality test before the Supreme Court of Canada next month.

Evicted Squatters Await Word On New Housing

Montreal, Sept. 16 (CP)—Seven families, squatters who spent the night in tents in an open field after their eviction Wednesday from an army barracks in suburban Lonogueuil today awaited word on the offer of new housing as municipal authorities asked the provincial government for help.

The families, who seized the barracks two years ago at the height of the housing shortage, were evicted Tuesday after the families of permanent-force soldiers moved into the barracks.

They were saved from a night outdoors when Boy Scouts put up borrowed tents on the grounds of a neighboring Roman Catholic Church and today the families cooked breakfast on stoves out in the open.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—Synopsis: A large mass of cool air covers all of Eastern Canada. Favorable cloudiness is prevalent in Western Ontario while skies are mostly clear in the east. Very warm air which sent temperatures above the 100-mark in the mid-western United States Wednesday is slowly retreating from Ontario where it is expected to cover the southern part of the province Friday. Other than for slowly rising temperatures little change is expected in the northern and eastern regions.

FOUR RECALLED ON DEMAND OF ROMANIAN GOVT.

Members U.S. Legation Staff Are Affected

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP)—The United States State Department disclosed today that four members of the United States legation staff in Bucharest have been recalled on the demand of the Romanian government.

Romania had accused the four of taking photographs in a forbidden zone.

The United States rejected the accusation and declared that the Romanian government's complaints "do not conform to the facts."

This assertion was made in a note which was delivered by Minister Burdett Wilcox to the Romanian Foreign Minister Wednesday.

The note, released by the State Department today, accused Romanian police in the city of Giurgiu of having detained the four men and two members of the legation staff for 17 hours incommunicado after the alleged photographing occurred.

It charged that "for 16 hours" the members of the group was allowed food or water.

Says Accession Of Nfld. to Canada 'Best' For All

London, Sept. 16—(CP)—The Evening Standard, Empire-minded Beaverbrook newspaper, says editorially today that accession of Newfoundland to Canada "will be the best thing" for Newfoundland, for Canada and for the Empire.

Editorial views are still being raised" urging rejection of the recent Newfoundland referendum in which the majority vote was for Union with Canada, the Evening Standard says, "are those who work against the plan for the 10th province are working for another 49th state."

It is time the present commission form of the Newfoundland government could not be perpetuated, the paper says. "Last year's Newfoundlanders were "dumb spectators to the affairs of their own affairs." The referendum machinery, London editorial says "far more decisive than the figures suggested. The first mother" consisted of a temporary combination of factional and contending interests."

REFUSED TO OPEN SAFE

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP) — A 36-year-old housewife staggered into a police station about 2 a.m. today, dazed and bleeding after being beaten by a man and woman who entered her home and tried to force her to open a safe, police said.

The housewife told police she and the couple in a beverage room and that they had followed her home. After staying until their mutilated wife left, the couple returned just as she was about to retire.

She claimed the couple demanded she open the safe and when she refused she was struck over the head with the woman's shoe.

HOLDS UP MAN FOR SHOES

Montreal, Sept. 16'— (CP)— Holdup men are stooping to these days. Charles Guitmanett reported to police that after a gunman relieved him of $5 he ordered him to sit on the curb, took off his shoes and hand them over too.

Housewives May Have To Change Laundering Habits to End of Week

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—Housewives may have to change their laundering habits before the end of the week, weather the current power shortage is safely.

The grim warning came Wednesday night from D. H. Saunders, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario who said Monday's wash may have to be done on Friday and Tuesday's ironing on Saturday if the shortage becomes more severe.

The switch in household arrangements would fit in with industrial use of power which falls off at the end of the week, said Mr. Saunders, discussing the shortage which led the commission to ask for a 20 per cent reduction in weather the current power shortage is safely.

"Appealing for province-wide co-operation, Mr. Saunders said: "We are not minimizing it and we think the people know the real facts. We must have all-out voluntary saving or we will be compelled to take drastic steps in cutting.

Douglas Report Says Germans Lost The Air Initiative in Spring of '41

London, Sept. 16 (CP)—By the spring of 1941, less than a year after the Battle of Britain and stunning night bombing assaults on United Kingdom, initiative in major daylight operations in Western Europe had passed from the Germans, "who did not subsequently regain it."

How fighter sweeps kept German defences in the west on constant alert and how Britain's defences were built up to deal with German night bomber attacks is described in a dispatch by Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, now Lord Douglas of Dirtleside, who was air officer commander-in-chief of the R.A.F., fighter command in the crucial period from Nov. 25, 1940 to Dec. 31, 1945.

By the time Sholto took over, "the night offensive had become in many respects a bigger threat to the Kingdom than the day offensive, which for the moment, at least, had been successfully beaten off" the report said.

Gradually the force was built up capable of dealing with the night attacks. Anti-aircraft guns, searchlights and sharply improved radar, both on the ground and in the air, were primarily responsible for checking the assault.

He said the night bomber offensive ended in May, 1941, after an intensive campaign which failed to break the German night morale.

"In eight months of intensive night raiding, the German bomber force did not succeed in breaking the spirit of the British people or preventing the expansion of our means of production and supply," he added.

In the middle of December the German air offensive which had suffered heavy losses since the summer virtually abandoned the offensive for the time being.

Early the moment had come to put strong limits on the short and went the initiative from the enemy."

"Intruder sweeps began and continued through 1941. Lord Douglas said that by the R.A.F. in the air initiative in the west and caused a lot of losses to enemy units in the west which might otherwise have been moved the Russian front.

Existing fighters and their handed fuel, apart from forays on the continent. The Germans developed "pirate raids" in which fast bombers swooped in to attack factories. The R.A.F. had to be on the alert to try to nail these hit-and-run experts.

The dispatch disclosed that friction existed between the Ministry of Aircraft Production, then headed by Lord Beaverbrook, and the R.A.F. Fighter Command, entitled to priority in fighter production.

At first the Aircraft Production Ministry was favored—though here again Lord Beaverbrook's judgment on the best tactics of defence was right—but by December, 1942, it was decided to give priority to the defence of shipping lanes.

Deluge Causes Landslide Bringing Death and Damage In Newfoundland Areas

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 16 (CP) — A Marconi-gram from Port aux Basques this capital Wednesday, causing one death and heavy damage throughout the city and surrounding Aslon Peninsula.

Three-year-old Morbine Windsor died when a house was crushed in a landslide caused by the torrential rain. Her mother and several other children were saved from the ruins without injury.

Earlier reports had given the name of the family as Sharpe, but later information from the stations returned to normal today.

From railway line through Terford valley was buried under debris from the landslide on suburban Southside Hill and other train and bus services were disrupted by the floods.

The lower storeys of several houses on Southside Hill were submerged. Water rushing over the city's streets brought tons of rocks and mud onto the streets at the lower levels.

All Flat-Rate Water Heaters To be Affected

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Commission likely will order all flat-rate water heaters in Southern Ontario removed from until midnight for about three days a week, Robert H. Saunders, Commission Chairman, said today. The order is expected to come at the end of the week.

Word of this possible move to conserve electricity was received a few hours after Mr. Saunders said that restrictions already in force are working better than he had hoped.

Following the announcement Mr. Saunders left for Ottawa to discuss a power shortage in connection with the electrical shortage.

FATALLY INJURED

Windsor, Sept. 16 — (CP) — John Chevalier, 24, was fatally injured today from injuries suffered Wednesday night in the suicide-pact accident at a mid-town intersection. Coroner Dr. James M. Young said no decision regarding an inquest will be made until a post mortem is completed today.

John Howard Easterbrook, driver of a second car, told Chevalier's auto crushed into his at the intersection of College and Curry avenues and Chevalier was thrown to the pavement by the impact.

BARN BURNED ALONG WITH NEWLY BOUGHT HORSE

Brantford, Sept. 16 (CP) — A barn on the market gardening homestead of E. Luff, Mount Pleasant Road, was burned, down early this morning with a horse just purchased, the years hay crop and implements destroyed. Loss not known.

Brantford firemen saved the house.

A good crowd gathered before the owner even knew of the fire.

FAMILY DECLARES "SPIRIT" MOVED GIRL TO DROWN

No One Held Responsible For V. Goglin's Death

Palmer Rapids, Ont., Sept. 16 — (CP)—A story of religious emotion stirring a girl to wade blindly to her drowning was on the records in a coroner's inquest today.

A jury summoned by the Ontario Attorney-General's Department found Wednesday that Violet Goglin, 18-year-old daughter of a prosperous farmer, was driven by the "Holy Spirit" to walk into the Madawaska River Aug. 22 after a seven-hour "praise the Lord" meeting in her riverside home.

Sitting in the tumbledown schoolhouse at this village seven miles west of Ottawa, the panel of coroner's jurymen heard testimony Violet's father, sister and other members of the Pentecostal Assembled Bible, told of events in the Goglin farmhouse home deep in the timber country.

Finally, they decided simply that the girl died by drowning with no one held responsible.

Impelled by Force

For the girl's family—four of whom testified—there was no doubt in their evidence that a supernatural force, interpreted by them as the voice of God, impelled her to go into the water.

Their attitude was the family, led by 55-year-old Henry Goglin, the girl's father, had been led by Rev. Ernest Fisher, leadership—testing mostly of "praising the Lord" and "telling of the" previous night until 4 a.m. of the morning Violet died.

At about 4 o'clock, they related, Violet "received a blessing." This consisted of a "born-again experience," which is as far as the evidence went.

Steered by Spirit

After the blessing, Violet and her 23-year-old sister Viola—who had been with Violet during the previous night—left the house, not knowing where they were going and steered only by the "spirit."

Viola, a pretty girl with a mop of old-fashioned cotton dress reaching to her knees—described how told the story.

"I was led to go on—I didn't know where I was going. I left my her Bible to her body with both hands.

Both were "praising the Lord" as they waded in the river, eventually coming to the river.

"The water, Violet said, "faith is the victory."

"Then," Viola recounted, "Violet vanished from sight until it pretty well covered her head."

No Outcry, No Struggle

There was no outcry, no struggle, Viola testified as a step to go into it to reach for her.

"But I was pushed back by the spirit," she said.

"Violet," she told the jury, "was led by the Holy Spirit."

The father, a successful farmer with 100 acres under cultivation, farm equipment, agreed with his surviving daughter's story.

His round face showing no emotion, he said "I believe the Holy Spirit led her there."

Invading Troops From East, West 125 Miles Apart

India Preparing to Take Control of Princely State

By MARC FURDUE

New Delhi, Sept. 16 — (AP)—India prepared today to take over the government of Hyderabad as soon as Indian troops, already deep in the princely state, win control.

At the same time, a military communique said spearheads of Indian forces pushing toward the Hyderabad capital from east and west now are only 125 miles apart.

In the west, an Indian column reached Zahirabad, 63 miles from Hyderabad city, and 40 miles south of a Razakar (Moslem volunteer army) stronghold at Bidar.

Another column rolled past Suriapet, to a point about 60 miles from Hyderabad and its military suburb of Secunderabad.

The appointment of D. S. Bakshi, home secretary of the Bombay provincial government, and V. P. Menon, secretary of the Indian States Department.

They will work with Lt.- Gen. Maharaj Shri Rajendrasinhji, commander - in - chief in the south. Menon said A. V. Patro of Madras had been appointed director of Hyderabad's police and civil administrator had been named for each district of Hyderabad, to be installed as rapidly as the regions come under Indian army control.

He explained the appointments all were of an interim nature "until the people of Hyderabad decide for themselves what kind of government they want, as well as their future relationship with the Indian Dominion of India. Most of Hyderabad's population are Hindus, but the Moslem ruler, the Nizam, has refused to accede to India.

The Indian government also said Hyderabad resistance in the north remains stiff. Hundreds of women suffered fractures, but it was believed casualties and shock were the extent of injuries.

The car rolled over several times, breaking off two telephone poles, but today it came to a stop and burst into flames. Police on the top of the car was crushed almost to the ground.

It was reported that Mrs. Marvine and Mrs. Herman had accompanied their sister to Pickering where they had taken Mrs. Safe's son to attend school. The accident occurred on their return to the city.

Born in City

The late Mrs. Doris Safe was born in Belleville 36 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Samuels and the late Mrs. Samuels. She lived in Belleville all her life, where she belonged to the Bridge Street Church.

She is survived by her husband, Ex-Alderman Ben Safe and two sons, Marvin and Stephen, both at home. There are three sisters, Mrs. Herman Bellinger of Toronto, H. Susman of Saskatchewan, and Mrs. M. Berman of Belleville and three brothers, Harry and Sidney Samuels of the city and Thomas of Toronto.

The funeral announcement will be made later.

MRS. BEN SAFE DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER CAR CRASH

Believed Driver of Car Was Blinded by Lights of Approaching Auto

Suffering fatal injuries when the car she was believed to have been driving ran off the highway two miles east of Colborne, Mrs. Benjamin Safe, 34 Dunbar Street, of this city died in Belleville General Hospital early this morning. The accident occurred at 9:30 Monday evening.

Two other passengers in the car, Mrs. M. Marvin of this city and Mrs. M. Herman of Kingston, both sisters of Mrs. Safe, were injured in the crash and are still in the hospital suffering from lacerations.

Provincial Constable Collins of Brighton who investigated the accident stated that it was believed the driver of the car had been blinded by the headlights of an approaching auto. The car went into the south ditch, where it broke off two telephone poles after overturning. The car was a complete wreck. The car did not catch fire.

Rushed to Hospital

The three injured women were rushed to Belleville General Hospital in two ambulances owned by Campbell's Funeral Home and Weaver of Trenton. Mrs. Safe died in hospital early this morning. Hospital officials today stated the condition of Mrs. Marvin and of Mrs. Berman was fairly satisfactory. Until X-rays were taken it was not known if Mrs. Herman had women suffered fractures, but it was believed lacerations and shock were the extent of injuries.

The car rolled over several times, breaking off two telephone poles, but today it came to a stop and burst into flames. Police on the top of the car was crushed almost to the ground.

It was reported that Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Herman had accompanied their sister to Pickering where they had taken Mrs. Safe's son to attend school. The accident occurred on their return to the city.

Russians Say German Youths Stone Three Policemen in Russ Part of Berlin

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Berlin, Sept. 16 (AP)—Some 150 German youths stoned three policemen in the Russian sector of Berlin after the Communist-controlled press reported.

This was the latest listoning of eastern - sector police in recent weeks. The first two drew gunfire from the police but the latest, in the death of one Berliner and the wounding of more than a dozen.

The Communist police report said the three policemen were returning home from duty when a storm of rocks—"hurled by black market centre" set upon them, and "struck down" by the rocks from nearby rubble heaps

The report said the youths were "incited by older people," one of whom was said to be dressed in a U.S. Army field shirt with US boys. The boys were released after questioning, the police report said.

A former Berlin official, meanwhile, Lev Copelev, a former Soviet Russian court today, as the newest war of nerves continued.

Wednesday night, American authorities said the official—Dr Curt Muckenbergen, former Deputy Mayor of Berlin Central Local Organization—was to face trial in the Soviet Zone for espionage.

Muckenbergen was arrested by the Russians a month ago after they removed him from office for "anti-democratic activities" but nothing since has been heard about him.

American officials said it was not clear what charges the Russians might bring against Muckenberger. They said it appeared the arrest was designed to get at his refusal to obey an order which would curtail Berliners' right to give.

The Deutschland took a crack at the congressional committee on un-American activities and declared: Frederick Vanderbilt "had to admit after the resignation of Robert Stripling, chief American scientists that the committee investigation and examination of un-American activities is progressing in a totalitarian way even in the field of science."

CHILDREN DART OUT DIRECTLY INTO PATH OF ONCOMING CAR

Darting out from the curb directly into the path of an oncoming auto, two young lads, Terry Reeds, aged 9, of 70 Pine Street, and Larry Soules, 125 Lingham Street, were knocked to the pavement early yesterday afternoon. Beare escaped injury, while the Soules lad suffered a bruised head and back.

William Judge, 9 Mt. Pleasant Road, was driving north on Lingham Street when the two lads darted out from the curb. The right front fender struck the lads who, thoroughly scared, jumped to their feet and ran down the street. Police were forced to make several inquiries before the identity of the lads was learned.

Quinte Golfers Hosts To Cobourg Club

Linkmen of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club swept the majority of prizes at an inter-club golf tournament held yesterday on the club course at which members of the Cobourg Golf and Country Club were guests.

Despite the dry weather, the club greens have remained in excellent shape and were conducive to the good play which resulted.

Following play the Cobourg players were guests of the Quinte golfers at a dinner at which the various winners were presented with prizes by Dr. George Faulkner.

Dr. Faulkner annexed the major sweepstakes prize with a low gross of 76, with R. Haynes, Cobourg second with 85. R. Stewart won the low net prize with a 68 with Don Ridley and Frank Hinchey tied for second place with 72. The prizes were presented by Dr. Faulkner.

R.C.A.F. Air Command Band Heard in Concert At Collegiate

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville, R.C.A.F., Air Command Band, considered one of the finest in the continent gave an excellent concert in the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday night.

Under the direction of Warrant Officer C. O. Hunt, the band played fifteen selections of varied types ranging from classics to modern. Opening the program was Squadron Leader G. W. Vanderyer, business manager of the band.

Though the music in itself was superb and highly enjoyed by those in attendance, there were too few persons in the audience to give the band the appreciation and attention that such a body of instrumentalists deserve. It is considered that the entertaining activities scheduled for the same evening were responible for the small audience.

Opening with their theme song "Captains of the Clouds," with a special arrangement by one of the bandmen, the band gave a two-hour concert, one half hour period of which was broadcast over CBG. Among the selections played were: Andante March from the Symphony Pathetique—Tchaikowsky, Liebestraum by special arrangement by Rex Hinchey, Sabre Dance, Lord's Prayer—A. H. Mallot, and other classical and entertaining selections.

Mr. Reg Hinchey, local musician and bandmaster, led the band in the playing of the "Stars and Stripes for Ever," following which the band, under Warrant Officer Hunt, play an arrangement written by Mr. Hinchey.

A number of instrumental solos were well received by the small but appreciative audience. The artistry and excellence of the playing was deeply appreciated by the music-lovers of Belleville.

The concert was staged by the Kiwanis Club in order to raise funds for their work for boys and girls of this city. Kiwanian Bob Thompson introduced the bandmaster, and Kiwanian Norm Edwards expressed the appreciation of the club and the audience at the end of the program.

The band played in Belleville as the first stop on their extensive Eastern Canada tour. Previously they have been giving daily concerts at the Canadian Exhibition where they won wide acclaim from their public.

City Oculists Co-operate With Blind Institute

With the whole-hearted co-operation of the honorary oculists, Drs. J. Chant, J.H. Forrester, and A.C. Locke, the C.N.I.B. arranged for many eye examinations and reports. Based on these reports and the financial condition of those referred for examination, treatment and glasses are provided at Institute expense, if recommended. Some times the person may not be registered as blind, but it is a happy occasion for the Institute if treatment or glasses will give so decided improvement in vision as to materially affect the welfare, physical, and economic, of the person who might otherwise have to continue with a serious handicap. Many stories could be told of the wonderful improvements brought about through this prevention activity of the Institute. but there has been one outstanding example during the past year when four members of one family benefitted considerably through the kind co-operation of Dr. A. C. Locke. The father of the family was provided with glasses which give him much improvement, removing him from the registered blind group and giving him greater ease and self confidence at his work. Operations and glasses were instrumental in giving the children great improvement in their vision and this should be of considerable assistance to them in their school work.

A portion of yearly gifts to The Canadian National Institute for the Blind makes this prevention possible. The early treatment often means the difference between blindness and sight in later life. Far too many of the people now registered with the C.N.I.B. as blind would still be in possession of useful sight today if needed care and glasses had been made available in the early stages of their eye condition.

Employees Move To Prosecute Company's Owner

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Employees of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, here, and Belleville, have moved to prosecute the company's owner, H. J. Craddock, on a charge of violating Canada labor regulations. A hearing on an application by the C.P.U. Telephone Union for leave to prosecute has been fixed by the Ontario Labor Relations Board for Sept. 28.

Mr. Craddock recently announced he would close down the printing plant on the grounds he was operating at a loss because of high cost. The employees took a five-per-cent wage cut and went back to work for one month — to ends Sept. 24 — and said they would strike unless they received an increase by that time.

Darts League Organizes For 1948-49 Season

Members of the Belleville Services Darts Club, at the second annual meeting held this week-end elected Sgt. Arthur Hobbs, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, as president. Other officers who will form the executive for the coming 1948-49 season are Jim McCluskey, vice president; Ken. Edgecombe, secretary-treasurer, and captains of the teams comprising the club.

During the business session of the meeting, which was held in the sergeant's mess of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, Bridge Street Armouries, it was decided to restrict the number of team entries to eight.

Five teams have entered for the season leaving three vacancies. Applications will be received by Secretary Ken Edgecombe at the Sergeant's Mess, Bridge Street Armouries.

The next meeting of the slate is scheduled for Oct. 4 when a schedule will be drawn up. All members are urged to attend this meeting as well as those interested in the game.

OBITUARY

CORNELIUS MULVANEY
(Formerly of Read)

Cornelius Mulvaney, formerly of Read died in Kingston on Wednesday. He was in failing health for some years. Born in Ireland he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mulvaney. His age is not known, but he was greatly advanced in years and friends state that he was close to the century mark. For many years he lived in the Read district, Thomasburg township, and for the past five years he resided in Kingston. He was a member of St. Charles Roman Catholic Church at Read.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, 30 Moira Street west, the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

ELSIE ALBERTA McADAMS
(Eldorado)

In failing health for the past 12 months, Mrs. Elsie Alberta McAdams, wife of John McAdams of Eldorado, Hastings township, died at her home on Wednesday. She was in her 59th year.

Mrs. McAdams was the daughter of the late Merckerron and Margaret Wright and had lived all her life in the community. She received her education in the Rockburn and was a member of the United Church. She was twice married, her first husband being Mr. Sager, having died 20 years ago.

She is survived by five children, Miss Elsie Sager and Charles Sager of Thomasburg, and Miss Lillian McAdam, and Leslie and Grant McAdam, and Mrs. Thera Ann Bowen, Fred Wright of Ajax. Two sisters, Mrs. Fred. Grover, and Mrs. Arthur Holland, both pre-deceased her in death.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

JOHN COCKINS
(Roslin)

John Cockins, Roslin Village, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Thursday morning after an illness of three months' duration.

Born at Roslin the late Mr. Cockins was in his 74th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cockins. All his life was passed in the Roslin district. He was a member of the Church of England and a parishioner of St. Paul's Church, Roslin. He never married.

Surviving him are three brothers, William, Joseph and Mornery, all of Roslin; six sisters, Mrs. W. B Haines, Belleville; Mrs. Robert Morris, Saskatchewan; Mrs. Edward Luffman, Belleville; Mrs. Stanley Carter, Point Anne; Mrs. Smiley Coulter, Roslin, and Mrs. James Hutchinson, Corbyville.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, until Friday afternoon, then at the home of his brother, Mr. Murney Cockins, Roslin. The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Five Bicycles Held by Police Awaiting Owners

With the price of bicycles having hiked upwards along with the general cost of living, police, both city and provincial, are wondering just why stolen bicycles are not claimed by owners when they are recovered by police.

City police invariably have one or two bicycles which remain at the police station for an extended period before they are claimed, while the Provincial Police have now also entered this category.

Over a period of time Provincial officers have recovered three stolen bicycles, all of which still remain at the local police office awaiting their respective owners.

HOGS

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP)—At Stratford today hog prices were quoted at $32.55 to farmers for grade A delivered and $33 to truckers. At Hull hogs off truck were unquoted. Grade A dressed were unchanged and some sales were made at $33. At Brantford hogs were steady at $32.85.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Only a few good quality butcher cattle were offered in the early to mid - session on the livestock market today but prices on these grades continued steady through the week. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle 79; calves 25; hogs 100; sheep and lambs 20.

From Wednesday's trading were 700 head including 500 stockers and feeders.

Some medium to good weighty steers sold between $26-28 and a few medium to good butchers steers were $18-25. Heifers ranged from $15.50-22. A few thin common steers and heifers sold for boning at $11-13. Another cow sold at $13-$17.50 with canners and cutters downward to $11. Some common to medium bulls sold at $16-$18.

A few common to medium calves sold at $15-24.

Hogs remained steady at $33 - $33.25 for grade A and $32.60 - 32.85 for grade B). Sows were $24 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $22.50 for good ewes and wethers with $1 discount on bucks. A few sheep sold from $5-$9.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Prices were steady as trading lagged on the stock exchange here today. Selected industrials showed a slightly stronger tone. Golds and base metals edged upwards while the few western oils traded held their own.

Industrials mixed gains and losses in narrow fractional range. Canadian Vickers preferred highlighted a strong steel list with a gain of 2 points for a new high at 170.

Foods also firmed in the groupings while utilities were easier and papers quiet.

Lake Shore and McIntyre strengthened fractionally in senior golds while Bralorne eased 20 cents and La Luz five cents. Juniors showed mixed gains and losses.

Waite Amulet rose 10 cents at $8.90 in a firmer base metals list and P. Eureka and Pend Oreille, Eureka and Osisko strengthened. Falconbridge, Normetal, East Sullivan, East Sullivan and Quebec Labrador weakened.

RUGGED WATCH

Port Colborne, Ont. — (CP) — Walter Hanks, fireman of a chimney repair crew, dropped his wrist watch—cost $18—300 feet to a roof below when the strap worked loose. When he recovered it, it was ticking away smoothly.

New Industry Opened in City By H.P. Holway

A new industry, designed to conform to the modern trend of house construction, has been opened in this city.

It is the Holway Venetian Blind Company, located at 141 William Street, owned and operated by Harold P. (Bouncer) Holway member of the well-known family of that name here.

The industry came into being following an extensive research study of manufacturing, repairing and maintenance of Venetian blinds by Mr. Holway in the plants of the Fill-O-Rix Company of Toronto, Hamilton and Vancouver.

Streeding of speed-up of manufacture and rapid delivery has already given the company a long stride to success. Rigid inspection of blinds, efficiency in manufacture, good workmanship, and pride in achievement has opened a new vista of business which extends to nearly all parts of this section of Ontario.

Following its entry into this field of manufacture, and the immediate success which attended its initial efforts, the Holway Venetian Blind Company is now in a position to handle all city and district business. Personal attention of Mr. Holway is given to each order. Each item is thoroughly inspected before leaving the plant. Expert operators install the blinds with a minimum of time and labor.

Harold (Bouncer) Holway is well-known to residents of the city and district, especially those interested in the realm of sport. A former hockey star, "Bouncer" has always taken an interest in the game and especially since his retirement from active participation, in the local activities of the youth of the city. He has a reputation for honesty and integrity, traits that are stepping stone to success in both sport and business.

Oakville Whips Napanee, 6-1

Napanee, Sept. 16 (Special) — Oakville advanced to the finals of the OBA juvenile "B" playdowns Wednesday afternoon when they defeated Napanee Lions, 6-1, to take the series two straight. A thrilling six-run rally in the ninth gave Oakville victory.

Keith Weese pitched brilliantly for Napanee until the roof fell in in the fatal ninth, the winners being batted to one lone hit and 11 burned back on strikeouts. The Napanee hopes strengthened when Curran filled out to open the ninth and then an infield boot gave Johnston a life and Oakville went on to hit around for a total of six runs before the side was retired.

Ruffy for Oakville and Weese for Napanee each had two safeties.

Pearson to Speak At Kingston

Kingston, Sept. 16 (CP)—L. B. (Mike) Pearson, newly-appointed External Affairs Minister, will be guest speaker at a dinner scheduled Tuesday night by the city of Kingston to delegates attending the 50th annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association. The meeting starts Monday.

Some 400 delegates from all parts of Ontario are expected to attend, Mayor G. A. Curtis, who is also O.M.A. President, will preside at the dinner.

U.S. GOVERNMENT SUES BREWERY COMPANY

Chicago, Sept. 16 (AP)—The United States government today sued a brewery for $725,000 for calling its beer "Canadian" without informing the public it is not brewed in Canada.

The suit, charging violation of a Federal Trade Commission order, was brought against Canadian Ace Brewing Company.

The F.T.C. order prohibited the company from using the word "Canadian" in any brand or trade name or advertisement for a product a beer or ale not brewed in Canada.

TO LOOK INTO SITUATION

Paris, Sept. 16 — (AP) — The United Nations Security Council voted 4 to 0 today to look into the war situation in Hyderabad, China, Russia and the Ukraine Soviet Ukraine abstained in the vote placing the Indian invasion of the Princely State on the agenda.

Windsor Against Building Elevator On Water Front

Windsor, Sept. 16 (CP) — Charles R. Vannatter, engineer at the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, but who for many years was engineer in the grain trade, was revealed today as the man who opposed for a $2,000,000 two-million bushel grain elevator at Windsor's waterfront.

Mr. Vannatter appeared today before the Ontario Municipal Board at a sitting at which the city is seeking approval to the demolition of its mining bylaw, at the end of which time approval for a permanent bylaw would be sought. The application for approval is strenuously opposed by the New York Central Railway, owner of a 2,500 feet of waterfront west of Bridge Street to 400 feet east of Campbell Avenue, which proposed to lease or sell the land for the elevator, an option having been given to Mr. Vannatter.

City Solicitor Lorne R. Cumming said the city was seeking to prevent "industrial encroachment on the waterfront in the central area and to preserve the residential character of the west side district between Cameron and Bridge and adjoining streets.

Donald M. Fleming, M.P., counsel for the New York Central Railway, said the city was seeking to sterilize 1,000 feet of waterfront area. "The elevator can be placed no where else. It is fair to totalk of H going anywhere else. It stands on a sense of fairness."

TWO FATALLY BURNED

Inglewood Calif., Sept. 16 — (AP)—Flames from a burning oil tank farm spread Wednesday to a nearby trailer camp and 15 persons were burned, two of them fatally. Mrs. Lillian Reynolds, 35, and three year old Judy Ziegler, residents of the camp, died of their burns.

STILL IN COMA

Hollywood, Sept. 16 (AP)—Actress Rita Johnson today was in a coma for the 10th day at St Vincent's Hospital as her personal physician, Dr. Leo Siegel, declined to comment on her chances for recovery. Miss Johnson is suffering from a brain injury, suffered, police believe, when a hairdrier fell on her.

Nuclear Energy Ideal Fuel In Transportation

Washington Sept. 16 (AP) — Atomic energy has the power to send a rocket ship rocketing off the earth into the interplanetary void, but the problem remains of disposing of waste heat that would hurtly vaporize the body of the ship.

This was related to the American association for the advancement of Science by Dr. Eugene P. Wigner of Princeton University.

Saying that the most outstanding feature of nuclear energy is its "enormous concentration," Wigner declared:

"This high concentration would seem to make nuclear energy the ideal fuel for providing power for transportation."

Family Must Obey City Order

Waterloo, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Failure of a city family to obey an eviction order made by the Board of Health, will mean immediate enforcement.

The order issued to which the family are tenants was condemned as unfit for human habitation following an inspection by the sanitary and health inspectors this summer, and a notice of eviction was given with an Aug. 31 dead line.

Since then two extensions have been granted. The board has been informed by Wallace Merner, sanitary inspector, that no move has been made by the family to vacate. It has decided to carry out the eviction order immediately.

The children will be placed under care by the Board of Health until a suitable residence can be found by the family.

CHILD MISSING SIX HOURS AT WESTERN FAIR

London, Ont., Sept. 16 — (CP) —Something of a record for lost children at the Western Fair was made Wednesday when one-year-old Jimmy Nicli of St. Thomas was missing for six hours.

Police said he wandered outside the grounds, and was given shelter by a householder. His parents didn't find him until midnight.

Denies Japanese War Prisoners Used as Slaves

Tokyo Sept. 16 (AP) — A Russian spokesman denied today the charge of Allied Supreme headquarters that Japanese prisoners of war are being used as slave labor by the Soviets.

Col. Comerskiy, political adviser, is quoted by the Leftist newspaper Nimpo today as saying there is "no profit" to Russia in keeping the prisoners.

"It increases expenses," the newspaper quotes him further.

Allied headquarters Sept. 8 accused the Russians of using Japanese war prisoners as slave labor in their air fields and to bolster the Russian war potential.

CONSIDERS BEING CANDIDATE

Windsor, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Donald M. Fleming, M.P., for Toronto-Eglinton, said today he is considering being a candidate for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

"I have been ready to make an announcement," he said.

The young Conservative is in Windsor as counsel for the New York Central Railways in a hearing before the Ontario Municipal Board.

DIES OUT TO COLLECT OVER $6,000 IN BETS

Fort Worth Tex. Sept. 16 — Oil millionaire L. L. Horne planned to set out today with four Eskimo women, a penguin, a polar bear skin and a parka to collect more than $20,000 in bets.

Horne's fiancee, Miss Molly Blatchford, Mrs. Lona B. Welch, Miss Alice Walker, and Mrs. Lorena Gray, Jamestown were flown from Seattle.

Their first question to Texas when they landed Wednesday night was not unexpected. "Oh Pat (not down here," said Miss Blatchford and Mrs. Gray.

Then they scrambled into a refrigerated van for a trip to their hotel.

INSPECTOR DIES

Toronto, Sept. 16 —(CP) — Charles Albert Lapp, 57, Inspector of Public Schools in suburban East York for seven years died suddenly today of coronary thrombosis. He suffered a seizure while attending a teachers' meeting.

Change and Relaxation

For another year the holidays are over. Never before did so many people take holidays as they have done in the past few years. This rest or relaxation from the ordinary run of things in business and in home will undoubtedly make itself evident in soothed and relaxed nerves and the readiness to bear the usual tasks of life until another year rolls around and brings the holiday period again.

Lord Horder in Practitioner remarks that the knowledge of how to rest comes not by instinct and that there should be some preparation or training in order to bring this mood which is so important a factor in the maintenance of good health. He speaks of those who chafe against the fact that they cannot enjoy as vigorous a form of resting as they once did and urges them to attain a second wind of laziness which will bring a consciousness of the easing of the tension into which they have been drawn and which they probably did not realize had them in bondage. After that he sees a settled mood of quiet content in having nothing to do. This may well become the ruling satisfaction which the holidays will bring them. Lord Horder also draws attention to a fact in psychology which William James stressed that people are happy because they smile rather than smile because they are happy.

Rest to help man to gain that cherished mood in which the tension of life is relaxed and everything takes on a rosier hue and a spirit of settled deep content. Many no doubt have reached that haven through the change which the vacation has wrought in conditions surrounding people for the time being and which, like sleep, knits up the raveled sleeve of care.

Vacation has brought many into that closer communion with the free and open life of nature which has still lessons to teach in her own quiet way. Modern living has taken people from the more intimate and close relationships with the trees, the waters, the sky, the animal creation and with the varying moods of nature which have down the ages helped to mould the course of human destiny until today when inventions make it rather easy to live a less natural life than that of a few decades or generations ago. But the ease with which the holidayers slip back into the mood of communion with their surroundings in nature is the assurance that it is a good thing to give this human inclination an opportunity to express itself in the enjoyment of rest and recreation in nature.

Boys and girls of school age are examples of the proper adjustment of life and surroundings. The ease with which they assume their place in the school and in the field in vacation time proves they have not departed from the path of wisdom for theirs is nature's own way of life. They have not yet followed the way of their parents who have come to carry a heavy load of care. But fortunately for adults there are vacations in which the healing power of change makes itself felt and tired and weary folk find revival of mind and heart and body.

Poultry Industry is Big Business

In 1947 the value of all poultry meats and eggs sold off Canadian farms or farm consumed was valued at $235,859,000. This figure includes poultry meat of all kinds and eggs produced by urban and rural dwellers not, strictly classed as farmers for Census purposes, and also for eggs for hatching. The comparable figure for 1946 was $203,693,000.

Of the 1947 figure, $147,884,000 represented the value of eggs, the figure for 1946 being $124,298,000. Of the poultry meats, chicken and fowl were valued at $64,993,000 in 1947 and at $61,934,000 in 1946. Turkey meat in 1947 was valued at $14,565,000; in 1946 at $10,140,000. Geese to the value of $1,521,000 were used in 1947 and in 1946 the value was $1,169,000. There was an increase in 1947 of duck meat, the value being $588,000, compared with $508,000 in 1946.

Domestic consumption of eggs and poultry meats increased in 1947 over the preceding year. The per capita consumption of eggs in 1947 was 24.04 dozen compared with 23.27 dozen in 1946. Over two pounds more chicken per person was eaten on the average in 1947 when the figure was 21.17 pounds. Per capita consumption of turkey, goose and duck was slightly higher.

A good speech is a good thing but the verdict is the thing.—Daniel O'Connell.

JUST FOLKS

BOYHOOD MEMORY

I remember years ago a home that fell apart
When I was too young to know what it meant of ache and smart
And I heard my father say
"I'm a land that's far away.
On a new career I'll start."
Then to Michigan we came and it's here that we have stayed,
Now I'm grateful to my father for the courage he displayed.

When disaster struck the home
I, was , but a youngster small;
Didn't understand just why such a tragedy should fall.
But, as time went by I learned
Why he never backward turned,
So my father loved us all
That he left his native land and the friendship of the years
That his children unrestrained might set out on their careers.

I remember that he said many,
many times to me:
"When you're old enough, my boy, an American you'll be,
With devotion give your love to this land above."
Now although it's fifty years since the Lord called him away,
"There's no happier land than this," still I hear my father say.

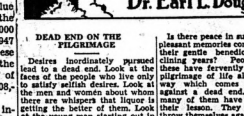
STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass



DEAD END OF THE PILGRIMAGE

Desires inordinately pursued lead to a dead end. Look at the faces of the people who live only to satisfy selfish desires. Look at the men and women about whom there are whispers that liquor is their master. Look at the faces at the young man starting out in life whose heart seems to thrill at nothing but the prospect of some indulgence. Look at the men by hundreds, middle-aged and beyond, whose thoughts have dwelt only on the things of the flesh. Look at the hardened cynic now entering the twilight years whose pride thought energy has been to build up wealth and to do it usually by ducking someone and casting him aside into the ditch.

Is there peace in such lives? Do pleasant memories come in to give their gentle benediction to declining years? People such as these have fervently pressed the pilgrimage of life along a path-way which comes up at last against a dead end. Instead how many of them have not learned their folly. They continue to throw themselves against the dead end in the hope that by force of their strength they would cast it down. But the road block was put there by God Himself, and man cannot.

The Biblical counsel concerning this situation is: "He that soweth unto his own flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth unto the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap eternal life" (Gal. 6:8).

(Reg. U. S. Patent Off.)

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

The small-town doctor of my boyhood, around nineteen hundred to nineteen ten, usually kept a team of horses and sometimes four. A pair of good drivers, a good large horse and possibly a saddle horse.

The doctor lived in one of the mansions of the town or village. At the back was this good stable, equal to calls as much as twenty-thirty miles away.

The care of his transportation was, of course, too much for the doctor, he employed one of those Englishmen who were in such liberal supply back in the days of Empire expansion. During the summer, the doctor's son was stable boy. That was his vacation job. But when September came, the doctor would look out for a likely Englishman, fresh arrived from overseas, and hire him for the winter. Nearly all Englishmen either knew about horses or pretended they did. It worked out about the same.

They stayed until June. And then, with their winter's savings, they would head West. And the doctor's son, home from the city college, would step over the stables again for the summer vacation. And the doctor would go over the country will remember this. Thousands of Englishmen, long since Canadians, will remember their first jobs in the new country as stablemen to Canadian country doctors. It was an immense factor in the building of Canada.

Those Englishmen in such liberal supply in the early nineteen hundreds had no advance booking of housing or of employment. All they had, when they arrived here, was a queer old suitcase of green or brown Willesden canvas, a tight-fitting plus-fours, tweed suit and a pipe in their teeth.

The doctors' sons of those days who shared the responsibility for the horses with them, recollect those Englishmen with considerable respect. They were steady, responsible characters, a little grim and a little standoffish. Very June came, they tucked their wages tightly in small wallets and picked up their canvas suitcases and headed West. Canada was building in the early nineteen hundreds.

Greek Guerrillas Lose Enough Arms To Equip an Army

By L. S. CHAKALES

Athens (CP)—If you ask whether the guerrilla Vafiadis Markos is getting arms and supplies from outside Greece, the Greek general staff will tell you.

During the last 18 months the Greek army has captured enough arms and supplies to disarm Markos' present estimated 25,000 guerrillas. But this hasn't diminished the guerilla strength.

"Where's all this material coming from?"

Markos' broadcasts insist that the "democratic" (Communist) army" is capturing all its needs from the Greek army.

This the general staff dismisses as fantasy.

Two former United Nations commissioners and the present Balkan observers have concluded that substantial help has come across the borders.

The general staff says there certainly are no arms or munitions plants in Albania, Yugoslavia and if there were, these plants wouldn't be making German, Italian, Czechoslovak and Russian and British arms, it adds.

Stores of German arms recently were seized by the partisans of Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia immediately after liberation.

Old Nazis, too.

The replacement of old arms with new from "friends" is an old Balkan custom. The Russians were running his revolution both the Leninist and Trotskyist brought tremendous amounts of Greek army equipment. Markos, strictly a business deal, approved by dictator Moscow, is well-known Greek arms merchant sold Greek army weapons to the Spaniards. He replaced them with new weapons purchased legitimately and at Balkan commercial fairs. English, French and Czechoslovak munitions make the Leninist-Trotskyist difference.

However there is no indication Markos is paying for his arms with money. Usually reliable sources says Markos signed an agreement with Premier Marshal Tito (before the Cominform blast) to give Yugoslavia 51 per cent dominia for Tito's physical and moral assistance.

A year ago the general staff complained, before the United Nations, program assistance effective, that it was not uncommon for the Greek guerrillas to fire 1,000 rounds of explosives, 189 radio transmitters and receivers and six artillery pieces.

ALL A MISTAKE

Waterloo, Sept. 15 (CP) —Nobody knows just how it happened but a wrong address recently received by the Kitchener-Waterloo Orphanage turned out to be a mistake. It was all a mistake, said President Herbert Breithaupt. He said the plane chickens were accidentally switched with a food donation for the orphanage.

Mackenzie's Column: Nazi Officials Did Not Know Hitler's Mind

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The futility of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's efforts at appeasing Adolf Hitler 10 years ago and so achieving "peace in our time" pivoted on a fact which wasn't realised even by German officialdom, at the beginning of the negotiations at Berchtesgaden over the Fuehrer's demands on Czechoslovakia.

This was that Hitler already had well designs for large scale conquest, far exceeding anything which little Czechoslovakia afforded. It was only recently that this was made known to me by Dr. Erich Kordt who at the time of the negotiations was chief of the German Foreign Office Section and now is a Professor in the University of Munich.

During a visit to headquarters in New York Dr. Kordt told me it was Hitler's brutal decision to march suddenly at Godesberg (the second conference) that caught the Nazi officials by hand to his executives. At that moment the Fuehrer wanted war but only a little "war" to enhance his prestige, and so non-functioning Czechoslovakia "big war" would come later.

Wishful Thinking

The upshot of the historic parley at Berchtesgaden had been that the British Prime Minister went back to Britain Hitler's daring and seeming reasonable terms allowed to annex the Czechoslovakian Sudetenland Inhabited by Germans.

On Sept. 21 the Czechoslovak government formally deserted and announced acceptance of the Anglo-French plan for investing Hitler's demands Thousands of Czechoslovakians gathered in the streets of the Czech capital and with tears streaming down their cheeks listened to the government's broadcast telling that the country had lost its Ions fight. It was the bitterest day in their history. Peace at any price was the price of peace in Europe.

Hitler let it came about that Sept. 22 Chamberlain flew to Godesberg on the Rhine army to lay European peace at Czechoslovakia's expense. A week earlier Hitler and his Nazi colleagues great throngs had cheered him as the saviour of peace. Setting out for Godesberg he was booed by one person in the crowd gathered to see him off at Berchtesgaden residence. Several clapped hands but nobody cheered.

Unforgettable Reception

I shall never forget the reception staged for Chamberlain by Hitler at the Godesberg airport. The dictator and his staff and detachment of his famous Death's Head Guardsmen — a grim looking lot in their black uniforms and fearsome insignia. As the Prime Minister descended from the plane the Guards goose-stepped to the salute. Hitler and his high-collared boots crashing on the concrete runway with the inevitability of armed might.

The battle between Hitler and Chamberlain was over, and the Nazi chief all but spat in the Prime Minister's face.

The conference was faced with the fact while Czechoslovakia had accepted the Anglo-French plan, she had sworn to resist armed invasion by mobilization order and (2) permission for German troops of the Sudeten Free Corps to march into the border land already sacrificed to the Reich by the Anglo-French plan.

The conference was close to a rupture when a harassed Chamberlain finally salvaged it with a midnight promise to put

FORGETFULNESS AND DEGENERATION

Arteriosclerosis in the smallest arteries supplying the brain cortex (gray matter in the cerebrum) is one of the most common causes of forgetfulness.

This is a fancy way of saying that forgetfulness is a sign of old age. But it is really nothing of the sort. The truth is that certain arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) is a manifestation of degeneration and that forgetfulness or faulty memory of persons with cerebral arteriosclerosis is due to the replacement of some of the cells of the gray matter of the brain with inert tissue. That's what degeneration means — functioning cells that wear out are no longer replaced by new functioning cells but only by less fibrous tissue substances that does not function.

Degeneration, physical degeneration, that is, does not happen to perfectly nourished persons. It is the inevitable fate of every one who comes of age. For the moment we will leave out growth and development — the ripeness of manhood or womanhood rather than the bloom of youth — we begin to die, and we begin to die because of the degeneration — gradual replacement of functioning cells by non-functioning substances.

What I don't know about degeneration, arteriosclerosis and one other things fills vast bulks. Nobody has made a careful survey of many of the books foisted on us by the medical publishers without feeling a profound suspicion that the authors are in the same fix, but obviously they can't afford to proclaim their ignorance.

If you are still even mildly interested in my notions about the forgetfulness that so commonly troubles old folks, it is my opinion that the brain cells and their processes in the cerebral cortex or grey matter are insufficiently nourished because of the increasing narrowness or constriction or thickening of the arteries (smallest arteries, not capillaries) which supply blood to the gray matter, and hence the steadily increasing forgetfulness. Well, if this is degeneration, and degeneration is inevitable, what can we do about it?

It is my considered, long considered opinion that as Lorand said in his book Defective Memory, Abadie's Medicine and Treatment (Davis, Co., Phila): "This condition of arteriosclerotic softening may be combated or prevented with iodine." In the same book Lorand says: "According to my own experience, during the last twenty-five years, I have [illegible]

Hitler's demands, The Prime Minister demanded no mass violence against Czechoslovakia. As the weary and haggard old man returned to his mountain top hotel to the east end of this single hope. With that Chamberlain went home to London to recommend to the Cabinet and to keep Europe's great armies being unleashed. Hitler had made it known that he would brook no delay. He demanded occupation of Sudetenland by Oct. 1.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.I.

The regular meeting of the Melrose W.I. was held in the township hall at Melrose.

Roslin and Plainfield W.I. were in attendance as this was a joint meeting. Mrs. Ida Braine from England was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Thos. Leslie acted as chairlady in the absence of the president, Mrs. Rielly.

Following Mrs. Braine's introduction she began her talk concerning Women Institutes in England. She remarked that since visiting Ontario a great many people refer to England as "The Mother Country." In England Ontario is regroded as the mother country of Women Institutes.

They have a keen interest in agriculture in England brought about by the food shortage. Their Institute work covers a wider range of subjects than in Ontario handicraft, drama, choir groups, care of elderly people, etc. The densely populated villages make life more pleasant than in our rural areas.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth is a W.I. member, also Queen Mary and Princess Elizabeth.

Mrs. Braine in concluding wished to convey a very sincere thank you on behalf of English people for food, parcels received. We in Ontario can scarcely realize the happiness they have brought as many things are still rationed in England. During her brief visit Mrs. Braine has been amazed at the luxuries we are able to enjoy.

The social part of the program was conducted by Mrs. Mac Lazier. Their program was originally scheduled to be "Brides Day", the most recent brides to give the program.

Mrs. Roy McLaren gave a reading, "The Comedy of Love."

A contest was held "Do's and Don'ts" for your husband.

A reading "A Sad Beginning" was given by Mrs. Newton Desmille. The roll call was answered by "An Amusing Incident on my Wedding Day." Afternoon tea brought the meeting to a close.

PINE GROVE W.I.

Mrs. Blake Johnson, Holloway was hostess to the members of Pine Grove W.I. on the evening of Aug. 26th.

With the President, Mrs. Frank Finkle presiding, the meeting was opened with the Institute Ode, followed by repeating of the Lord's Prayer. Roll Call was answered by giving "Health Suggestions."

Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved, and report of garden party held in July was given.

A motion was approved authorizing a donation to the Stirling Band in appreciation for the recent garden party. Music lovers were given a real treat that night.

Mrs. C. Ross, convener for "Social Welfare" introduced the guest speaker Dr. Cornet of Stirling, who spoke on "The Health and Welfare of Children."

Dr. Cornet emphasized the need of vaccination and immunization for children and spoke particularly of the prevalent disease known as polio. He also advised parents to have their children inoculated for whooping cough.

"Current Events" prepared by Mrs. Dettler was read by Mrs. C. Ross.

The meeting closed with the benediction, after which refreshments were served by the committee with a special treat of ice cream by the hostess.

ALBURY LADIES' AID

The Albury Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. S. C. Peck on Tuesday evening with 13 being present. Mrs. Earl Ouderdonk took charge of the meeting. The members decided to have another cooking sale next Saturday as well as a bazaar in October and it was decided to have the outside of the church painted. Mrs. Earl Bonter and Mrs. Earl Ouderdonk gave readings. Miss Hattie Peck was the winner of a crochet centrepiece. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Bert Bryant in October.

WOOLER WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Neil Nelson on Thursday evening with an attendance of twenty-eight. The president, Mrs. G. Gooding, presided.

The piano has been installed in the well at the bark. The Institute gave some dolies to each of the three garden club girls, Mary Dorland, Mattie Bull and Lelia McColl, who put up a display of flowers and vegetables from their gardens at Wooler fair.

The war brides and other strangers in the community were honored guests at this meeting.

The guest speaker, Mr. Edward Nelson, gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to British Columbia. The roll call "Where I Met My Husband" proved to be most humorous. A quiz on Canada and community singing were features of the program.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Gooding, Mrs. W. Gillings, Mrs. R. Redcliffe, Mrs. H. Hubble and the hostess and a social half hour enjoyed.

MT. PLEASANT W.M.S.

Rawdon—The September meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Burton Sharp on Wednesday with sixteen members, eight visitors and four Baby Band members in attendance.

Mrs. John Holmes used as Call to Worship "I Know God Answers Prayer."

Mrs. Rose Hoard was accompanist for hymns and quiet music.

The visitors were welcomed especially the pastor and his wife and a former resident, Mrs James Sharp, of Ridge Road.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Weaver based on "Thanksgiving" The autumn Thankoffering of W.M.S. Mission Band and Baby Band will be gathered on Sunday morning, October 3rd.

HOME FOR BLIND — Canadian National Institute for Blind in an effort to give blind people across Canada a place where they may live, have been building homes in various Canadian centres. Most recent of these buildings is Linwell Hall at St. Catharines, shown here, which was formally opened Sept. 14. Built to serve the blind people of three Ontario counties in the St. Catharines area, the structure is modern in every respect. To protect the residents from falls, the stairways have rounded corners, no exposed radiators and the doorways are open and raised. It will house 30 residents. (CP Photo)

The hostess was thanked for her home and Mrs. Blake Sharp for arranging the program.

The presbyterial library books were on display and Mrs. Percy McMullin was asked to keep account of the readers. Roll Call was answered with key word "Faith" and Mrs. John Mulheron dedicated the offering.

Mrs. Elwood Johnson conducted the devotional and gave a splendid paper on "Faith and Hope."

She also read from the August monthly on the theme "The Path Whereby the Church Must Live."

Mrs. Roy Dafoe read seven passages of scripture and Mrs. Cyrtz Summers offered prayer. Mrs. Wm. Campbell presented a message on Stewardship from Pelli Notes."

Mrs. Frank Jeffs read "His of Plan". Mrs. B. Sharp sang "Blessed Hour of Prayer."

Mrs. Bert Jeffs introduced the new Study Book on China entitled "West of the Gerges" written by Kenneth Scott Latourette. West China Mission in the province of Szechwan has served the people for fifty years. She told the story of Margaret Li who is well known as evangelistic work in China.

Rev. H. A. Vaclavik gave a special message to the auxiliary telling of the spiritual force working behind the great W.M.S. organization, where multitudes of women gather monthly for prayer and study. Last year he addressed W.M.S. societies in Canada, and W.M.S. societies in Canada, and the members are united to be of service in the world wide church

The hostess served delicious home-made candy.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg—Thomasburg public school reopened for the fall term with Miss Irene Ketcheson as principal and Mrs. Arnold Montgomery as junior teacher. Both teachers are well known to their pupils as they both taught here previously. Miss Ketcheson for the past two years was engaged as junior teacher while Mrs. Montgomery was the junior teacher, previous to that time. Among the beginners are Leonard Holmes, Doris and Lois Wood, Doris Robinson, Sharon Vance, Dennis McTaggart and Janet Morton, with Helen Adams a new pupil at Thomasburg school having previously attended Fuller School as well as Yvonne Bird who previously attended school in Belleville. Master Burton Sherry is also a beginner attending Tweed Consolidated School.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morton of Belleville spent several days last week in the village owing to the death of the latter's sister, Mrs. Edward Carter.

Mr. Frank Brough has been given the contract to drive the bus for Tweed high school taking the pupils from Fuller, Moira, and Thomasburg who wish to attend.

Quads, Parents Warmly Greeted In New Home

Westerleigh, Gloucestershire, England, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Flags were strung across the streets, bands played and visitors came from miles around yesterday to welcome home the 12-weeks-old Good quads and accompanied by their parents and four-year-old sister Susan.

Until yesterday the quads — Bridget, Elizabeth, Frances and Jennifer — have been cared for at the Southmead Hospital in Bristol through it to help do a good job for Canada.

The resolution traced the decline of the party's fortunes and then listed what the club considers is responsible for the decline.

One of the reasons was the failure of the various parts of the organization to work together.

Women's Club Charges Conservative Party Not Loyal to Leaders

Ottawa, Sept. 16 — (CP) —The Progressive Conservative Business Women's Club of Ottawa, yesterday charged the party has a "reputation for having knifed every leader since Sir John A. Macdonald," with the party's misfortunes on lack of policy, lack of organization, and disloyalty and jealousy within the ranks.

A resolution outlining the club's views was adopted recently and mailed to the secretary's of Progressive Conservative organizations across the country, and to the party's 57 members in parliament and in the legislatures.

Miss Jeanne Travers, president of the club, said yesterday in an interview the resolution had been sent out with a view to helping the party, which will hold a convention from Sept. 30 - Oct. 1-2 to choose a successor to John Bracken, who is retiring after 10 years and ill-health.

Miss Travers said the club wants to help the party and where they were born. Now they are installed at the Quadruple's 10-roomed house set in a five-acre-plot with orchards and shrubs. They have their private enclosed nursery.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Good, were greeted with cheers and fluttering handkerchiefs. They stood behind a brown doorway to their new home to receive presentations and scores of congratulations.

A surprise for Mrs. Good was the gift of a washing machine.

"I shall certainly need it," she laughed, "but it is lovely to see my babies home with me."

"While they were in hospital I could scarcely believe they were mine," she said.

Work of W.I. in England Given By Guest Speaker at District Rally

The West Hastings district of the Women's Institute gathered at the Community Hall in Stirling on Monday afternoon when the seven branches held a "District Rally" to welcome Mrs. Braine of England who is touring Canada in the interests of the W. I.

The chief object of her visit is to gain mutual benefits by a better knowledge of each other's activities, thereby cementing a closer bond of friendship between the Institute members on both sides of the Atlantic.

Hall Tastefully Decorated

The hall presented a gala appearance with the prevailing colour scheme of pastel shades and floral decorations. W. I. colors and the emblem of the Rose, Thistle and Shamrock were also very prominently displayed as well as the decorative work done by the Junior Institutes activities, viz: "The Garden Club," "Cottons May be Smart," and "Foods for Health." These were the work of the Stirling Girls' Club and their leader Mrs. Loula Rogers.

The afternoon proceedings were opened with community singing, Songs which included "O Canada" and "There'll Always be An England" were conducted by Mrs. Geo. Ellis pianist and ably assisted by Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater at the piano.

Mr. Harold Wells, Reeve of Stirling, in welcoming the visitors to the village, eulogized the great work of the Women's Institute and the part played by the Stirling members in contributing towards the welfare and good of the community.

Mrs. Nicholson, district president, graciously replied and thanked the reeve for his expressions of welcome and cordial remarks.

A Past Provincial President, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, of Belleville, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Braine of Hertfordshire, England, and referred to Mrs. Braine's outstanding ability in her various offices in Institute work and her contribution to the "Associated Women of the World." She also mentioned the privileges of friendship gained and strengthened by means of the medium of the W. I. which broadens and beautifies the lives of the members.

Greetings From England

In her charming manner Mrs. Braine brought greetings from English Institutes.

The speaker went on to say that the Women's Institute in Great Britain thought of Canada as the Mother Country of Women's Institutes and was thrilled to follow in her lead from the initial setting at Stoney Creek, Ont. The Y's of England and Wales were organized in 1915 and have since expanded and grown until now there are about 7,000 branches with a membership of over 360,000. Many have shouldered a number of responsibilities during these anxious war years and since are both helping to repair the destruction to the rural countryside of "England's green and pleasant land" and to recover from a serious economic situation.

Phases of Work Outlined

Phases of work were outlined including the handicrafts which are being exported to aid the country's trade, the culture of music and drama is stressed and provides a happy source of entertainment at the monthly meetings. Particularly fine is the choir choir and drama are held at varsity degree.

The county of Hertfordshire has recently celebrated its 1,000th anniversary, and pageant depicting its history staged.

The speaker further interested her audience by giving a graphic description of a typical English village, surrounding farms and rural landscapes, some of the latter resembling our own Canadian scenes.

In her closing remarks Mrs. Braine expressed the gratitude of the English people for food parcels sent from time to time from Canada.

At the conclusion thanks were extended to Mrs. Braine for her splendid address, and as a tribute in appreciation she was made an honorary member of the district.

Tea at Wm. Dean

A sketch of the work done by the district was presented by Mrs. Roy Bush, 1st vice president, with additional items of interest. The information being gleaned from the records by the secretary treasurer.

Contributions to the following organizations were received from each branch. As each item was announced, the president of that respective branch was presented to Mrs. Braine, and a hearty handshake sealed the friendly relations of England and Canada.

The good wishes of everyone present will follow Mrs. Braine, the new member, across the seas as she "turns again home" to continue her work for "Home and Country."

Program:

Stirling: Pianoforte selection, Roman Candles, by Schundler, Mrs. Williams.

Waterloo Song, "Life Has Too Many Lovely Things," Mrs. Don Rose.

River Valley: Reading, The Pilot of the Sea, by Pauline Johnson, Mrs. P. McMullen.

Pine Grove: Pianoforte selection, "Over the Flat, Flat, Flat," Miss Gena Vanderwater.

Uniondale: Piano selection, The Oriole Grand March, Mrs. Fox.

Belleville: Community Singing, Song, vocal, Mrs. Moore.

The final feature of good will and entertainment was enjoyed prior to departure when the ladies joined in a social that and refreshed themselves at the amply laden tables.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Stirling ladies for their efforts in preparing hall and tea for the district's enjoyment and to the district's officers for the successful arrangements in making the rally another worthy milestone in the Institute's record.

W.M.S. and W.A. Of Tabernacle Ch. Hold Meeting

Members of the Tabernacle W.M.S. and W.A. met Tuesday afternoon in the church parlour when Mrs. A. Arnold, president of the W.M.S., conducted the opening exercises. Mrs. Archibald opened with "Blest be the tie that binds" in workers together with Him, beseech you also that you receive not the grack of God in vain."

Reports were read and adopted and plans for the W.M.S. rally in October and Autumn Thank Offering Service were discussed.

Mrs. F. Lent and her group are to have charge of the October meeting. Mrs. Archibald closed by reading explaining the "Duties of Associate Members" and offered prayer.

Mrs. M. Johns told the history of the W.M.S. from the beginning in 1881 until today and beginning for all to remember the words of God's Kingdom. On behalf of the group Mrs. Lent and Mrs. Johns presented two life membership certificates to Mrs. Archibald, Mrs. Barlow and Miss Eileen Watson, both of whom expressed really appreciation for the honor. Miss Ethel Horton gave the devotional and several numbers were offered as prayers.

The highlight of the program was the report of the School for Christian Service held in Bloor St. W. May and Mrs. Harback gratefully expressed her appreciation for the help they had received in united service.

The hallelujah closed with prayer and afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, convenors of Mrs. W. J. Harrison convener of the social committee.

Joy Bible Camp Enjoyed Good Season

The Joy Bible Camp has closed after its first season in operation and considered a very successful year.

Joy Camp is situated on beautiful Crowe Lake, near Bancroft. The property consists of two acres of level field with a sandy beach, which is safe for the little tots, and affords fine swimming for adults. Buildings were erected in June, under the direction of Mr. W. V. Bell, of Stirling, who is also director of the camp. The main building is 24 by 40 feet, with a dining room, then attached to this are the kitchen and two dormitories that can sleep 70 guests. These dormitories are fine with windows that give plenty of light and fresh air.

Camp opened July 5th, with girls' camp, when 63, including staff, were present. The second period, then followed ten days for boys' camp with about the same number in attendance. Children from Belleville, Kingston, Belleville and Peterborough areas were present, representing several denominations, during the two weeks for adults.

The camp operated on a busy schedule daily for the children, in games, swimming, and classes. Three hours daily were spent in simple Bible study. The camp is strictly undenominational, and is in charge of carefully selected counsellors.

The first year proved to be very successful, and plans are now under way for improvement and enlargement for another year.

Open New Bridge In Connection With Milford Fair

Picton — Official opening of a new bridge was held in connection with Milford Fair held yesterday. The concrete structure spans the creek which extends from a mill pond to South Bay. The ribbon was cut by Donald Baxter, M.P.P., A colorful parade of school children preceded the official opening of the fair by George Tustin, M.P.

There was a large display of fruits and vegetables, handicraft, sewing and cooking, pets, flowers and plants by children of South Marysburgh township. Willis Metcalfe had a very interesting display of articles collected from many parts of the world. Members of the Girls' Garden Club displayed products they had grown.

In a softball game Picton Army defeated Picton Legionals, 4-0. There was a program of sports for all ages.

Members of the Calf Club took part in a competition judged by Agricultural Representative Dalrymple of Brighton.

Celebrating his 90th birthday, Edward Rose of Picton was the oldest man present. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Spafford of Point Traverse wed 57 years, were the longest married couple in attendance.

Attracting much attention were the attempts to climb tall poles on which were attached dollar bills. Members of the R.C.A.M.C., in a co-operative attempt, managed to secure them.

The R.C.A. had a display of anti-aircraft equipment which was demonstrated.

In a team drawing contest, Harold Cooper was the winner.

The evening program saw a number of local persons interviewed on a radio program and a variety concert.

The fair was greeted by perfect weather and more than a thousand persons flocked to the village for the event.

The 5th anniversary of the Battle of Britain, is to be noted by special church parades by the R.C.A.F. in Canada this coming Sunday, Sept. 15. German bombers left their mark on British cities as shown by the above picture of bombs around St. Paul's, but Hitler's airmen met their first major defeat in September, 1940, when staggering losses inflicted by defending fighter squadrons forced them to abandon their daylight mass bombing attacks. — (U. Brighteners

Los Angeles — (AP) — The electric fan in Edward Emerty's butcher shop wasn't exactly for the purpose of cooling him or the meat he tossed on the scales.

Emert, 40, pleaded guilty Wednesday to short - weighting a customer. The Bureau of Weights and Measures charged that the butcher trained his fan on the sensitive scales — and the air stream depressed the scales.

Electricity is cheaper than meat, Emert decided; must pay $150 fine or go to jail for 30 days.

Forreston, Ill. — (AP) — Two tons of marketable corn on weiners were the main fare in the world's largest free meal planned today for some 25,000 visitors at the 39th annual "sauerkraut day."

Today was a virtual holiday for most of the residents living within a 50-mile radius of Forreston, a community of 1,000 population in Northwestern Illinois.

Reading, Pa. — (AP)—Twenty-four ferris - wheel passengers received an added thrill at Reading Fair Wednesday night when a drive belt was torn, stranding them in mid-air for two hours.

Operators of the concession decided not to tamper with the machinery while there were passengers on the wheel and summoned the Reading Fire Company.

All 24 were removed by means of a hook-and-ladder truck.

Los Angeles — (AP)—Blonde Lorraine Rubin, 32, who said her husband insisted kissing is not sanitary, Wednesday won a bitterly - contested divorce.

Mrs. Rubin charged that her husband tried to "destroy me psychologically," refused for two years to kiss her, but spent considerable time with a pretty brunette baby-sitter.

A1064 And Wife Leave For North

Rathwell, Man. (CP)—A distinguished visitor from southern Manitoba has paid a visit to the capital of the province—and as far as can be ascertained he was not impressed.

He wore a brown coat, a tired expression, and took a jaundiced view of Winnipeg. He was "A1064" one of the largest beaver caught in southern Manitoba.

The beaver is about five feet long, weighs 78 pounds and is as powerful as a mule. "A1064" is about 10 years old, a respectable age in any beaver colony.

He was caught south of here on the Boyne River by Douglas Ferris, a game guardian. Beaver are becoming a nuisance in the south of the province. The game and fisheries branch is caging them and shipping them north, where they will increase the stock for trappers and act as fire prevention officers by building dams.

Largest Beaver

"He is the largest beaver I ever caught or saw" said 22-year-old Douglas Ferris—who has caught hundreds of beaver since he was nine years old.

Ferris had a hard time carrying "A1064" (the serial number given the beaver) half a mile through the bush to his truck. An adult beaver weighs 40 pounds on the average—and A1064 took a dim view of the nocturnal bush ride. He flung his weight around in the wire cage and caught his captor off his feet a couple of times.

But the big beaver was shipped to The Pas. Ferris made another trip to the Rathwell area to pick up A1064's wife.

Beaver are monogamists. They rapidly become despondent when separated from their spouses. "A1064" has no worries on this score. His wife was sent north to join him in freedom on some lake.

16-YEAR JOB

London — (CP) — It will take 16 years for the R.A.F.'s 32nd Photographic Reconnaissance Squadron, now working overtime to complete the aerial survey of the British Empire for the Government, Rees-Williams, colonial under-secretary announced recently.

Crown Ruler With Tribal Rites

Lusaka, Northern Rhodesia — (CP)—Lusaka, the crowded capital of Barotseland, resounded recently to a brief and vigorous beating of drums which marked the end of the coronation of Mwanawina III, the new paramount chief of the Barotse nation.

Although Barotse custom decrees that the paramount chief must have at least six wives, Mwanawina, a Christian, has only one.

Mwanawina was chosen after long deliberations by the council of chiefs of this native reserve in northwest Rhodesia. The secret initiation took place a Makoya, a little village across the Zambesi river.

Dressed in the traditional trappings of leopard and lion skins and wearing the head-dress of a lion's mane, Mwanawina set out alone for the spirit houses of Mongwanwanikwa, the original ancestors of all the Lozi. There he sought the guidance of her spirit.

Then he was escorted to a tiny island in the Zambesi where, attended by four priests, he was licked by a white cow in what anyone unclean in body or mind would run away.

Another of the coronation rites was the extinguishing of all the fires in the capital so soon as its inhabitants informed that the new king had been selected. They were rekindled from a fire started by the new king.

After the coronation ceremony the prime minister, (Ngambela) made a speech on behalf of the king who, following ancient custom, is not permitted to speak on the day of his accession.

He assured the official British representatives of Mwanawina's loyalty to Britain and to the present government of Northern Rhodesia, of the Barotse's friendliness towards the European community. The prime minister also said that the new king had promised to follow in the footsteps of his father, Lewanika, and his brother, in the ruling of the people.

The British official in charge of Barotseland replied on behalf of the government and wished the new king a long and prosperous reign. He assured the Barotse continued friendship between the Barotse nation and His Majesty's government.

Flares Cause Erroneous Report

Tokyo, Sept. 16 (AP) — Flares dropped over the United States frontier, where Japan has no unidentified planes reported Wednesday might be an erroneous report that the Russian-chartered vessel had been fired on.

Capt. Kenneth D. Pyle, skipper of the 7,176-ton freighter recited the ship's operations, the Shepard Line, that the flares were dropped Saturday night in the Sea of Japan, off Russia's Siberian coast.

Lt. Ben Frandsen, the Shepard Lines west coast manager, J. C. Shimki, said Capt. Pyle was known as an area where illumination to help for purposes of identification happens often.

EARLIEST MENTION

The earliest recorded mention of Indian Summer was made in 1794.

Corelli's Spirit Author of Novel

Vancouver (CP)—Mrs. Blanche A. Draper is what you might call a "novel" novelist.

Far from flaunting her authorship, she disclaims any first-hand connection with her book "The Radiant Flame."

The author says Mrs. Draper, is the spirit of Marie Corelli, English novelist, who died in 1924.

"The book was done by automatic writing," Mrs. Draper claimed. "I could not see Marie Corelli nor hear her voice. Everything was done by writing."

Pencil in hand the middle-aged medium seated herself in her apartment at 10 o'clock each morning to receive 'silent dictation.'

"She did the writing; I was simply the instrument. The pencil flew. I did not know what I was writing and I was told not to read the novel until 80 pages were finished.

In Romantic Style

Mrs. Draper, with the script now finished, hopes to publish it in nine months' time, she declared.

She says the handwriting in the manuscript is not quite like her own and the subject matter of the book are also unlike those of the novelist.

"The Radiant Flame" recounts the adventure of a worldly hero, Marcus Aurelius Junius Rufus, to Louver to Egypt. Mrs. Draper has never been to Egypt except in dreams. It is written in the romantic style which characterized Miss Corelli novels as "Vendetta, Sorrows of Satin, and the Mighty Atom.

KILLED IN COLLISION

North Bay, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Thomas Brown of North Bay was instantly killed early today when the automobile he was driving collided with a taxi near Powassan, 17 miles south of here. Passengers in the car were admitted to hospital with undetermined injuries. The taxi driver was uninjured.

ondon Letter:
ondon Underground Rail ystem Carries 500,000,000 assengers Every Year

By JAMES McCOOK
(London Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 15 — (CP) — London's too big," groan her overworked citizens, and London transport engineers — who are to blame — must agree.

Without those engineers London could never have become the host of 8,700,000 people, 9,500,000 of whom have to be carried between home and work in morning and evening rush hours.

Now everything is short. Underground extensions come, but London's population grows and grows.

The rush hours it is not uncommon for us to carry 400 to 500 standing passengers in a single train," said Lord Latham, chairman of the London Transport Executive.

In a year the underground carries more than 500,000,000 passengers, and bulges at the seams doing it.

Needs Everything

The underground, mainstay of a system linked up with buses and trams, needs more men, more trains, more cars, more motors. But it can't get them, although it now is part of the nationalized railway system under supervision of the national government.

Latham, hopefully, invites Londoners not to travel in rush hours and thus ease the congestion. He would like to see those from the packed trains the 60,000 shoppers, visitors, sightseers and others who travel during the evening rush hour. He'd like factories and unions to agree to staggered work hours.

"We think that even today Londoners as a whole do not recognize how acute and unprecedented are the difficulties under which the transport system of our great city is working," he said.

Done Their Best

Only the citizens can help now, for the engineers have done their best. The underground trains still can accelerate to 40 miles an hour in 52 seconds; traffic is concentrated — 207 trains pass through Charing Cross station in an hour; elevators carry people to the surface at the rate of 90 persons each at 120 feet a minute; loudspeakers direct uncertain passengers to their trains; rails half-a-mile long have been installed to cut down sound and speed traffic; signalling devices permit fast operation even for surface trains in dense fog.

Within supply limitations, the engineers have tried to show Londoners what they could do if only there were room for all to sit on underground trains. The latest "luxury" car has handsome compartments, colorized with ripple-finished plastic panels in blue, and orange color scheme. Seats have reversible backs and fold-out ashtrays, all lighted with tubular lamps. Insulated with thick roof fans, draughts are eliminated and doors are opened by pushing buttons.

Inquest Opens In Girl's Death

Palmer Rapids, Ont., Sept. 16 — (CP) — District farmers gathered in this tiny farming community today for the opening of an inquest into the death of 15-year-old Violet Goglin, who waded to her death in the nearby Madawaska River Aug. 29 to the call "of the Holy Spirit."

Aimed at probing the circumstances surrounding the girl's death, the inquest opens this afternoon with Dr. J. Reeves, district coroner, in charge and H. R. Johnson, K.C., Renfrew County Crown Prosecutor, questioning witnesses.

It was expected the questioning would embrace all members of the girl's family, who live on a farm not far from this Eastern Ontario community, lies 40 miles southwest of Pembroke.

One of the principal witnesses will be Henry Goglin, the girl's father and founder of the deep-rooted family religion known as "Jesus" which led her to her death in a religious frenzy.

The girl, said by the family to have been "called by the Holy Spirit," walked out into the river in the early hours of Aug. 29 while her 23-year-old sister, Viola, watched from the shore. The body later was recovered and buried on a hillside on the Goglin farm.

The father later told reporters the family was not sorrowful about the girl's death. His daughter had been called by God, a fact which those who had not been "saved" would not understand.

There are 10 other children in the family.

VALUED HEALTH

In ancient Greece, health was considered one of the highest goods, and disease a great evil that made men inferior.

Cheats Cabbie Of Long Fare And Borrows $19

Peterborough, Sept. 16 — (CP) — The mysterious "Mr. White" is at it again. For the second time this month, a smooth-talking, disappearing man has cheated a district taxi driver out of a long fare. This time he got $19 of the cabbie's own money, just to add insult to injury.

The victim was Stewart Grant, Peterborough taxi driver. About 8 P. M., Tuesday, he picked up the fare at a hotel. The man said he was a representative of a typewriter company. He had a few solid five machines to the Civic Hospital here and would be going to Toronto to arrange for them. The driver and passenger agreed on a flat $25 fee to drive the man to Christie St. Hospital in Toronto.

Arriving at Toronto, the passenger went into the hospital and came out shortly.

He told Grant that he had just completed "a deal" for a radio for which he needed $41 cash, which he didn't have with him at the time.

So the obliging driver loaned him the money.

"Mr. White" hasn't been found since.

Brighteners

Atlanta, Ga. — (AP) — Some Georgia hunters were hunting down a copy while agents of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service were hunting the hunters.

The dove, long a symbol of peace, has stirred a war between the federal agency and the Georgia Game and Fish Commission because the authorities have fixed different open seasons for hunting the bird.

And the "feds" have brought in 30 agents and have aligned to enforce the federal season.

Director Charles Elliott of the Georgia Fish and Game Commission says his organization will not co-operate with the federal authorities in enforcing the federal law.

The federals have won the first round. At Albany Tuesday the United States commissioner placed five men, one a second offender, in bail on charges of shooting doves out of season.

New York — (CP)—William Spangehl, 17, of Brooklyn, has an eye for color.

He told police Tuesday he liked the two-toned green-and-white color scheme on New York City police cars. That was why, he added, he drove one home to Brooklyn. He was charged with grand larceny.

Whippany, N. J. — (CP) — Mrs. Adelaide Rosenbohm, who is 108 today, has no advice on longevity.

Tuesday she told reporters she was surprised she had lived so long.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y. — (CP) — The draft is going to hit Brown School for Boys hard. In fact, it's closing.

Thomas C. Brown, who founded the school in 1945, said Tuesday he had cancelled the term scheduled to start Sept. 22 because "most of the students would be drafted before the end of the school year."

BULLDOZERS HALT FIRE

Rapid City (S. Dak.), Sept. 15 (AP) —A fire which burned over more than four square miles of the Black Hills forest area and menaced the town of Pringle, 40 miles southwest of here, was brought under control Tuesday night, Forest Rangers moved in a fleet of bulldozers to plow a safety break around the blaze.

U.S. Sending 40 Cargo Planes To Aid Airlift

Washington, Sept. 16 —(AP)— The United States Air Force is rushing about 10 more C-54 four-engine cargo planes to Germany to reinforce the 101 now flying the airlift to Soviet-blockaded Berlin.

The planes, now going over, will use expanded airport facilities which have been constructed to handle the task of supplying Berlin.

The air force said it will continue to meet such requirements as may be laid down by Gen. Lucius Clay, United States military governor, during the coming months.

AMERICANS KILLED

Seoul, Sept. 15 (AP) — The United States Army reported today 40 Americans were killed and nearly 40 injured in a train wreck 75 miles south of this Korean city Monday night. The wreck occurred when a passenger train plowed into the rear of another train about 15 miles north of Taejon.

Albury

Albury — A few of the ladies attended the special Institute meeting at Victoria Church on Wednesday evening. Everyone present enjoyed the special speaker Mrs. Braine of England. She gave a wonderful talk. Delicious refreshments were served.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Don Dempsey (nee Marion Cummings) on the arrival of twins, a boy and a girl in Belleville General Hospital on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carrrie spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Fitzgerald and boys of Bellefille, spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. F. Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carrrie, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Chase of Eldon Station, spent Sunday afternoon and tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck.

Sorry to report Master Charles Weese has been sick and under the doctor's care. Friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Earl Weese returned home from Belleville hospital on Wednesday. All are glad to report she is feeling better.

There were just 105 sheep in Australia in 1792. Sheep-raching now is one of Australia's greatest industries.

Minister Receives Public Rebuke

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (AP)—A public rebuke was read by the Los Angeles Presbytery Tuesday to Rev. Stewart P. MacLennan, retired pastor of the Hollywood First Presbyterian Church and formerly of Sydney, N.S., who married millionaire Bob Cummings' and movie actress Lana Turner, April 26. The Presbytery's rebuke was read with 200 churchmen present in the Highland Park Presbyterian Church. At its conclusion, Dr. MacLennan said: "I accept the rebuke in all humility As a Presbyterian minister I am subject to my brethern."

Americans Using More Oleomargarine

Washington, Sept. 15 — (AP) — Americans are using more oleomargarine and less butter, the Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

The average American used 11 pounds of butter last year as compared with 16 in 1941. But he used five pounds of oleomargarine as compared with three in 1941.

The trend is the same this year, the agriculture experts said.

About 53 per cent of the fats in oleomargarine in 1947 was cottonseed oil, 36 per cent soybean oil and two per cent animal fat, the government reported.

Special church parades are to be held across Canada by the R.C.A.F. on Battle of Britain Sunday, Sept. 19, when the 8th anniversary of Hitler's great defeat in the air in 1940 is noted. Spitfires such as those shown above gave the Nazis their first major air defeat and caused the danger of immediate invasion of Britain. — (R.C.A.F. Photo).

NANCY CHOREMI GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Mrs. Nancy Choremi, who was convicted of being a $100-a-night call girl, is shown as she left the criminal courts building in New York with her wealthy Greek husband after she had been given a three-months suspended sentence. Mr. Choremi came to New York to take his wife and son home to Egypt. Mrs. Choremi is the daughter of C. Paul Fletcher, U.S. consul general at Casablanca.

3 Trailer-Camp Residents Die In Chain Blast

Inglewood, Calif. Sept. 18 — (AP)— Three trailer camp residents were killed Wednesday when flames spewed over the court by an oil tank explosion Seven other persons were injured.

Dead were Mrs. Lillian Reynolds, 35; Mrs. Olive Ziegler, 27, and her three year old daughter Judy Ziegler.

The chain explosion blasted 12 of 16 tanks at the Basin Oil company's five acre tract.

Cycle Daredevil Killed at Wheel Of Truck

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—A 27-year-old motorcycle daredevil who earned his living by flirting with death and defying lions — John J. Perry of Falls River Mass.—died today at the wheel of a truck carrying his act to its next stand.

Police say the tractor-trailer which Petty was driving at high speed crashed into a tree as it swung around a corner.

The other members of the act which attracted thousands at the Canadian National Exhibition here to watch the daredevils ride in a bowl with roaring lions, were passengers in the truck but were uninjured. They are James Ruddy of Newsport News, Va., and Madison Cook of South Carolina.

NO EPIDEMIC SEEN

Montreal — (CP) — There is no danger of an epidemic of measles or mumps in Montreal this year, Dr. Adelard Groulx, head of the city's health department, said in a radio address. The last epidemic ended in May, 1948 and the next will not strike before 1950, he said.

We will put wonderful new Super-Balloons on your car — and take your present tires in exchange. Make this switch to more comfort and safety today. 54-2123

Good News THE EMPIRE GROCETERIA OPENS TODAY

YES IT'S GOOD SHOPPING NEWS —

With the opening of the Empire Groceteria today a great step has been taken to give you better service —more efficient service to help you enjoy those shopping days.

Drop in — look around — try one of the new tote carts that move with a feather-like touch on roller bearings. See how the merchandise has been arranged for your convenience and easy access. Note how all merchandise is clearly marked with "easy visibility" price tags.

Note how freely store traffic moves for easy and leisurely shopping — no shoving and pushing. See how quickly meat is cut on the electric power cutting meat saws—no waiting here.

Walk over and look at the famous Dew-O-Cool with its vapour head that keeps fruits and vegetables fresh . . you'll thrill to their garden crisp flavor.

Finally for your convenience and to speed you on your way — two great check out counters have been installed to ensure quick efficient cashier service.

VISIT THE EMPIRE GROCETERIA TODAY and ENJOY SHOPPING THE EMPIRE WAY.

This new groceteria was designed and planned for your greater shopping convenience by E. J. SWEDEN'S 16 YRS. OF SOCIALIST RULE ARE AT STAKE

General Elections Will Be Held on Sunday

Stockholm, Sept. 16 (AP)—Swedens 16 years of socialist rule are at stake in general elections next Sunday.

Conservatives, Liberals and Agrarians have joined forces to wrest power from the Social Democratic Labor Party which has governed the country since 1932.

Campaigning has been intense, and recent public-opinion polls indicate that under the concerted onslaught the Social Democrats may fail to secure a majority in the lower chamber of the Swedish parliament.

Under the leadership of the late Premier, Per Albin Hansson, Social Democrats in the last few general elections have polled roughly three times more votes than any other Swedish party.

Today they are fighting under a new leader, 47-year-old Tage Erlander, who took over as Premier when Hansson died in 1946.

The 230 seats of the lower chamber are divided this way now: Social Democrats 115; Conservatives, 39; the Agrarian Farmers Union, a centre party, 35; the Liberal Peoples Party, another centre group, 36; Communists, 15.

The Conservatives headed by 39-year-old Fridtiof Domson, the Agrarians led by Axel Pehrsson-Bramstorp, a 53-year-old landowner; and the Liberals, under the leadership of Bertil Ohlin, 51, professor of economics, have formed an election bloc. The arrangement makes it possible for them to pool their votes when any one of their candidates fails to secure a separate majority.

The three parties have submerged their policy differences with the aim of ousting the Socialists. Secrets said forcing formation of a coalition government.

Expresses Regret For 'Affront' To Ethiopia

Washington, Sept. 16 — (AP)— The American Association for the Advancement of Science on Thursday night expressed "profound regret" that Emperor Haile Selassie for a "serious affront" it said the minister suffered at Constitution Hall Monday night.

The association, which opened its centennial meeting in the hall that night, said it had been reported to them that the Ethiopian minister, Ras Imru, had been asked by an usher — at the instruction of an unidentified person — to leave his box and "take a seat elsewhere in the hall."

An association statement said that after the incident the usher later "left the hall."

Constitution Hall is owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution which has figured in controversies over its Negro policy of. Its refusal to rent the hall for concerts by Negro artists. However, there was no indication in the statement that the action of the D.A.R. was involved in the latest incident.

The association said the "incident" had been reported to it by a representative of the Ethiopian embassy who had been sitting in a box next to that occupied by the Ethiopian minister during the meeting.

It was at this same meeting that President Truman addressed the scientists.

Pruning Process By Detroit Begins At Training Camp

Saskatoon, Sept. 16 (CP)—The pruning process has begun at the tri-training camp of Detroit Red Wings here.

Coach Tommy Ivan of the National Hockey League club has released 30 players, mostly youngsters. There are still about 60 players in camp. Their number will be pared again after today and the next week.

Ivan is well pleased with the calibre of those attending this year's camp, and predicts great hockey futures for many of the youngsters he has watched in practice drills. There was a good showing of goaltending prospects.

Workouts will become more rugged from now on as the players bid for places in the final selection for the trip to Detroit.

Says Red Efforts Meeting With Little Success

Ottawa, Sept. 16 (CP) — Communists in Canada are still trying to persuade displaced persons arriving in the Dominion to join Communist organizations or Communist-dominated unions, but their efforts are not meeting with much success, a Labor Department official said today.

The official said he was not aware of any increase in this type of activity, which was not illegal. Canadians still enjoyed the right of free speech and the handling out of literature was not against the law.

The fact that the Communists knew the arrival time of special trains carrying the immigrants did not mean that there was a leak of information somewhere. Railway officials knew and gave out on request the arrival time of such trains. Newspaper reports usually indicated the number of immigrants arriving and their places of origin.

The official said that displaced persons going into the mining and lumbering industries are probably bothered by the Communists more than those going into other types of work. He said this was because many of the members of the mining and lumbering industries were Communists.

"I believe 99.99 per cent of the new arrivals are resisting the efforts of Communists," he said. "I believe they resent these approaches being made to them."

He said one indication of this was the recent gang fight in a North Bay lumbering camp where displaced persons fought it out with Canadians who were trying to put pressure on them.

Rev. M.C. Davies Named Speaker Of Legislature

Toronto, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Rev. M. Cooke Davies, 51, of Whitby, was named speaker of the Ontario Legislature today at a regular Cabinet meeting. Premier Drew announced that his choice would go before the next session with a motion for his appointment to the post.

First elected to the Legislature in June, 1948, in Windsor-Walkerville, Mr. Davies will succeed James del. Spearman, defeated in Prince Edward-Lennox in the June 7 elections this year.

Mr. Drew said it is regarded as desirable that the new Speaker should be chosen now "as there are a number of vacancies in the executive which the office of the Speaker is called upon to perform."

Mr. Davies, member for Windsor-Walkerville, will be the 3rd speaker in the legislature since the Progressive Conservative party came into power.

Stewart, former member for Toronto Parkdale, was chosen speaker in February, 1944, and was succeeded by Mr. Spearman.

"Wing Cndr. Davies has made a splendid contribution to the affairs in the legislature, has been a most conscientious member, and has won the respect of all members of all parties," said Mr. Drew in announcing the new appointment.

Mr. Davies was born in Wales and came to Canada in 1919. He was graduated from Huron College, London, Ont., and served as an R.C.A.F. chaplain in the second world War with the rank of wing commander. He was deputy director of the R.C.A.F. chaplain service from 1942 to 1944 and is rector of St. George's Anglican Church, Walkerville.

Charred Body Is Identified

Balcarres, Sask., Sept. 16 (CP) — The charred body found on Sunday, Aug. 17 in the smouldering ruins of a shack in the district 55 miles northeast of Regina, was identified by a coroner's jury as being 76-year-old Florence Cassidy.

Frank Catalack, 39, a district farmer, has been charged with the murder and arson in the case and his preliminary hearing will be held today.

The jury declared the victim "came by her death by a blow or blows on the head, administered by an unknown person, sometime between Aug. 13 and Aug. 17."

The former Regina waitress is said to have been living with the farmer prior to her death.

NOT CUTTING DOWN

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)— This capital city of Ontario isn't cutting down its consumption of electricity sufficiently under the provincial power-saving restrictions, Mayor McCallum said today, He said that if consumption isn't cut more, compulsory restrictions may have to be introduced. Toronto is limited to 5,000,000 kilowatt hours a day. Today, first day of restrictions, used 5,306,000 or 56,000 over the limit. Thursday's restrictions, the city used 5,600,000.

Former football star from Belleville, Dr. Bruce Cronk, 25-year-old head of Queen's University medical expedition, is seen giving treatment to Koosherak, an Eskimo on the beach at Coral Harbor and also giving an Eskimo woman a tuberculin test in the clinic set up in a former U.S. Army hut on Southampton Island. Assisting him at right is fift-year Queen's medical student James Gibbon.

Perfect Autumn Weather Greets Thousands Attending Tweed Fair Exhibits, Contests of High Standard

Tweed (Staff)—Attended by a record crowd of approximately 5,000 persons, Tweed Fair was an unqualified success Wednesday afternoon with a varied program having high points of interest for every fair-goer coming and old.

Perfect autumn weather greeted the thousands of fair-goers who during the morning and early afternoon crowded their way into the fair grounds to witness the horse and cattle show and the many other attractions. Late in the afternoon the sun became clouded but a slight drizzle failed to dampen the spirits of the exhibition crowd.

As is customary at the Tweed fair there were many exhibits of high class cattle as district breeders showed their cattle. The horse show also was up to its usual form with the many entries of both heavy and light horses providing a drawing card for the horse lovers.

Peterborough Exhibitor Wins

Mr. George Atkinson of Peterborough Fuel and Ice Company won the Sawyer Stoll silver trophy donated for the best exhibition of livestock at the fair. Mr Atkinson won the trophy with his heavy horse exhibit and was personally presented with the trophy by one of the grandsons by Mr. Johnston of Sawyer Stoll in the agricultural building at the fair who was jammed full of products of the district. The exhibits were a splendid example of culinary art and women's fancy work.

The Tweed district is productive of fine farm and garden products was evinced by the showing of seed grains and vegetables. Pumpkin and squash of mammoth size helped to set off the farm and garden exhibit.

The children's section failed to have the largest entry of the fair but with six local cheese makers competing.

Winners in Cheese Class

Winners of the various classes were as follows: General class by the fair society, Tweed Women's Institute, Warkworth; Bert Jones, Tweed, and Mrs. Ed. Richardson; Tweed Steel Works special for best cheese in show — Mrs. Edith Smith, Cecil Pack, Bert Jones and Ed. Richardson; by Stadiess county cheese producers—Cecil Pack, L. Courneyea, Stoco, Archie Smith, Tweed, and Bert Jones; Ellis Feed Store for best white cheese exhibit—Steamitz; by Hastings Cheese Co. for finest exhibit—Bert Jones, Cecil Pack and Mrs. Richardson; by Snare's Limited for best junior exhibit, Cecil Pack; by Hurst district Veteran Co. for best colored cheese exhibit.

The wild life exhibit of the district, office of the Ontario department of Lands and Forests under the direction of C. G. Shoppard, fish and wild life specialist, attracted considerable attention on the part of the young and old. The exhibit consisted of 3-year-old beaver; a black bear and a young deer.

46 Babies in Show

Creating great feminine interest at any fair is the ever-popular baby show and Tweed fair was no exception. Entered in the contest were 46 babies and 46 sets of twins. Judging was under the direction of Mrs. H. Yerly.

Winners in the various classes were one to six months: Gail La Barge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. LaBarge, Tweed; Karen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Jones, Tweed, and Lois Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reavey, Flinton.

Six to 12 months — Cheryl Anne Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, Tweed, and Sharon Faye Sedore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sedore, Roslin.

Twelve to 18 months — Robert Woodcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woodcock, and "Sonny" Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Fox, Thomasburg.

Winners in the twins class were Vera and Verna Spicer, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Spicer, Cloyne, and Lucille Annette and John Steven, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Sulphide.

Mr. and Mrs. Spicer of Cloyne were double winners at the fair, they also won the prize for the largest family—11 children.

Farm implement and miscellaneous agents were out in full force at the fair with Trudeau Motors, Bateman Motors, Bill Deline and Truck and Farm Supply of Belleville being representative. Bob Woods Motors of Tweed and the W. Kimberley Elsmere Company and Sawyer Stoll, also had interesting exhibits.

The E. J. Casey Shows were present with an attractive midway. The various rides including the merry-go-round and ferris wheel being well patronized during the afternoon.

There was also musical entertainment. Tom Hamilton's Variety Show of Toronto provided a talented instrumental and song program in front of the grand stand. The comedy clown, Ernie Brucel, with his Scotch impersonations was a hit while the violin-accordion act by Ben Silverstone and Margot Lewis was really top class. Jack Ayre provided the piano accompaniment.

Novelty Contests

In addition to the variety show there were many novelty contests with master of ceremonies Tommy Mason keeping things moving at a fast tempo from early in the day until noon. The Havelock Kiltie Band was also in attendance.

Beauty contest winners were Sheila Allore, Bogart; Audrey Goulah of Tweed and Rose Marie Connor of Milbrig.

The nail driving contest was won by Mrs. Robert Fraser of Stirling using nine nails. Her husband possibly had something to do with her success with the hammer. Other winners were Mrs. George Shane of Madoc; Mary McCormick of Stoco, and Helen Cronk of Madoc.

The log sawing contest was won by Clarence Dafoe and Bernard Inwood of Cloyne, they drawing their saw through a seasoned oak block in 1 minute 40 seconds. Other winners were Ray Archer and E. Carlow of Campbellford, nine 31 seconds; Joe Perry, Jr., and John Percy of Cloyne, and George Vellenoff and Melvin Laake of Tweed. Singing Contests

Winners in the boys' singing contest were Fred Smith of Moira and Carl Fisher of Tweed, and in the girls' contest Georgina De-Mont of Marlbank. Oldest man on the grounds was 92-year-old W. W. Kinnersly of Napanee, who still runs. Walsh of Lonsdale took the prize for being the oldest lady on the grounds.

The steady pulling team of Leon Fry of Campbellford outpulled two other competitors' teams in the horse drawing contest. Other contestants were Mc-Manion of Ardock, and Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Co.

IDENTIFIED AS ACTOR

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 — (AP)— Police today arrested a man they identified as Carter De Haven, 61, former actor and father of film actress Gloria De Haven. He was booked on suspicion of burglary.

Police said they arrested the man after receiving reports of a prowler in the Wilshire district. The suspect was carrying a pair of small field glasses, police said. He gave his occupation as actor and radio technician, police reported.

"Carter De Haven was prominent on the vaudeville stage and on the silent screen many years ago.

Eire's Prime Minister, Hon. John A. Costello, had a busy day in Toronto yesterday. Following a reception at His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan, he addressed a Canadian Club luncheon, above, where he is shown chatting with Sen. W. H. Dukes, president of the Canadian Club, at right.

Worker Trapped And Killed By Cave-in

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—Charles Monteith, age about 60, was found dead today beneath 20-feet of earth at the bottom of a 44-foot well at Highland Creek, 11 miles east of Toronto.

A fellow-workman, Alex Little, 38, of nearby West Hill, was rescued from the 20-foot level. He suffered a broken arm.

The men had just finished digging the well and a truck, carrying the pump pipe, was backed up to the well's edge. The trapped man descended to the bottom of the well and Little took up a position half way down. A third man on the ground drove the truck to direct the pipe. The weight of the truck caused the edge of the well to cave in, burying the man at the bottom. Little was hurled and trapping Little between the pipe and the wall. Little was removed within a few minutes.

TRAIN KILLS SIX OF HERD

Fort Erie, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Former Jacob Buch of nearby Stevensville has a "lot of beef today."

He's advocating bigger and better cow catchers on locomotives. While driving his herd of cattle across the New York Central right of way between Welland and Erie at Stevensville Wednesday night, near his farm, a special train ran into his herd, killing six and injuring three. Buch said he did not expect it at that time and theorized it was a non scheduled run.

DELAY ARRAIGNMENT OF "AXIS SALLY"

Washington, Sept. 16 (AP) Affaignment of Mildred E. Gillars ("Axis Sally" of the German radio today was postponed to Sept. 21. The 47-year-old Portland, Me., native was indicted last Friday on charges of wartime treason. She is accused of being the Nazis' psychological warfare campaign and undermining the morale of United States troops.

Counsel Unable To Get Answer From Witness

Ottawa Sept. 16 (CP) — H. A. Rolland, counsel for the prices commission, tried unsuccessfully today to get an explanation of why Canadian sugar supplies were up and short productions down from 1939 to 1947 to 1938.

He asked D. H. Rolland, sales manager of Montreal Cottons Ltd. if he could explain why 1947 saw 639,500 dozen shirts produced and 533,000,000 yards of cotton available as compared to the 1939 figures of 1,000,000 dozen shirts produced in 1939 against a total of 307,000,000 yards of cotton.

Mr. Rolland said he had "no opinion" to offer. He suggested that the manufacturers could help.

He said his firm's production was up generally, but whether the increase was going into shirts instead of other clothes he didn't know.

He had "heard" that there was a shirt shortage last year, and had tried to increase production. His firm production now was at a peak. Any increase in supplies for shirts would be at the expense of other lines.

Mr. yde asked if it was not true that there was a tendency to produce higher-priced cotton because it brought a higher profit.

Mr. Rolland said he knew nothing about his firm's products. Today's testimony followed a statement that shirt manufacturers sometimes indicated retail prices for their products in order to protect small retailers.

EXPECT 15,000 STUDENTS

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—An estimated 15,000 students were expected by the University of Toronto as registrations started Wednesday. With most of the eligible students already registered, a smaller first year enrollment was largely responsible for the drop of about 2,90 from last year.

STRIKE SPREADS THROUGH THREE FR. INDUSTRIES

100 Police, 30 Workers Injured in Dispute

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—A strike wave spread today through France's aviation, automobile and steel industries, touched off by demonstrations in which more than 100 police and 30 workers were injured Wednesday.

The state-owned strikes was tied up, involving 4,000 ground crew and other traffic personnel at Paris' two main airports; Le Bourget and Orly. Air France planes were not taking off.

Many of the strikers were Communist-led and held the threat of further clashes with police. However, movement among non-Communist labor leaders, under terrific pressure from the Reds to join the walkout, was growing.

Production at Renault auto factory was halted by a Communist-led strike affecting 25,000 workers. Nearly 12,000 more were idle at Peugeot auto factory. Fears were laid to the work strikes, page would spread to Citroen auto plant.

Asked to Remain on Job

At the port city of Brest, 6,000 Communist-led workers struck, but leaders of the Citroen union pleased with their followers to remain on the job.

Some 15,000 workers are on strike at the nationalized aviation plant. Wednesday's disorders started when 4,500 of these marched down Boulevard Haussman protesting the dismissal of 1,700 of their fellow employes.

Some 40,000 steel workers struck in northern France demanding bonuses of 3,000 francs ($9) each to offset cost-of-living increases.

Communists, not being a part of the new coalition government, are avowedly seeking to overthrow the five-day-old cabinet of the Radical Socialist (Conservative) Premier Henri Queuille.

Although the franc hit a new low on the black market at 49.00 to the dollar against a legal exchange rate of 311, Queuille decided against the use of such drastic monetary reforms were pending.

"We admire his courage," a French observer said. "But we wonder how many more days he will stay in office."

Owners Sleep In Stores to Protect Goods

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)—Fur dealers and other business men slept in their stores here Wednesday night to protect the millions of dollars worth of property from unguarded by the three-day-old strike of the Dominion Electric Protective Association.

The strike—which involves 300 watchmen in Toronto and four in four cities—was called at midnight Tuesday after a 15-cent hourly increase and a 40-hour week. About 90 employers are on strike, and the remainder are in Montreal, London and Hamilton.

Harold Bromley, business agent for Local 512, United Electrical Workers, said he and other officials of the company are trying to get the service running on a 24-hour basis. Obviously they can't do it. The strike is solid."

Mac Starr one of 21 occupants of a building which houses 15 fur businesses, said he had a lawyer, two cloak houses and a manufacturer's agent with him and the occupants had formed a protective committee for the duration of the strike.

Police reported no break-ins or robberies Wednesday night. Premises normally protected by the alarm system.

ALL HAD SUGGESTIONS

Toronto, Sept. 16 (CP)— While Alderman Leonard Reilly didn't have any idea how to end Toronto's nearly everyone else on the Toronto City Council had a cure or suggestion to make. Skyrockets and dynamite were among them and Controller Ballour even suggested building a skyscraper for them to live in while they've been doing in New York.

Stricken By Heart Attack

Smithville, Ont., Sept. 16 (CP) Stricken by a heart attack on Wednesday night after being on duty at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, St. Catharines, all day, Merrit Killmer, member of the Lincoln County police since 1929, died suddenly at his home, Caistor Township, in his 57th year.

A son of the late Alvin and Flora Killmer, he was born in Caistor Township, and had farmed there all his life. He had been road superintendent for the township for the last three and one-half years.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

A big juke box, flanked by a resto, had been installed at one end of the room. Our guests had come to dance, and they lost not a moment in entering upon a demonstration of steps that few human eyes had ever beheld before. They danced violently, almost fiercely, flushed and breathless girls hysterically calling out over their partners' shoulders, — "Me next, Willie!" or "Tally, the next to mine!" It appeared that Tully Bryant was one of the best of the dancers. "Boy, does he throw you here and there!" said one of the breathless panting girls, wiping her forehead when she paused long enough for a cup of fruit punch.

We had no alcoholic refreshments; we had no need of them. When Va had suggested some of the homemade red wine for the punch Jed had negatived the idea. "Good God, they'd tear the barn down on grappa punch!" he had said simply.

The drinks occasionally were spiked, however, as some of the men had flasks, and the fun really grew furious. Thinking it about nine o'clock, I looked at my wrist watch: it was ten minutes of twelve. For an hour, now, unbidden but welcome guests had been trickling in through the half-open great doors and inconspicuously posting themselves about the walls or joining shyly, one by one, in the fun. These were older folk, big sisters and mothers who simply couldn't resist the lure of the barn dance up at the Hillyards'. They all brought food. Cars parked themselves mysteriously in the corral; the horses in the neighboring stalls stamped excitedly at the noise. The deep blue sky looked down serenely, and couples wandered out to hang on the fence and stare down the valley that was gray and furry in moonlight and at the dim, heaving shadow that was the ocean.

And now, at midnight, Munro Wainwright had told me he loved me. Often in the old lonely days when other women, younger and luckier women, had described to me their casual rejection of suitors, I had wondered at them wistfully. How did women get men to this point even when they loved them; much more, how did they do it when they meant a refusal. It had all been a mystery to me until tonight, when I found myself embarrassed — yes, and even horrified, though it sounds incredible — by this handsome, personable young man's love making.

"You don't mean that, Munro," I said faintly, "It's the effect of a new dress."

No, he said it wasn't. He said he had cared for me from the moment his eyes had first fallen upon me, coming in late to dinner that weary week. The bread was just a little redolent of the grappa, story had discussed that afternoon, and he kept a great arm about me.

"Looky," he said. "You and Va are going down to stay two, or three days at the Mrs. Lilly's or Squiffey's or whatever it is. How's for you and me slipping off and getting married and keeping our traps shut?"

Nothing sets up a girl's distrust and disillusionment with any man quite as quickly as does the suggestion that she marry him secretly. Even if she is deeply in love with him this idea rouses a coolness, a certain sense of flatness, to enter her soul. In this case there was no love involved on my side at all, so I was extremely simple to evade the enticing arm and escape back to the dance floor with a nervous assurance that I knew he wasn't serious and I wasn't, and if this was the effect of a pig dinner we had better become vegetarians.

But the five - minute encounter with Munro under the soft California stars and the velvet sky had its effect nevertheless; it somehow thought less of him for the lie he had been flirting with Virginia lately, and before that with Bibee. That was one result, and another — much more pleasant — was a flattered little warm stirring in my heart. He might not have meant it, but a proposal of marriage as a tremendous help to one's general self-esteem, no matter from what source it springs. I began to feel myself quite a member of the group at Hillyard House.

I did not of course in what I wanted to be. It took me some little time to realize that I loved every inch of the old place, that it was the one setting in the world into which I fitted, body and soul and mind and heart; that every inch of it was dear to me, from the grandeur of the long rocky shore and deep beach indentations to the faded prettiness of the old beaded fire screen in the Victorian parlor.

From the beginning my heart had clung to it; I knew that now. From the beginning I had envied them all who belonged there: — Munro and Mrs. Grizzli, so comfortably, so unappreciatively at home; Clay, of course, who had the family name and the family right; and Virginia most of all. Virginia who, merely because she was of the Hillyard blood — not even the name! — would own all this someday and perhaps sell it for an auto camp or a seaside hotel.

Virginia had been supremely indifferent to, if not actually scornful of, the charm of the wrecked old place. But it would all be hers.

I tried to think of other old seaside places; there must be so many! In England and Brittany and — well, everywhere. Along Puget Sound, all through Scandinavia — why, right here in California there was a coast line of a thousand miles! Anyone could buy a place on the coast and plant pines and eucalyptus.

But it wouldn't be Hillyard House.

One night Clay asked me if I would like to meet old Calhoun Hillyard, immured in his upstairs rooms and grown by this time to be quite a mythical and rather menacing figure.

"Meet him?" I asked fearfully.

"Why not!" We were in the little library we used as a sitting room; it was almost dinnertime. Virginia and Munro had not yet come downstairs. Louise was always late.

"I'd rather not," I said hesitantly.

"Just one of the things that makes you nervous about the place," he surmised lazily.

"I'm not nervous about anything about the place," I said, somewhat ruffled, I never could be at all at my ease with this man. "I wish I were!" I added ungardedly.

"Ah. You wish you were. But why?"

"Because," I said, trying for easiness as I leaned back in my chair and held my glass of tomato juice where the firelight would glow through it, "I like it too much".

"What do you find to like about it?"

"Everything."

"Everything," he echoed musingly. "You wouldn't want to live here?"

"I am living here." I took a gulp of tomato juice and said, "That's good." For some reason I was trembling.

"I mean as a Hillyard."

"I can imagine nothing more fascinating. To clear up the garden and cut some vistas through the pines.

"I've heard you're already busy out there, planting things."

"We intend some plants — delphiniums and phlox."

"So I heard. Well," said Clay idly, "why don't you stay here?"

"I am staying here," I said again.

"I mean as a Hillyard, as a member of the family," he added, still with a dreamy, speculative air.

"Indeed, I wish I were!" I told him again, laughing but puzzled. "I might be. You might marry me, you know. The last of them."

"Thank you," I said simply. There was a thundering silence. "You've never seen me," I reminded him, my throat dry.

"I like your voice. I like your hands. It's good to have someone young about the place. Well" he said as I was silent, "you do not like the idea."

"But thank you very much."

"Not at all," he said, as if rousing from a moment's deep abstraction.

"Virginia will keep young life here," I presently submitted.

"Virginia. Of course. Do you know— Clay began, and suddenly interrupted himself. "This is confidential, of course," he said. "I imagine you already know it and that it is better not discussed. Why did the girls change?"

"Why did the — what?"

"Why did Virginia Carolan go off with young Burton and Billie Hornleigh take her place here?"

"I — I — you — you're crazy!"

"Virginia Will Keep Young Life Here," I presently submitted.

"Virginia. Of course. Do you know— Clay began, and suddenly interrupted himself. "This is confidential, of course," he said. "I imagine you already know it and that it is better not discussed. Why did the girls change?"

"Why did the — what?"

"Why did Virginia Carolan go off with young Burton and Billie Hornleigh take her place here?"

"I — I — you — you're crazy!"

I stammered in a whisper.

"You didn't know that," he stated quietly rather than asked.

"I — Billie and Va — but then — but what makes you think—"

"It seemed to me rather obvious. Perhaps not seeing, one hears more than others do. It came into my head one day, and everything since has rather confirmed it. You think it's nonsense, eh?"

When sentence was passed, Fischer's mother, Mrs. Ida Fischer, Fort Erie, cried and collapsed. She was led from the courtroom by Fischer's young wife.

Mr. Justice A. M. Ledel described the prisoners' crime as "deliberately planned" and "cowardly." He said he believed all were "equally guilty."

Joseph Anger, Crowland, former Welland policeman, got 18 months indeterminate and three months indeterminate in reformatory. He was convicted of perjury with violence of $400 from Gordon Nelson at nearby Ridgeway.

"Your training on the Welland police force should have helped you withstand the temptation put before you by the stupid, foolish behavior of Nelson who was letting everyone know he had money," said Mr. Justice Ledel. "Even so that and the fact you were intoxicated was no excuse for what you did. I don't believe your crime was planned as was that of the men I just sentenced and I think if you get over your fear of work you'll go straight."

JURY REDUCES CHARGE

Port Arthur, Sept. 16 — (CP) — John Germain, 30, Wednesday was convicted on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the strangle-slaying of his 21-year-old wife, Elsie, in their home at Silverwater last June.

An Assize Court jury acquitted the Jamaica-born miner on a charge of murder. He will be sentenced on the lesser charge at the end of the Fall Assizes.

Pearson Will Not Be Opposed By Conservatives

Little Current, Ont., Sept. 16—(CP)—The East Algoma Progressive Conservative Association announced Wednesday night it will not oppose Leslie M. Pearson Minister of External Affairs, in a by-election in the constituency Oct. 25.

Mr. Farquhar, who lives on a farm near this Manitoulin Island town, said the Liberals of the constituency welcomed the decision. He said he hoped the C.C.F. and Social Credit parties would take similar action. "We would like to have an acclamation for he will not have to take time from his desk for electioneering."

Wednesday at Sault Ste. Marie John J. Fitzgerald, Ontario Social Credit leader, said his party would contest the by-election. Mr. Fitzgerald lives in Blind River, largest town in Algoma East. The planned to enter a candidate.

SCIENTIST DIES

State College, Pa., Sept. 14 — (AP) — Dr. Samuel I. Bechdel, 62, who made a modern fortune from research to show that cud-chewing animals have the ability to manufacture vitamin B from cellulose, died Monday. Dr. Bechdel and the animal, known as "the cow with a window in her side," gained wide attention because of the experiments.

Changes Made In Unemployment Insurance Act

Ottawa, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act passed at the last session of Parliament will be brought into force Oct. 4.

In making the announcement the Unemployment Insurance Commission outlines the main changes and explained how they will affect employers and workers.

An important change concerns rates of contribution. The Act provides that employers and employees in insurable classes both contribute according to a stipulated schedule. The Dominion government adds one - fifth of their combined contribution.

Under the original act, employers paid a larger contribution than employees in the lower wage brackets, and employees in the higher wage groups contributed more than employers. In the schedule contributions were about equal.

However, the steady advance in wages has had the effect of moving more and more employees into the higher wage groups, with the result that aggregate employee contributions exceed those of employers. Amendments were made to readjust the contributions.

At present employers' contributions range from 18 to 27 cents a week, depending on the employee's salary. Under the new schedule, the employers' contributions will range from nine to 54 cents a week. Employees now pay from nine to 36 cents a week and under the new rate will pay from nine to 42 cents.

Anyone earning more than $3,120 is not asked to contribute and is not insured.

The highest weekly benefit payable to an unemployed person under the original act was $14.40 The amendments increase this to $15.60.

Moccasin Trail Being Added To Aerial Search

The Pas, Man., Sept. 16 (CP)—The Moccasin Trail is being added to the aerial trail today in the widespread search for a United States' naval plane missing since Sunday in the wilds of northern Manitoba.

Aboard the aircraft when it left Churchill, Man., Sunday morning for the Pas were five persons, including Capt. Sir Robert W. Stirling-Hamilton, naval attache at the British High Commissioner's Office at Ottawa, and Capt. B. S. Custer, Naval Adviser at the American Embassy at Ottawa.

Today, with the possible maximum of 30 reached in the number of planes scouring northern Manitoba's grim, tree and lake-infested terrain, the Moccasin Trail was recruited.

The plan was adopted Wednesday night by Group Capt. Z. L. Leigh of Vancouver, who arrived to direct operations, following a report from a Wabowden Man., merchant, T. Godbout, he had heard an aircraft about 3 p.m. Sunday flying over Setting Lake in the midst of a depressing rain

Godbout at first was reported to have seen a "plane with big tail" while fishing in Setting Lake, but in a telephone conversation with R.C.A.F. officials had heard its drone overhead through the clouded atmosphere.

His report was the first received of any person having sighted or heard the plane, and Group Capt. Leigh said the plan for today would be to have certain amphibious aircraft land on lakes between here and Setting Lake about 120 miles northeast. Personnel will question Indians trappers and other persons in the area concerning the Brechcraft.

Cripps To Arrive In Canada By Air Next Week

Ottawa, Sept. 16 (CP) — Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, will arrive in Canada by air next Sunday to open talks on Anglo-Canadian financial and economic relations, it was announced Wednesday.

His party will include Sir John Woods, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade; Sir Henry Wilson-Smith, second secretary of the treasury, and other treasury officials.

British officials here said it was expected Sir Stafford would spend most of next week in Ottawa holding discussions with Canadian government officials. From here, he will go to Washington for the annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development, it was announced Wednesday.

While Canadian authorities say they have not been informed of the purpose of Sir Stafford's visit, reports from London indicate he likely will seek the unblocking of the frozen portion — about $240,000,000 — of the Canadian credit to Britain.

Canada cut off this remaining portion of the $1,250,000,000 loan when her external financial position worsened last spring.

He may also seek to increase the flow of needed Canadian gold to Britain and to talk Canada into buying larger quantities of British commodities.

VERY OLD OCEAN FLOOR SAMPLES

Woods Hole, Mass., Sept. 18— (AP) Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute scientists today began cataloguing ocean-floor samples 750,000 years old. A core of ocean-floor sediment and mineals were among the scientific data aboard the research vessel Atlantis when she docked Tuesday after two months' exploration of the under-water mid-Atlantic ridge.

Back-Bench Conservative In Front Row of Debates

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Cyril Osborne, 50, bald and persistent, occupies a back-bench Conservative seat in the Commons as member for Lincoln, but he's in the front row of public debate on half a dozen issues.

Pondering complaints that Britons are not producing as they should at a time of economic difficulty, Osborne took pen in hand and wrote the Daily Telegraph:

"It is not me (Chancellor) Sir Stafford Cripps talking to the workers about the balance of overseas payments. It means nothing to them . . . the real answer to Sir Stafford's problem is to bring some degree of wholesome fear back into life . . .

"The sooner the inefficient foss is allowed to go bankrupt instead of battening — through a trade agreement — on his more progressive competitor, the better for both. The idle worker must be made to fear unemployment instead of reducing the output and standard of life of the willing worker."

However much as they dislike Osborne's theory that fear must be the spurn fmembers of all parties like to speak proudly of wartime years when Britain achieved a miracle of production while enemy bombers made the night a terror and all along the coast was kept for Hitler's armadas.

They say that Churchill's wartime speeches, inspiring and unqualified, fortified the people. But in time of economic trial there is none to fire their imagination or make plain their danger.

Even the government warnings of threatening disaster have lost their effect, Osborne and his friends believe. He said that Herbert Morrison, Government House of Commons leader, a year ago warned men and women they must either "work or want."

"They have neither worked harder nor wanted, instead their trade unions have secured for many of them more pay for shorter hours. Since Morrison's warnings have proved groundless, why should they be frightened by the Chancellor?"

A-Control System May Lead to Abolition of War

—McNaughton

New York, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said Wednesday a system of international atomic control might lead to the abolition of war.

In an article prepared for the October issue of the Rotarian magazine, Canada's permanent representative at the United Nations says placing the atomic problem before the U. N. General Assembly which meets in Paris Sept. 21 is a "challenge to the forces of reaction."

McNaughton, regarded as the leading light of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission, emphasizes that the majority of members of the commission did not regard the turning over of the problem to the assembly as confession of failure.

The majority expressed their certainty of the system of control they outlined would in the end be accepted by all countries.

The Canadian delegate says there remains "a very wide gap" between the views of Russia, "echoed by the Ukraine," and those of the rest of the commission.

The Soviet view is that all existing atomic bombs should be destroyed before any system of international control is set up. The majority plan is for creation of an international authority and eventual destruction of existing atomic weapons.

$6,000,000 Donated To Oxford University

Oxford, England, Sept. 16 — (AP) — An aged French shipping magnate who wants to see some of his dreams come true is giving Oxford University £1,500,000 ($6,000,000) to "train young men of strong character to be leaders of the future."

The gift, biggest benefaction of its kind to the university since medieval days, was accepted.

Says Latvian Ship With 37 Aboard May be Lost

Halifax, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Possibility that the Latvian ship Volo with 37 persons aboard was lost at sea was expressed yesterday by Marius Vetra of the Halifax Conservatory of Music.

The ship, carrying Latvian refugees from Communism, was believed to have sailed from Britain about the last of July and was due here Sept. 1.

Mr. Vetra said he had maintained correspondence with the skipper of the Volo. The last letter was received from the captain July 26.

At that time the Volo, a former British gunboat, was at Scilly, St. Mary's Island, on the English coast awaiting favorable weather to start the crossing to Halifax.

CAMELS A NUISANCE

Adelaide, South Australia — (CP) — A plague of camels in northern South Australia is causing losses of fodder needed for stock. Originally brought for transport, the camels were ordered destroyed. A fruit-growing syndicate plans to convert the carcasses into fertilizer.

Suggest Means To Prevent Hen Cannibalism

Guelph, Sept. 16 — (CP) — Methods of preventing cannibalism in a laying flock of hens was discussed by Professor K. M. Gartley, of the Ontario Agricultural College here, before more than than 200 delegates from Eastern Canada and the United States to the Fourth Annual Nutrition Conference.

He said cannibalism was caused by high production, lack of oats in the diet, overcrowding or a habit carried over from the brood pen. Control methods he suggested included free-choice feeding of whole oats in separate hoppers, darkening lights in pens, use of "specs," debeaking or addition of one per cent common salt in rations.

Increased feed consumption was necessary to increase egg production, he said.

NEW WASHING DISCOVERY WITH SUPER-WETTING ACTION

washes everything FASTER, CLEANER, EASIER than any soap on earth!

FAB's Super-Wetting Action means that when you wash with FAB, the FAB-and-water solution instantly penetrates materials ... soaks them more thoroughly. FAB—with Super-Wetting Action—gets inside materials; pushes dirt out!

FAB means faster, cleaner, easier washing of dirtiest overalls, towels, work and play clothes ... FAB brings extra-dirt-removing power for extra-clean results! FAB—with Super-Wetting Action—rinses away with clinging soap scum! Brings you whiter shirts, towels, and sheets!

Don't miss FABulous FAB ... the only thing you'll need for everything you wash!

New scientific washing preparation by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet. It's a FABulous wash saver for the dirtiest work, and delicate clothes, towels, sheets ... everything that's extra dirty!

WHAT IS SUPER-WETTING ACTION?

See for yourself! Take a length of cotton and soak it dry. Roll it into a ball. Drop it into a glass of water. It floats on the surface completely wet for a long time.

Now drop another little ball of dried into a glass of water and FAB. It sinks, becomes completely soaked at once. This simple test shows you how FAB makes water wetter ... instantly penetrates all wash-able materials faster ... pushes dirt out!

That's FAB's FABulous Super-Wetting Action ... something no soap on earth can give you!

FAB WASHES DIRTIEST CLOTHES CLEANER THAN ANY SOAP

FAB—with Super-Wetting Action—instantly penetrates materials; pushes out dirt. Washes grimiest overalls faster than soap! Makes tough dirt like the "line" on dirty collars disappear like magic! FAB leaves no soap scum to "grey" or "yellow" white wash. Wash is whiter, cleaner when washed with FAB!

FAB BRIGHTENS SOAP-DULLED COLORS!

Soap-dulled washables look FABulously brighter, fresher, and newer after being washed with FAB. That's because FAB completely wet the fibers so they can be made cleaner and grayer looking by soap scum! FAB—with Super-Wetting Action—removes that soap scum ... leaves no film or scum of its own even in hardest water.

FAB WASHES CHEAPER ... IN HARDEST WATER

Laboratory tests prove that for every 10 lbs. hard water, FAB washes up to twice as much family wash, as soap. This economy is another FABulous benefit of FAB—with Super-Wetting Action—up to twice as economical as soap in hard water. You'll notice this all of FAB washes ... Nothing is wasted in soapy scum!

Faster And Better for all family wash and Dishes

FAB is the trademark of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company Limited, for a household detergent.

Earlscourt Juniors Show Class In Defeating Kiwanis Juniors 7-2 In First Playoff Game

In one hour and fifty-five minutes of dispute riddled baseball, what was climaxed by the basking smiles of two players in the ninth inning for fighting, Earlscourt Juniors took Belleville's Kiwanis Juniors to camp last evening 7-2 in the first game of their best-of-three semi-final series for the Ontario Junior baseball championship.

The game which was productive of several minor arguments and what the fighting stages in the ninth when Stephen, Earlscourt first baseman, and Soules, Kiwanis catcher, came to blows over the presence of the Earlscourt bat boy in the playing field near the batters circle to the left of home plate. When the short-lived brawl was over, plate umpire Dave Thomas, Toronto, banished both players, a move, that like several others during the game was not well received by the fans.

At the time the fighting started the count was three and two on Spier with two out. When order was restored, Spier was retired and he galloped home from second on a double by Murphy, leading for Stephen that was so close to the foul line that the Kiwanis infield came in to argue with the umpire before the play was completed. Stephen drew in from right field went right across the diamond unnoticed in the melee and it was lucky that "Buck" Reeves, who had replaced Soules as catcher retrieved the ball in time to make a play at the plate to nip Murphy.

Away to Shaky Start

The Kiwanis got away to a shaky start in the first frame and never recovered. A single, a sacrifice, a walk and a double counted two for Earlscourt in the first inning and they jumped into a five run lead in the third as they pushed over three more on two walks and three singles.

The Kiwanians came back in their end of the third to score their two runs on three singles and the Earlscourt boys put up the generally proficient infield fast game. There was a long wrangle at this point over the number of bases allotted on overthrows and when Reeves was thrown out at home by the right fielder on a close play to retire the side with the bases loaded, he got really boiled down.

Wright settled down after the third to limit Earlscourt to one safety in the fifth on two singles and a passed ball, and the single in the ninth.

Wright went the distance for the Juniors walking six striking out seven, and giving up nine hits six of them in the first three frames.

Roach went the route on the losing line for the Earlscourt crew, walking five, striking out thirteen, and giving up five hits, three of which were bunched in the third inning.

The Kiwanis Juniors will meet the Toronto squad in the second game of the series Saturday at 2:30 at Earlscourt Park in Toronto.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

One of the most violent bouts ever seen here is expected to ensue in the Memorial Arena feature attraction on Friday night when Fred Atkins tangles again with Dangerous Dan O'Connor. Manager Walter Gerver is betting in some other than Jack Sharkey to handle the job of officiating. Sharkey was requested to come in after the wild and woolly doings last week when Pedro Fuvera disqualified both seamen.

This wild Irishman from Kansas, Dan O'Connor, has proved that even the splendid reputation which Fred Atkins enjoys, has not dazzled him in the slightest. Dangerous Dan is a towhile of the first water and along with his nefarious use of his draw-string he has subdued many a fine wrestler. O'Connor is convinced that he can beat the big Australian and even the presence of Sharkey as referee may not deter him from his usual illegal tactiques. If that happens the Boston Gob may feel he should use more than were vocal authority on the obstreperous one.

The famous Masked Marvel will be on Friday's semi-final bout, Mr. Unknown will meet Ed Meske as good and scientific a grappler as the fans have seen in many a moon. If the Mask is beaten he must unveil. Handler Jim Sharpe comes back into the picture as does Jack Moore who has made quite an impression here also. With such names on the card it looks like a really big evening for the mat fans.

Sports there'll be a ring in the air. The days are shortening and the shadows fall across the baseball diamonds at an earliest hour. Baseball is slowly but surely fading from the sports picture and soon the athletic stalks will be the mutterings of football and hockey. Kids on the corner sandlots, new back at school have swapped the bats and balls to the strips and are bending the pigskins at one another. Tempes fugits—and how.

The printed pages of journals outside this village have been more or less devoted in publishing the news that Belleville will field an intermediate football team this year. In fact up in Cobourg the other evening a Lakeshore Intermediate (ERPI) loop was formed which will consist of teams from Cobourg, Trenton, Trenton RCAF, Picton "with a possibility Belleville may field a team."

A schedule was drawn up which sees Trenton at Cobourg and RCAF at Picton. Just how this football squads will get players is more than we can figure out. The Cobourg Collegiate football team will play in this loop having dropped out of the central group "because the teams in that league were opposed to the Ghosts using imports."

Just where Picton will get a team of intermediate calibre is a matter for conjecture unless the army lads have players of this rating. The former P.C.I. teams, with no disparagement meant, did not show anything that warranted future admission to intermediate circles. And if any intermediate team is spot between Trenton town and the RCAF can be judged a criterion, it is hard to imagine where two football teams can be gathered if residence rules have been adhered to.

As far as Belleville is concerned, unless it is a deep dark secret, there is no possibility of an intermediate team from this village entering the loop. As we have mentioned before, we are of the opinion that sufficient players of intermediate calibre are available, but where, O where is the great with the folding money who is willing to finance the squad. All the lads need is roughly fifteen hundred iron men, for equipment etc. etc. Please won't someone let us in on the secret?

With the Kiwanis Juniors and Trenton Flyers hopes dashed for the Belleville District Baseball League championship through the process of elimination, Napanee Lions and Belleville Mercheants will meet for the loop title with the first game of the best-of-three series scheduled for the Fair Grounds here on Friday evening at 8.30. This, according to reports will be the last floodlight game of the season due to power restrictions. The second game will be played in Napanee on a date to be set owing to the fact that there is some argument or discussion over the recent alleged default of the Toronto Leaside club of their second game with the Gibbard-ville crew.

According to our Napanee underground "Leaside claim they did not default the game. They did not come because they could not field a team." Yes can take that for what it is worth. Its the same old story with Toronto teams. If they don't want to name they won't—and if past experience has any criterion, it is generally a pick-up crew that ambles down here to "play in the sticks." Meantime the Napanee-Leaside problem is in the hands of the OBA peps.

"Swede" Ole Olsen, loquacious mentor of the Kingston Locos who is batting .666 in the Crystal Ball Gazing League, tosses his Locos, recently derailed in their quest for the COBL title by Ralph's Petes, against the Oshawa Generals in the first game of their Senior "B" OBA series tonight at Megaffin Stadium, Kingston.

Olsy, you remember, by plenty, told all and sundry, with arms waving accomplerically, that his Locos would not only oust the scrawny Oshawans, but shove the battering Batawans out of the COBL picture also. The Ole had the setup all figuring perfectly, for two innings, but he called a foul when he misgeussed, with chest expanded and arms doing a ferris wheel act, that his Locos would push the pesky Petes into oblivion in four straight. The rest is a sad story.

In any event Olsen will be without Sammy Malholland and Lorne Ferguson, two of his stars, the young gentlemen in question having hockey obligations to meet with the Galt and Guelph Junior "A" squads. He is sending Howie Garrison to the mound with in an effort to cop the first tilt. The second game, if is stated, will be played in Decome Stadium, Hall, on Sunday afternoon.

London Majors Easily Defeat Windsor Squad

(By The Canadian Press)

London Majors romped to an 11-4 victory over Windsor Eyracrcies Wednesday at London to take a 2-1 lead in games in their Ontario Baseball Association senior semi-final playoff series. The fourth game of the best of five series will be played at Windsor Sunday.

Three other senior games were played in Ontario.

Windsor Norm Cazzola held Majors to four hits until the fifth inning. London rammed home five runs. In the fifth Majors added one more tally, two in the seventh and three in the last two frames.

Tommy White gave the losers 10 hits from London's pitching mound. He also played part of the game fielding and perfectly handled six plays.

Porcupine Combines won the best of five Temiskaming Baseball League playoffs at Timmins, trimming McIntyre Macmen 8-4 Combines had won the second and third games and McIntyre, the first and fourth.

Rolly Bussieres kept Macs down to six hits in nine innings. His team mates nicked four McIntyre pitchers for 13 hits, including six singles in the eighth inning.

Pete Babando led Combines hitters with three hits in three times at bat. Combines Louis Romanlli and Butts Johnstone hit three for five each.

Coniston Buzzers edged Frood Tigers 3-1 at Sudbury to tie up their Nickel Belt Baseball League finals at one game each. Third game of the best of five series is slated for Thursday night.

Shortstop Gerry Wallace of Frood hit two singles from the offerings of Coniston pitcher Bill Solitski. Izzy Girard scored Frood's only run in the eighth on a fielder's choice play.

At Listowel, Listowel Legionnaires, Western Ontario Amateur Baseball League champions, defeated Goderich, Perth-Huron league title holders, 15-6 in an Ontario baseball junior playoff game. Listowel stretched 14 hits into 15 runs.

"Gentlemen can never live to shrink"

Still quite capable of throwing a murderous right hook or a lethal uppercut despite his greying locks, Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, will be the third man in the ring here on Friday night at the Memorial Arena wrestling show. Fred Atkins, Australian champion and Dangerous Dan O'Connor ran wild with their fists last week in the main bout and punched, pummelled and pushed Referee Ernie Powers out of the ring. But Friday evening, messieurs et mesdames 'twill be a different story. M'sieu Sharkey will stand for no fooling and if the boys want to throw punches in his direction, its all okay with the big fella. But look out for action if they do.

Boston Red Sox's Inability to Whip White Sox in Chicago Could Cost Them Loop Flag

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Boston Red Sox's inability to beat the White Sox consistently at Chicago's Comiskey Park this year could cost the Red Sox the American League pennant.

Boston murdered Chicago in its own Fenway Park this season, taking 10 out of 11 games but the White Sox gained sweet revenge once they got the Red Sox in Chicago.

Ted Lyons' tall-end White Sox handed the league - leading Red Sox their worst beating of the season Wednesday, 17-10, in winning their seventh game in 11 starts against Boston at Comiskey Park.

The trouncing reduced Boston's margin over the runner - up New York Yankees to a game and a half. The Yanks, and the third - place Cleveland Indians who trail the Red Sox by three games were idle.

A 10 - run seventh - inning upsizing by the White Sox turned what was a ball game into a rout.

While the White Sox upset the Red Sox, Chicago's other last place entry in the majors, the Cubs continued to act as "cousins" for the National League's pennant - bound Boston Braves.

The Braves, aided by four errors, clipped the Cubs, 5-3 in their final meeting of the season with Charlie Grimm's crew. The triumph was the Braves' 16th over the Cubs in 22 outings this season.

Spahn Wins 14th

Lefty Warren Spahn scattered nine Chicago hits in winning his 14th game of the year. The triumph enabled the Braves to stay five games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates whipped the Giants, 8-3 in New York.

Ernie Bonham checked the Giants on seven hits, two of them homers by Whitey Lockman and Johnny Mize.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved into a tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers for third place, a half game behind Pittsburgh, by beating Philadelphia 2-0 while the Dodgers split a twin bill with Cincinnati Reds.

After the Reds edged the Dodgers, 3-2 in the opener behind the six hit pitching of Howie Fox, the Dodgers grabbed the nightcap, 2-1 as Larry French ace from a seven - hitter for his 10th win.

Munger Stops Phils

Big George Munger stopped the Phils under the lights at Philadelphia on three hits as the Cards blanked the Phils for the second straight night.

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 4-2 and the Philadelphia Athletics topped the Browns, 8-7 in 12 innings in a night game at St. Louis.

Rookie Lou Kretlow scattered nine Washington hits in his first major league start of the season. The lost extended Washington's losing streak to 15 games, their longest since the 1903 team lost 13 straight.

Ferris Fain doubled home Eddie Joost with the payoff run in Philadelphia's victory. Dick Fowler of Toronto went the distance for the A's to rack up his 15th triumph.

Edmonton Sept. 18 (CP)— It took a while to flush him out of hiding, but Edmonton has finally been found to put in a good word for the Olympic games.

He's Eric Duggan, an Edmonton member of the touring group of 25 Canadian athletes who took in the games in the course of an exchange visit to Britain last summer. Eric told Jim Gifford (Edmonton Bulletin) McCurdy he enjoyed the show.

The cadets sat through a downpour to watch Fanny-Blankers-Koen. The Netherlands housewife, sweep to two of her three track titles. They watched the Olympic water polo in a swimming-pool section that could have housed a hockey rink.

Duggan wasn't all enthusiasm. He didn't think much of the "funny, confused English style" in which the games were run off and he thought Canada's athletes could have had better training.

Rest for Reardon

The Western Canada Senior Hockey League may be plenty tough, but at least one newcomer is looking forward to an easier time of it in the prairie loop.

He's Larry Reardon, younger brother of the National Hockey League's Ken and Terry, who'll wear a Calgary Stampeder this winter. Larry told Hec (Calgary Herald) McLean he was looking forward to a comparatively easy season.

Playing for the last three seasons with Portland of the Pacific Coast League, Larry is used to five games every eight days in a 96 game schedule plus exhibitions and playoffs. He'll average two games a week over a 48-game season in Calgary, with no exhibition games added.

No Logical Contender Named

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 — (AP) — The National Boxing Association said today there is no "logical contender" for Joe Louis' heavyweight title.

At least one logical contender was listed in every weight division except the heavyweights by the N. B. A. in its rating of fighters.

Two Montreal boxers, Jean Richard and Fernando Gagnon were named for Spaniard

The Philippine Islands were named for, Philip II, King of Spain.

FIVE POLIO CASES

Toronto, Sept. 18 (CP)—The number of paralytic polio cases in Ontario this year is 80, few over fewer than last year, Dr. R. D. Defries, of the Ontario Health Department, said Tuesday. A total of 191 cases of polio have been reported with 11 deaths compared with 632 cases and 16 deaths at the same date last year.

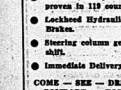
The most correct bidding ends at six hearts that can take 12 tricks. Some practical bidders might end at six spades that can take only 11 tricks.

Each round of bidding, however, would find its loyal defenders and conscientious objectors. For today let's confine discussion to first bid by south and the first reply by north.

South has a total of six tricks; four high cards, a short card in spades, a short card in diamonds. Opening bid here is correct. Person in his right mind would consider any other action.



Many a bridge player, it seems, is not in his right mind. You have probably seen some who open such a hand with three hearts. In at least one case that hand was opened with one club. Awful.

North should respond with an immediate one-jump takeout to two spades. Some object to this. Their first reply is one spade and the jump comes later. Their jump smells a fit in opener's suit.

Such players use a cumbersome system. Or a system of bids that do not truly enough disclose the number of tricks they can take. It is necessary for them to provide safeguards.

It is nice to have a fit. But not necessary. The jump-in-hearts bid is enough for game with two sure tricks. If the opening bid is one there is no fear from such.

This will tip you off to the reason for its objection. Drop down in their minds they know some of their opening bids are not sound in more ways than one they must have a fit.

By HOWARD C. REYN

Hollywood, Sept. 16 — (AP) — A word of warning: Don't talk about Jane Wyman if she's in sight.

She reads lips.

This newly-acquired ability is a by-product of "Johnny Belinda," in which she plays a deaf mute. Doesn't utter a single word in the whole picture.

Jane is an honest girl, and she wouldn't for a moment have you believed that she learned lip-reading for the sake of sheer realism in her role. It came about this way:

After several disappointing tests early in the production period, Jane decided she wasn't getting the right facial expressions because she could hear the other actors' lines. So Director Jean Negulesco plugged up her ears.

"A person who hears well between try that fact sooner or later on his face or in his eyes," she asserted. "Of course, anybody can deliberately look blank. But that won't do. Deaf mutes aren't expressionless and can be in their eyes a very special look of wonder, or curiosity. They're striving to understand."

With wax and plastic stopples in her ears, Jane had to learn lip-reading in order to pick up her cues. She had to know every speech in the script, too.

Toughest Characterization

Belinda was Jane's toughest characterization so far. She put the script a year before production started. She spent six months with lip-reading advisers. She learned, among other things, enough to be convincing. She studied screen tests of girls who actually were deaf mutes.

Unschooled, naive, living in a world of her own, Belinda is the "dummy" to the townsfolk — and the handsome young doctors unquestioning faith and trust in the "dummy" (Lew Ayres) could easily have been maudlin.

"That kind of dependence in a woman feeds any man's ego," said Jane. "And women, of course, love to sympathize with other women who suffer. I tried to keep these dual appeals in balance."

Retail Prices Suggested By Some Producers

Ottawa Sept. 16 —(CP) — A Montreal department store official says the reason shirt manufacturers sometimes indicate retail prices is to protect small retailers.

John Senecal, manager of the men's furnishings department of upon Frères made that assertion before the prices commission Wednesday after testifying two of the larger manufacturers put tags on shirts they send his firm.

The commission continues its study of shirt costs today.

Mr. Senecal said firms like Tooke Brothers and John Forsyth Ltd., sometimes put tags on their shirts and his firm usually adheres to their prices. In another case that of Church-Peabodys, there were no tags but the salesmen sometimes suggested what the price should be.

The manufacturers sought by these methods to protect the smaller outlets. That was the reason it was possible to get say a Tooke shirt all across Canada at the same price.

The Spun Rayon's usual markup on cost of a shirt was from 50 to 33 per cent but there were cases when it went much below this for quick turnover. That was the case when a shirt sold recently for $2.98 at a markup of 27 per cent compared to 26.3 per-cents previously.

Another witness H. A. Henderson, manager of T. Eaton Co. Ltd., shirt factory said it production was going up again after a considerable drop. Production this year already was almost equal to the 1947 total.

Says United States Supporting Price Canadian Potatoes

Washington Sept. 16 (AP) — presentative August H. Andersen Minnesota Republican, said today the United States government is in effect supporting the price of Canadian potatoes.

"This comes" he told a reporter "while American taxpayers will be forced to pay up to $100,000,000 in 1948 for the tremendous surplus of potatoes grown in this country."

Andersen, chairman of a special food investigating committee added:

"So far this year about 3,500,000 bushels of Canadian potatoes have been shipped into this country under a reduced duty and 2,500,000 additional bushels will be brought in during the next 60 days.

"Although President Truman has no authority to stop the import of potatoes from Canada, he has not taken such action.

"Under present law, however, such action it will mean American taxpayers will be forced to provide more money to buy additional quantities of surplus American potatoes.

"It seems rather strange the United States government is undertaking to support Canadian potatoes and limiting their shipment here when we already have such an enormous surplus which will cost our government from $85,000,000 to $100,000,000 this year."

Andersen said Canadian potatoes now are being offered in New York at $2.75 a hundred-weight "which is less than the the United States government is paying for No. 1 potatoes under the support program."

Business Spotlight

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The British commonwealth will take a good look at itself in the next few days in deliberations which will affect its future and that of the world.

The specific gatherings are:

The conference of Prime Ministers opening in London Oct. 11.

The Congress of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire at Johannesburg Sept. 20-24.

The visit of Sir Stafford Cripps to Ottawa, starting Sept. 19.

These are matters of trade, politics, and a way of life; and many people slumber at the casual manner in which commonwealth people in peacetime take their way of life for granted.

In commonwealth affairs it can be argued, there are many still disagree, Canadians are most effective. In a combination of action and vocal expression, Australians may express clearer vision.

Hopes and Fears

This is what Robert Menzies, leader of the Australian opposition, said recently:

"It is a terrifying paradox that the empire which has been the greatest the world from disaster has exhibited so many signs of breaking up in the last two years."

We can lose the empire by not being prepared to think about the British Association. I can hardly imagine a more calamity for the world than that Australia should go at her own gait, South Africa should go at her own and Canada move in the orbit of the United States, leaving Britain alone."

East-West Healer

The question seems to be, whether the commonwealth has sufficient faith in itself to give a leadership, based upon experience with mutual trust, to peoples who want to get along together. None of them think in terms of bypassing the United Nations, but of bringing a greater contribution to that body. Or supplying an example of what it should be on a larger scale.

Most interesting are Herbert V. Evatt's remarks. The Australian Minister for External Affairs refers to the new commonwealth "to which we are rapidly evolving" and to India's Pakistan and Ceylon. It is difficult to assess what is the inner feeling of that commonwealth in its present troubles, but it may be that just as Canada has been the touchstone between Britain and the United States, India may be the great healer between east and west.

In this commonwealth picture Canada has not been merely vocal. Whether or not she should be, it may be that her genius has been behind the scenes. She can probably claim to have been the largest factor in shaping the development of the association of free nations; in trade she initiated imperial preference, which served its day and still is a factor; in war her record speaks for itself.;

OBTAINS FINAL DECREE

Los Angeles, Sept. 16 (AP)— Actress Hedy Lamarr got around Wednesday to obtaining a final divorce decree from her third husband, actor John Loder. Miss Lamarr, 33, obtained an interlocutory decree from Loder, 49, on July 17, 1947. Her lawyer, Ronald H. Button, said there was no particular reason for the two months delay.

NEW TEST DISCOVERED

New York, Sept. 16 (AP)—A new pregnancy test, said to be the easiest yet and which has been 100-per-cent correct in its 250 first cases, is described in the September American Journal of Surgery, out today. The test is injection of a female hormone extract, three times in five days. The answer comes within 24 hours.

Four Stitches
nny Wise received a cut to-the end of the final round e bout with Ray Lucas. The h went through to its finish
Wise needed four stitches to gash. Wise won the decision
e fans did not like Referee phy's decisions to stop the ests after the various partici-
s were injured, but it is ted out that this is a ruling the Ontario Athletic Commis-and as such Murphy could not anything else but stop the ests. There were many fa-strations as Murphy ' has proven in former appearances as third man in the ring here, that he is a capable athletic official.

Kolaski and Stevenson, the latter a last-minute substitute for Chief Emerson Charles due to injuries to the latter in a previous fight, fought a rugged battle after a cautious opening round.

Used With Good Effect

Kolaski who has a right hand packed with dynamite used it with telling effect in the second and fifth rounds. Stevenson fought back gamely and at times drove the winner back to the ropes with a flurry of swinging blows. Kolaski, however, bided his time and pushed over that right with telling effect to win the decision. Stevenson fought back hard in the fifth round and the pair slugged it out toe to toe in a flurry of blows.

Bud Henry, Oshawa, got the official's nod over fast-stepping Don Blair of Brockville in one of the best bouts of the evening.
Both lads are fast aggressive fighters and mixed matters generally over the four-round route.
Henry used a flicking right to good advantage and met Blair's crouching style with a fast right uppercut. The decision was close with Henry getting the palm.

Davey Thompson, a fast, clever boxer, defeated Johnny Warner of Brockville in a fast bout with both lads throwing leather after a cautious opening. Thompson forced the fight throughout but Warner met him halfway the most of the time and the result was a good show with Thompson winning an unanimous decision.

Clapper Loses Decision

Carl Clapper, Belleville, lost an unpopular decision to George Charles, Cobourg. Clapper did not appear to be his usual aggressive self but the referee's opinion held the fast-stepping Charles for two rounds and had an edge in a lively third. He was outreached by the Indian but bore in to land soldily at close quarters.

Soup Mondeville outweighed and outworked by clever Norman Thompson, Brockville, fought hard but was unable to get close enough to Thompson to inflict telling damage. Thompson used a right and left jab backed up by a solid right hook with good effect.
Mondeville, however, raced in at times and carried the fight to his opponent but was always met with those flicking jabs. A good bout.

Ray Lucas, Belleville, who dropped the decision to Jimmy Wise, Brockville, also gave weight and reach away. Like Mondeville he was unable to get in close to land his blows but was met with the shifty, clever long range style of Wise.

Hamilton Wildcats Defeat Alouettes For First Win

Hamilton- Ont., Sept. 16 (CP)—Almost any day now you can look for a campaign to give Canadian football back to Canadians.

The cornerstone of the drive was laid here Wednesday night by a member of the losing team as Hamilton Wildcats scored their first win in four starts in the interprovincial Football Union.

They survived a desperate last quarter attempt by Jean Mon-treal Alouettes 13-12.

The Alouettes — who like the Wildcats have won only one game in four — weren't even a threat until Toronto-born Bruce Coulter took over the quarterback backing and forward passing duties in the last quarter after an inept display by two United States imports.

The Toronto lad who played last year with Balmy Beach in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, sparked the Montreal team to its only good try of the game, points in a sparkling 15 minutes offensive which fell short of tying the score only because big Chet Mozeleski missed the barn by two attempts to convert the touchdown. He got two chances because the Wildcats were offside on the first play.

However, a case may be made out for the imports on the Alouettes play. Hard hitting Virgil Wagner, in his third season in Montreal touchdowns, his third Canadian football, scored both and fourth of the season, Negro lineman Herb Trawick, also a third year import got credit for a single point. The other Montreal point went to Canadian Glenn Douglas.

Big Second Quarter

A big second quarter — it produced 13 points — started the Wildcats off to their win.

Gordon Miller, a 25-year-old half-back from Sarnia, unruville started things with a single on a kick to the deadline, Big Bill Bass, another Montreal import, fumbled to pave the way for a touchdown. Six minutes later the Wildcats the ball 15 yards out. Benny Dyack smashed for 10 and Miller went the last five for the unconverted touchdown.

Mel Lawson, a Hamilton boy, threw a forty-yard pass to Ralph Lane from Toronto to set up Hamilton's second scoring play. Dyack got the touchdown and Bill Murmuyk converted. Import Ralph Pear tallied Hamilton's other point on a kick to the deadline in he hird quarter. It was the only point scored for Hamilton by an American.

Steve Nemeth, Montreal quarterback from Notre Dame, tried 12 passes when he was in the game and failed to complete any. Import Norm Cox missed on his three tries. But when Coulter came in he virtually passed the Wildcats dizzy.

Felt Sick For Many Years Due To Stomach Disorders

"Had So Much Gas, Heartburn and Sour Acid-Risings All the Time — Couldn't Eat," Says This Man. Bad Headaches and Backache Added to Misery. Praises Syntona for Relief.

MR. GORDON STEINHOFF

"For a good many years I suffered with a weak, nervous, upset stomach and I just couldn't seem to get anything to help me," said Mr. Gordon Steinhoff, Bridgen, Ontario, in a recent report.

"This condition brought on a combination of symptoms that made my stomach feel so miserable from day to day that often I couldn't eat my meals. I had gas, heartburn, bad headaches, nervousness, sour acid risings and cramps in my stomach. It was a terrible thing. I became subject to headaches and dizzy spells that really left me helpless. I'd get so I couldn't even go to work. At times I couldn't get to sleep at night.

"I had taken so many things I didn't believe I could find anything new that would help me, but when a friend told me about Syntona I decided to try it. Brother, I decided to try what it would do for me. Before long I found it was helping me and with each bottle I kept on until now I'll tell you I feel fine. My appetite is good and I certainly can eat any old meal every day and have no trouble at all. Gone are my bad headaches and dizzy spells, the pain has gone from my back, I get my rest and sleep at night. I can get my work done and feel fine.

"It's certainly wonderful to be this way again and I advise anyone suffering this way to get Syntona and see what a wonderful relief it is.

"If you suffer from disorders similar to those described above, why not follow Mr. Steinhoff's example and begin taking Syntona today. It is made only from the purest Herbs and Roots, contains no harsh drugs or chemicals and can be taken by anyone without fear of further upsetting even the most delicate stomach.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

COUNT BERNADOTTE KILLED IN JERUSALEM

Huge Cut in Hydro Power Begins Next Week

Saunders Suggests Industry Change Hours of Work

7,000,000 Kilowatt Hours Weekly Must be Saved

Kemptville, Ont., Sept. 17 — (CP) — Robert H. Saunders, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, told a press conference here today there will be a 3,500,000 kilowatt hour cut in Ontario power consumption spread over next week, increased in the following weeks to 7,000,000 kilowatt hours a week.

Mr. Saunders estimated that this would mean a three per cent power cut for Southern Ontario.

Here to address the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Municipal Electrical Association, he said that the cut would probably start Wednesday of next week and would be in full stride the following week.

Notified by Mail

Municipalities would be notified by letter today or tomorrow and the commission would suggest to them further voluntary methods for power conservation.

These would include the suggestion that for two days a week, either Wednesday and Thursday or Thursday and Friday, they cut off water heaters from noon until midnight. In the following week, the municipalities could cut off water heaters a certain number of hours every day in the afternoons from Monday through Friday.

Mr. Saunders also said it would be suggested to industry that "the situation would be relieved greatly" if they could shift some of their working hours to from midnight to 7 a.m. and also to Saturdays and Sundays.

He was asked if there would be any compulsion to this, he replied:

"We can't compel. We can only suggest."

Already Co-operating

He said industry was already co-operating to a large extent and mentioned that in Toronto 150,000 kilowatt hours were already being saved by transfer of work hours to the weekend.

Mr. Saunders hoped that through direct saving or transfer of industrial hours till after midnight that 7,000,000 kilowatt hours be saved daily. He also indicated that further steps might have to be taken.

42 Estonians Will be Allowed To Remain Here

Ottawa, Sept 17 (CP)— Forty-two Estonians, who crossed the Atlantic in a tiny two-masted vessel to escape Communism, will be allowed to remain in Canada, a government spokesman said Thursday night.

The official said a special order-in-council has been passed Thursday for the group which crammed aboard a 60-odd sailing vessel and made the hazardous 30-day ocean voyage, docking at Saint John, N. B., Aug. 19, almost penniless.

This was the second of a group of about 100 Baltic refugees who crossed the Atlantic in small boats this summer. They came from Soviet-dominated homelands. The first group of 39 docked at Quebec City and received formal admittance to Canada Aug. 31.

Still to be considered, said the government spokesman, are the boatloads of Baltic refugees now being questioned in Halifax.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—Synopsis: Fine weather is reported from all of Ontario. Some cloudiness persists in the northern regions but elsewhere skies are clear. The warm air that caused the near-wave in the mid-

...rn United States reached ...western Ontario Thursday, with a high of 81 reports at Windsor. Thursday night this air swept into the northwestern part of the province with indications that it will cover all Ontario before the Saturday. Except for this increase in temperature little change in the weather is anticipated.

MANY ARRESTED IN RED DRIVE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Prague, Sept. 17 (Reuters) — Widespread arrests, believed part of a Communist drive against opposition elements, were reported here today from both official and unofficial sources.

Those arrested were charged with anti-state activity and with exciting unrest by criticizing the government for Czechoslovak's present economic difficulties.

Many were also charged with preparing and distributing anti-state leaflets.

Indication that a sweeping purge of the Sokol organization (National Sports Movement) was nearing completion came from an official statement that authorities were receiving messages from Sokol branches congratulating them on carrying out the purge.

Many newspapers reported charges that the prosecutor is expected to make in the state court tomorrow against the former Czech Socialist secretary-general Professor Vladimir Krajina, who has already been sentenced to 22 months' imprisonment by a people's court in his absence on a charge of collaborating with the Gestapo during the Nazi occupation.

Reports here said that Dr. Krajina's activities since the war.

Communists have alleged that the Socialists had an espionage organization which endangered the Republic.

Krajina now is in London, having fled from Czechoslovakia after the purge last February.

800 TO 2,000 JAPS MISSING, KILLED IN FLOOD

Typhoon Deluges City In Two Feet of Rain

Tokyo, Sept. 17 — (AP) —Between 800 and 2,000 Japanese have been killed, injured or are missing in flooded Ichinoseki city 50 miles north of Sendai, Japanese and United States authorities said today.

A Kyodo news agency report from a technician to his prefectural office at Morioka in Iwate prefecture placed the number of dead at 2,000.

United Nations headquarters, however, said reports from army units at Ichinoseki listed 800 dead or missing.

Kyodo said two feet of rain deluged the city in a typhoon Thursday night. Some 500 homes in Ichinoseki were washed away and 1,000 were flooded, the news agency reported.

The swollen Iwai River burst through its dikes near Ichinoseki and poured through the city of 35,000 people.

Some Fires Break Out

Reports were that the rain in the northern Honshu city had stopped but that some fires had broken out later.

News reports added at least eight more dead and 24 missing in the 10 prefectures struck by the moderate typhoon. Tokyo officials said five were dead or missing here and that 1,000 homes were flooded.

There the rice ripening rice crop had been hard hit by the typhoon, which struck a two-pronged attack on the agricultural ministry that the crop had not been greatly damaged.

Many Honshu island rivers were swollen by deluges. Residents of Toyde, 15 miles northwest of Tokyo, were ordered out of their homes tonight as the overflowing Edo River began sweeping through its dikes and into the streets.

Unknown Animal Kills Baby On Verandah

Grand'Mere, Que., Sept. 17— (CP)— The five-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pierre Neault of this town 30 miles north of Three Rivers was killed yesterday by an unknown animal as she lay in her carriage on the verandah of her parents' home.

Leaving the child in its carriage on the verandah, the mother went with her household work. Later, she found the baby's head partly eaten away and covered with blood.

The child was already dead.

Police are looking for the animal.

Portuguese; Saved From Schooner In Storm, Kiss Deck of Rescue Ship

New York, Sept. 17 (AP) — Seventeen survivors of a schooner in the hurricane-swept North Atlantic, Portuguese sailors threw themselves prone and kissed the deck of the famed United States coast guard rescue cutter, Bibb.

The Bibb, which has established one of two dramatic sea-rescues Thursday in which 29 men in all were saved, radioed early today the details of how she picked up 10 men from the Portuguese fishing schooner Gaspar.

About 390 miles away, two merchant ships were believed lost.

Capt. Donald C. Jacobs, skipper of the Bibb, radioed his rescue log to coast guard headquarters here today, and ended it this way:

"After 24 hours search of mountainous high-speed seas, the actual rescue of the 40 survivors of Gaspar seemed almost anticlimatical because of the smoothness of the operation."

"That it was something altogether different in search of survivors, however, was apparent from the actions of several of them who, upon reaching the deck of the Bibb, flung themselves down and kissed the planks of the deck."

The Bibb said nearly all those rescued had bruises and minor injuries but that five were swept from "25 hours of fighting rising waters."

Canadian and United States planes participated in the Gaspar rescue operation.

The rescue of the 39 men from the Portuguese ships and the American freighter Cecil N. Bean and the Panamanian freighter Troncero. Six of the freighter's crew were believed lost.

The Gaspar lost one man overboard before the rescues.

Twenty crew members of the Leicester got to the Bean in lifeboats. Two lifeboats were cast adrift. Nineteen others reached the Troncero in like manner. Among the latter was the freighter's captain, H. N. Lawson.

Count Folke Bernadotte, Killed in Jerusalem, Nobleman of Patience

Slight, 53-year-old Count Folke Bernadotte, killed today in Jerusalem, was the son of a medieval duty, was a nobleman of patience.

He worked at making peace as hard as other men worked at making war.

Since his appointment last May as United Nations mediator in the Palestine war between Arabs and Jews, the nephew of Sweden's King Gustav came under unremitting verbal attack from both sides.

Throughout the blue-eyed, gray-haired diplomat of 47 old school continued to speak of eventual peace in the Holy Land.

Tolerant but resolute, Bernadotte regarded the chances of success in Palestine as one-in-100 when he took the job. He revealed his creed, in fact, in an interview this summer:

"Some of my friends told me I was a fool to attempt to solve it. But I have a feeling God looks to me that it is uncourageous to attempt only the easy jobs."

Palestine was not his first ex-

SURVIVAL BATTLE BEING WON CRIPPS TELLS COMMONS

Congratulates Britons on Trying Months of '48

London Sept. 17 (CP) — The House of Commons, careworn over the Berlin international situation, was given an uplift Thursday by the claim of Sir Stafford Cripps that the battle for survival is being won.

In the most cheerful speech since 1945, the Chancellor for the Exchequer congratulated Britons on "a really fine effort" during the first six months of 1948. He presented statistics he called "heartening and stimulating."

The United Kingdom still is battling against a tide of rising import prices with her chief economic problem unsolved.

The total trade deficit with the rest of the world has been reduced to an annual rate of £280,000,000 ($31,120,000,000) compared with a deficit of £520,000,000 in 1947;

Taxpayer costs during the first six months were £867,000,000 or £40,000,000 more than expected due mainly to higher prices but exports were valued at £731,000-000 or £ 50,000,000 above the forecast;

Export volume on June 30 had almost certainly reached the target of 140 per cent of pre-war, a figure which status has been well exceeded."

Imports from the Western Hemisphere during the six-month period cost ..... £294,000,000 or £27,000,000 more than expected. But Sir Stafford termed this a "well big increase" and said it was partly offset by increased exports.

However, the deficit with the Western Hemisphere still was "uncomfortably large," amounting to £195,000,000 for that half year compared with £272,000,000 for the whole of 1947. This deficit remains the chief difficult problem with which we have to deal the Chancellor of the Exchequer said.

FIVE LUMBERMEN DROWN AS BOAT UPSETS IN SQUALL

Three Others Cling to Sides of Craft and Save Selves

St. Andrew's, N.B., Sept. 17 — (CP) — Investigation began today into the drowning of five lumbermen jacks Thursday on Gibson's Lake 10 miles southwest of here.

The accident occurred when the boat, in which eight men were rowing across the lake to their camp, capsized in a squall. It was caught in a boat load of wind and capsized.

Dead are:

Harold Murphy, 34, Coutt's Hill, near Welsford, N.B.

Sandy Crerelan, Upper Stewiacke, N.S.

Ernest Gauvin, Tignish, P.E.I.

Frank Brennan, Prince Edward Island.

James Perry, Prince Edward Island.

Three other men in the ill-fated canoe managed to cling to its sides and save themselves. They were Donald Baird, Jerusalem, N.B., Aaron Smith, Jerusalem, N.B., and Sam James Pine, also of Saint John.

The men, with the exception of Murphy, were believed to be in their twenties and unmarried.

A coroner's inquest into the drowning, said he saw the disaster from one of the twin hills on either side of the lake.

Norris ran to the water's edge and signalled to a motor boat and meanwhile other employees of the camp launched another. A boat load were unable to reach the scene before the men of their friends drowned.

Operators of the camp said one of the three survivors, Arthur Aspden, was the lawyer of the party tally as he stood by the lumber camp, next to the bodies of his dead companions.

"I took the boat across to get them for dinner.. seven chaps got in. Others walked around.. we just started back and ... I tried to hold one fellow .. by the arm which one but we slipped away."

Poet Yeats' Body Taken From France To Native Sod

Galway, Eire, Sept. 17 — (AP) —The body of William Butler Yeats, world famous Irish poet laureate of Ireland, was brought to his native land from France today aboard the Irish naval corvette Macha. Yeats died at Menione, France, in January, 1939.

It was the poet's wish to be buried at Drumcliffe, in Sligo, where he was born in 1865. His family and friends are carrying out his wish, particularly Black Castle inscribing the epitaph he wrote:

"Cast a cold eye on life and death, horseman, pass by."

CEASE-FIRE ORDER IN HYDERABAD ENDS WARFARE

Nizam Capitulates After Four-Day Fight

New Delhi, Sept. 17 (CP)—The Nizam of Hyderabad ordered a cease-fire today, little more than four days after Indian troops crossed the borders of his princely state, it was announced.

Premier Laik Ali fled Hyderabad at 4 a.m. Monday with the avowed aim of restoring order. The cease-fire was effective at 5 p.m., Indian time (7.30 a.m., EDT) the announcement said.

The Nizam, Gen. Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, is the Moslem ruler of the predominantly-Hindu state of 16,000,000 which has refused to accede to Hindu India.

(Informed sources in Karachi, Pakistan, capital of Moslem India, reached the outskirts of Secunderabad, military cantonment six miles from Hyderabad City, the report said.

The troops were closing in upon the capital of Hyderabad, which is surrounded by Indian territory, when the report of the end came.

The Indian Army said that the Nizam had surrendered to the armies of India.)

Dominion troops early today were near Bidar, stronghold of the Razakars, general headquarters announced.

Earlier, All Hyderabad Premier, announced in a broadcast that the Nizam had accepted the resignation of his cabinet.

Extended Strike Of Radioactive Minerals Reported

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (CP)—An extended strike of radioactive minerals in the Westmorland area, about 100 miles west of Ottawa has been disclosed with the publication of a report by the Ontario Department of Mines.

While confirming the discovery of uranium, thorium and other radioactive minerals, the report prepared by F. S. Wolfe, professor of mineralogy and geology, University of Toronto and Nelson Hogg, Ontario government engineer, said the total commercial exploitation of this new Eastern Ontario mineral field is still problematical. The milling of a concentrate carrying 0.1 per cent uranium oxide was added.

"As the radioactivity of these deposits appears to be due largely to thorium, methods must be found to concentrate apparent feasible. Radioactive minerals are widespread in the Grenville area but little is known as to expect further discoveries of economic importance."

An Atomic Energy Control Board survey of copper-cen-ium oxide concentrate at a minimum of 0.1 per cent.

The report said that some of the veins were devoid of uranimite and pitchblende but Ontario country indicated radioactivity "almost everywhere."

Claim 20 German Workers Die Daily In Russ Uranium Mines in Saxony

Nuernberg, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two German refugees arrived from the Russian uranium mines in Saxony, looking beaten and worn after their first month-long week, said today 20 Germans died there daily.

The two are Willy Schmidt, 38, and Horst Geilert, 22.

They said they were forced into the mines at Aue, in Saxony, where 30,000 Germans and 10,000 Czechs are employed in what amounts to slave labor.

How they escaped is a secret.

Schmidt and Geilert said they had to work in the mines because they refused to join the Communist party.

They said that each man must dig three metres of ore a day, whether it takes eight hours with the primitive tools or 24. Scientists examine the hard rock for traces of uranium before the atomic bomb.

The mines have no water pumps nor elevators. The men are given only open-flame lamps. Explosions are frequent, they said. Blast warnings are so short that the men who lights them must be lowered on a rope, then hauled up rapidly. Sometimes he doesn't make it.

U.N. Mediator Shot By Men Wearing Military Uniforms

American Consul Reports Killers Members Stern Gang

Jerusalem, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator in Palestine, today was shot and killed as he was crossing into a Jewish area here.

Reuters agency said the 53-year-old Swedish count, a nephew of King Gustav, was reported killed by men wearing military uniforms, but did not specify whether the uniforms were Jewish or Arab.

The Associated Press however quoted a telephone message from Commander Seymour at the American school in Jerusalem as saying the men were "Jewish army uniforms."

Washington — (AP) — The American consul at Jerusalem reported today that Count Folke Bernadotte was ambushed and shot to death by four men "presumably by Stern Gang." The so-called Stern Gang is a Jewish extremist group.

Arranged Truces

Bernadotte twice succeeded in bringing about a truce in the war for Palestine between Jews and Arabs. The truces have been fruitful, punctuated by shelling and fighting. Both sides appeared to expect the present truce, now two months old, to run out at almost any moment.

(Reuters said Bernadotte was in Damascus Thursday and was going on to Jerusalem and Baghdad before returning to Paris for United Nations General Assembly next week.

(He was to have delivered his report on Palestine to the Assembly early next week, Reuters added.)

Bernadotte was head of the Swedish Red Cross and the husband of the former Estelle Manville of New York. He was 53.

The killing was reported to have occurred at 5 p. m. Jerusalem time.

Bernadotte had been shuttling for months between the Arab and Israeli capitals in his efforts to bring peace and enforce truce truces.

The telephone message identified the Frenchman as Colonel Serot of the United Nations Staff.

Count Bernadotte visited Damascus, capital of Syria, Thursday. He left Cairo, Egypt, he told newspapermen that both Arabs and Jews in Jerusalem were "trigger happy."

Frequent Shooting

He explained that frequent shooting broke out in the city whenever a truce was declared, was what it was shooting at.

"It's like this," he said. They shoot into the dark at night. They swipe by daylight. Excuse me, but it is a most idotic thing."

Bernadotte was appointed United Nations mediator in the Holy Land on May 20.

In Damascus Thursday he said he was going on to Jerusalem and Baghad before returning to Paris for meetings of the United Nations General Assembly.

Count Bernadotte twice succeeded in bringing a truce in the fighting between Palestine Arabs, Jews and Arabs. The truces have been fitful, punctuated by shelling and fighting.

Both sides appeared to expect the current truce, now two months, old, to run out at almost any moment.

Arrived at Noon

Count Bernadotte arrived at Jerusalem at noon today after visiting Damascus, 10 miles north of Jerusalem, where he conferred for an hour with an Arab Legion commander.

About two miles north of Jerusalem his car was forced on from the direction of Haddasah Hospital on Mount Scopus. The bullets hit the running board, penetrating one side without hurting anybody.

Count Bernadotte went to the Holy City for a last look around before going to Paris for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

A sniper's bullet found its mark on the left rear wheel of his automobile.

At clandestine radio station reported operating in Jewish held Haifa broadcast a message from Swedish Gen. Aage Lundstroem, United Nations truce chief observer in Haifa Thursday and that Bernadotte's place would be fired on if it landed near Jerusalem.

Bernadotte doesn't reporters he would not be frightened.

Seemed Upset

The count's party was accompanied by high-ranking Arab Legion officers. Just after reaching Jerusalem, the Count Lagion officers inspected the bullet hole He seemed upset and said, I don't know who did it either by regulars or irregulars."

An armored car was bringing up the rear of the convoy in which the Count had travelled.

Neither he had anything to disclose about the object of his latest tour of Arab capitals, Count Bernadotte said he was consulting Arab leaders generally.

Count later motored to Arab and Jewish front lines where he was supposed to cross into the Jewish area.

After the Count's arrival in the Arab area two loud explosions shook Jerusalem. The exact location and the explosions were not known but it was learned they were the result of Jewish firing in the Mount Zion sector.

Hold Seamen, Search For Four From Freighter

Montreal, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Immigration authorities today held an unidentified British seaman for deportation while a continued search for his four companions who deserted the freighter City of Corinth Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the freighter sailed for India with five British seamen drawn from New York as replacements for the deserters.

The seamen had left the freighter following a dispute over pay allowances while in port. The skipper said they wanted more than the maximum $10 weekly allowance provided for by British regulations.

One of the seamen was apprehended by the police after trying to sign on another vessel but it was late to return him to his own ship.

Council to Call For Tenders On New Fire Hall

Tenders will be called as soon as possible for the erection of a new fire hall on Moira Street, West, it was decided by council at their regular committee meeting Thursday evening. The fire hall has been built on Moira Street will serve the west side of the city, while plans are also being considered for the erection of a second new fire hall in the East Hill district.

In connection with the erection of the Moira Street fire hall, city engineer Charles Mott was instructed to prepare an estimate of the cost of drainage work necessary on the proposed site.

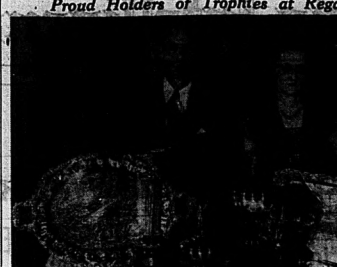
The city engineer was also authorized to prepare plans and specifications for the final grading, gravelling and surfacing of all roadways in the Parkwood Heights area. Tenders will be called for the work.

Ontario Land Surveyor J. T. Ransom was authorized to proceed with the survey and contour plan of the municipal property recently purchased by the city and now within the corporation.

A grant of $50 was authorized for the city fire department for publication of a booklet on the observation of Fire Prevention week.

The city of Belleville will lend moral support to the township of Sidney in its application for the construction of Wartime Housing projects at Frankford, Mayor D. L. Storey was authorized to prepare the proper communication addressed to the township with respect to the housing development.

Speedboats To Give Display At Tweed Sunday



Residents of Tweed and the surrounding district will see 225 cubic inch racing hydroplanes and other aquatic racing craft in action on Stoco Lake on Sunday when several Belleville and district boats will give an exhibition of these speedy craft in racing action.

"Miss Maple Leaf" 225 racer owned by Ed. Ede and holder of the most points won on Canadian and American racing circuits this year; "Meteor" owned by Charlie Abbott of this city and "Miss Tweed" will perform in front of the Tweed park at 2:30 p.m.

The Tweed boat owners of the boats have generously offered their craft and skill to the Belleville Community Swimming Pool Fund and the exhibition taken at the Tweed exhibition on Sunday will go to this cause.

"The Maple Leaf" which has attained the speed of 77 miles per hour will give a special exhibition of driving and racing as will "Meteor" and undoubtedly eight boats will make the trip.

Belleville-Owned Racing Hydroplane Tops Canadian, American Speedboats In Points Won on Regatta Circuits

By Geo. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

"There is" commented Ed. Pine who between speedboat races and operating his Supersest Service Station on Cannifton Road, spends his time at his home at 16 College Street 'something about this sport that gets in your hair."

Ed. was gazing with justifiable pride at his sleek 225 cubic inch hydroplane "Miss Maple Leaf" which lay on its trailer outside his home.

Five years ago, if you had asked Ed, what a 225 hydroplane was he probably would have answered some sort of a new airplane gadget.

Today he is the proud possessor of more racing points won in speedboat competition under the segis of the American Power Boat Association, than any other driver in Canada and the United States. Furthermore, 1948 is the second consecutive year for him to win this honor.

Five years ago he was puddling around with an ordinary boat and an outboard motor. He sputtered up and down the bay, and discovered that his spine tingled every time his engine gave out with an extra burst of speed. One day he watched his craft with another the boat and won the impromptu race.

Contracted Racing Fever

That did it. Ed. contracted racing fever for good then and has never recovered. In fact he has severe relapses every spring brought on by all-winter tinkering with his powerful racing engine and in general nesting to it that "Miss Maple Leaf" is warmly bedded down and gets her daily quota of grooming.

The sparkle of small waters, the warm spring breezes and the music of his engine, brings Ed's temperature up to almost a fever point. With his friend and co-racer, Charlie Abbott, who owns the speedy Meteor he rushes to get Miss Maple Lesf into nautical action.

Long before the roar of regatta crowds echoes across many courses on the Canadian and American circuits, you will find Ed. and Charlie "down by the" with their trim craft roaring over the water in pre-season trials.

Must Be In Condition

Ed is a "busy" guy. That is, everything has to be "hunky dory' and Miss Maple Leaf must be in the pink of mechanical condition long before she speeds over the water in racing competition.

The racing bug had scarcely sent its fiery virus surging through the Pine veins than Ed looked about him for a boat. He acquired the 'Miss Red Cap" and entered her in competition.

"Didn't have any luck that first year," Ed. said "no later I decided to get a 225 craft. I looked around me, and discovered the 'Miss' up for sale. She was my baby on the spot and she has done a swell job in her three years of racing. She has won more points than any other boat on the continent for two years, and her trophies and cups would make a fine display store look like a second hand shop."

Floor Covered with Trophies

Ed was right. The floor of his well-appointed living room at 16 College Street was literally covered with handsome silver trays cups, trophies, smoking sets, ash trays, plaques and other symbols of speedboat racing victories.

But there is one thing missing. And that is the Canadian 225-cubic inch Driver's championship. Ed has finished in second place for the past two years, and says that but for a piece of cunning strategy on the pat of officials would have captured the title at the Canadian National Exhibition a week ago last Saturday.

Recalling that incident Ed slowly shook his head. "Miss Maple Leaf is a rough water craft and the engineer it is the better she likes it. That day the engine was almost boiling and I felt I had the title in the bag."

In the championship race "Miss Maple Leaf" was pitted against such outstanding 225's as Ariel II; Royal Muskoka; Miss Detroit; Double Trouble; Kingsway and Copper Head.

Took First Heat

He surged to the front in the first heat. "Miss Maple Leaf', in nautical glory on a rough course that would shake the life out of the stars of the carry competitors. One by one they dropped out as the pounding water took toll of hulls and motors, leaving only seven to line the winner.

He dropped back in the second heat and Kingsway passed him to rip over the line a winner by two seconds. Then it happened. Kingsway smashed a fin and went in for repairs. The third heat was delayed for one and one - half hours. Came racing time and a further extension was given the crippled boat.

Disappointed at the trend of events, Ed. fumed and fussed over the delay. The heat was finally run off and the gallant "Miss Maple" missed the Canadian championship by the scant margin of three seconds. But Pine is as gallant in defeat as he is proud in victory. True he protested to the officials over the incident but let the matter drop at that, and took his disappointment like the fine sportsman he is.

Attends Every Regatta

He holds the proud record of having attended every regatta on the Canadian racing circuit for the past two years. This year's fine record of the "Miss Maple Leaf" includes firsts at Gananoque, Montreal, Ogdensburg, Arnprior, seconds at Toronto, Cornwall, Brockville, Belleville, Hamilton and Picton and thirds at Valleyfield, Que., and Gravenhurst. Is "Maple Leaf" a powerful boat that she has yet to finish 'out of the money".

Ed. is a modest driver. His racing efforts are not confines to fuelling and oiling his sleek racing craft. He is a member of the Canadian Power Boat Association and is a director of the Belleville Boat Club.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. DORIS SAFE

The funeral of Mrs. Doris Safe, wife of Mr. Benjamin Safe, 34 Dunbar Street, was held from the Bellesville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Thursday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at the home of Rabbi Abraham Feldman, was conducted by Rabbi A. M. Babb of the Pioneer Memorial Temple.

There was a large attendance of friends from the city and many places in the district.

The bearers were A. Lipson, A. Lipsa, J. Abramsky, B. Yanover, E. Shapiro, I. Cooper, T. E. Edwards and H. Boyce.

LATE JAMES W. CAMPBELL (Stirling)

The funeral of James Wilbert Campbell was held on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 9th., from the residence of his son, James A. Campbell Stirling, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in that village where service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. W. H. V. Walker. A favorite hymn of the deceased "On Wings of Song" was sung as a duet by Mrs. Charles Fargey and Mrs. Roy Eggleton.

Interment took place at Stirling Cemetery. The bearers were Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, Charles Vance, Clarence Rollins, Harper Rollins, William Detlor and Ken Weaver.

At the graveside the last rites of the Masonic Order were conducted by members of Frank Lodge.

The beautiful floral tributes evinced the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

MURDER CHARGE HEARING

Lindsay, Sept. 17 (CP) — The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Lorna McAllister of nearby Kirkfield charged with murder, will be held here Sept. 29, Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan said Thursday.

The 25-year-old Scottish war bride is accused of shooting her 30-year-old navy veteran husband, John, at their Kirkfield home, Sept. 5.

IN MEMORIAM

REDDICK—In fond and loving memory of my dear mother Ida Reddick, who passed away September, 18th, 1947.

She lived her life for others,
So sweetness kind, and true
Her memory we will always cherish
Her smile we never knew.
In tears we now are pleading,
God knows how much we miss you
As it shows not our sorrow,
But all that is left to answer
Is your precious name in love.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Evelyn. S18

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends, relatives, Dr. Bird, and staff of the Bellesville General Hospital for kindness shown me during my recent illness.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—Industrials weakened as trading slowed almost to a standstill on the stock exchange here today.

Papers were weaker in the industrial groupings as losses ranged up to 1 1-2. Most groups moved in narrow range with losses just edging out gains. Fanny Farmer dipped 1-8 and Imperial Oil and International Petroleum were down 1-8. Canadian Food Products Pfd., gained 4 points.

Senior golds were stronger after a weak opening and juniors were quiet. La Luz gained 14 cents and Bralorne 10 cents. Bidgood, Canadian Malartic, Central Patricia Eldona and Negus were ahead in juniors.

International Nickel dipped 1-8 in a dull base metals list. Silanco Pend Oreille, Golden Manitou International Uranium and Osisko weakened while Normetal, Quemont and Quebec Labrador firmed.

Calgary and Edmonton rose 5 cents in quiet western oils and Pacific Petroleum, Roxana and British Dominion Oil were easier

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Produce prices on the spot market here today were quoted as follows:

Churning cream unchanged. No. 1 74 cents fob; 78 delivered.

Butter prints unchanged. First grade 70 1-2; second grade 69 1-2.

Supplies of grade A large and medium on the egg market here are still in short supply and the market has advanced. Pullets and grade B eggs have also advanced fractionally. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free:—grade A large 59; grade A medium 57; grade A pullet 36; grade B 41-42; grade B 36. Wholesale to retail; grade A large 62-63; grade A medium 60-61; grade A pullet 39-40; grade B 45-46; grade C 40-41.

Butter solids are unchanged. First grade 68; second grade 67.

HOGS

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—At Stratford this morning hogs were unchanged. Grade A delivered were $32.85 to farmers and $33 to truckers. At Brantford hogs were unchanged at $32.85. Hogs off truck at Hull were unquoted. But grade A were unchanged and some sales made at $33 delivered.

CHEESE BOARD

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (CP) — Boarded: 1,289 boxes of white sold at 30 cents.

Aussie Sailors, Genoese Involved in Riot

Genoa, Italy, Sept. 17 — (Reuters) — Three officers and about 100 sailors from the 11,000-ton Australian warship Kanimbla were detained by Italian police here early today after disturbances described locally as a riot between the sailors and the Genoese townspeople.

Local reports said three drunken sailors became involved in a dispute with Italian civilians who alleged the sailors had molested an old beggar woman.

The dispute grew until a riot was in progress in the port area. Fists, sticks and bottles were used.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Activity on the livestock market here this week would make any ladies' wear bargain counter look tame in comparison.

Total receipts were the second heaviest recorded and more cattle were trucked into the yards than ever before in the market's history.

Buyers bought steadily at strong prices and the daily holdover was comparatively small throughout the week.

The heavy receipts might have been caused by lack of grass due to an absence of rain in the last few weeks.

Cattle prices were fully 50 cents to $1 higher on all grades of butcher cattle. The calf trade was brisk but the top prices were generally unchanged except for a few fancy veals, which sold 50 cents higher than last week's top. Hogs were unsettled in the early part of the week but closed steady to last week. Lambs gained $1 while sheep remained unchanged.

The cattle run 10,400 head was added to last week's holdover of 400 head. Included in the supply were 1,500 stockers. Export buying was keen with some 1,000 cattle being shipped to the United States. Trade did slacken off Wednesday but this was due to the lack of good quality offerings.

Medium to good weighty steers sold at $23-$27 with a few choice animals up to $29.25. Medium to good butcher steers sold at $18-$24 and heifers sold from $16-$22. Thin common steers and heifers sold for boning at $12-$15. Butcher cows sold from $13-$18 with canners and cutters selling from $7.50-$13. Good bulls were from $19-$21 with commoner kinds downward to $13.50. Fed yearlings sold at $19-$28. There was little action on stockers and a few sold at $16-$18.25. Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold at $110-$170.

Calves totalled 2,726 head. Good to choice vealers were $26-$28 with a few fancy vealers up to $28.50. Common to medium lightweights met ready sale downward to $15, while grassers sold mostly at $13-$13.50.

Hogs were 1,782 head. Prices remained unchanged to last week's close of $33.25 for Grade A and $32.60-$32.85 for Grade B1. Sows were $24 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 4,660 head. Lambs gained $1 to close at $22.50 for good ewes and wethers with $1 discount on bucks. Cull lambs sold at $13-$15. Sheep were unchanged with good lightweights bringing $8-$9. Fat heavy sheep sold at $5-$7 with

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Among the matters which will be discussed at the Congress of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire in Johannesburg this month, will be the economic development of Central and East Africa.

This is at the request of the Rhodesia Federated Chambers of Commerce and the Johannesburg Chamber, who are interested in the development and employment of the skills of African peoples within the economy of the empire.

So many hopes were built up that Africa might hold an important key to Britain's restoration, that it came as a shock when a British all-party parliamentary investigation reported this summer it could find "no coherent strategy of economic planning" in Britain's program for developing her colonial empire.

The committee added that large portions of appropriations for colonial welfare and development have gone unspent since the war, and that in the colonies "techniques and tools are primitive, hygiene deplorable, and conditions too frequently accepted as inevitable when knowledge and right tools could improve them."

The situation may be expected to get some airing at the Johannesburg meeting. Whether or not Commonwealth Prime Ministers will consider it at their London meeting in October is not known.

Canada has expressed no opinion, so far as is known, but it can be said that her machines are doing something to turn African soil into productivity and her business men at least have found markets there for products from stoves to bulldozers.

Marmora Woman Crushed to Death As Truck Ditched

Marmora (Special)—Apparently having jumped from her husband's panel truck when it went out of control on the Cordova Road, four miles north of Marmora, Mrs. Douglas Stocker, 21, of Marmra, was crushed to death Thursday afernoon when the vehicle fell on her.

Police who investigated the accident stated that Mr. and Mrs. Stocker, with Mr. Stocker at the wheel, had been driving west on the township road when at Murphy's Corners he vehicle went out of control and struck a steep bank. As the truck was about to overturn Mrs. Stocker is believed to have attempted to jump with result that she was crushed beneath the vehicle.

Dr. N. J. Donovan of Marmora attended at the scene of the accident, while the body was viewed oy Corner Dr. S.R. Beatty of Madoc. There will be inquest it was announced by Crown At-

Grocery Store Slightly Damaged by Fire

Fire of undetermined origin resulted in small damage at the grocery store of Orville Ashley, corner of Forin and Charles St., shortly before six o'clock Thursday evening.

The fire started in the portion of the building used as a back warehouse and caused small damage to the building and to stock before it was extinguished by firemen. There was also some smoke damage, it was reported.

A second alarm answered by the department was to the Lummiss Bakery on Catharine Street where employees reported they smelled paper burning in the attic. An investigation revealed no fire but firemen found excessive fumes in the building, they presumably having come from the bread wrapping machine.

Hamilton Man Given 10 Years For Robbery

Whitby, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Jack Sirkoski of Hamilton who was found guilty Thursday of grabbing a bag containing $8,000 from a brewer's warehouse messenger in Oshawa last Aug. 16, was today sentenced to 10 years.

Two Crown witnesses, including the messenger, Cecil Bonnetta, identified Sirkoski as the man who grabbed the bag and jumped into a waiting automobile.

The driver of the getaway car is still unidentified. Frank Wasni, wanted for questioning, was fatally shot by police in Hamilton shortly after the robbery..

Following his conviction Sirkoski told Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson that he blamed the woman with whom he had been living in Hamilton for his career of crime.

"This is her way of trying to get rid of me. The reason I am here today is because I knew Wasni. And I met him through her," he said.

Active Autumn Program Planned By Chamber of Commerce Directors

Mr. Herb Purdy, Montreal, field representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce told the directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce of the work of the Canadian Chamber to overcome communistic principles in Canada and of their efforts to further democracy and free enterprise, at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the directors held Thursday afternoon at the Golden Acres.

Mr. Purdy said that he was on his way to the Prairie Provinces as representative of a special Chemurgis meeting to investigate processing of waste farm material such as straw, grain husks and sugar beet mash into valuable by products.

Mr. McDougall, chairman of the civic committee, reported that a joint meeting of representatives of the City Council, inter-service club council, Parks Board, and the committee, had been arranged for 5.00 p.m. September 21st at the Council Chambers, to further the recreation park and swimming pool projects.

Mr. H. Becker, chairman of the open forum committee, announced that the next general meeting would be held on Friday, October 1st, at 8.30 p.m. in the Kiwanis Centre and that an outstanding speaker has agreed to address the members on the current European situation and the threat of communism in Canada.

It was stated that the agricultural committee had arranged with Mr. C. D. Graham, Deputy Minister of Agriculture to deliver an address at their dinner meeting scheduled for November 3rd at the Bridge Street United Church. A program of four monthly meetings has been arranged with authoritative speakers to give addresses on Veterinary Facts, Soil Conservation, Canning and Drainage.

The Four-Lane Highway Committee has arranged a joint meeting to be held in the Council Chambers Friday, September 24, with representatives from the town of Trenton, Townships of Thurlow and Sidney, County of Hastings and the City of Belleville, in an effort to have through highway traffic diverted from congested central areas in Trenton and Belleville.

Marmora Fair Draws Large Crowd; New Arena Used for Livestock Show

Marmora, Sept. 17 — Favored with perfect fall weather, Marmora Fair was a decided success on Thursday afternoon and a large crowd was present. The horse and cattle show was held in the new arena and drew an admiring crowd.

Elmer Wood of Crookston carried off the prizes with a fine Ayrshire herd. Allan McComb of Bonarlaw and Harry Neal of Marmora won the prizes in the Holstein class while Garnet Kerr of Campbellford showed a fine herd of Jerseys. In the special prizes for the grade class winners were Harry Neal, Marmora; Bob Davidson, Marmora; Bert Davidson, Bonarlaw, and Donald Neal, Marmora. Special prizes were won by Elmer Wood, Crookston, who also had the largest exhibit of cattle; Garnet Kerr, Campbellford; Allan McComb, Bonarlaw; Harry Neal, Donald Neal and B. Davidson, Marmora.

Miss Stella McComb, Bonarlaw, won the Timothy Eaton prize for the best purebred Holstein calf.

Donald Heath of Stirling carried off the prizes for sheep and also for swine.

In the poultry show prizes went to Carl Lynch, Marmora, William Meehan and Frank O'Neill, Marmora, and Hugh Jones, Stirling.

In the horse show, the prizes for draught and agricultural class went to R. T. Neal, Marmora, Gerald Burkett, Bonarlaw, Ralph Heath, Campbellford and Arthur Raycroft, Warkworth.

Good Display Farm Products

The agricultural building was well filled with farm products:—flowers, fruits and vegetables, as well as a fine showing of culinary art and women's fancy work.

The E. J. Casey Shows were present with an attractive midway that drew large crowds, the merry-go-round and ferris wheel being well patronized. Booths were operated by the Catholic Women's League, the I.O.D.E. and the Women's Institute and were well patronized during the afternoon.

Mr. Bernard Hughes was master of ceremonies for the variety program held during the afternoon and a fine entertainment of singing and dancing was held. Havelock Kiltie Band was also in attendance.

A softball tournament was held in which Deloro won 13-5 from Bonarlaw, following which Eldorado defeated Deloro 15-4.

Say Accused Man Went Berserk, Injured Officer

Balcarres, Sask., Sept. 17 (CP) —Police said today that 39-year-old Frank Catlack, committed for trial on a charge of murdering Florence Brabant, 20, Aug. 16, went berserk in the R.C.M.P guard room late Thursday night and injured Cpl. Pat Beach in an attempt to escape custody.

Catlack is said to have seized a chair and beaten Beach on the head. Mrs. Beach is reported to have fought Catlack off until her husband regained consciousness. Police said Mrs. Beach summoned aid through the telephone office while her husband subdued Catlack.

At a preliminary hearing Thursday, a packed courthouse listened to a statement read by an R.C.M.P. constable in which Catlack, farmer of this district 55 miles northeast of Regina, told how he strangled the former Regina waitress Aug. 16 and then fired the shack the two had occupied.

Catlack was committed to stand trial at Melville, where the Court of King's Bench will hold a sitting Oct. 26.

Urge Immigrants Take Citizenship Papers on Arrival

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will seek to have all immigrants take out citizenship papers on arrival in Canada, it was announced today.

A recent meeting of the I. O. D. E. National Executive passed a resolution urging the federal government to "use every means possible" to encourage immigrants to file their declaration of intention when they enter the country.

Many have come to Canada and for years have enjoyed Canadian liberties and prosperity without becoming citizens, the resolution stated.

Two Doctors Hanged, Convicted in Mass Deaths in Germany

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 17—(AP) — British authorities today hanged two doctors who picked women for mass deaths in German concentration camps. They were Benno Orendi, a native Hungarian, and Walter Sonntag.

Govt. Announces Royal Commission On Transportation

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (CP)— The Federal Government is setting up a Royal Commission on "national transportation," but the scope of its inquiry has not yet been made public.

A brief announcement by the government Thursday said a commission with somewhat limited terms of reference would be created, and later information indicated:

1. It would touch to some extent on the freight-rate problem, but would not have power to go into it fully.

2. It would not conflict with a current inquiry by the Board of Transport Commissioners into Canada's basic freight-rate structure.

3. It probably would not deal heavily with highway transportation such as bus and truck operation, which are under provincial jurisdiction.

A concurrent announcement by Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent said Sept. 27 and 28 had been set as the date for hearing by cabinet of the appeal of seven provinces from the Transport Commissioners award last March of a 21-per-cent freight-rate increase to the railways.

4. St. Laurent added the scope of the Commission could not extend to matters which by statute are under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Transport Commissioners.

North Hastings W.I.'s Entertain English Guest

A rally of Institute members of North Hastings District was held on Tuesday in Ivanhoe town hall, at which they entertained Mrs. Ida Braine of England, member of the executive of the Hertfordshire Women's Institute and a delegate to the A.C.W.W. Conference in Amsterdam last year.

Before sitting down to a bountiful pot luck dinner community singing and a contest were enjoyed.

At 1.30 Mrs. Clifford Clancy President of North Hastings District presided.

The guest, Mrs. Braine, was introduced to the ladies by Mrs. C. Mitts of Ivanhoe branch. Mrs. Braine was a charming and worthwhile speaker, and with her vast knowledge of the Institute work, being an organizer in her own county, she gave a splendid picture of the way the work is carried on in England and Wales There are 7,000 Women's Institutes with 380,000 W.I. members She thanked the ladies for their great war effort in sustaining them, and for parcels still being received.

Varied Program

A fine program was presented by each Institute contributing a number.

The following program was given: Piano solo, by Mrs. Donnelly of Bannockburn, humorous reading, 'Man's ideal of the Women's Institute" by Mrs. A. Burlitt, Bonarlaw; reading, Mrs. G. C Moon, Madoc; Paper prepared and given by Mrs. C. Sills, Ivanhoe on "Our International Peace Garden." Piano duet Mrs. Milton Shaw and Mrs. K. Bray, Ivanhoe; Mrs. Thompson of Moira gave a paper on "An Ideal Mother." Community singing with Mrs. Molly Haggerty, Ivanhoe at the piano. Quiz on "Famous Women of Canada", conducted by Mrs. Geo. Watson, Wellman's Corners; Miss E. Irwin, Home Economic Coach, Stirling spoke on girls' work and Mrs. D. Pigden, Eldorado gave a resume of their 1947-48 work.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Ivanhoe branch.

Major A Bowlers Adopt New Scoring System

With two players rolling aggregates of over 700, the Northern Electric team swept through to a 7-0 victory over Electronics at the inaugural matches of the Major "A" Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome last night.

The league has drawn up and adopted a new scoring system which eliminates tie games and is conducive to easier accounting. Teams are awarded two points for each winning game and an extra point for winning total. In other words if a team wins three games it is given seven points. A losing team winning one game gets two points but not the extra one for total.

The other three matches played resulted in identical scores of 5-2 with Belleville Golf bowing to the CNR; York Trading defeating Central Cigar and Lawn Bowlers taking the measure of American Optical.

Following are the scores:

Northern Electric	7	3121
York Trading	5	3226
Belleville Golf	2	3001
LawnBowlers	5	3390
Electronics	2	2642
Central Cigar	2	3069
CNR	5	3200
Optical	2	3260

Bowlers with triple scores of over 700 were A. Wonnacott, 788; L. Hopkins, 761; J. Legault, 743; W. Moore, 700; Sheffield, 712; D. Tobe, 732; C. Hardwick, 784; Al. Miller, 717; G. Lanthier, 707; C. Vickers, 700.

Apple Pickers Urgently Needed In Fruit Areas

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP) — Alex MacLaren, director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, said today an urgent need exists for apple pickers in the fruit growing districts of Ontario.

He said that apple pickers are especially needed to work by the day in the district west of Toronto, and will be provided with transportation to and from the orchards from the city limits.

934 Students Is Record For Collegiate

The largest registration in ten years has been recorded at the Belleville Collegiate this fall with 934 students being enrolled in day courses.

Courses have been combined and classes streamlined so that the larger number of students can be taught by fewer teachers with no loss of personalized instruction or operating efficiency. Courses in which few students were enrolled were combined so that several small classes have been enlarged.

There are 36 full time and two part time, teachers on the staff.

The time table for this year's classes was so carefully drawn up that not one change was needed after school had commenced.

Louis P. Cecile Joins Ontario Cabinet

Toronto, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Premier Drew of Ontario today announced the appointment to the Ontario cabinet of Louis P. Cecile, Hawkesbury lawyer who represents Prescott constituency in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Cecile becomes minister without portfolio and was to be sworn in later in the day at the residence of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson at nearby Oakville.

The premier made his announcement after a morning meeting of the cabinet.

In a statement the premier said Mr. Cecile has accepted the responsibility of dealing with readjustment problems of municipalities along the Ottawa, St. Lawrence and other rivers developing from construction of power projects. This work was not covered by the authority of the Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Mr. Cecile was elected in Prescott in the June 7 Ontario election, with a margin of 2,193 votes over Simon Bertrand. Liberal. The seat was long held by Aurellien Belanger, a Liberal, who retired this year. Mr. Cecile polled 6,537 votes to 4,344 for Mr. Bertrand, 611 for Euclide Boisvenue, Union of Electors, and 179 for Francois Bosse, C.C.F.

Premier Drew said Mr. Cecile's immediate duty would be "to conduct an inquiry into the municipal readjustment problems caused by the power developments."

He said that following the inquiry it would be determined whether the duties would be incorporated with those of an existing department.

The premier mentioned the St. Lawrence River town of Cardinal, Ont., as a case in point. "Probably the whole town will have to be moved. This will involve not only a question of compensation but also how to absorb the population into other municipalities."

British Cotton Textile Prices Are Going Up

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (CP)—Canadian shirt manufacturers are put in "a very precarious position" because British cotton textile prices are rising while American prices have been falling, the Prices Commission was told Thursday.

The statement came from Norman S. McGregor of Hamilton, general manager of the McGregor Shirt Co. Ltd., as the Commission concluded its study of shirt costs and headed into a vacation from its investigation duties until Sept. 28.

The Commission was also warned "all shirt prices are going to be advanced before the end of the year." The man who said so, H. H. Warren of Montreal, secretary-treasurer of the Warrendale Shirt Co. Ltd., traced the causes to increased labor and other costs.

Mr. McGregor's statement was backgrounded by the fact that Britain exported 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 yards of cotton textiles to Canada in the first six months of 1948 as compared with a year's target of 80,000,000; that U. S. supplies have been slashed to less than one-third by government decree; and that, as he testified, British prices "out of all rhyme and reason" prevent him from buying more goods in that market.

He said 80 per cent of his prewar supplies came from Britain, compared to 25 per cent today. The lowest-priced shirt he was able to make of British cloth now retailed for $6, but he had recently obtained some English potters print that would retail from $4.25 to $4.50. The lowest quality shirt he made of P.S. cloth retailed for $3.95.

If Canadian manufacturers bought in the British market "we are in a dangerous position." A U.S. cotton collapse could be followed by an even greater U. K. collapse and it could leave the Canadians "holding a great big bag."

"Waste Not, Want Not"

The people of Ontario have already before them the question of saving in every possible way Hydro power. That a serious situation faces them but that they can co-operate and make the plans of the Commission carry, to give the people the maximum of power with the minimum of inconvenience has been made clear.

Everyone knows that the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario is proceeding on schedule with its development of new sources of power which will over the next two or three years bring in more than a million additional horsepower. In the meantime and especially during the approaching fall and winter the maximum of saving possible should be made by every resident in Ontario, man, woman and child, so that there may be the full employment and prosperity. It is realized by everyone that the present is witnessing the greatest industrial and business expansion in the province's history. Therefore there is a heavy demand on power and hence the power shortage. In the words of the Commission Chairman, Robert H. Saunders, the power shortage is the eloquent indication of this happy condition of expansion.

All citizens know of the restrictions on the use of power for certain purposes. That will save power. But more is needed than that. It has been pointed out that restrictions alone will not make up the shortage. Therefore the appeal is to each and every consumer of electricity to make his or her individual contribution to the saving by voluntarily imposing restraints on not only wastage but on the ordinary use of power. This will provide the greatest saving of all and will if all co-operate see the situation through to an end with the least inconvenience.

Chairman Saunders sees the value of the people forming a definite habit of using their power in a careful manner. The habit of saving power every day and 24 hours a day can be formed and we shall all get through this period without very much inconvenience. Those are the words of Mr. Saunders.

Such co-operation is a service to the Hydro, to the public and to those who voluntarily observe power.

Everyone can help. It is certain that a great many are already helping to save. What is desired is that everyone join in this campaign of conservation for the good of all.

Recalling Battle of Britain

Church parades on Sunday will mark the R.C.A.F. observance across Canada of the Battle of Britain, special services being held and a march past taking place at all larger units.

Eight years ago there occurred a series of events which foreshadowed the end of Nazi tyranny over mankind. In these events Canadians had a part, the R.C.A.F. at that memorable time having its baptism of fire.

It was in August of 1940 that a squadron of the R.C.A.F. for the first time flew into action against an enemy, won its first victories and suffered its first casualties. Every-seven Canadian officers and men were three of them with the R.C.A.F. and the others serving with the R.A.F. — gave their lives in this struggle. The names of these are inscribed on the roll of honor in the memorial chapel at Westminster Abbey. The great majority of these young Canadians lost the Atlantic in pre-war days to enrol in the R.A.F. and served in units of that force. There were, however, two fighter squadrons which carried the name Canadian. One was 242 (Canadian Squadron of the R.A.F. composed of Canadian fighter pilots in the R.A.F.), No. 1 Fighter Squadron of the R.C.A.F. (later designated No. 401) which had arrived in Britain on the eve of the Battle.

Of these men Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh C. T. Dowding, G.C.B., G.C.V.O., C.M.G., who was Air Officer Commanding-in-Chief of Fighter Command said, that the 242 became one of the foremost fighting units in the Command and No. 1 (Canadian) Squadron also came into the line and acquitted itself with great distinction.

While there are no complete figures for Canadian participation in the Battle, the ratio of casualties would indicate that approximately three out of every hundred aircrew were from this Dominion.

The Battle of Britain was freighted with the greatest results. Germany failed to obtain the necessary air power after her momentous sweep of aggression in that memorable spring and summer. In the words of Prime Minister Churchill it was Britain's "greatest hour." The enemy never got over that failure and Britain at that time gave the prophecy of victory over the aggressor.

GOOD NEWS AND UNEXPECTED

This is a year of bumper crops, for which the world can give thanks and rejoice. But of course the greatest crop is the unexpected gallery of babies, the biggest sensation in vital statistics in the past decade.

Glorious prognosticators some years ago were pointing out how the birth rate would gradually shrivel in 1970, after which the curve would turn upward, and assume that this present increase is due to a group of war babies, but there has been just as great an increase, percentagewise, in seventh and eighth babies as in first and second babies.

This good news about a crop of youngsters is, of course, more important than has come off the press and across the air since the world ended. In fact it is one of the best pieces of news that has come upon the nation in the past quarter century. A declining birth rate has been a sign of emotional deterioration. Larger and better families mean everything good for the nation. If the trend had continued downward we should have viewed the future with terror.

Whatever home life still continues to be the most valuable factor in a nation's progress.

Medieval Manor Found in Lesmahagow

Leatherhead, Surrey, England—A second season's excavation work on a medieval site at The Mounts Pachesham, near Leatherhead, has produced evidence of substantial buildings once standing there which can be attributed with some confidence to a period between A.D. 1100 and 1350.

Since this site, midway in the reign of Edward III, the site has been abandoned. It is seen now as a low hill, picturesquely wooded, surrounded by a deep oval ditch or moat. Until recent times, it was marked on maps as "Camp (remains of)"; it was thought to be Roman because of the find of Roman tiles in a field nearby, or was even described as a British earthwork. Little doubt remains that a moated homestead or manor house stood here in the best part of seven centuries — reconstructed more than once, and demolished or finally ruinated by building material after it had fallen into disuse.

Documentary evidence has identified the site with the manor of Pachesham Magna and has accounted for its abandonment at such an early date. In 1414 nothing was left but a certain "toftes and a dovecote. A tenant for life was then granted the watercolour, divers lands, forest and fruit trees, and in 1398 was fined 20s because in the Court of King's Bench. This evidence did not become fully available until excavation had shown the absence of any pottery which could be dated later than 1350. Thus the archaeological and historical evidence support each other.

This season's work has confined to the north-east part of the site inside the moated area. A trench dug across the site revealed a rubbish pit containing broken pottery, together with a large quantity of Roman roofing tiles or bricks and brick wasters. These are believed to have been looted from some Roman building in the vicinity, probably the Roman villa on Ashtead Common. The pit had been in use for at least two centuries. The plan of the buildings has not been recovered, but the pottery and coins point to periods and dimensions have been found.

Among the debris were found a hand-wrought agricultural fork assigned to have been left by a tenant. Also a bronze buckle of the buildings in 1350-1380; part of a bronze pin probably pre-Conquest, found in the silt of the moat; fragments of bone knife, one attributed to about 1100 and the other to the end of the thirteenth century; and fragments of glass with a Roman chevron moulding and a few with both of the early twelfth century. The thirteenth century bowl bears on its base the marks of a tripod which held it over the charcoal fire, of which much ash has been found.

Twist of Fate Kept Hitler From War In 1938

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated From News Analyst)

It was a queer twist of fate which kept dictator Hitler from making war on Czechoslovakia in the autumn of '38, and at the same time provided him with the ammunition to launch a World War I World War a few months later.

Again I am indebted to Dr. Erich Kordt, who then was chief of the German foreign office secretariat, for the astonishing background of that crisis.

Hitler had been greatly encouraged by his success at the Godesberg conference in bulldozing Prime Minister Chamberlain into agreeing to demands for the Reich's annexation of Czechoslovakia's German inhabited Sudetenland, but nevertheless became still more desirous for a "little war" with the small neighbor to enchance his prestige.

At this critical moment Dr. Kordt and others including high German army officers, were planning at the overthrow of the Nazi regime, they knew Germany wasn't ready for a big war and felt sure Hitler would back down if Britain and France chucked appeasement and firmly backed Kordt so advised British officials and begged for firmness.

Threw Their Weight

On Sept. 26 Britain, France and Russia did throw their weight between Hitler and Czechoslovakia to the extent of announcing that if Germany attacked the Republic they would go to its help. Furthermore the Fuehrer was screaming that the ultimatum between Merrytt and Callaghan. They skated backwards for half a mile. Callaghan won.

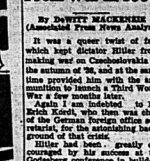
Health Minister Of Nova Scotia, Dr. Davis, Dies

Ingonish, N.S., Sept. 17 (CP) — Dr. Frank R. Davis, 60-year-old Nova Scotia Health Minister, died at his resort town cottage here three days after he was stricken with a heart attack.

Dr. Davis, who also was Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare in the Nova Scotia administration, was stricken shortly after he arrived here to attend the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Medical Association.

The big doctor-politician fought a gain struggle for life at his home in northern Cape Breton village and communities applied by a construction crew was used in an attempt to save him.

The oxygen, flown here in a flight plane from Sydney, N.S. was administered immediately it was made mask.



Dr. Davis, prominent in business and a director of at least two large companies, was first elected to the Nova Scotia legislature in 1933 and at one time served as Mayor of the south shore town of Bridgewater.

Perhaps the most colorful story of the medical doctor is told in connection with the Moose River mine rescue in 1936. The Health Minister, clad in life, squirmed through a narrow hole for under-ground first aid to two trapped and half-dead men, Dionne Quints Get Gifts Forts that Dr. D. E. Robertson and Dr. Davis had made possible the rescued alive from the crumbling gold mine.

EXTERMINATOR ASKS 10 CENTS FOR EACH PIGEON

Hamilton, Sept. 17 (CP)—Ten cents a pigeon is the price set by an exterminator to remove the pigeon pests from Paris and Ancaster, Hamilton. That comes to around $1,000, but whether it is worth it is doubtful. Next spring Ivy Fletcher, they would be back again by the hundreds.

Attitude Toward Communist Party Getting Tougher

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 17 — (CP)—The Australian people's attitude toward the Communist party is getting tougher as the party comes more and more into the open with its and speeches in defiance of democracy.

A statement by G.A. Bamford, member of the Queensland State Executive of the Communist party, that the Communists would fight on the side of Russia if Australia became involved in a war between the two powers, Japan and Russia, has jolted the public and politicians alike.

Questions on the government's attitude to the party have been asked in the Commonwealth parliament.

Opposition members of the Queensland parliament demanded immediate criminal action against Burns for his remarks. Canberra, Prime Minister Chipley has promised he will ask the acting Attorney-General to look into the statement.

(Burns, speaking as a Communist at a political forum debate at Brisbane, said that war between Russia and the western powers would mean a war between Russia and the American and British imperialists.

"We would oppose that war. We would fight on the side of Soviet Russia. We are not fighting forever," said Burns.)

Various suggestions have expressed their anger at Burns' statement and have voiced resentment at the presence of Chifley's condemning the Communist contention that the Communist party in Australia should be treated as such.

R. Dixon, Queensland President of the Returned Soldiers and Sailors League, said the statement that this proved beyond a doubt that Australia's fifth column which is a menace to the country's security.

R. Dixon, President of the Queensland Returned Soldiers and Sailors League, said the statement that this proved beyond a doubt that Australia's fifth column which is a menace to the country's security.

R. Dixon, President of the municipality, denied the views expressed by Burns were those of the party's central executive.

Search Centred Around The Pas For Navy Plane

The Pas, Man., Sept. 17 (CP) — Search for a United States Navy plane, missing since Sunday with five persons aboard, centred around the Saskatchewan River, miles northeast of here, following new reports the plane was in distress Sunday over that area.

The latest report came from a pilot who said he thought he had heard a plane motor cutting out while flying in a southerly direction over the area on Sunday afternoon.

The missing aircraft, en route to Ottawa, left Churchill Sunday morning on a flight to The Pas and has not been heard from since. Among those aboard were Capt. Robert W. Hirtle-Hamilton, naval attache at the British High Commissioner's office, Ottawa, and Capt. S. S. Custer, naval adviser at the United States Embassy, Ottawa.

The setting Lake-Sherridon region, near Wekusko, first became the focal point of search when reports came from a fish merchant, T. Godbout, that he had heard or seen a plane flying through the heavy rain. Sunday.

Search planes, co-ordinating action plans from Bennett Field, New York, flew to the area and reported they had evidence that an aircraft had flown over the area on Sunday afternoon.

As the missing craft was the only plane reported in the area, it was thought that it was the U.S.A. or.

MEAT, MILK AND CALCIUM

University of Minnesota investigators maintained one group of rats on 25 per cent milk diet and another group of their litter-mates on cooked lean meat plus enough calcium gluconate and phosphates to keep the intakes of these essentials up to the level the animals received in milk. The two diets were adjusted to provide the same amounts of protein, fat, carbohydrate, vitamins, calcium, phosphorus and water.

The animals were kept on these diets for six weeks—all that could be equivalent to four or five years of human growth—and at the end of this period both groups of animals were found well within the normal in all respects but one instance in the amount of calcium, phosphorous and protein in the blood serum.

From this experiment the investigators inferred that a diet of cooked ground lean meat supplemented with calcium gluconate, Acidophilus milk, buttermilk, skim milk, cream, butter, any kind of cheese one likes, Bulgarian or Acidophilus milk, cocoa, chocolate, flavored or condensed milk, powdered whole or skim milk.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Let the Man Down

My husband is always telling me yourself, sits up late nights reading and never gets to bed before 2 a.m. I find him dozing in his chair. I tell him he should sleep in bed.

Otto, Ont.

Answer — You're right, Mrs. Otto, everybody should, more or less, be of the same opinion dozing after a hearty meal does not apply. It is a mistake to nap or doze right after dinner, especially for persons of sedentary habits, middle age. What they need after dinner is a walk of a mile or two before they settle down in the chair is clear without even mentioning apoplexy.

Danger

We are anxious to know whether it would be dangerous to pluck your eyebrows.

Mrs. Lee, (Lord, ont 7, D.)

Answer — You wouldn't live to regret it. But there is no danger in it—calcium and milk in your diet is enough to want to do so.

Mayo Experiment In Child Health Makes Baby Boss

By FRANK CAREY

Rochester, Minn. (AP) — The eyes of many scientists are on several hundred youngsters playing in the backyard sandboxes of this Minnesota community.

They include most of the children born in Rochester in 1944 and since. They have become participants since the day of their birth in a child-health project designed to take into account not only the physical health and welfare of the child but also his basic emotional needs.

More than 300 in number, they represent the first large-scale means of testing this question:

Can child-care techniques, synchronized with the baby's own growth and capabilities, produce more contented babies — and twenty years thereafter, based on arbitrary standards, better adults?

Under present plans, the children will remain under study by doctors through the grade and high school years.

They are children whose mothers were instructed not to feed them by the clock but when they appeared to be hungry. Their parents were encouraged to pick them up and feed them when they cried unduly — and not let them "cry it out."

They are children whose mothers were told that the rocking chair is not an antique. They are children whose fathers were told to allow them to work out their own toilet and other elementary training habits according to apparent bodily needs and capabilities. And, a majority of them, are breast-fed babies to start with.

Uniform Medical Care

This world-famed medical centre in which they live offers an unusual opportunity for this sort of program — because practically all the children born here are under uniform medical supervision. In fact, 95 per cent of Rochester's babies are born in the same hospital — St. Mary's.

The project — known as the "Rochester Child - Health Institute" — is directed by a small central staff headed by Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, professor of pediatrics at Mayo Foundation. Its research activities are financed by the Mayo Foundation.

The program has five categories:

1. Pre-natal care — designed to set the proper mental and emotional environment for the unborn baby by giving instruction to the prospective mother and father.

2. Care of the new born baby — the birth of the baby, an attempt is made to teach the mother something about the problems she'll meet when she leaves the hospital. Breast feeding is recommended.

3. "Well baby" care. Preventive medical care is provided for at frequent intervals in public and private clinical facilities for babies less than two years of age.

4. Pre-school care. Physical and psychological care is provided at the "well baby" clinics and psychological tests are given at the Institute's office for children of pre-school age.

5. School care. This phase — which calls for physical and psychological study throughout grade school and high school — has not yet started, because the children are not old enough.

This blind man and his sighted companion are just starting out for a little spin on a sunny afternoon. Though this bicycle is built for two, its purpose is not quite that of the bicycle built for two in the old song. It is designed to enable a blind person to get the full exercise and enjoyment of cycling with a sighted person to guide the machine. It is really two bicycles joined together side by side, but having a common rear wheel. The Department of Research and Recreation of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind develops new appliances and inventions useful to the blind, like this bicycle, and this is only one phase of the work of the Institute which your support makes possible. Please make your donation to the current campaign in Belleville as generous as your interest in the welfare of your blind neighbors.

Truman Starts Election Campaign But Few Give Him Ghost of Chance to Win

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 17 — (CP)— President Truman is off today on his election campaign which none but the most optimistic partisans give him the ghost of a chance of winning.

A Truman victory in the November presidential elections would make him "the miracle man of this crazy era," wrote Tom Stokes, one of the most respected and best informed of Washington's syndicated columnists.

But there is no sign of defeatism about the President. He is as jaunty, self-assured and confident as a candidate could be and who or loss he will give the Republicans a fight.

Alienated South

He is expected to make a brief sortie into the Deep South for speeches at carefully selected centres but definite decision on this has not been announced.

It is unlikely he would take back his civil rights stand even if he could do so safely, and it is written into the Democratic platform in almost his own words. Desire for Change

Truman had a lot of strikes on him as he enters the fury of the campaign.

His party has been in office 16 years and the mere desire for a change is against him.

The Democratic administration, unless it wins Congress as well as the White House, cannot get anything much done anyhow, as was proven in the last two years while Republicans ruled on Capitol Hill.

In the State of Louisiana the dissident Democrats have succeeded in having Truman's name left off the ballots entirely, a strategic move that has been widely condemned by friend and foe alike.

The only way Louisianians will be able to vote for Truman and his running mate, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, will be to write in their names.

Confused Picture

Because there is no Federal election law and every state makes its own voting regulations, the situation is normally so complex and rendered extraordinarily so now by the advent of third and fourth parties that it is impossible to get a clear picture of what will happen next Nov. 2.

Henry Wallace and his Progressive third party, estimated as likely to pull upwards of 2,000,000 votes, are getting their state on the ballots in 45 states and more are written into the Democratic platforms in almost his own words. Desire for Change

Truman had a lot of strikes on him as he enters the fury of the campaign.

His party has been in office 16 years and the mere desire for a change is against him.

Beauty Contests Criticized By Catholic Bishop

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—Bathing beauty contests and the type of "child psychology writer overemphasizes self-expression" were two current trends criticized Thursday by Most Rev. J. G. Peny, Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterborough.

Addressing the Ontario Council of the Catholic Women's League Bishop Perry said Canadians have been slow to promote beauty contests "but even our better newspapers publish the pictures of pretty girls in the contest, and their reason for doing so would seem to be that there is a reader interest in them. Admittedly there is."

Lately an effort had been made to include talent of one sort or another as a medium of judging in such contests, he said. "But if the parade across the platform in skimpy bathing suits was dropped from this exhibitionism the whole contest would shrink to insignificant proportions. If there is any way you Catholic women can discover to emphasize that a bathing beauty contest is a vulgarity, then you will be serving public morality indeed."

Frogs' Legs Top Bush Dish Says Gourmet

(Ken. Roberts in Forest and Stream)

You don't know what you're missing. For my money they're tops among woodland dishes. You should try them sometime. I'm sure one would think you were an old woman.

I'm telling you, frogs' legs are terrific.

Of course I don't mean those skinny little pickerel frogs you can see fishing lines like big bulls you find in swamps. You don't have to get many either. Knock off four or five jumbos and you have a pound of the most succulent meat the bush can offer.

It's a source of constant amazement to me that hunters and fishermen don't take advantage of these delectable delicacies. When one considers the prices paid for them in city restaurants ($1.50 per plate) it seems fantastic that hunters and fishermen should turn up their noses at these delicious tidbits.

"Slimy," they say with a shudder. "French food," they remark with upturned noses.

If I've heard them once, I've heard them a hundred times. Any frog fancier will have a story to tell you how he took his friends frog hunting, and how he had to twist their arms to get them to eat frogs — the first time. I don't know why we bother. It only means fewer frogs for us who really savor them.

I remember introducing a friend of mine to the tender white meat of the frog. It took him to my favorite lake and showed him how to catch them. I coached him through the cleaning process. I cooked them to a turn with a golden crust on the outside, and then coaxed him to try one.

He isn't a friend of mine any more. In one summer he stripped that lake and the adjoining swamp of every adult frog that lived there. When it went back next year I couldn't muster enough legs for one square meal. I had forgotten to tell him that a few should be left for breeding.

You've probably heard that frogs' legs taste like chicken. Nuts! They don't taste like chicken and they don't taste like fish. They taste like frogs' legs! And that's the beauty of them — their distinctive flavor. If they tasted like chicken or fish, then it would be cheaper to buy chicken and fish and leave the frogs in their muddy habitat.

Their popularity is well illustrated by the phenomenal demand which has recently sent them up to a dollar a pound for the hunter. In 1946, 80,438 pounds of legs were shipped to the United States from Canada, to say nothing of domestic consumption.

The commonest way of cooking them, and for my money the best, is to quick-fry them in butter. However, if you want to dip them in egg and milk and roll them in dry bread crumbs or crushed corn flakes, you'll have less trouble palming them off on the ladies in the party. They're generally pretty squeamish before they've tasted them, but once they've had a taste they'll gladly handle the skillet the next time.

So the next time the fish aren't biting, or whenever you get sick of the smell of a smelt why don't you go after the big croakers. If they're anything like my pal, Jim, I bet my bottom dollar you soon will be once you sink your teeth into the flank of a frog.

$650,000 Damage Caused by Two Ontario Fires

(By The Canadian Press)

Damage was estimated at $650,000 today, with three firemen seriously hurt, in two big industrial fires at Stratford and Windsor.

In another fire at Toronto, with comparatively minor damage a cable was severed when his uncle in water-soaked blankets pulled him out of a blazing basement through room.

At Stratford a two-alarm blaze destroyed the upper floor of the two-storey plant of the Sealed Power Corporation of Canada, Ltd., with loss of $400,000. At Windsor the Canadian Pacific Railway freight shed on the river front was destroyed, with loss estimated at $250,000.

The three firemen are seriously hurt were in hospital at Stratford. James Gillespie was hurt when part of a wall collapsed at the Pipton Manufacturing Plant. Lloyd Finlay fell off a ladder and Jack Thorn suffered undetermined injuries. Several other firemen were overcome by smoke.

The Stratford fire was believed to have originated at a stove in the centre of the plant, where a woman employee was using an inflammable fluid to take grease off pistons. Despite efforts of other workers with an extinguisher, the flames swept to the roof beams. Company officials said stock valued at $350,000 was virtually a total loss but they expected partial production by the plant's 110 employees could be resumed in a few days.

At Windsor, Fire Chief H. G. Coates said there was no indication of the origin of the blaze which swept through the 175-foot C.P.R. freight shed on the river-front, a blaze that brought most Windsor equipment in answer to two alarms and was finally quelled with the aid of the Detroit river fire-boat.

The Windsor freight shed loss estimated at $250,000, included newsprint valued at nearly $30,000 belonging to the Windsor Daily Star and contents of two loaded boxcars.

WEDDINGS

TRUAISCH—KEAN

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the setting for the wedding of Miss Mary Isabel Kean, daughter of Mr. Kean and the late Mrs. Kean to James Vincent Truaisch, son of Mrs. Truaisch and the late John M. Truaisch, Monday morning, September 14th.

The bride given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Stanley Kean, was lovely in a gown of ivory satin trimmed with Chantilly lace and pearls. Her finger tip veil was fashioned with hipline peplum, bustle bow and train. A bridal wreath with a dream Ann bonnet headdress and a cascade of white gladiolas and stephanotis completed her costume.

Miss Theresa Kean, sister of the bride, was her maid-of-honor and Miss Mary Truaisch, sister of the groom, her bridesmaid. Both wore matching dresses of green dragon fields taffeta fashioned in basque lines with bustle back and taffeta open crown hat with halo. They carried crescents of bronze mums.

Mr. J. P. Truaisch, of Kingston, brother of the groom, was groomsman, while Messrs. Kenneth McNaught and Ronald Lynch were ushers.

The soloist, Mr. Joseph McCann of Kingston, sang several beautiful numbers. Sister Mary Philaena supplied the organ music. Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., P.A. P.P. officiated. The church was decorated with gladioli and asters.

After the ceremony a reception was held at The Golden Acre Inn, where the bride's mother, gowned in Royal blue crepe and blue accessories and a corsage of fuchsia glamellas received the guests assisted by the groom's mother who chose a gown of soft grey two-piece crepe with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of glamellas.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and points east the bride donned a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories.

Upon their return the happy couple will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Napanee, Kingston and Toronto.

Miss Ella Keen who guest-of-honor at a number of prenuptial parties given for her daughter by Mrs. Y. Truaisch, Mrs. K. A. McNaught entertained about fifteen of Miss Keen's friends at a tea, cup and saucer shower. Miss Dorothy Trudeau was hostess at a miscellaneous shower and a supper party was given for the bride by Mrs. S. Kean.

Rev. Don Amos Gives Report To Y's Men's Club

Rev. Don Amos, newly appointed Regional Director of the Ontario Region, Y's Men's International, and accredited delegate from the Belleville club to the International Y's Men's convention at Long Beach, California, was guest speaker at the regular Y's Men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

Mr. Amos delivered the first half of his report to the club, and dealt with the trip and the social activities at the convention. 400 official delegates from all over the world attended the convention and a great number of unofficial delegates, wives and children attended the social events which included receptions, floor shows by movie actors, dancing, sports activities, picnics, sight seeing trips, etc. 72 of the clubs brought 15 tons of merchandise from their own locality, which was distributed to the delegates.

Special characters who made a definite impression on the speaker were described, and also vivid description of scenery visited, including the Grand Canyon, were given. Belleville made the headlines in the local papers when the speakers organized a Canadian Night, with a special broadcast delegates to play their American cousins. Despite the fact that the Canadian team was roundly trounced, a lot of fun was had.

The speaker was introduced by the president, and thanked by Fred Bateman.

The new president, Larry Buck, presided over the meeting. Morley Lovelace was sgt.-at-arms and Austin Watkin song leader. Guests who were welcomed by Wilfred Richardson included Ralph Black, accountant Dominion Bank; Doug Eaton, physical director of the "Y"; Raymond MacDonald, Boys' Work Secretary of the "Y".

Club projects discussed at the meeting included a Masonite Radio Auction, and the sale of Christmas trees.

Rawdon, Sidney W.I.'s Hear Talk By Mrs. Ida Braine

Rawdon — Over one hundred ladies from Rawdon and Sidney gathered in Stirling Community Hall and listened to an address given by Mrs. Ida Braine who is visiting Canadian Institutes. Her home is at Cricket, Southway, Totteridge, Hertfordshire, England, and for many years she has been very active in promoting Institute work in England.

She said she has always wished to visit Canada and she arrived before the 33rd of June and will return to England the end of this month. During the winter she plans to tour England, speaking at various Institutes and telling them of her Canadian trip.

Grateful for Pioneer Work

She said the Institutes in England and Wales are grateful for the vision and pioneer work of the charter members of Stoney Creek who organized in 1897. Last winter she was privileged to view the film of the 50th anniversary held at Guelph in June, 1947, entitled "From the Land Beyond."

In 1915 Institute work began in England and in spite of two major wars the National Women's Institutes in England have grown and expanded and have 7,000 Institutes with a membership of 350,000. Last September Mrs. Braine attended the Triennial Conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World at Amsterdam and was delighted to meet the Canadian delegation.

TERMS TO SUIT YOUR BUDGET

Your Fruit will make 50% MORE Jam or Jelly WITHOUT RISK OF FAILURES if you use CERTO

It's simply wonderful . . . the difference in jam and jelly-making when you use Certo. You get Jams and jellies that look better, taste better, are better . . . and much more of them. That's because Certo is "fruit pectin" — the natural substance in fruit that makes jams "jam" and jellies "jell" — extracted and refined ready for your use.

THE CERTO BOIL IS SO SHORT

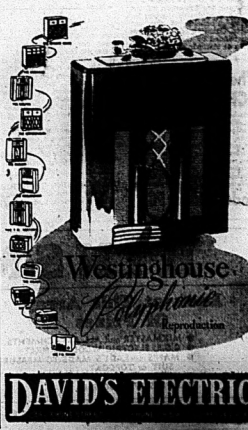
With Certo you boil only one-to-two minutes for jams — a half-minute-to-a-minute for jellies. NO prolonged, tedious boiling to make sure your jam or jelly will set. Certo makes all fruits set "just right". This extremely Certo short boil means:

1 You get 50% more jam or jelly because practically none of your precious fruit juice is boiled away.

2 The time you spend is cut down to a fraction.

3 The natural colour and taste of the fresh fruit are retained. The Certo boil is too short to dull the one or spoil the other.

If you are only a beginner, don't worry. You'll have no failures if you follow exactly the recipes provided with Certo. Since different fruits need different handling, there's a separate kitchen-tested recipe for each one.



BE ECONOMICAL — BE SMART — MAKE JAM AND JELLY THE QUICK EASY MODERN CERTO WAY. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR CERTO TODAY.

A pound of jam or jelly made with Certo contains much more fruit than a pound made the old, long-boil way.

Teeth Need Regular Care

Knowing what a beauty aunt pretty teeth are, Singer Nadine Conner gives hers good care

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE teeth cannot strictly be termed a feminine feature yet the beauty of the face, however perfect, is marred if the biters are not in perfect condition, shining white. Oral hygiene is of importance, not only to appearance but to maintain health. If the teeth are not in good condition, there may be internal troubles, because the process of digestion begins in the mouth.

Semi-yearly visits to the dentist for examination are necessary; there may be hidden decay under the roots of the teeth or pockets in the gums that harbour bacteria that may give rise to more serious troubles in remote parts of the body.

Professional Care

The woman who cares not how much money she flings for beauty treatments and grand dry goods and neglects to have professional care for her teeth is penny wise and pound foolish. Small cavities of which she may be unaware may be present. The dentist will detect them and they may young; the lady will be saved pain and money. It is seldom that one sees a person whose teeth are treated in perfect condition throughout. Such a one has never had professional attention.

Gums Count

Not only that as long as the teeth are free from decay and the gums are hard and healthy, no indigestion should be experienced. The presence of germs that are harboured by the breather on the slightest break in the enamel gives those enemies their opportunity.

After Each Meal

The teeth should be brushed after each meal, the brushing at bedtime should never be neglected. Particles of food, lodged between the teeth, are the character in a few hours, producing disease that starts a deplorable effect upon the teeth.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Where Good of Honor Sits at Restaurant Table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a couple take a woman guests to dine with them in a restaurant, should she take the first chair held for her by the headwaiter, or by the host? (This is to settle a discussion between my husband and me about when we took his cousin to a restaurant.—Mildred S.

Not necessarily. The point is that the host should be so alert that he immediately sizes up the restaurant-layout to see which is the choice seat. . . . Usually the one by a window facing the best view or the one facing the room or the entertainment, and he himself holds the chair for the woman guest to sit in. There is never so Must about taking the seat indicated by the headwaiter or restaurant-hostess . . . there is no discourtesy in changing, so long as it is done with courtesy to the head waiter or hostess.

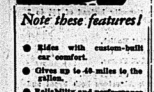
Girl to be Married in Her College Gown

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. The bride-to-be is an out-of-town girl who has attended college here for two years and wishes to be married here. The plan is for a small, informal church wedding. Since her parents are strangers in town, the bride wishes to have a small dinner (instead of a reception) after the ceremony, for the attendants and the immediate families. Since the dinner is to be for only these few guests, there will be a receiving-line in the vestibule of the church after the ceremony so that the guests may give their best wishes to the bride and groom. Where should he be in the receiving-line, and in what order? And just what do the groom's parents do during the receiving of the guests?

Before the ceremony, should the ushers seat the guests one at a time, or two at a time? And are the sisters of the groom seated before his mother is seated?

2. Do the bride's mother and the groom's mother wear their gloves during the ceremony, or should they remove them?—M. J.



1. At an informal receiving-of-guests'as in a church vestibule after a marriage, there really is no need for any definite receiving-line. Therefore, usually and very properly there is a casual and friendly informality about the receiving in so small a space as is usually available; even in vestibules of large churches, like very much the idea of having the bride and grfoom stand together, the bride at the groom's right, to receive the guests in the most prominent place in the vestibule (with perhaps the maid of honor standing at the bride's left) then, opposite them, to have the bride's mother and father and the groom's mother and father standing fairly near the entrance door, convenient to greet the guests as they leave the church. This plan would be particularly convenient in his case, giving the groom's mother and father the opportunity of introducing the guests to the bride's mother and father.

2. When a woman guest enters the church alone, the usher offers her his right arm, and escorts her up the aisle. When a woman and a man are together, the usher escorts the woman up the aisle, and the man following. Yes, the groom's sisters are seated before the usher escorts the groom's mother down the center aisle, to the groom's father following.

3. The mothers wear their gloves during the ceremony.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Now That He's Married to Her, He Should Stay With Her.

Some time ago a young man wrote me the following story:

He said that his first romance went awry and he later married another girl, but found himself seriously in love with her. After they had been married for a few months he came to the conclusion that he had never stopped loving the first girl, and he discovered also through what means he did not say, that she was still in love with him.

What he was writing me about was to know what I thought his obligation was—to stay with the girl he married, even though from his standpoint, it was all a mistake, or to find a way to end his marriage, even though he had no cause whatever for complaint with it.

My advice to this young man that he should not be in too much of a hurry to terminate his marriage but should give it a fair and reasonable trial, before making any such decision. It seemed to me that his first duty was to the girl he had married with good faith on both sides, and that he owed his first loyalty to her.

I have since had a letter from a reader who thinks she feels called upon to "protest" against the advice I gave this young man.

"In everything we humans do in life, we make mistakes," she writes. "Therefore, isn't it logical to assume that we may also make a mistake in the choice of a marriage partner? When we discover our mistake, we should rectify it immediately if possible.

"Just saying so-called marriage vows doesn't insure anyone from making a mistake. This young man did what he did because he was accepting second best. Now that he knows he can love but one only one he ever really loved, naturally his only thought is to be with her. Try as he will to make a go of his marriage, he will always have in his heart the knowledge of his real love that is returned by the one he loves.

"No one human can himself to love another. Oh, yes, they could probably adjust, live together without fighting, etc., but love each other truly, trust each other, that's another story."

Where I think this correspondent makes her greatest mistake is in failing to remember, or at least failing to take account of the fact, that this young man entered into a "second best" marriage not only of his own free will but having, of course, let his wife believe they were in the "first best" marriage. If he had any idea that he was still in love with the other girl, he should have been honest with the girl he asked to be his wife. Since he did not tell her anything about his earlier romance, one can only assume that he intended her to believe she was actually the girl of his heart.

That being so, it would, to my way of thinking, be an exceedingly dishonorable and unfair thing suddenly to confront his wife, after only a few months of marriage, with the news that some one else has, and always has had, first call on his affections.

My correspondent is quite right when she says that we all make mistakes. But the right way to remedy a mistake is not always to do th thing that we would prefer to do for the sake of our own happiness. A wise philosopher has said:

"There is in man something higher than a love of happiness. He can do without happiness, and find, instead thereof, blessedness."

In this particular case, I would apply that quotation . . . by saying that there should be something higher in this young man than a desire to seek his own happiness. He should take consideration for himself aside, for a while at least, and resolutely try to make amends in the wife he has already wronged by making her, without knowledge, his "second best" choice. In doing so, he may find "blessedness" and perhaps even happiness as well.

Fashion Flashes

THE GIFT of beautiful lingerie is a delight to the recipient, and an indication of the good taste of the donor. A lovely gift gown is in black nylon tricot, the full hem lavished with shirred, ruffled black nylon lace. The lace makes a berths for the square necklines and there are lace inserts at the midriff.

RIDING UP once more to a new high on the color card is royal blue. It is the color used for a charming little hat of velveteen made with a high beret back and a scoop-bonnet front. It is trimmed with soaring black wings and a short black mesh veil.

NICE TO FIND so many good all-day dresses for fall. Beige woolsey makes a neat number styled with a moderately flared inch has disappeared, we're glad to hopeful. That first month is the hardest. When dissolution of fat cells get off a start, slenderizing goes on at a swifter pace.

Here is a marvellous exercise that will do the business: stand firmly on both feet, hands on the hips. Lift your heels, keeping body weight evenly distributed, and bend your knees as far out at the sides as you can without squatting on the heels. Do this movement five times. Relax and take a deep breath. Repeat six times, then rest. Gradually increase the number of motions. After a week you should be able to lower the body twenty-five times without resting.

Skipping is an effective exercise, and it is fun. Not recommended for heavyweights who have passed the fortieth birthday, but many be a great help to others. But for young girls who dislike any development, it is splendid.

Rope jumping not only defines fat cells from the legs but also tones the muscles; it helps one to walk gracefully and to move with grace generally. It is the exercise that is often included in the training of athletes who must be perfect form, have small weight.

Walking on tip-toe can be done at any time; it may not have much effect on the ankles, but it tones up the muscles of the calves and strengthens them. Try dancing in another means of getting the best of these figure defects.

Massage will prove helpful if it is heavy, if the hands press deeply into the flesh. Place the legs one at a time, on a low table or stool. Attack the hands with lanoline — it offers resistance — and bending over to give your full strength to the task, dig firmly into the flesh with an upward, combing stroke. If muscles are bound, it will relax them. If they are soft and flabby, it will make them firmer, because circulation will be stimulated.

To slenderize the ankles, rotate them, doing circular movements, six times to the right, six to the left and repeat.

PLUMP LEGS

There are many women — not fat any other place — who are only too painfully aware of the unwanted flesh on their legs and ankles. To these women the figure remodelling experts offer real couragement. They will tell you that fat shuns leg that are properly exercised. In general resistant muscles, stiffness cells will not appear. If they have already taken squatter's rights, they can be dispelled; it takes time, it takes patience. Results are worth all that.

Before starting on this campaign, take measurements of ankles, calves and knees. Put the record away for future comparisons. If you find at the end of a month that even one fourth of an

ST. CARMEL W. A.

Mr. Carmel W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Alexander on Tuesday afternoon. There were eight members and one visitor present. The president Mrs. A. Alyea led the meeting. Plans were made for cleaning the church between the anniversary also about serving for the next meeting. Letters were read which gratefully acknowledged the two parcels sent to England and the parcel of clothing sent to Toronto for relief abroad.

The treasurer reported over $90 dollars on hand.

Mrs. Wm. Seward, favored with a solo "Have Thine Own Way, Lord". Mesdames Chapman, Allore and Bedal contributed readings.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

YORK ROAD W.A.

The York Road Women's Institute met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Hodgson. There were 38 ladies and a number of children present. Members responded to the roll call with "My sister's experience with a child."

Mrs. Hodgson spoke on the theme "Civic Holiday." Dr. Wilson of Brighton was to have been the guest speaker. On account of an accident he was unable to be present.

The October meeting is to be spent visiting Smithfield Church night, when members of each are clinic.

The September meeting of the Smithfield W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Cora Snider.

CANNIFTON W.M.S.

Canniton — The September meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Mills, the president. Mrs. Harry Priddy opened the meeting by reading a short prayer. A hymn was sung followed by the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Douglas Brenton read the scripture lesson. A duet number is getting low; a special offering was taken, after the regular offering. This will be taken at the next meeting until we get it built up. Cards were received from the sick and bereaved in thanks for flowers and cards sent out by the society. The secretary's report was then read by Mrs. A. Holgate, followed by the treasurer's report given by Mrs. H. Empson. Mrs. H. Brenton had charge of the worship service. The Study Book was read by Mrs. Brenton. Mrs. Cole read a short scripture lesson. Mrs. Trumpour then gave a short questionaire on China, followed by a reading on the "Government of China" read by Mrs. H. Whitfield.

There were eight sick calls made. All grandmothers present then repeated the 23rd Psalm in unison. After singing a hymn, the meeting closed with the Benediction, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

TYENDINAGA EAST W.I.

Tyendinaga—The September meeting of the Tyendinaga East Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Roy McMath on Friday afternoon Sept. 10. The president, Mrs. C. F. Hutchinson, opened the meeting by the singing of the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. In the absence of the secretary, Miss Geraldine Mowers acted in that capacity. The Roll Call was answered by "Who I Would Like to Have a Talk With." The minutes and correspondence were read. Mrs. C. J. Akey spoke briefly on the reforestation program being introduced in Ontario with school grounds. Mrs. Hutchinson then introduced the guest of the afternoon Mrs. Ida Braine of England who is in Canada studying our Ontario Institutes. She gave a very interesting talk on life in England today and how the Institute in England is conducted Following her talk, Mrs. Braine was presented with a small remembrance from the Institute Mrs. R. Tucker had charge of a short program, which started with community singing. A reading "Polio Immunization" was given by Mrs. D. Harvey. Mrs. Tucker conducted a "Games" contest with Miss Geraldine Mowers as the winner.

The meeting closed by the singing of God Save the King after which the hostess and committee served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York — (AP) — Fashion moves today are regaling their reward while resting on their laurels.

The British, American and French fall and winter collections have been viewed by the world. Undoubtedly, however, the spies are getting ready for the top-secret activities among the spring collections in store.

It's a highly specialized occupation, this fashion piracy, widely practised in the style centers of the world. It's as complicated as anything found in a Hitchcock movie.

Cloak - and - dagger stuff in the cloak and suit world has all the thrills and laughs of a real spy plot.

But while the Mata Haris of the newest silhouette may be lured from a dressmaking establishment, blacklisted and shooed away by haughty doormen, they do not suffer more drastic penalties. The worst that can happen — and this is the equivalent of being shot at dawn — is to have their sketchbooks torn up in public.

Paris, while the fashion spy's paradise, is by no means the exclusive area of operations. Last year London designers Hartnell charged with designing Princess Elizabeth's wedding gown, hired a corps of private detectives to make sure no one pinched prematurely his classified information. His action, oldtimers maintained, was about as effective as trying to hold back the tide with a picket fence.

The top custom designers in the United States whip up their creations in darkened secrecy. Rarely or never is a brand new and revolutionary model publicized in a conspicuous show window. Buyers, press and private customers get a thorough check - up before admission to the show rooms.

Tricky Business

After the first public unveiling, however, the situation is out of the designers' hands. Pictures tell the story.

Designers spy on each other; the mass production trade keeps a sharp eye on the fashion designers — and on each other. New York, Chicago and California agents infiltrate Paris maisons. Operatives of the Paris couture do their darndest to get into New York and Hollywood. It is a serious business, catching a trend. Missing the boat — shortening a hem when everyone else is lengthening them — can mean the loss of buckets of profits.

Some pirates hire or subsidize models. Others buy models ostensibly for their personal wardrobes. Frequently the models are on a boat or plane without ever gracing a hanger in anyone's office. Sometimes the models are carried by limousine from Fifth Avenue to Seventh Avenue. And smuggled patterns may be bought.

The fashion marts of London, Paris and New York are full of little people with facile pencils and sons designed entirely with will sell a sketch for a fee.

A cynical fashion reporter once wrote that the working week of some designers was broken into three periods: one - third to finding out what the opposition was up to; one-third talking to materials; inducement to find out what the opposition was buying; and one-third to combining in "original" designs all that had been found out.

There is even a school of fashion philosophy which maintains that fashion trends are born of espionage.

GILEAD W.M.S.

The Gilead W.M.S. held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. Everett Yorke. The meeting opened with quiet music with Mrs: E. Yorke at the piano. The president Mrs. W. Trevorton led in a short worship service, the theme being "The Faith Whereby the Church must Live." Mrs. Douglas Yorke read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Jas. Huffman led in prayer.

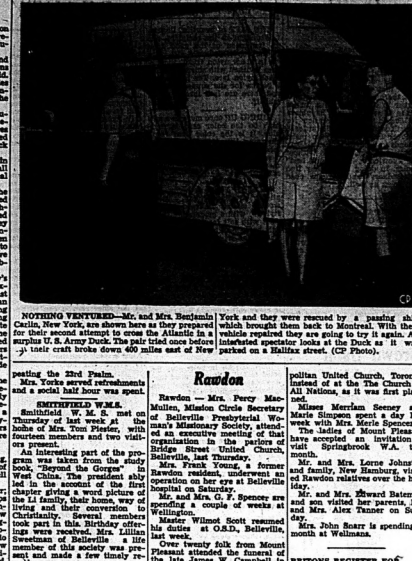
The Hymn "O Master of the Working World" closed the worship service.

A short business period followed. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and several items of business were discussed.

Mrs. Charles Huffman had charge of a missionary period. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Yorke and Mrs. Bubel and solos by Mrs. Jim Laurence and Mrs. F. Yorke, Mrs. Earl Trevorton favored with a guitar solo. The meeting closed by all repeating the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Yorke served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

SMITHFIELD W.M.S.



Smithfield W. M. S. met on Thursday of last week at the home of Mrs. Tom Plester, with fourteen members and two visitors present.

An interesting part of the program was taken from the study book, "Beyond the Gorges" in West China. The president also led in the memoir of the first chapter giving a word picture of the Li family, their home, way of living and their conversion to Christianity. Several members took part in this. Birthday offerings were received. Mrs. Lillian Sweetman of Belleville a former member of this society was present and made a few timely remarks.

Some members brought plants to sell. Mrs. Plester and her assistants served a dainty lunch.

SWEDISH POWER SHORTAGE

Stockholm — (CP) — Unless autumn rainfall is abundant, Sweden will continue to suffer from a shortage of hydro-electric power, officials say. Although the rainfall has been fairly abundant this summer it has not made up for deficiencies caused last year.

NOTHING VENTURED—Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carlin, New York, are shown here as they prepared for their second attempt to cross the Atlantic in a dinghy. Their first attempt ended in disaster when their craft broke down 400 miles east of New York and they were rescued by a passing ship which brought them back to Montreal. With their vehicle repaired they are going to try it again. An interested spectator looks at the Dink as it was parked on a Halifax street. (CP Photo).

School Lunches Daily Problems For Mothers

By KAY KEX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa — (CP) — School-days again . . .

Probably most of the kids in the country right now are groaning over their lessons. They don't realize that mother has her homework, too.

Daily preparation of school lunches is no problem for mothers of one or more children.

She must provide variety to stimulate young appetites, and at the same time choose dishes that have the highest nutritive value and stay within the limits of her food budget.

In a pamphlet entitled "Mother: The School Lunch" the national health and welfare department has introduced a few suggestions to ease the weary five-day grind.

It notes that a good lunch has at least one food from the following groups: Milk — to drink, as a milk dish; bread, cereal; meat, eggs, cheese, dried peas and beans; vegetable salad; fruit.

Whole Wheat — or Canada Approved bread, bran muffins or oatmeal bread; raw fruit or vegetable, ray or cooked.

Use a well-insulated metal lunch box which should be thoroughly aired each day. Cook fish foods as milk puddings or salads should be put in tightly covered containers.

While sandwiches are the established form for school lunches, the health department suggests including a "hot dish" to give the child added nourishment. The food may be packed in a glass jar labelled with his name. At school it can be easily heated in a hot water pan.

Suggested "hot dish" lunches: creamed ham along with raw carrot, brown bread, cookies and milk; vegetable soup, along with cheese sandwiches, orange, cookies and milk; potato scallop with sausage or bacon, and brown bread, apple and milk; baked beans, brown bread, apple and milk; cream of vegetable soup, meat sandwiches, cookies and tomato juice.

As rookies are the most popular form of "sweets" in the lunch, Mother had better have some good recipes on hand. Try this one for Nutritional sticks, recommended by the consumer section, Department of agriculture. Ingredients: Ingredients: One - third cup shortening; fat; one-half cup brown sugar; one egg; one teaspoon vanilla; 1 1-3 cups pastry flour; (or 1 1-3 cups whole wheat) 1 1-2 teaspoons baking - powder; one-half teaspoon salt.

Cream fat and sugar, then add vanilla and egg. Beat well. Sift flour and salt with baking-powder and salt. Shape in roll about two inches in diameter and wrap in wax paper. Chill thoroughly. Cut in one - eighth inch slices. Place cookies on lightly greased baking-sheet and bake at 375 degrees Fahrenheit for eight to 10 minutes. Makes nearly two dozen cookies.

BUYING CAN'T BELIEVE IT MONEY RECEIVED

Deerfield, Ill., Sept. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Louis Rutt, whose six children are stricken with infantile paralysis, said today she "can't believe they won't recover."

"It was nothing short of astonishing," she said in an interview today. Our first were diagnosed as flu, but when they became violently ill and stiff and didn't recover, we finally discovered it was infantile. Three of them came down with it in one day."

Manitoba's Govt. Faces Challenge From Within

Winnipeg, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Manitoba's coalition government attacked last week by discontented elements of the Progressive Conservative party, today faces a challenge from within.

Edmond Prefontaine, Liberal Progressive member for Carillon, charged in a statement Thursday night the government was "persuading certain men but not others to join."

Referring to criticisms of coalition made by last spring's Progressive Conservative provincial convention, Mr. Prefontaine said "the unrest caused in provincial Progressive Conservative circles by recent moves in Winnipeg constituency brings before the public for a second time this month the fact that an important element in that party would like to see the end of coalition in Manitoba.

"This feeling," he added, "is not confined to the Conservatives. It is shared by many Liberals who feel that coalition has outlived its usefulness.

"Of its nature it is contrary to our parliamentary system of government because it denies effective opposition. It might be said that the C.C.F. party, having broken from coalition, is providing opposition. This does not stand up under the facts.

"The C.C.F. party is not providing an effective opposition in the Manitoba legislature, Premier Garson himself is on record to that effect.

"Why then should coalition carry on? Not for the C.C.F. out? Not a good reason. The C.C.F. party is bound to come to power if there is no other alternative to the government, and no less a person than Mr. Coldwell (M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader) made this very plain recently. There are enough anti-Socialists in Manitoba to give this province both a government and an alternative to it without forcing those who are dissatisfied with the government to vote Socialist because there is no other choice.

France May Help Canada in Drive For Immigrants

Ottawa, Sept. 17 — (CP) — France, latest of nations to gain Canadian immigration concessions, may help the Dominion in its drive for an expected total of 110,000 immigrants this year.

A government spokesman, however, today said he was skeptical France will contribute more than 600 or 700 in 1950—the approximate number of French citizens that have made Canada their home in each of the last three years.

This, despite the new ruling announced on Thursday which placed citizens of France on the same footing as those of the United States and favored countries of the Empire.

Fay Kohler, American counsellor, was present.

But the government nevertheless hopes this year to outstrip last year's total of some 97,000 immigrants by more than 40 per cent, the official said.

So far, more than 80,000 immigrants have entered this country up to the end of August, the spokesman said. This was about 43 per cent more than the 45,000 total for the same period a year ago.

Most of these are Britons and other European leaving countries devastated by war and seeking a brighter future in Canada.

Others, like the four groups of Baltic refugees reaching Canadian shores in small boats, are from countries dominated by the Soviet.

Through order-in-council machinery, the government Thursday granted 42 of these — Estonians — sanctuary in Canada. Another 29 were formally admitted Aug. 31. Still other groups are being granted temporary refuge in Halifax, pending a thorough investigation of their status.

Until Thursday's government action, immigration from France was kept in a narrow range. The admissible classes were confined largely to farmers and farm workers, lumbermen, loggers and miners and persons with close relatives in the Dominion.

Collisions Chief Worry of Fliers On Berlin Air Lift

Frankfurt, Sept. 17 — (AP)— The air between West Germany and Berlin is so full of planes these days it takes a fast of aerial juggling to keep them from hitting each other.

There is a planeload of food or fuel landing in the blockaded, divided city every couple of minutes — day and night, rain or shine.

The task of keeping these aircraft safely apart is one that makes the job of a train dispatcher look simple by comparison.

The hazards are obvious. Yet so far, after 89 days of supplying Berlin's western sectors by air, "Operation Vittles" has only one major aerial collision and two other fatal accidents.

That record was achieved only by careful planning and close cooperation between the British and American air forces. Together they have worked out a complicated aerial traffic plan by which more than 600 big, heavily-loaded planes are brought safely into two Berlin airports every day.

Since the Russian's cut Berlin's land and water supply routes from the west last June, British and American planes have flown in more than 200,000 tons of supplies to Berlin in more than 41,000 flights.

The Americans have 182 planes and the R.A.F. more than 100 planes in the "Vittles" operation, and there are often nearly 100 of them in the air simultaneously.

Three Aerial Highways

All this traffic moves over the Russian zone along three aerial highways, called corridors. Two of these lanes lead into Berlin. The other takes the empty planes back to Western Germany.

This keeps all traffic moving in the same direction in each aerial corridor and thus cuts down the danger of collision.

Part of the solution of this gigantic puzzle is not as simple as that. Each corridor is further divided so that traffic going one way flies at a different altitude. In these lanes the traffic is staggered so as to provide the greatest possible distance between all planes. The craft are so spaced that they not only fly at least 5 minutes apart in each altitude level but at least three minutes in front or behind the nearest plane at any level.

This intricate pattern requires perfect co-ordination between several airfields and an almost foolproof system of radio beams to keep planes from straying off their path.

St. Louis Browns Bite Hand That Fed Them $375,000 Deal

Red Sox Lead Shaved to Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those poor little St. Louis Browns who sold their star to Boston for some $375,000 are biting the hand that fed them.

Thursday night's nibble, a 3-1 Red Sox loss, reduced Boston's American League lead to one game over New York.

A Yaz-suffering first by the name of Cliff Fannin did the most damage.

Boston went into the game, knowing that the runner-up New York Yankees had divided an afternoon doubleheader at Detroit. If they won they would pick up a half game. Instead they were victimized by Fannin's magic and again have that nervous feeling that somebody is shoving from behind.

Fannin shut out the Red Sox until the ninth when he ran into trouble. Then an old Bostonian, Eddie Pellagrini, whom Joe Cronin had "loaned in" when he bought Catfish and Stephens, saved him with a leaping stab of a line drive.

Indians Close Gap

Cleveland took advantage of Boston's loss to close the gap between first and third places to 2 1-2 games. The Tribe banded Washington its 16th straight loss 6-3 on a five-run inning that included a bases-loaded homer by Larry Doby.

Doby, the Indians' brilliant Negro outfielder, came through with his first grand-slam homer after Parnell loaded the bases through wildness. He walked in one run before Doby connected.

The Yankees missed a chance to tie Boston for the lead by losing the first game a Detroit, 2-1. They salved the second, 8-4, overcoming an early Tiger lead.

Freddie Hutchinson outpitched Vic Raschi for seven innings with four-hitter. Yielding only run on the 300th homer of Joe DiMaggio's major league career, DiMag became the eighth slugger to attain such shugging fame, the others are Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Mel Ott, Roger Hornsby, Hank Greenberg and Chuck Klein.

Dizzy Trout Loses

Johnny Lindell's two-run pinch double in the seventh off Dizzy Trout's two-run triple in deep center helped the Yanks come from behind to take the second from Dizzy Trout. Page who replaced starter Allie Reynolds in the fifth, earned his fifth victory.

The league-leading Boston Braves were idle in the National League so the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates and third-place Brooklyn Dodgers each gained a half-game.

Pittsburgh fanned its hopes by walloping New York, 10-4, but they still trail the Braves by 4 1-2 games with their fast running out.

Brooklyn clinged Cincinnati, 12-8, their 18th win in 22 starts against the Reds. They now trail the Braves by five games.

Hank Sauer hammered a bases-loaded homer in the first, but the Dodgers came back with three runs and continued to bang away all afternoon.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Something quite unusual even for professional grappling, may result in the Memorial Arena ring tonight when Ed O'Connor and Fred Atkins renew their feud in the main bout with Jack Sharkey refereeing. Sharkey's last foe for Mose Rose was Atkins, while the challengers pair after they over-flowed Ace Retzlaff. Ernie Powers here last week. Dominion Dan O'Connor, as he has become all over the American continent since his arrival from the Emerald Isle, has no intention of allowing this big Australian Fred Atkins to get a win over him.

O'Connor has sounded off at considerable length about what he thinks of Atkins and his "down under" style and in Friday's bout the Kansas City Irishman promises to end big Fred's reign of terror these parts. "I never let a man leave here, O'Connor "and I won't let even Sharkey step me from a win this time." The two however are inclined to believe that the cagebuilt Atkins will finally overcome the world Irishman. Atkins is heading for a British Empire match with Whipper Watson and he is in no mood to let even O'Connor hold him up after coming some twelve thousand miles for the Empire title bout. Two extra-fine preliminaries will have the feature. Masked Marvel meeting Ed Meske and Mike Sharpe tangling with Jack Moore.

Newspapermen are supposed to be tough guys. If you believe the movie versions, they can drink any four men under the table; teach the FBI how to torment the Hanoi-like Intelligence spy problem; trap gangsters and killers to their lairs; rescue beautiful damsels in distress and by their sheer guts, brawn and nerve get their paper on the street two minutes before the next edition. They seldom work. They refuse to be fired and tell off tough city editors. They live in apartments and always have a bottle at hand.

The newspaperman of reality is supposedly immune to emotion and mind. He can watch the bombing of his home or to the pallbearers without a change of expression. He can sit through a world series pitching duel and see it turn on a daring play in the ninth without batting an eyelash. He is accustomed to seeing death in all its phases. He doesn't even cheer when his favorite politician gets elected. He is supposed to be a robot insofar as showing his feelings are concerned when on the job. His mood and, by the flicker of an eyebrow, a wisp of a smile, or a turning of the eyeballs, discloses his feelings no matter what he is covering be it the wedding of his best girl, the shooting of his worst enemy's ruler in history (here is a little leeway here); the obsequies of his mother-in-law; hurry, murder or sudden death.

But newspapermen, like Samson, and Achilles, have their vulnerable points. Ours is listening to or reading a heart-rending drama. We get ad-libbing, then they merge into a thunderous climax. Tears trickle unashamedly through whiskey-soaked eyes. Mind you, we're not ashamed of them. We laugh, kick our heels like a pambling lamb as the hero and heroine embrace. We jump out of our favorite chair and then grow rusty, lusty cheers as the deep-dyed heavy of the plot is led to the gallows, drawn and quartered, gassed in a lethal chamber, decapitated, pulverized, and what have you. I entered the 50 years plus in Alcatraz to a background of vocal jingles proclaiming the vitamin-rich and life-prolonging incredients of Margatroyds Mustard with Meatballs.

And so it was, the other night when we sat in the deep soft comfort of the personal armchair and listened to the heart-rending story, via the airwaves, of how the Rotarian Simon Legree did not do so well by the T's Men's Little Nells. As the tear-jerking, tassil-clutching, lung-constricting narration of that mighty drama of the softball diamond unfolded, we let down our hair. Glued to the chair by seconds after episode which exposed the dark treachery of the "Rollicking" Rotarian, with the fiendishly darkness of his heart, and the savior of the innocence and softball virtue of T's Men's Little Nell's was aired, we finally broke down completely.

Sobs racked our emaciated frame. Tears the size of half-grown pears thumped on the soft nap of the carpet, trickling away in small rivulets to the kitchen. We were hurt inside. The very thought that the Rotary Brodiganagians would stoop so low as to indulge in public subterfuge in order to wrest victory from the Lilliputian T's Men, caused something to snap. Later we found it was a suspender strap, that couldn't stand the blind prodigality years. After all, we'd been up all night, or nearly all night wrestling with baseball and holiday expense problems.

• • •

The small wonder then, that there came in the mails this morning a missive emanating from the official headquarters of the T's Men, asking us to recall a "grim softball encounter" which resulted in a win for the Rotarians. Strange indeed, for officially the game did not last four innings and therefore is "no contest" if the battle was joined under the Rules and Regulations of the Most Antediluvian Order of Ball-Mauling Maestros of Service Clubs Softball Associations, and affiliated organizations.

• • •

The challenge goes on to say that "in a final effort to settle the already storied feud "we (T's Men) ask the Rotary Club Champions" etc., etc., he-hum, he-hum and he-hum. The writer took him kindly in typewriter to do battle royal from the nearest Front Street minaret, and cry to the world that he had been struck out on a "strike" which flicked his boot-top. For which reason his typewriter is still unable to set carry their boots in their hip pockets in these modern days. However the challenge is issued. The teams will clash at the Stewart Warner Softball Amphitheatre come Wednesday next at five-thirty of the clock, come what may. And there, once again, the T's Men Crusaders will be thrown to the Rotary Lions. There will be no Hazerman fiddling while Hyde burns. No cleak of friendly darkness will save either team. Umpires will have a minimum of at least one-third normal eyesight, two blackjacks, be non-pensionably employed so as not to slow down the wheels of industry should their demise be sudden, and a chance at the mammoth jackpot which will be given away when the finals are completed come January 15th.

Senior Football Has Four Games Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

The scattered schedules football has adopted to get its season over before too much snow flies stumbled on three games over the dinky wondering to talk about the last game or the one coming up.

This Saturday is the quietest one from a quantity standpoint, with only the Big Four and Saturday-Sunday doubleheaders, the Ontario Union's Friday floodlight games or the Western Canada League's Saturday-Monday contests.

But four games scheduled for Saturday in the three Senior Cup Leagues get top billing for quality, in the west, for instance, the last-place Saskatchewan Roughriders will be virtually fighting for a playoff chance when they tackle the fourth-place Blue Bombers at Winnipeg.

The C.R.F.U.'s two games should give a line-up on comparative strength of the league's four teams. Sarnia-Imperials, who lost their first start 8-3 to Toronto Beaches Indians, meet Hamilton Tigers at Hamilton while the Beaches Indians travel to Windsor to play the Rockets.

If nothing else, the results show that the Ontario Rugger stars are the powerhouse they seemed to be in overwhelming Windsor 60-1, last Saturday or whether it was just a case of the Rockets being on the run.

An upset in the Big Four schedule throws the spotlight full on a game that shapes up as the league's closest. It's the Toronto Argonaut clash in Toronto. It's the only Big Four game on the weekend and it gives the Rough Riders a chance to land the Dominion champions their first defeat after seven straight victories.

An Argonaut victory would go a long way towards assuring them of finishing the season among the first place.

Bugsy Byron Karrys still was a doubtful starter against the Riders but coach Teddy Morris said Royal Copeland, although suffering from stomach flu will play. The last word in Ottawa still had Tony Golah, their battering-ram back, out with his wrenched back.

Bill Thompson Critically Hurt In Boxing Bout

Philadelphia, Sept. 17 (AP) — Bill Cheesy Thompson, 21-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight, was reported in serious condition today after being knocked into a fight with Johnny Haynes of New York.

Thompson was rushed to hospital Thursday night when he remained in a dazed condition after his knockout by Haynes, three seconds before the end of their scheduled eight-round bout at Toppi stadium.

Thompson, who weighed in at 180, took a severe beating at the hands of Haynes, 30 pounds heavier, in six of the eight rounds. The Philadelphian was finally felled after 2:37 of the third round by a head blow that sent him partially through the ropes.

It was Thompson's first fight since April 13 when he was knocked out by Jimmy Bivins at the Philadelphia arena.

Eastern Canada Hockey League To Open Oct. 13

Montreal, Sept. 17 (CP)— The newly-organized Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League will open its first season in Ottawa, Oct. 13, the 42-game schedule released Thursday showed.

The six-team loop, comprised of entries from Cornwall, Ottawa Army, Ottawa R.C.A.F., Hull, Que., New Edinburgh, Ont. and Verdun, Que., will see a twin bill on opening night with Cornwall playing Hull and Ottawa Army playing R.C.A.F. at Ottawa in initial play hockey champions.

The schedule closes Feb. 9 with the first four teams engaging in post-season playoffs. All league games will be played in Ottawa, Verdun and Cornwall rinks. The two Ottawa clubs and Hull will play home games in Ottawa while Cornwall and New Edinburgh will play home tilts in Cornwall.

Each team will play 34 games, 17 at home and 17 away.

Commissioner Frank Ahearn announced on Oct. 13 against New Edinburgh while Verdun's first game is on Oct. 17 against R.C.A.F. Flyers.

RUSCONI HELD TO DRAW

Hamilton, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Gus Rubbo, Toronto, making his last appearance as an amateur boxer, fought five rounds to a draw with clever Tony De Felice of Buffalo in the feature attraction on Thursday night's card at the ball park.

In the semi-final Mike Gariah, Hamilton's smart 136-pounder, met up with a tough battler in Bobby Barnes, also of Buffalo, and suffered defeat over the five rounds route.

Two knockouts were registered, one by Ron Creasey of Guelph who halted Jack Teller of London, Ont., in the fourth, colored boy from Toronto, who kayoed Marshall Kelsher of Guelph.

Dimaggio Enters Into Exclusive 300-Homer Club

Detroit, Sept. 17 — (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, siege - gun centre fielder of New York Yankees may not be able to slug the Yanks home in front of the racing Boston Red Sox but the Yankee Clipper already has cemented a notable personal achievement for his 1948 efforts.

Joltin' Joe, belting the ball at a long - range clip second only to his banner sophomore season in 1937, today celebrated his entry into the exclusive "300-homer" club, an elite group of present and former slugging stars who belted 300 home runs in the major leagues.

DiMaggio rifled his 36th homer of the current season Thursday as the Yanks were dividing a twin bill with Detroit Tigers. It was his 300th home run in 10 years with the Yanks.

The blow, off Freddie Hutchinson, didn't prevent the Yankees from losing the opener 2-1, but it propelled Joe into some mighty select company.

In baseball's long history only eight players have belted 300 homers before hanging up their spikes.

Kingpin of them all, of course, was Babe Ruth, who slammed 714 in his 22 years in the big time. Jimmy Foxx rang the bell for 527 homers in 19 seasons, Mel Ott had 511 for 21 years and Lou Gehrig hit 494 in his 17 campaigns.

Completing the list are Hank Greenberg (331), Rogers Hornsby (302) and Church Klein (300) and DiMaggio (300).

With the current Yankee bomber on his hottest homer rampage since he led the league in 1937 with 46 circuit smashes, DiMaggio is virtually certain to climb ahead of Hornsby and Klein into sixth place among the all - time greats by the time the Yanks play out their remaining fifteen games. Already the talk is going around that DiMaggio, three-time winner of the American League's most-valuable-player award, will demand $125,000 in 1949 salary from the Yankees, who are paying him an estimated $70,000 this season.

Syl Apps Will Coach Marlboros In Junior "A"

(By The Canadian Press)

Syl Apps, who retired last spring after captaining Toronto Maple Leafs to two consecutive hockey world championships, will coach the Ontario Hockey Association junior "A" Toronto Marlboros this winter.

This was announced Thursday at St. Catharines, by Stafford Smythe, who coached the Leafs-sponsored Marlboros last season.

Smythe — son of Leafs' managing director Conn Smythe — is director of all Maple Leafs amateur hockey interests. With Apps at the helm, he said he plans also to form a Marlboro junior "B" team, as well as midget, minor - midget, minor-bantam and peewee teams in the Toronto Hockey League.

Victory Gift, the Cinderella filly of western tracks, and winner of the Canadian Derby and the $8,000 Invitation, arrived in Toronto Thursday.

She will have a chance to prove what many western horsemen believe — that she is the best three-year-old in Canada — when she enters the Maple Leaf and Breeders' Stakes at the Woodbine.

Sarnia went one up in its best-of-three game Provincial Women's Softball Union playoff series Thursday by trouncing Windsor Record Club, 6-1. The Sarnia Lassies, led by Muriel Burkholder with a perfect three at the plate, were in command throughout.

Eddie Dorohoy, 19-year-old left - winger from Lethbridge, Alta., impressed railbirds Thursday as Montreal Canadiens held their second practice sesion at St. Hyacinthe, Que. Dorohoy, who hopes to make the big jump from junior ranks to the National Hockey League, slapped home two goals while teaming up with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard.

A quartet of talented shotmakers — Lloyd Mangrum, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret and Bobby Locke — have taken a $111,168 chunk out of the $291,000 prize swag thus far distributed on the 1948 professional golf circuit. Mangrum was top cash-collector with $32,454 as the play-for-play swingers Thursday began the year's 34th P.G.A. - sanctioned tourney, the Tacoma Open. Hogan got $31,347, Demaret $24,473 and Locke $22,892.

The Tournament of Champions gathered its four headline fighters at Jersey City, N. J., Thursday for a mass physical examination and rules discussion. Tony Zale defends his middleweight championship against Marcel Cerdan in Jersey City Tuesday night. Jersey Joe Walcott will meet Gus Lesnevich in a 15-round heavyweight bout on the same card. Dr. Harry F. Cohen found them all "in excellent health."

The Dominion Football Association netted $2,295 from the Dominion soccer cup playoffs, secretary Walter McKellar said Thursday in Toronto. Cup finals were played in Toronto. The 11 games played in the finals made $4,590 after all expenses were paid. The D.F.A. took 50 per cent and split the balance among seven competing teams.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League will play five pre - season games, manager Frank Boucher announced Thursday in Lake Placid, N. Y. The Blue Shirts, who begin training next Tuesday, will take on New Haven Ramblers, a farm squad, Sept. 28. Later the Rangers will play four Senior Quebec Hockey League teams in Canada before opening their N. H. L. campaign in Montreal Oct. 14.

The newly - organized Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League will open its first season in Ottawa Oct. 13, the league's 82-game schedule was released in Montreal Thursday. Teams are Cornwall, Ottawa Army and Ottawa RCAF, Hull, Que.; New Edinburgh, Ont., and Verdun, Que.

White Mountain Boy, a roan colt from the E. P. Gray stable of Bellows Falls, Vt., added new laurels to his brilliant record by racing to a straight - heat victory in the two-year-old pacing division of the Reading Fair Futurity at the Grand Circuit meeting at Reading, Pa., Thursday. The double - heat triumph, scored in identical times of 2.07 1/5, a fifth of a second off the track record for the age.

Mimico Mountaineers Thursday defeated Brampton Excelsiors 14-10 at Mimico to win the opening game of their best-of-three Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association senior semi-final play -offs. Mounties romped into a 5-2 lead in the first period and Brampton never caught up.

By WALLY IRSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—It's an old, old story that practically every small city and town in Canada has worried over at one time or another—the yearly departure of top-notch junior hockey talent to larger and more prosperous points.

"How much longer do we let it go on?" asks Britt (North Bay Nugget) Jessup. "How are we ever going to revive junior hockey if every fall the cream of the district crop heads for Southern Ontario."

Jessup says nobody wants to see a club composed of 100 per cent imports. Half the appeal of a good junior club lies in the fact that they are home-brews. But nobody seems to want to do anything to keep them at home.

Good junior puck-chasers like Whit Mousseau, Vince Lecour and Joe LaFrance have quit the gateway city in past years. This season another flock will head south to the happier hunting grounds of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Of course, says Jessup, there's no point in these youngsters staying at home unless something is done to improve their hockey education. He adds that in the O. H. A. they are given schooling, besides hockey, providing they are still of school age.

Too Early, Too Hot

This crowding of football into summer may be all right for some fans, but others seem to feel that it's bit too early to see the heavily-padded gridiron giants in scrimmage.

Mike (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodden criticizes the Big Four League for opening its season so soon.

"In electing to open the Big Four race in summer weather, officials in charge seem to have made a grave error, the paying public not being too eager to see weary players injured in the torrid going."

Ogdensburg Reaches Finals In Border Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Ogdensburg Maples, third-place finishers in the Border League race, reached the playoff finals Thursday night after taking four out of five games from the pennant-winning Ottawa Nationals.

The Canadian team was eliminated in the best-of-seven semi-finals Thursday night when they were trounced 9-2 by the Maples at Ogdensburg.

Watertown Athletics took a 3-2 edge over Geneva Red Birds in their series when southpaw Jerry Daly held the Birds to four hits in beating them 3-1 at Watertown.

Al Zilian, a left-hander, went the route for Ogdensburg and scored his second triumph of the series. He fanned six to run his strike-out total for the two games to 20. Pete Karpuk, a converted outfielder, was the victim of the Maples' 11-hit attack.

Ogdensburg clinched the game in the first frame. They combined a homer by Tom Madden, doubles by Irv Schupp and Charlie Moore and three passes for four runs. They added five more in the eighth on four hits, including a round-tripper by Moore, two passes and an error.

SUFFERS MALNUTRITION CARRIES $17,000

Jersey City, N.J., Sept. 18 (AP)—A 73-year-old retired city employee had $17,000 in cash strapped around his waist when taken to Medical Centre suffering from malnutrition, hospital authorities disclosed today.

They gave his name as John C. McDonough, a widower, who collapsed last week in front of his home across the street from city hall.

Royals, Bears Hold Big Edge On Wings, Chiefs

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals and Newark Bears are in a position today to march into the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy play-offs.

Victories tonight won't put the Royals and Bears into the finals but it will give both of them a commanding lead in their semi-final series.

The Bears, who knocked off Syracuse Chiefs 3-1 Thursday night to take a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven series, meet the Chiefs again tonight. The Royals, leading Rochester Red Wings 2-0 in their set, clash with the Wings for the first time in Rochester tonight.

By winning, both the Bears and Royals would assume a usually-insurmountable 3-1 lead. On the other hand, victories by either Rochester or Syracuse would shoot them back into contention.

Dick Starr, ace right-hander of the Bears, scattered eight hits in stopping the Chifs Thursday night. The Bears jumped on Dixie Howell for all of their runs in the opening inning.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Even if the Pirates don't make the pennant grade this year, an elderly pitcher named Kirby Higbe deserves a lot of credit for keeping them in the race..."He goes in anywhere and enables me to save my other pitchers," says manager Bill Meyer.

"Fellows like Fritz Ostermueller and Ernie Bonham have to have their rest."...A less kind description of Pittsburgh's pitching rotation came from a baseball writer who said: "Meyer picks his pitches by the calendar. Everytime he tears off a page its Ostermueller's turn."

RESCUES HIS COUSIN

Toronto, Sept. 17 — (CP) — With a water - soaked blanket over his shoulders Reginald Luckey, 24, Thursday night rescued his six-year-old nephew Carman Sargent from fire in a basement storage room near the child's home on Grange Avenue.

The youngster was playing in the storage room when the fire broke out. A neighbor's boy heard the child screaming and gave the alarm.

Firemen said they believed that children had set fire to a pile of paper while playing with matches.

Two Members Shoot Hole-in-One On Same Hole

Humboldt, Sask., Sept. 17 (CP) — Local golf enthusiasts are thumbing through the records to see if this one has ever been matched:

Playing at the Humboldt Golf course, two members of a threesome, shooting in succession, each scored a hole-in-one on the 113-yard seventh. The third player shot a par three.

Joe Reading, first of the threesome to tee off on the seventh hole, sank his shot for an ace. His partners, Jim Connelly and Joe Solosy, had no sooner completed their congratulations when Connelly duplicated the feat.

Five others witnessed the event.

SURVIVAL BATTLE

Comes Out as Surplus

"The most hopeful development" was signs of recovery in invisible income with large gains in shipping returns and sales of oil companies overseas.

"The net result is that the invisible account, with a deficit of £192,000,000 in 1947 and which we anticipated would be reduced to a deficit of £49,000,000 in the first half of 1948, actually came out at a surplus of £16,000,000.

"I believe this will be maintained, so there is a beginning where our invisible income will once again make a significant contribution to making up the balance of our overseas trading account."

Sir Stafford, who leaves for Ottawa Saturday to hold economic talks with Canadian government officials, concluded with a statement of confidence that with European Recovery Program assistance and with the goal of standing without outside aid in four years, Britain can re-establish her economy and independence and improve her standard of living.

Based on Proof

"That is a more cheerful and heartening view than we could have taken 12 months ago because it is based not upon mere guesswork but upon proof during the past six months — upon our capacity to deal successfully with the problem."

The Chancellor then sat down amid cheers from all sides of the House.

A balance of payments white paper issued Thursday showed that United Kingdom drawing on the Canadian loan during the last six months totalled £12,000,000 compared with £105,000,000 in 1947 and £130,000,000 in 1946. The remainder of the credit, about £60,000,000 has been frozen by the Canadian government. Sir Stafford hopes in his talks in Ottawa to obtain release of this sum.

The estimates showed a net drain of £253,000,000 on Britain's gold and dollar resources during the first half of this year. Last year the total drain was £1,024,000,000.

Acknowledging the contribution made by the rest of the Sterling area in helping to relieve the drain on gold and dollar resources, Sir Stafford said their achievement since the end of 1947 has been immense.

The Ribbiter

The reason for every bridge argument can be traced. Usually it stems from ignorance of what is correct by rule. You will never find some repeated experts in this class of knowledge.
We are discussing this deal:

NORTH

♣A 8 4 6 4

WEST
♠10 8

SOUTH

South opened with a heart. Immediate response by north is a one-jump takeout to three spades. There is no doubt as to the second bid by north. It is there merely to show the suit is rebiddable.

What is the correct second bid by north? To be rebiddable, a diamond suit needs two honor cards. The spade suit does not have them. This advises that a rebid of spades would not be true.

In case you have forgotten, let me remind you. How can you tell if a suit is rebiddable? Ride its lowest honor card. If the balance of bridge hands the whole was rebiddable.

North has no adequate support for a heart suit that was his only twice. Thus, he has no more takeouts and no assist. So his rule bid in this spot is three no-trump.

Most north players would avoid bidding three no-trump here. Nor would they be blamed for preferring three spades. Indeed, it sticks out as the most practical bid in this situation.

But look at the basic this gives for a bridge argument. Three no-trump is the correct rule, bid. Three spades is the most practical looking bid. Each can back up his selecting.

The difference, between a rule bid and a good practical bid is slight. In most cases they reach the same contract. Trouble seldom arises simply because a practical bid disagrees with rule.

So, what gets the argument hot? It is when the bidder does not know the correct rule and insists he is right. Next time you have an argument you will know who I mean.

Hollywood, Sept. 17 — (AP) — To make movies easier, to photograph and to save the expense of location trips, studios are building facades on lots close to their back yards.

In the San Fernando Valley, just outside Hollywood, a piece of Canada is being transplanted. Author Pierre Pacific Packet will let its Alberta location site recently with two railroad sequences still to be filmed. In California, the scenes were laid on a studio locomotive converted to C.P.R. specifications. A flowing stream, trees and buildings were reproduced exactly.

On the studio producers over, you'll swear it's Canada.

Another piece of improvision concerns a tunnel.

John Garfield, as a Revolutionist hanging on a plank a bomb, will spend three weeks digging clay from a fake tunnel on the "rough sketch" set. The "tunnel" is an 80-foot paper mache tube filled with earth and set on a round-about base. The tube permits cameras to record his labors from top, side, ahead and astern.

Sinatra as Tinker

A tinker, as J. Carrol Naish explains it, was a wandering handy man who circulated news and gossip as he mended the pots of village housewives. Such a tinker—played, he hopes, by Frank Sinatra — will be the central figure in a unique, film Naish plans to make in his native Ireland.

Though he has generally played Latins on the screen, the 60-year-old Naish says his family has lived in Ballycullen, County Limerick, for 700 years. It is there that he wants to film his story, "The Tinker of Ballycullen."

"It will show the charm and atmosphere of Ireland as it was 70 years ago," Naish said. "Frank Sinatra, singing the songs of that period, would be ideal as the tinker."

CALGARY SWEATER GIRLS GO DINOSAUR

—Central Press Canadian

Two lovely ladies, Joyce Clough and Adess Sheridan, make notes as they look over Calgary, Alberta's zoological park. In the background is a giant life-size model of a dinosaur, made of cement. These prehistoric creatures roamed the area some 90 million years ago and large amount of fossilized bones are being discovered on the banks of the weird Red River. Teen-age dinosaur hunters form expeditions and comb the area for bones every week. Discussions then take place among the enthusiasts.

NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

Paris, Sept. 17 (Reuters)—Talks between delegations from the World Federation of Trade Unions and the International Trades Secretariat, which opened here Thursday to discuss absorption of the I.C.F. by the W.F.T.U., have broken down. The I.T.S. refused ot surrender its autonomy to an organization which, it claimed, had shown a strong growth of Communist tendencies over the last two years.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London—(CP)—Lt.-Col. Giles Loder, prominent British horseman, thought he had a Two Thousand Guineas winner and a Derby threat in The Cobbler, one of last season's classiest two-year-olds.

But, even partnered by champion jockey Gordon Richards, The Cobbler failed by a head in the first classic of the year, and later was a complete failure over Epsom's longer, tougher course.

Loder next decided he had at least a champion sprinter on his hands and victory over a good-class field in a five-furlong race at Goodwood strengthened the impression.

Several dealers approached Loder with offers to buy the animal. But Loder turned down some fat prices, telling friends: "Why should I part with him when he can win some of the chief sprint races this season and next?"

But the bubble burst at Birmingham. The Cobbler, backed down to 4-7 favoritism, took the lead a furlong from home in a six-furlong sprint and backers started counting their winnings. Then from nowhere came J. T. Colmaney's Dalliros, ridden by Charlie Smirke.

A hundred yards from home he caught The Cobbler and a photo finish showed Loder's colt beaten by a head.

Rumor has it that Loder now is interested in selling The Cobbler; and the asking price is away down.

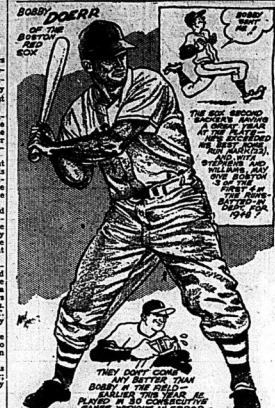
Many British cricket fans would like to see the present new-ball rule changed before next season. The captain of the fielding side now may call for a new ball at the end of each 55 overs.

One correspondent to the sports columns of the London Star suggests that if the rule remains in force the game soon will be dominated by medium-paced swing bowlers and the art of spin will be lost.

Another writer remarks the tendency now is to use spinners in a purely defensive capacity while awaiting the new ball — generally given to the team's fastest pace bowler — and cites Don Bradman's use of Ernie Toshack and Ian Johnson as run-savers, when Ray (Speed) Lindwall was not bowling in the recent tests matches to support his view.

The object in introducing the 55-over rule — the previous rule called for a new ball every 200 runs — was to make batting livelier. But there is no sign that it has succeeded. The Star believes the 300-rule should be revived.

Soccer fans are storming book shops to buy the autobiography of Stanley Matthews, one of Britain's brightest soccer stars.



The Blackpool and England winger tells in "Feet First" all about how he generally manages to win his touchline duels with opposing defenders. The vital thing, says Stan, is supreme self-confidence.

Another requirement is speed and the ability to "change gears" at full pace. Matthews sometimes appears to dribble slowly — but that's all part of the deception.

Napanee Lions Merchants Open Finals Tonight

Baseball fans will see the last floodlight baseball game of the season at Exhibition Park tonight when the Belleville Merchants and Napanee Lions clash in the first game of the best two - of - three series for the championship of the Belleville Baseball League.

Napanee pushed the Trenton RCAF Flyers out of the titular running defeating them in one bracket of the semi-finals while Merchants, playing heads - up baseball eliminated the Kiwanis Juniors in two straight games in their half of the playoffs.

While nothing definite as regards pitching assignments for tonight's game has been forthcoming, it is assumed that Manager Jack Carson, of the Merchants will send Dick Fitzpatrick, who defeated the Kiwanis Juniors two starts to the mound, while the Lions mentors will probably start their ace Stan McTaggart. Game gets under way at 8:30.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

If the conversation had surprised and bewildered me before this, now I was completely staggered. Things began to come into myshead, too, memories of a thousand trifles that confirmed this extraordinary suspicion.

"There seems to be no reason why," Clay was saying in his dreamy, speculative way, "but I rather think that's the situation."

"But it can't be! They couldn't have been on guard all the time. Sooner or later she — Va — no, Billee — I mean, they would have gotten the names mixed. Wouldn't they?"

"As I work it out," Clay said, "Virginia has always been called Billee. Billee Hinnleigh's name might easily have been Virginia; they might both be Virginias. And as for getting things mixed, well, they did get things mixed. You might not have noticed it, but once I suspected all this, there were a dozen slips.

"It was Billee who cared about the plane, was interested in the ranch and what everything was worth!" I remembered, stunned, as the thing grew clearer and clearer.

"Exactly. And the other girl, Va, was in a gale of secret laughing all the time."

"But why? Why should they?"

"Ah, that's what I want you to tell me."

"Well, I do know a reason," I said, awakening. "At least it might be. Billee — the one we called Billee — was mixed up with Walter Burton — or he said so."

"Ah-ha!" Clay said, ranging his suspicion with the others.

"She may even be married to him. At least," I said, stammering with excitement, "she said once — she intimated — and Va did, too, that they were pretty far gone. She said 'ought'; she said, 'We ought to be married.'"

"Having a baby, maybe?"

It made the color come to my face; I'd lived so sheltered, so stupidly limited a life. But again a dozen considerations swept through my mind and I could answer animatedly.

"Oh, she might. Let me think. Yes — they might be married. But why wouldn't she say so? It would mean, now, that I was completely granddaughter." And I jerked my head in the direction of old Calhoun's room, as we all did when we spoke of him.

"His daughter ran away with the coachman, and he never forgave her," Clay reminded me.

"It's exactly the same thing," I said excitedly.

"Mind you, I don't know," said Clay.

"Oh, but I begin to see — I begin to think —"

"I've sent for our attorney, Gardner Fitch," Clay said. "He'll be up here one of these days and he'll nose it out."

"He'll suspect."

"No, we're asking a few other people," Mrs. Grew and Judge Hoyt," Clay added the last phrase with careful casualness.

"That's the woman he's in love with," said Clay in his low tone, as if echoing my thoughts.

I couldn't help laughing.

"Well, aren't you?" I asked defensively.

"Very much," he answered.

"Then how could you — how could you ask any other woman to — to marry you?"

"I might like the sound of her voice, like having her around, like her liking old places."

"But that wouldn't be enough, would it?" I felt quite easy, resting back in my basket chair. Somehow, suddenly, it was not hard to talk to a man who could not see. Or perhaps I was getting used to Clay's abruptness, his disconcerting trick of cutting thru to one's most intimate thoughts.

"No, I suppose not."

"Can't she ever get free of her husband?"

"Famile! Free of Finley?" His quiet surprised tone made me feel that there was something indecorous in my suggestion.

"Well — I didn't know. But she loves him, then?" This halting last phrase was a poor imitation of anything like ease or naturalness in the conversation. I could have bitten my tongue out of its stupidity a second after I said it.

"She admires him," Clay said thoughtfully after a pause, "I suppose," he added, "that my marrying any woman would be contingent upon her knowledge that I loved Fannie Grew."

The ice was too thin here; I went back to the other topic.

"But what do you suppose Billee's aunt — the one she went to in Reno — knows of this?"

"You mean having a strange girl, married to the chauffeur, turn up in Billee's place?"

"Well, yes. But she knows her. She knows Va."

"She's probably the sort of woman who would do it very amusing. You see," Clay went on, "there's a lot of money involved in this. If this girl can win her grandfather's affection, she's heiress to quite a fortune. The probability is that she talked it over with her sweetheart."

"You mean that Billee — the real Virginia — was involved with Burton and knew that the one sure thing to escape the old man and bring back the past would be that?"

"Exactly. To start off with the announcement that she had made a silly and secret marriage — my uncle never would have so much as seen her!"

"So they cooked it up between them."

"They cooked it pu between them. Billee would be the Hillyard, and Virginia — whatever her name is — would go off with her man."

"But they must have known that they couldn't keep that up forever!"

"Well, you see," Clay explained. "Calhoun wrote her as if he knew it the last gasp. He's apt to do that. A dying old man stretches out a few hand of friendliness and friendship . . . That sort of thing. She probably thought he was just about gone; at any rate, when Grace Grizzell suggested that she go up and meet him that first night, she said 'Oh, he will enough to see me! I thought he might be dead already.'"

"So that it might have been days or a few days that they had to keep up the farce?"

"After which the real Virginia — married to Burton, perhaps — would show up and claim everything."

"Supposing that he had written in her will in her favor meanwhile!"

"Ah well, that. Yes."

"They ran an awful risk."

"Well, but now that I look back on those first few days that they were here I can see that they knew it, that they were all thrilling at it. We were so easy to fool!"

"And I think I can see it too," I was remembering a thousand things. "But I didn't see it until now. Clay, what does Mrs. Grizzell think about it?"

"She has no suspicion of it."

"But she always seemed a little stiff and unfriendly with Virginia."

"Yes, but she doesn't know this. She'd streak it right away to old Calhoun."

"Even if it destroyed Virginia's chances?"

"Oh yes — even then."

"And do you think" — I spoke slowly, formulating it as I went along — "do you think this had anything to do with the destruction of the Richardson portrait of Lily's mother?"

"What could it have?" He looked surprised.

"Well, I don't know exactly. Perhaps the picture looked like Billee instead of Virginia."

"That's an idea," Clay said, struck.

"Might it have been Billee or Va or both who got in there and ruined it?"

"What did Virginia look like?" I'd forgotten he didn't know. "I get a very hazy impression of people's looks," he said.

"They looked rather alike." I told him. "Both small and dark— Billee the prettiest, I should think. The portrait had rather heavy-eyebrowed," I volunteered.

"Either of them could have done it."

"Not noticeably. But then they could have had them plucked."

"Yes." Clay conceded thoughtfully, "one of them might have ruined that picture because it was too much of a giveaway. That's a motive."

"Who've you been suspecting?"

"Everyone," he said, and the blinded face suddenly smiled.

"Me too," I hesitated and then said, "Mrs. Grizzell wouldn't have done it?"

Britain Slashes Trade Deficit Under Quarter

London, Sept. 16 (AP)—Britain's economy program and export drive has slashed her trade defici in the first half of this year to less than one-fourth of the 1947 total, the government announced today.

A white paper said devised estimates of the balance of payments for the first half of 1948 showed a provisional deficit of £150,000,000 ($560,000,000), as compared with a deficit of £520,000,000 ($2,520,000,000) for the whole of 1947.

Britain's balance of trade deficit in 1946 was £370,000,000 ($1,480,000,000) and in 1938 — the year usually used by the government as a target—was £70,000,000 ($280,000,000).

L. Bernard Smith Given Life Term For Manslaughter

Toronto, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Leonard Bernard Smith, 22, Thursday night was convicted on a charge of manslaughter in the silk-stocking slaying of red-haired Mrs. Lila Adams, 36, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A Supreme Court Assizes jury under Chief Justice J. C. McRuer found Smith not guilty of murder but convicted him of manslaughter in the death of the woman who, according to testimony, accompanied accused on a drinking party on the night of June 23. Her body was found in a garage in east-central Toronto the next morning.

In a statement admitted as evidence Smith said that he applied the silk stocking to Mrs. Adams' throat because she was "making too much noise."

The jury in announcing its manslaughter verdict recommended the maximum penalty with leniency.

Chief Justice McRuer told the concerned with guilt or innocence concerned with guilt or innocence of the accused and had no right to make recommendations concerning punishment, "you have brought in a reasonable verdict," he said.

Turning to the accused, His Lordship declared that the question of drunkenness had nothing to do with the crime. He then sentenced Smith to life imprisonment.

The jury retired at noon and returned twice to ask His Lordship for clarification of the law regarding culpability in homicide where the accused was under the influence of liquor. After three hours the jury foremen reported inability to reach agreement but after another recitation of the law retired again, and found brought in the manslaughter verdict after six hours' deliberation.

Witnesses had told of seeing the couple drinking in three separate establishments that night and kissing on the street. Later the woman was pulled into an alley where she was strangled with her own stocking and an attempt was made to criminally attack her.

FORMER NAZI STORM TROOP LEADER FOUND DEAD

Berlin, Sept. 17 (Reuters) — Adolf Gen. Schmitzane, former Nazi storm trooper leader who escaped while awaiting trial at Nuremburg in December, 1947, has been found dead in an hotel at Cemebruck, in the British zone of Germany an official British announcement stated Thursday night.

TWO GO TO CHAIR

Oakalla, B.C., Sept. 17 (AP)— Milton Shakel, whose family had made a last-minute appeal to save his life, and John Reilly, both 31, died Thursday night in the electric chair for the murder of a union official during a holdup in New York in 1946. Shakel's family has offered $25,000 reward for the capture of a third man said to have been involved in the hold-up.

COUNT BERNADOTTE KILLED

U.N. headquarters confirmed Friday that Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in Palestine, has been shot and killed. He "was killed in the Jewish sector by men in Jewish army uniforms," said a telephone message from Commander Seymour at the American school in Jerusalem to Amen, Transjordan. Above he is pictured with, D. Manuilsky, Ukraine delegate to the U.N. The picture was taken last July at Lake Success, N.Y.

INDUSTRY SHIFTS TO NIGHT WORK WILL EASE LOAD

Many Plants in Toronto Already Establish New Schedule

Toronto, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Many industrial plants in this area today had already established a switch to weekend and night work in line with the campaign to ease the electric power consumption at peak periods.

With Ontario hydro chairman R. S. Saunders announcing a cut of 7,000,000 kilowatt hours weekly to Southern Ontario municipalities starting next Wednesday, a number of large industries announced power-saving plans.

Night shifts have already begun in many Toronto area factories that normally worked only in the daytime, and others are preparing to follow. In the case of plants where Sunday and Saturday night shifts are being started, arrangements are made for 2 days off in midweek.

Officials of the local civic hydro commission, busy working out details of power cuts in relation to industrial demand, said that plans are being made as flexible as possible in order to conform with individual industries. "Industrial consumers are co-operating excellently," said this official.

One of Toronto's largest industrial plants, Massey - Harris, announced it is working Sunday, closing down Monday. The Acme Screw and Gear Company, with 1,000 employees, is working Sunday, with Fridays and Saturdays off. One large packinghouse started night operations. Seiberling Rubber Company also started a midnight to 7 a. m. shift, taking a load off the daytime power requirements.

"That's the best news we've had since we started the campaign of voluntary saving," said Mayor H. E. McCallum in commenting on the news that the city's power consumption was within a small margin of the supply allotted under the new restrictions.

Mayor McCallum also said that owners of flat-rate water heaters which are cut off at certain periods would receive rebates from the hydro.

FAMOUS ENGINEER ARRIVES

Montreal, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Britain's famous jet engineer, Sir Frank Whittle, arrived in Montreal early this morning from London aboard a North Star, on his way to read a paper on the development of the jet engine at the 12th Aviation Planning Convention at Seattle.

With new methods of air traffic control at airports, Sir Frank said that turbo jet transport planes should operate more economically than present day aircraft. He advised airlines to begin the installation of turbo engines with propellors as a fore-runner to the future jet transports.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto Sept. 18 (CP) —Synopsis: A late summer heat wave holds sway over all southern and central Ontario. Toronto's 90 degrees Friday was a record for that date with correspondingly high temperatures reported from the other forecast regions. A little cooler air has entered the northwest part of the province, and is slowly pushing southward Scattered thunderstorms were reported during the night in advance of this cooler air with similar conditions expected tonight. Southern regions are forecast to remain hot throughout the weekend.

Still Hold Hope Of Locating Missing Plane

The Pas, Man., Sept. 18 — (CP) —Hope has not been abandoned for the safety of the five persons aboard a United States navy plane missing since Sunday while on a 450-mile flight from the Hudson Bay port of Churchill to The Pas.

Air force officials at the growing search party's operational base here said people have been missing in northern Manitoba's bush country for much more than six days and still come out little the worse for wear.

The C-45 Beechcraft, it was announced Friday night, contained ample emergency and safety equipment, with food providing the one problem. Two jungle kits carried by the aircraft contained enough rations to last five persons approximately three days.

However, fishing equipment, two revolvers, one rifle and two hunting knives also were part of the plane's equipment, and with wild life plentiful it is expected that if the crew and passengers escaped safely when the aircraft was forced down at a still unknown point they would have little difficulty in obtaining extra rations.

The combined Canadian-American rescue effort, now involving well over 30 aircraft, 12 of them by United States Army Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard personnel is easily the largest aerial search group ever assembled in the Dominion.

Many reports concerning a plane have been received at headquarters of "Operation Attache" here, resulting in the major search area being restricted to a district extending north from The Pas approximately 120 miles and spreading east and west with Lake Winnipeg and Saskatchewan the two boundaries.

The official search name, "Operation Attache," was given to the undertaking because of the positions occupied by the passengers aboard the missing plane. Capt. Sir Robert W. Stirling-Hamilton is naval adviser with the British high commissioners office and Capt. B. S. Custer is naval attache with tthe United States embassy in Ottawa.

FASCISTS ROUTED

Rome, Sept. 18—(AP)—Milan press dispatches said today a group of Fascist youths gathered at La Scala's stage door Friday night to jeer Arturo Toscanini who was conducting the orchestra inside at the time. Passers-by pitched in and routed the youths, several of whom were picked up by police, questioned and released.

DIEFENBAKER WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR LEADERSHIP

Conservative Member Allows Name to Stand

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (CP)— John Diefenbaker, a man who loves a good political battle, plans to make a second bid for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party and he is confident this time he will be successful.

The 53-year-old member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, announced Friday he will be a candidate for the leadership which John. Bracken will relinquish at a national convention of the party here Sept. 30, Oct. 1-2.

A prominent criminal lawyer by profession and a colorful member of the Commons since 1940, Mr. Diefenbaker was the third member of the party to throw his hat in the leadership ring. Garfield Case, 49-year-old member of the Commons for the Ontario contituency of Grey North, and J. W. Hanna, 59-year-old member of the Ontario legislature for Huron-Bruce, have announced their candidature.

There has been widespread speculation that Premier Drew of Ontario will enter the race, but Mr. Diefenbaker is confident he can win over the 54-year-old Toronto lawyer.

"Of course I will beat him, and I mean that, although I would not have said that two weeks ago," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

He announced his candidature in a prepared statement and later met newspapermen at a conference in the press gallery lounge. In his statement he said he had been asked to stand as a leadership candidate.

"I have never shirked my responsibilities as a member of the party, and will not now, although I am fullymindful of the magnitude of the task, and the responsibility that will fall on the leader of this party to contribute to the national unity of Canada," he said.

Shipments Send Canadian Cattle Prices Upward

Ottawa, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Shipments of dressed beef and veal to the United States sent Canadian cattle prices 550 cents to $1 higher, the Dominion Agricultural Department said Friday in its weekly livestock report.

"Accumulatiosn of beef in store both in Canada and the United States, have been fairly well cleared following the hat weather and vacation period. While daily arrivals of fresh receipts of cattle continued heavy for the season, good clearances have been made in fast trading," the report said.

At Toronto good to choice steers were $29.25 at the top with others $20-28 and butchers $24 and stockers $16-18.50. Best steers at Montreal made $24.50-26, good cows $18-19.

Export shipments of slaughter and feeding cattle to the United States for the week totalled 16,-948, making the total since the removal of the export embargo 81,477. Dairy cattle and purebreds totalled 2,568 this week and the total to date this year is 79,-898. Calf exports for the week were 1,935 and to date this year total 11,420. Sheep and lamb shipments, during the week totalled 2,426 and since the removal of restrictions Aug. 3 total 8,087.

Belleville's Quota of Power Will be Cut 12.5 Per Cent To 104,000 Kilowatt Hours

Necessitated by the severe water shortage in the Gatineau district, the daily quota of power to Belleville users will be further decreased next Wednesday morning, it was made known today by Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities.

Prior to Sept. 13 when power restrictions first went into effect, consumers in Belleville were using an average of 120,000 kilowatt hours per day. Next Wednesday the daily quota will be but 104,000 kilowatt hours — a reduction of 12.5 per cent.

Since restrictions went into effect last Tuesday morning the daily quota of power from the Ontario Hydro Commission has been 113,000 kilowatt hours.

Situation Very Acute

"The situation is much more serious than the Commission had previously announced," stated Mr. Scott, as he made known the further decrease in the power quota from 113,000 to 104,000 kilowatt hours per day. "It just means that every person in the city will be forced to co-operate and save power wherever possible. The alternative will be serious local power interruptions."

Thus far there has been no meeting of the local manufacturers to discuss whether plants would work on Saturdays and Sundays as a measure to reduce power use during weekdays. However, in the opinion of Mr. Scott such a meeting would necessarily have to be called the first of the week. Since Tuesday outdoor lighting and the lighting of signs has been banned.

Co-operation Urgently Needed

With the domestic load taking over 50 per cent of the power used in the city Mr. Scott again urged the co-operation of the householder in saving power. Every householder must do his or her share by turning out unnecessary lights and by the sparing use of electrical appliances. Flat rate water heaters will be automatically turned off by the Commission for certain periods during the day.

With the approach of longer nights, co-operation on the part of the householder is doubly important, Mr. Scott stated.

Shock, Dismay Expressed By World Leaders Over Bernadotte Assassination

(By The Canadian Press)

Shock and dismay at the assassination Friday of Count Folke Bernadotte were expressed by President Truman, United Nations officials, Jewish leaders and political heads throughout the world.

The killing of the U. N. mediator stirred increased anxiety about the fate of Palestine.

President Truman, during a stop-over of his special train at Crestline, Ohio, Friday night, told a crowd of 3,500:

"I have just been officially notified of Count Bernadotte's death. I am shocked and deeply saddened by it." Bernadotte's slaying "clearly emphasizes the difficulties we face in the world today."

In Washington, State Secretary Marshall said the world will demand that Count Bernadotte's work be "vigorously pursued."

In Ottawa, Louis St. Laurent, Canada's acting prime minister, paid high tribute to the mediator's "selflessness and devotion" and said the Canadian government was "shocked" by the assassination.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's representative on the U. N. Security Council, said on arrival in Liverpool today that "it is not too much to say that the hope of nations of goodwill for solution of the Palestine problem was centred on his person." McNaughton is en route to Paris for the U. N. General Assembly session starting Tuesday.

Aboard the liner America en route to Paris, the American delegation to the U. N. said the assassination would make the Palestine question probably the hottest issue facing the world assembly.

Foreign Secretary Bevin said in a message from London to the Swedish foreign minister that "this dastardly crime against a devoted servant of the United Nations will be condemned by the whole civilized world."

"We must all resolve that his work will not have been in vain," Bevin said.

Jewish leaders throughout the world expressed sorrow at the death.

Some Arab leaders blamed the deed on Zionists and said it reinforced the Arab cause.

In Oslo, Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the U. N., said he learned of Count Bernadotte's death "with a deep sense of shock."

"He burned with eagerness to bring about an understanding between Arab and Jews," Lie said. "He thought always of justice and of peace."

858 Dead, 700 Missing As Floods Ebb

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP) —Rivers subsided in central and northern Honshu today leaving an estimated 858 dead and 700 missing.

Torrential rains, measuring as much as 24 inches in some places flooded the rivers after Wednesdays typhoon.

Two other towns were added to the list of flooded.

Morioka, 60 miles north of deluged Ichinoseki, reported 600 dead. 170 missing and 2,000 injured. Miyako, 40 miles east of Morioka, had 200 missing and 8,000 houses flooded.

Ichinoseki, which Friday night estimated its dead at 800 to 2,000 revised its figures later, placing the dead at 200 and the missing at 300.

Fifty-eight more lost their lives in flash floods west and north of Tokyo.

Bodies of many victims still floated in knee deep water at Ichinoseki, which is surrounded by flood waters of the Iwai River.

American occupation and Japanese authorities moved to halt epidemic threats and dropped food, clothing and medicine to the flood districts.

"FLYING PLATE" SEEN IN B.C.

Nanaimo, B. C., Sept. 17 (CP) —A flying "whatchamacallit", the size of a bread and butter plate, was seen today by Mrs. M. J. Dixon of nearby Lantzville.

Mrs. Dixon. wringing laundry at the time, said it was "trimmed with red and blue flowers—very pretty." She said the "thing" flew at rooftop level and "disappeared after wobbling a few times."

Bus Driver Given Credit in Solving Babe's Abduction

Brandon, Man., Sept. 18 (CP)— An observant bus driver was credited today by police with playing a major role in solving the abduction of a five-week-old baby from a carriage outside a Brandon grocery store.

Police said the bus operator, Ken Stauffer, set them on the trail by telling them he had noticed a woman on his bus who had set out from Killarney, Man., in the morning alone and who had returned in the afternoon with a child.

Acting on Stauffer's information, police said they found the baby, Penelope Susan Palldwar. Mrs. Betty Lou (Jack) Struth of Killarney, 55 miles southeast of Brandon, appeared in court here Friday on a charge of abduction and was remanded without plea to next Thursday.

Police said Mrs. Struth evidently travelled to Brandon with the express purpose of returning with a child since she had carried bedding and clothing and a baby's bottle.

A bundle of baby's clothing was recovered from behind a bench in the ladies' wash room at the bus depot here. These articles of clothing turned out to have been worn by the baby girl at the time of the abduction.

WANTS ACTION EXPLAINED

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 18 — (AP) — Senator Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut said Friday night that he and two other Republican senators have demanded an explanation from the United States Army of the commutation of the life sentence imposed on Ilse Koch, "Queen of Buchenwald."

1948 Tourist Season Best Yet, Possibly Over $260,000,000 Spent

By The Canadian Press

Canada's waning 1948 tourist season appears to be the best on record for one of the Dominion's greatest industries.

A Canadian Press survey of preliminary estimates by provincial tourist officials indicates today traffic into Canada this year was greater than in 1947 when 22,669,-840 persons crossed the United States border to spend a record $235,000,000.

Despite forest fires and unseasonable cold in northern sections of Ontario, and floods in British Columbia, officials in Ottawa estimate more than $260,000,000 will have passed from tourists' pockets into Canadian coffers before the end of the year.

Officials estimate British Columbia will carve a $40,000,000 slice of the tourist trade plum in 1948.

Ontario reported an impression that Americans were not spending as freely this year. Nevertheless, the province's tourist resorts were generally delighted with the season's business. Heavier than usual trade was reported in the favorite Haliburton and Muskoka Lakes districts and along the St. Lawrence River.

Quebec observed the same lack of free spending which Ontario noted but tourist officials there said that although visitors are spending less, they are more numerous than last year.

Provincial tourist director Georges Leveille said tourists were shopping "more carefully" this year. He estimated that tourists would leave $100,000,000 in the province this year—$10,000,-000 more than last.

As usual, New Brunswick, attracted a great number of American sportsmen, eager to enjoy the province's unparallelled fishing and sea bathing. Resorts generally reported higher revenues than last year. An unofficial estimate placed the increase in the number of automobiles entered the province at 16 per cent.

INDIAN TROOPS TAKE SURRENDER OF STATE FORCES

Receive Submission Outside Secunderabad

New Delhi, Sept. 18 (CP)—Indian troops of the armored column which advanced from Sholapur took today the surrender of Hyderabad stage forces which capitulated Friday under cease-fire orders from the Nizam.

The force, under the command of Maj.-Gen. J. N. Chaudhry, received Hyderabad's submission at a point five miles outside Secunderabad, a suburb of Hyderabad city, the capital.

Hyderabad radio, monitored here, said Indian troops entered Secunderabad 45 minutes after the surrender.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, whose defiance of the Indian Dominion's request for permission to garrison Secunderabad touched off the invasion, issued a cease-fire order Friday. The Nizam, Moslem ruler of a predominantly Hindu state, was the only one of 562 native princes not to come to terms with either Hindu India or Moslem Pakistan.

Outlaws Ragakars

Beside ordering the cease-fire the Nizam outlawed the Razakars, private Moslem organization which India had charged with many border disorders prior to the invasion, and agreed to the stationing of Indian troops in Hyderabad. He said in a broadcast he had instructed Hyderabad's representatives to the United Nations in Paris to withdraw his state's complaint to the Security Council against India.

(Dispatches from Paris, where the Security Council had planned to take up the Hyderabad case Monday, said it appeared it would be a mere formality for the council to accede to any formal request from Hyderabad to drop the investigation.)

Meanwhile, Nehru telegraphed a message of congratulations to Rajendrasinhji on the "brilliant success of your operations."

Newspapers here appeared this morning to the Indian government to have the "courage and vision to convert India's victory into a lasting victory of the people of Hyderabad."

A London dispatch quoted Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, foreign minister of Pakistan, as saying Friday night he was concerned over future relations between India and Pakistan because of the Hyderabad case. He said Hyderabad should be left to decide its future for itself without any kind of pressure.

Ten Skeletons Found in Cottage In Arctic Area

Oslo, Sept. 18 (CP)—The crew of a Norwegian fishing vessel discovered 10 human skeletons in a stone cottage in the Canadian Arctic, the Norwegian Journal of Commerce and Shipping reported today.

The periodical said the vessel Sveip of Bergen had put into the harbor on the coast of Cumberland with engine trouble.

(There is a Cumberland Sound on Baffin Island.)

The discovery was reported to the Canadian Legation at Oslo. It is supposed that the skeletons are of Eskimos or members of an expedition.

Israeli Orders Round Up of All Stern Gang Group

Large-Scale Arrests Have Been Made in Jerusalem

Jerusalem, Sept. 19 (AP) — All Jerisalem's 90,000 Jews were placed under virtual house-arrest today by an Israeli army curfew imposed as a result of the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, yesterday.

Tel Aviv, Sept. 18 (Reuters) — Israeli government forces have been ordered to round up all members of the Stern Gang, and to shoot if necessary, unofficial reports said today.

the assassination in Jerusalem Fri-

The hunt was called because of day of Count Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator. The assassination has been blamed on the Stern Gang.

Large-scale arrests have been made in Jerusalem, where a curfew has been imposed throughout the Jewish area, reports said.

Foreign consuls in Israel today reported receiving a notice signed by a so-called "splinter group" of the Stern Gang saying: "We killed Bernadotte because he worked for the British and carried out their orders."

Import Criminal Gang

The Israeli government stated that it would "uproot the criminal gang responsible" for the murder.

The Israeli government statement declared: "The government calls on the nation to rise as one man against the enemy within its midst.

"Every citizen and resident of Israeli will give active and understating assistance to the army and police in apprehending the assassins and their accomplices and expunging the stain of terrorism from the soil of our country."

A government spokesman announced this morning that 40 arrests had been made so far in Tel Aviv and other places outside Jerusalem in connection with Count Bernadotte's murder.

He could not give any details of what was being done in Jerusalem.

Matter Before U.N.

Paris (AP) — Secretary-General Tryve Lie today placed the critical Palestine question before the full membership of the United Nations.

Lie flew in from Norway and found the U.N. in turmoil over the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte. the U.N. mediator for Palestine.

He received a cable from the Israeli government promising to stamp out the assassins.

A message from the Israeli Foreign Minister, Moshe Shertok said:

"Outraged by the abominable assassination of the United Nations mediator, Count Bernadotte, and the observer Col. (Anton Pierre) Serrot by desepradoes and outlaws who are execrated by the entire people of Israel and the Jewish community of Jerusalem. the government of Israel is adopting the most vigorous and energetic measures to bring the assassins to justice and eradicate the evil."

Lie announced he placed the Palestine situation situation on the agenda of the 58 member assembly convening at the Palais de Chaillot Tuesday. This will have the effect of bringing the assissination of Count Bernadotte before all the members at the time.

Plane Breaks Up Pilot Just Gets Scratch on Ear

San Bernardino, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP)—Imagine flying nearly 600 miles an hour, having your plane simply disintegrate around you and coming out of it with only a scratch on the ear!

That's what happened Friday to Capt. R. M. Barnes of the United States Air Force. He was flying a F-84 Republic Thunderjet in a simulated race with an F-80 Lockheed Shooting Star as a feature of an air-force day celebration at San Bernardino air base. They were neck and neck, hitting more than 570 miles an hour at 800 feet past the reviewing stand and 8,000 spectators.

Suddenly Barnes' plane flew to pieces. Parts landed two miles away before the horrified crowd discovered the pilot was floating down in a parachute.

He landed at the edge of the field, unhurt except for that scratch.

U.S. Planes Race Coal into Berlin, Near Airlift Record of Blockade

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Berlin, Sept. 18 (AP)— The Americans, racing coal into Berlin, neared an air-lift record today as the Soviet blockade hit the three-month mark.

Concentration on the delivery of coal was ordered as a demonstration on the first anniversary of spelled an answer to Soviet threats the United States air force. It also of a chilly winter in store for western Berliners.

Lt.-Gen. Curtis Le May, commander of the American air force in Europe, directed every air-lift plane to carry coal and promised that 4,000 to 5,000 tons would be funelled into the city in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

The 24-hour haul will be distributed at once to all families in western Berlin with two or more small children.

In a prepared broadcast which he was to deliver today Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor for Germany, declared:

"The spiritual significance of an air lift which provides the daily bread of more than 2,500,-000 people demonstrates our will for peace is profound."

Clay said the giant British-American operation had won "the admiration of all the people of the world who resent the threat of starvation being used as a political weapon."

Meanwhile, there was indication that the Russians may be reconsidering the 25-year sentences imposed on five youths for disorders at the Brandenberger Gate Sept. 9 when anti-Communists clashed with Russian-controlled police and Soviet soldiers.

The Soviet-licensed news agency ADN said Friday night Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Russian commandant in Berlin, has asked for all the records concerning the sentences.

Huge Lunge Puts Up Big Battle

To have a 227-lb. lunge swim right up to the boat and almost land a fish caught was the rather unusual experience of Mrs. Geo. Sharpe of Corbyville recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe and others holidaying at their cottage at Moira Lake had hardly got their boat out into open water when as Mrs. Sharpe dropped her trolling line the big fellow grabbed it.

"I thought I had hooked onto a log," stated Mrs. Sharpe as the later related the results of the incident. "But after a couple of pulls he jumped out of the water and then say it was a big lunge. He came right up to the boat and my husband hauled him in."

But getting the big lunge into the boat and keeping him there were entirely different matters. With nothing to despatch the fish Mr. Sharpe kneeled on him and held him by the gills while Mrs. Sharpe rowed to shore.

The fish was 46 inches in length and 19 inches around the middle

Says Eyeglasses Will Not Prevent Blindness

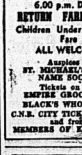
Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

The work of the C.N.I.B. is most praiseworthy and deserves of support from all quarters. It must be carried to the public the public that medical practitioners in many localities contribute their services in promotion of this cause without emolument. It should be remembered, in pleading such a worthy cause, to adhere to facts, but not to exaggerate.

We have reference to the article dealing with the activities of the local committee and quote its tute that appeared in your issue of the 14th inst.

It is implied that glasses contribute to the prevention and cure of blindness. The origin of this dread condition lies always in disease, injury or abnormal structural formation, and in no such case can glasses be said to directly contribute to the prevention, treatment or cure of blindness. Any such implication can be suspected as an attempt to capitalize on the fears of the by a public.

Apparently it is still necessary to remind not only the public, but also the suppliers of its information that for the care and correction of faulty and uncomfortable vision by means of glasses and/or visual training, the only formally and specifically certified practitioner is the optometrist.



We feel sure that you will be given this letter in the service of the public enlightenment on this matter, lucid information on which there has been a great lack.

Very sincerely yours,
—J. A. McFee,
—C. Rose,
Optometrists.

Atlanta, (AP)—Eight hundred school kids lost their building Friday because of wasps. Police said a maintenance man accidentally set afire the $250,000 school in Atlanta's suburbs northside while burning out wasp nests under the roof eaves.

That same day the gutted School had been dismissed an hour earlier.

Ore, Mc., (AP)—Freshmen will have trouble making dates at the University of Maine this year.

Unless they get written permission from a "skull" (senior society member) they're not to speak to women, except to say hello.

The skull rules are being enforced by sophomores. They don't apply to a married man—if the woman is his wife.

Chicago, (AP)—A naked baby sat on the curb sucking an empty liquor bottle. That was the sight that startled passers-by at a busy intersection Friday.

A few minutes after the baby was taken to a police station, Mrs. Helen Hussey burst into the station to report her 18-month-old son, Thomas, missing. The baby put down the bottle and cried "mommie."

Mrs. Hussey said she had put the baby in the bathtub while she went into another room for soap. When she got back the baby was gone. No one seemed to know where the bottle came from.

Walnut Cove, N. C. (AP)—A scheduled battle between the "dickingest mule in Stokes county" and a 20-foot boa constrictor is all off by a double default.

The snake today was in a safe hiding place and the mule's owner has joined the society for protection of cruelty to animals.

Bill Page, owner of a carnival playing here, disclosed Friday his $1,000 boa constrictor would not be risked tonight against Moby Dick, self-styled "dickingest" mule in the county.

And Moby Dick's owner, Martin Luther Mitchell, disclosed that the mule isn't going to fight anything, much less a boa constrictor. Mitchell added he had been fast talked out of his mule's services by a friend and the next thing he knew the Moby Dick-Boa constrictor match was on.

Officer of Storm-Lashed Ship Tells How Crew Sang to Keep Up Courage

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)— An officer of the hurricane-battered freighter Leicester told today how four crew members were swept overboard while others clung to deck rails clinging to keep up their courage.

Six men were reported lost from the ill-fated British ship.

The story of the crew's all-night battle against pounding winds, mountainous seas and a wildly listing ship was radioed to the Associated Press by J. T. Andrews, the Leicester's second officer.

He and 38 others were rescued in the hurricane-lashed Atlantic Thursday. Another 40 men were saved from the stricken Portuguese steamer Gazelle by another United States coast guard cutter 300 miles northeast of the Leicester. One of the Gazpar's crew perished.

Andrews said that before help came, "it seemed certain the Leicester would capsize at any moment.

"We were clinging to the starboard boats and hand rails and sang hymns to keep our spirits up. We huddled together and hung on to the rails all night."

Throughout the night, the list of the helpless vessel increased until it was piling at an angle of about 70 degrees and rolling with the swells to 80 degrees—nearly flat on its side.

"Heavy seas swept along the port side of the deck, taking away two boats (lifeboats) and two men who were standing by," Andrews related. "Later, two other men were washed through the rails by the breaking seas."

Twenty of the Leicester's crew, including Andrews, were rescued by the American freighter Cecil N. Bean. Nineteen other survivors were picked up by the Argentine freighter Tropero.

Even after the rescue ships had reached the scene, however, the fate of the crew had remained uncertain. Andrews said two men "were swept away by the seas" while trying to swim to a lifeboat launched by the Bean.

AND STILL CHAMPION—Champion Caress of Shawhaven, four-time silver fox terrier is proud as punch of her record of 11 best-of-show awards in 13 entries in dog shows. Business Spotlight

By The Canadian Press

Stock-markets couldn't make up their minds which way to go last week.

Volume sagged and the few issues trading moved in narrow ranges. Then seven sessions were confined to professionals with the public sitting on the sidelines and waiting for a definite signal to which road the market would take.

Fretting among brokers is that the public has left the market in fine already been largely discounted. Others, however, say that it is only a matter of time until public confidence is renewed and prices start to swing upward. More consistent brisk trading is needed before a general trend can be decided.

New York weakened on Monday and was carried to the lowest level in nearly a month as turnover sagged to the 700,000-share mark. Recovery power of the market was illustrated Tuesday as it moved ahead in improved volume to more than recover the previous day's losses.

The optimistic "streeters" the fact that volume increased prices advanced and decreased as declines and dropped was a certain indicator of a bullish pattern.

Canadian markets went much their own way. In Toronto, industrials rose steadily for the first four days and then eased Friday to close the week with a gain of 1.94 on the exchange's fluctuating week and were up 1.39 on the week. Golds rose slightly for a 33 advance and golds held steady, dipping only one five days.

Montreal was quietly easier.

Grain markets were firm from last Friday's prices. In Chicago, wheat values moved steadily with wheat and rye showing penny gains over the week. Rye was strong on a gain of 10 cents in Winnipeg and flax was down six cents.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Religion vs. Economics

BY ROY L. SMITH

At the time when Christianity was being launched upon the world there stood in the heart of Asia Minor, a few hundred miles northwest of Jerusalem, a magnificent city named Ephesus, the towering temples of whose magnificence was a temple dedicated to the pagan goddess named in the New Testament as Diana.

At some remote date, it seems, a meteor had fallen out of the skies somewhere in the vicinity, which bore a fair resemblance to a human body, and this had been set up in the Temple of Diana temple as the image of the goddess.

The silversmiths of Ephesus had found it immensely profitable to make up little silver images of this meteor and sell them to the faithful and to the tourists, as a result of which their craft had prospered immensely. The worship of Diana was proving to be one of the most profitable industries of the city.

A Christian Preacher Arrives

In the course of one of his missionary journeys the Apostle Paul arrived in the city of Ephesus and began preaching the Christian Gospel. Almost immediately the silversmiths recognized the threat to their business and, headed by the master of their craft, a man named Demetrius, they precipitated a riot and organized a demand that the Christians should be expelled from the city.

Here is one of the first of Christianity's conflicts with the economics of a privileged class. The principles for which Jesus and Paul taught were diametrically opposed to everything the religion of Diana stood for. It was impossible for the two faiths to continue indefinitely alongside one another in the same world. One or the other had to put the other out of business, and this of course meant the end of the economic privileges of all those attached to the vanquished faith.

Synthetic Piety

The Sunday School lesson for September 19: "The Town Clerk at Ephesus," Acts 19:23-41.

The silversmiths of Ephesus resorted to one of the oldest defenses evil has ever devised. They undertook to present themselves to the people of the city as the defenders of orthodoxy. They appealed to the popular worship of Diana, brought people together to defend their ancient faith, pointed to the image that had fallen down from Jupiter, and appointed themselves as the guardians of religion.

The mob they gathered was exactly such as every other mob is, "the more part knew not wherefore they were come together." But they followed the crowd, caught the volume of the tumult, and demanded the blood of the preachers they had never seen and damned the doctrines of which they knew nothing. Meanwhile, no one seems to have mentioned the profits involved in the Diana business.

The Town Clerk

The most important officer of the town bore a humble title — "the town clerk" — but he exercised great authority. He was, moreover, a man of force and judgment. He knew full well that if the riot ever got out of hand the Roman Emperor would demand an accounting of the city which might prove excessively expensive. Therefore with great courage and equally great wisdom he took the matter in hand and managed to restore order. Reason and common sense began to assert themselves."

The Issue Was Clear

The Town Clerk made the issue seem perfectly clear. He pointed to the facts and assured the people that if any man had a case he could be sure of justice there.

The basis of the charge against the Christians, however, came to light. It was, however, perfectly clear that Christianity was fundamentally opposed to everything the religion of Diana stood for. It was impossible for the two faiths to continue indefinitely alongside one another in the same world. One or the other had to put the other out of business, and this of course meant the end of the economic privileges of all those attached to the vanquished faith.

Marmora

New Arena Will Be Officially Opened Oct. 16

Marmora — Mr. Basil McTaggart has donated a handsome mantel type radio to the committee in order to celebrate the official opening of Marmora's new arena. This radio will be one of a number of prizes to be drawn for later in the year. The Arena is to be officially opened on Friday evening, October 15. The contractors expect the building will be fully completed before that date. The contract has also been awarded for the heating and plumbing to include furnace, electric pump, pressure tanks, four toilets for the dressing rooms, a heater for ice for the hockey teams dressing rooms, septic tank, etc"

A public address system is also being installed which will be modern and in a permanent part of the rink.

The Arena is to be called the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena, as a tribute to Dr. Crawford's services to the community for over thirty years, and a plaque is being prepared which will be placed at the front of the building as a memorial to the doctor.

Brig. J.E. Genet Given Honorary Appointment

Ottawa, Sept. 18—The Minister of National Defence today announced the appointment of Brigadier J. E. Genet, CBE, MC, of Belleville, Ont., Honorary Colonel Commandant, The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

Brig. Genet, formerly a permanent force-officer, was retired in 1945, after serving for nine years in the Canadian Army. He enlisted in the ranks in 1908 and five years later was commissioned.

He served overseas in the World War I with the 1st and 2nd Divisional Signals, was wounded in action, and was awarded the Military Cross. After reorganization of the army in 1920, he first served with the PPCLI, later transferring to Signals.

At the outbreak of the Second World War he was promoted lieutenant-colonel and appointed to command 2nd Divisional Signals; subsequently he became Chief Signal Officer, 1st Canadian Corps, and was granted the rank of colonel. He received promotion to Brigadier in 1941 on being appointed Chief Signal Officer, First Canadian Army.

Brig. Genet received the CBE and also the United States Legion of Merit (Degree of Commander), and was several times mentioned in dispatches for services in the war of 1939-45.

Present Called Transition Period Of History

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP)—Anglicans do not realize the greatness and extent of their church throughout the world, Rt. Rev. J. H. Moyes, Bishop of Armidale Australia, told a meeting Thursday night.

Also other clerics, Rt. Rev. M. H. Yashiro, Bishop of Tokyo, and Rt. Rev. E. J. Knubley, Anglican Bishop of Moosonee, he was giving a report of Britain's Lambeth Conference to an overflow crowd at University of Toronto Convocation Hall.

Bishop Yashiro expressed disappointment that results of the Lambeth Conference nor the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam had diminished the relationship between totalitarianism and the Union of Christendom. Totalitarian states always try to unite the churches within their countries so that they can be controlled.

Bishop Renison described the present time as one of the greatest transition moments of history.

"The old world is dead and new world is waiting to be born, but without a spiritual rebirth the civilization of the world we know may well be killed," he said.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

SEPTEMBER IDYL

As the sun rises, soft whispering noises came from every bush; little wings fluttered from tree to tree. Under every bush, there was an immense mixed flock of birds had made an step towards their winter goal, and were now taking possession of our garden. It was alive. The majority of small birds are migrants, generally stopping over only through the hours of brightness to feed and rest before their flights onward. They may wait several days, if conditions suit them, before continuing on their way to warmer climates.

These live airplanes deliberately choose night for flying. Both seed eaters and those that consume insects which can be found only under the leaves, are obliged to stay low down in daytime. Also, as most migrants are timid or easily frightened, it is wise for them to travel by their larger, strong-winged enemies, nearly all of which are diurnal in habit.

Of late years attempts have been made to discover exactly when night migration begins. It seems that they fly mainly during the early hours of the night, to rest again from the first sign of dawn until towards daylight. At the height of migration, interested scientists make their telescopes on the full moon. Within a few sometimes as many as 9,000 birds have passed in the disc of this tiny speck.

Now the garden was giving respite to dozens of these visitors, whose prevailing colours were green, yellow, and brown, with some black and white. Red-eyed Vireos in yellow-green olive-backed costumes, and their first cousins the Warbling Vireos are easily identified by their slim appearance and characteristic pose. Chestnut-sided Warblers have donned their spring dresses, and their white underparts bleam in the sunshine. Magnolia Warblers, whose change over to cross beak heads and greenish-grey backs has puzzled us, are finally recognized by their yellow rumps. Bright yellow cheeks mean Black-throated Green Warblers. Soft grey Tennessee Warblers are distinguished by their rather large heads and much quivering of wings and flappings of tails.

The staring eyes of some brown birds proclaim them to be Thrushes, a reddish glint showing in the Hermits' tails. While thrushes and Song Sparrows are readily separated by their well-known markings on either throats or breasts, Nobody can mistake the small chunky Brown Wrens. All make use of our hospitality, flashing here and there, picking loose dogwood berries, catching late flies, freeing our garden from weed seeds.

Nuremberg, (CP)—Dr. Hugo Blaschke, Hitler's dentist, Thursday was convicted of Nazi activity by a German court and sentenced to three years' internment.

Baltimore, (AP)—Mrs. Rita N Franke, 34, ran screaming up the street Thursday, holding in the coat-tails of a burglar who had looted her home of $15.

By the time police came on the scene, the burglar had broken away and escaped. Police asked passers-by why they had not come to Mrs. Franke's assistance.

"We thought it was just a husband-wife spat," they said.

Little Rock, Ark., (AP)—Frank Ferris, 38, travelled 656 miles from his Cincinnati home to Little Rock, to serve a one-minute jail sentence.

While on a July 4 outing, he was charged with possessing a firearm in a game refuge in Arkansas. Taking a week off from his job as machinist, he came here Thursday and entered a plea of guilty before Judge Thomas C. Trimble.

Judge Trimble decided that the defendant already had been subjected to sufficient expense, and sentenced him to one minute's imprisonment.

Baltimore, (AP)—It took a scene, a policeman and Mrs. Kroneberger Thursday. His effects included about 100 tombstones.

Sol Shavell, the 65-year-old stone-cutter's landlord, filed the eviction proceedings for non-payment of rent and the sheriff sent a constable around to execute the court's order.

The constable had to call in two city officers, one of them equipped with a crane. They moved the tombstones to a city lot until Kroneberger can decide what to do with them. One of the monuments weighed 2,500 pounds.

HOOKS 21-Pounder

Mrs. Roy Snell, without any assistance from her husband, who accompanied her, landed a twenty-one pound muskie in Blarion Lake, on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Snell was trolling with a Bucktail Spinner. Both Mr. and Mrs. Snell, former residents of Marmora, now residents at St. Thomas, are holidaying at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake.

Assassination of Count Bernadotte

Assassination, a dastardly and cowardly weapon to use, has struck down Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, United Nations mediator in the Palestine issue, as he went about his mission of seeking a solution of the troubles which have vexed the Holy Land. His task was one of the noblest a man could assume because of what it meant to the Jewish people and the Arabs of Palestine, to all the Near East countries and to the world of nations. The Palestine trouble has caused United Nations much anxiety. Twice Count Bernadotte had brought about a truce, even though the troubles are deeply-seated and he was tirelessly carrying out the mission he had accepted of trying to find a means of harmony in that part of the world.

The report on Friday indicated that the slaying was the work of four men presumed to be members of the extremist Stern gang.

An outstanding figure has fallen in trying to remove the lack of harmony in the Near East. It is of significance that he was to make his report to the United Nations General Assembly at its meeting in a few days in Paris. One in his remark to reporters a few days ago about shooting peculiar nature of the trouble in the Holy Land as shown in his comment to reporters a fe wdays ago about shooting breaking out without either side knowing what it was shooting at. He had remarked that this was a "most Idiotic thing."

Fears are entertained, according to reports, that there may be a renewal of shooting as a consequence of his assassination. During the truces there had been fitful outbreaks and there was a feeling, reports state, that the current truce was on the verge of being lost by have run out.

Count Bernadotte has given his life in search of peace that would bless that land and the world. His sacrifice will not be in vain for the work of reaching a means of harmony will be carried on, however long it takes, to reach the goal for which he as representative of the United Nations was searching.

The pages of history have been stained with assassinations in many parts of the world. The perpetrators have removed many leading figures through this murderous method. In this case a friend of world peace has given his life in his endeavors to serve the United Nations and the harmony of the world. But others will take up the banner of peace with the responsibilities associated with the task of finding the solution of strife and discord. All lovers of peace will deplore the tragic end of this missionary of international goodwill and this practical world statesman.

Just at this time there is a proposal for a permanent international force of about five hundred men to police hot spots throughout the world where there may be danger of trouble. Such a proposal is to be made to the General Assembly next week and is said to come from the United States which is the only nation that has had that with keep order where trouble might arise. At this same time too the world of free nations in Europe, United States and Canada is sponsoring a call to prayer in the churches for the United Nations General Assembly that its work may succeed.

Count Bernadotte will go down in the world's records as one who fell a martyr for international peace and accord as he strove to bring peace in a part of the world where strife has been marked.

Supplies Modern Archers

Today the independent, individual craftsman seems to be gradually disappearing.

That's why it is heartening to come across an old-time craftsman who, defying the spirit of the age, sticks to his craft and finds happiness in perfect workmanship and a modest livelihood, says Canadian Business.

Such a man is Terry Steed, archery craftsman of Vancouver, who is well known to those who shoot with bow and arrow not only in this province but throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Archers, and especially those who can't afford it, are prepared to pay for the best. They are often successful business men, who, reacting from controls and a highly civilized life, sometimes go primitive with their hobbies. One of Steed's customers wears sandals, strips to the waist and wanders through the woods make his kills.

Another combines the ancient art of archery with a modern speedboat, which he operates from a log hut built on the shore of a secluded bay.

Steed has had orders from Ilon hunters on their way to Central Africa and has shipped a bow to Borneo.

PLEA FOR PATIENCE

If we could read another's mind
Or underneath a frown could see
And know the care that lies behind,
More patient we would surely be.

The curt and surly speech is heard
And angry phrases we resent,
But why the sharp and cutting word
We very seldom think to learn

Yet some with heavy hearts
And some in pain must stand
Had we the burdens of the
They might be more than we could bear.

If we could read the human heart
Or what's behind the ugly mask,
Before our foolish quarrels start,
More patient we might try to be.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

MOTH, RUST, MILDEW

In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus warned against laying up treasures on earth where moth and rust corrupt.

Go through the junk heap you have in your basement or in your attic and see the things that sentiment is leading you to preserve and which the processes of nature are causing to deteriorate every day. We were reminded recently when we found that some fine cloths we had laid away had become mildewed. Have you ever wrapped up a much-prized woolen garment and then found in a few years that moths had eaten holes in it?

There are a number of truths taught here. The first is that the things of this world are to be used, not laid away. The second is that the things we try to hoard usually spoil on our hands. This is particularly true of money. Thrift is a genuine virtue, but avarice and miserliness are vices. To lay away money or anything else with a definite end in view is good. But we must start piling it up for the mere satisfaction we may get out of hoarding, then deterioration begins.

Material possessions can exercise a powerful tyranny over our lives. Nothing indicates mental and moral health more surely than a definitely than one's ability to maintain a right attitude toward things.

674 Japs Dead Or Missing Due to Floods

Tokyo, Sept. 18 — (AP) — An estimated 674 Japanese were dead or missing today in a storm and resulting floods which ravaged broad areas of Japan from Tokyo northward.

Hardest hit was flooded Ichinomeki, a city of 35,000 population 250 miles north of Tokyo.

The army headquarters at Sendai, 60 miles to the south, said rural police had revised casualty figures downward at Ichinomeki but 200 were listed as dead and 300 as missing. Earlier 500 were reported dead or missing there, with 1,200 injured.

Kyodo news agency said 24 inches of rain fell in Ichinomeki.

The army and reports from the city estimated 1,000 houses were destroyed and 2,000 damaged. Fifty-five families.

Capital Closure Thanksgiving Day Must be Fixed By Proclamation

By H. DENTY HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 18 (CP)—Canadians who want to know exactly and officially what they are going to be thankful for Oct. 11—be it a holiday or not—find it all in the Canada Gazette.

Unlike most other statutory holidays which fall on specific days, Thanksgiving Day must be fixed by proclamation. And the formal preamble to the date-fixing document sets out the reasons for Thanksgiving in solemn words which fill like a psalm.

"Whereas" the proclamation reads, "it hath pleased Almighty God in His great goodness to vouchsafe many blessings during the past year to the people of Canada:

"And whereas, under the blessing of Almighty God, Canada has been spared a great measure of the privations which in other many nations have undergone through war:

"And whereas it has pleased His Majesty the King graciously to grant a harvest which, in addition to meeting the needs of the people of Canada, has enabled us to assist the peoples of other countries in their distress:

"We therefore, considering that these blessings vouchsafe to the people of Canada call for a special and public acknowledgement:

The proclamation goes on to set the date as Oct. 11 and then under whose name all such proclamations are issued, adds impressively:

"We do hereby invite all our people to observe the day as a solemn day as a day of general thanksgiving."

Dominion's Bulletin Board

Thus Thanksgiving Day becomes official, with the publication of the proclamation in the Canada Gazette by the King's printer. This slim, uncovered volume appears weekly, making official other proclamations great and small.

The Gazette, too, places the official seal on appointments to commissionerships and boards in Majesty's forces. Here appear notices of Dominion elections, calls for public tenders, notices of incorporation, alterations in military regulations.

Hefty Handle

Below each proclamation comes the full title of the Governor-General, who rates more wordage than the King himself. Lounging in Rideau Hall, Canada's representative in his military chest is Viscount Alexander's full moniker. Takes a deep breath:

"Right Honourable the Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Knight of the Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of our most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Star of India, Companion of our most Distinguished Service Order, upon whom has been conferred the decoration of the Military Cross, Aide-de-Camp to Our army, Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada."

Murderer Ponders Whether to Appeal

Mansfield O., Sept. 18 (AP)—A convicted triple slayer today pondered whether to appeal. Whether his life was worth an appeal to higher courts.

The decision rested with Robert Muri Daniels, a 36-year-old Columbus (Ohio) truck salesman.

Friday to die Jan. 3 in Ohio's electric chair for the kidnap murders earlier this summer of a state penal official, his wife and stepdaughter.

The curly haired Daniels said he was "not convinced in my own mind that I should pay with the shots and was guilty of first degree murder." He also said he was innocent of insanity, and testified he could remember "every detail point" where Mr. and Mrs. John Niebel and their daughter, Phyllis, 11, were shot to death in a lonely cornfield near here.

Daniels and co-defendant Frank Craddock, Det. Robert McCandless and Constable Douglas Stephens, were convicted a police commission investigation of unjustifiably holding Norman Jack Virginia, 42, in a police station last Dec. 22 after Jack's arrest on charge of armed robbery.

The police commission reviewed the case and Friday announced the reinstatement.

After a statement the board reaffirmed its decision of guilt. However, it was "deeply concerned about the punishment, which has been described as being unduly severe."

Hitler's Invasion Of Sudetenland Prelude to War

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(AP War Analyst)

Hitler made his triumphal entry into Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland Oct. 1, 1938, over roads strewn with flowers by rejoicing citizens of German blood who now were being annexed by the Reich.

Here Czechoslovakia was at the mercy of a throwback to the Middle Ages. The position would have been even more shocking had we known that the weak-kneed appeasement policy which accompanied the fait Hitlerian annexation was also the forerunner of the German world-war invasion a year and one-half later of the communist conquest of 1948.

Hitler used the ancient frontier line of Austria's Alpine bastions through which he informed not only the Sudetenland but the whole world:

"Never will this land be torn from the Reich!"

Blatant Boast

Perhaps that blatant boast might have come true, had the dictator not been afflicted with the incitable ambition to over-run the world and conquer it. Hitler was made his declaration from a podium on a grandstand erected on the cobbled square of this old town. The gable-windows of the weather-stained houses were jammed with spectators, and below thousands of Germans shoulder to shoulder, gazing towards their "Liberator" and the impressive array of German flags flying from towering standards.

After the celebration at Eger I made a protracted swing through Poland, Hungary and all the Balkans studying the situation with particular reference to the Hitlerian development. Everywhere the story was the same. Hitler held virtually all that mattered in the palm of his wicked hand. Quite apart from the armed might of the Reich, Germany had an unequalled diplomatic strangle-hold on those countries.

New Development

When I finally arrived back in London via the Low Countries and France I had found the answer to a lot of questions, but there was one big question mark about which I wasn't sure. The attitude of Britain and France toward Hitler seemed to have undergone a change. Appeasement was a problem to one of the great figures of the British government.

On my journey I had learned that:

"I have not come for an interview," Hitler had informed my guest one. But I have sensed what seems to be the beginning of a change in British sentiment and policy towards Germany. I shall be British to the end, no matter whether I am right, and if I am right I shall be content.

"You are right," he replied. "We reluctantly have come to the conclusion that the policy of appeasement has failed. We reluctantly have come to the conclusion that Hitler is not susceptible to any moral influence. He is a man with a dangerous obsession. We have decided that we must smash him. We hope to do it by economic pressure and blockade, but if these fail, we shall use force."

British Trade Now Follows Airplane Instead of Flag

By JAMES McCOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Sept. 18 (CP)—British trade now follows the airplane instead of the flag.

R.A.F. and commercial aircraft, transporting people, planes guided by radar and radio, and on the basis of early photographic reports Britain will spend hundreds of millions of pounds.

The planes are the forefront of the colonial development campaign to provide food, articles for trade and new sources of raw materials.

During the recent months these projects have been approved:

Programs of 17 colonial administrations, involving a total expenditure of about £180,000,000 ($720,000,000). Of this total, on which £59,000,000 will come from the British government, £68,000,000 from loans and £68,000,000 from revenue. Projects cover everything from roads to construction to agricultural research.

St. John's has been ordered to photograph great areas in east and central Africa, to provide maps on which development will be planned.

2. Perhaps £40,000,000 will be spent on peanut production in east and central Africa, where work already has been started. Land which formerly produced only thorn bushes will soon contribute to the world's fats supply and in almost every country by warplanes will be used in aerial education.

Money is provided through the Overseas Resources Act, authority for which, Colonies, Commonwealth Corporation, with borrowing powers up to £1,000,000 and the Overseas Food Corporation, with borrowing powers up to £50,000,000.

The Overseas Food Corporation has entered into agreements to develop new agricultural areas in Australia, and British money will be available for other undertakings in the Dominions.

A government spokesman said the colonial empire, never completely surveyed and cited for its wealth of forests, minerals, Williams, under-secretary for the colonies, who said one of the major problems was "that we do not

CRAMMING FOR EXAMINATIONS

It is a sad commentary on education in America that students in high school and colleges find cramming necessary, which is one of the best medical colleges in the country finds it necessary for final examinations—or they didn't formerly years ago—and even the members of the faculty told about the method employed for grading students there—regular weekly class work is marked throughout the term and the student's final average standing is thus determined by his or her actual scholarship.

But the great majority of students must attend schools or colleges where the old traditions still prevail.

Short of covering one's cuffs with memoranda or notes or sneaking a pony or other answer book into the examination hall, best preparation I know for the student who must go through the final examination hurdles is as follows:

Begin a month before the date of the examination taking quinine and thiamine.

Take the quinine just as you would take it for prophylaxis against the cri (common respiratory infections), two grains of quinine sulfate in a gelatin capsule, night and morning, after food, and continue the dose right through the examination period. People who take this dose rarely become ill. (Mrs. B. F. F.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (do not use clippings) for the article on "Colds" published. Probably lucky for the boy that the other family doctor is not to keep him—they must be unfit to adopt a child anyway.

Dope

Is it good for one to take (painkiller) now and then, and if so what for? (E. F. C.)

Answer—The nostrum you mention, Dope, or yes at last quietyls, disguised aspirin. You might as sensibly ask whether it is good for one to take a drink now and a mallet now and then.

(Copyright 1946, by John F. Dille Co.)

The sportsmen with their dogs are now taking the field after game birds and game animals. And one thought is uppermost in the minds of the men in these parties. "How can we don't meet a porky!"

There must be something peculiarly attractive in the sight of a porcupine to cause a dog to chase it, for no animal is ludicrous down the way he does. Well-trained bird dog that are expensively taught never to pay the slightest attention to a hare or a fox or any other creature save the game birds these dogs are taught to point without an instant's hesitation, dash in on a porcupine as result is always the same. The dopey, slow-going porky, not at all startled, simply wheels or pivots on his powerful hind legs and meets the onslaught with a swipe of his powerful muscular tail armed with thick, sharp-barbed quills. The boldest of dogs, unafraid of anything in its size or big enough to be dangerous, including wildcats, receiving the wicked slap on the snout lets out one astounding yawp and forgets all about his quarry of an instant before in the agonized pawing, licking, slurping necessitated by the mouthful of quills which he has received.

Some dogs never seem to learn, for time after time, with inevitable consequences. And the hardest part of the encounter is not the reception of the quills. It is the pulling of them out afterward, fighting, cussing masters and whimpering dogs. Some of the boss takes hold of his dog immediately a porcupine quills friendship appears. The dog acts like a lunatic, and the master has to hold him down in the time of sentiment, for the quills die hard, and they hurt like fury. The best thing to do is wrap the dog in a blanket, hold him helpless and frothing, and then yank, yank, yank.

Meanwhile the porky, artless cause of all this, tumult, goes unconcernedly on his affairs. He may hurry a little. But not for long and then not much. Then he forgets the incident entirely, the porcupine belongs to very old and respectable family. He is unchanged today, in the least degree, from the porcupines found in fossil remains millions of years old.

Bodies of Victims Arrive at Haifa

Haifa, Israel, Sept. 18 — (AP) — Shipped home for burial in their homelands, the bodies of Count Bernadotte and Col. André Serrot arrived in Haifa today after a four-hour journey in a Swiss ambulance plane.

Highest officials of the United Nations Palestine Truce Council at salute as the bodies were carried from the plane to waiting hospital by Swedish and French officers.

A United Nations plane will fly the two assassination victims' companions, Col. Andre Serot of France, Col. Sven Gustaf Andstrom of Sweden and Count Bernadotte's headquarters, to Cyprus where they will be flown to France. Israeli and U. N. doctors conducted the embalming this afternoon.

INSURANCE CARRIED

Paris, Sept. 18 — (Reuters) — Total death insurances of about $120,000 will be paid to the widow of Count Folke Bernadotte, it was learned from United Nations sources here today. Besides, the United Nations has a system of insurance for all its personnel serving in Palestine.

Knapsack Holds Equipment Used by One-Lone Hunter

New York — (AP) — Allen Best is a hunter, unique among fellow who looks at it he'd be more at home with a sonnet than a snake.

Without benefit of elaborate expeditions or equipment, he travels far, looking for valuable animals which he sells to zoos. He travels alone, with only as much equipment as one knapsack will hold — a few snares, one net, some anti-snake bite serum, one change of clothing and a tooth-brush.

Best, 37, started doing this because he was "fed up with being kicked around by other people; I wanted to be my own boss." So now he's his own boss and people don't kick him around but a good part of the rest of the animal kingdom does.

He has been clawed by giant ant-eaters, bitten by pesky penguins and subjected to the precarious indignity of having to brush the teeth of 9-foot boa constrictors every second day for two weeks.

Birds Bray Like Donkeys

Best returned this spring from a 16,000-mile, 50-day trip to the bleak, cold, snowy Falkland Islands near the tip of South America. He came back with 33 jackass penguins (so they like donkeys); seven red-eyed, white bellied cormorants and five flightless steamer ducks, the last of which, he said, was the first of their kind to reach this country.

A small penguin sells for about $150 dollars while the bigger ones bring as much as $500, depending on the zoo market.

Best and his menagerie traveled the 1,000 miles from the Falklands to Montevideo by ship. From Montevideo, they flew here in a Pan-American World Airways freight plane, especially equipped with air conditioning for ice cakes and fish for his little passengers. He said this is the only way he could have gotten all the animals in New York alive.

Learned Hard Way

On his first trip to South America in 1945, Best spent two years and $10,000 to collect 60 penguins (including several of the 3500 size) and a varied assortment of rare flamingoes, black-necked swans, ant-eaters, boa constrictors, a "spectacled" bear, ocelots and agouti (large rodents).

"I made the mistake of pitying them by host," he said. "Because of the drastic change in climate they should have been moved quickly. In Montevideo 30 penguins died because of a dockers' strike. I lost other animals in the long voyage."

One of the ant-eaters, "a native of northern Argentina which is seven feet long, clawed Best's arm and he couldn't use his fingers for a month.

Later the ant-eater became tame and even drank milk from a glass in Best's hand, but he was quarantined. He couldn't stand seeing anybody pick up a box. Also, he would rush anybody who suddenly turned his back and walked away from him.

It was on the same trip that Best's two boa constrictors developed a mouth infection. After much persuasion, he finally got three sailors to help him treat the non-poisonous but terribly powerful snakes. While one sailor held the snake's neck, another sat on his tail and a third wrestled with the middle part. Best used his spare toothbrush to brush the snake's mouth with peroxide. Both snakes recovered.

Thirsty Ducks Only Bathe

"All the animals have their own peculiarities," Best said. "Once I discovered that the ducks were dying of thirst although I had been giving them plenty of water every day. It turned out they were using it all their water to bathe in and not until they were thoroughly bathed, would they drink."

Penguins are not always the cute, gentle creatures most people think they are, and Best displayed enormous dands to prove it.

"They bite to the bone with than an eagle's bite, he said. "More than an eagle's bite, because they like wire-cutting shears. They also use their wings for defence and that's like being hit with a good-sized board."

As he does with other animals which prove difficult, Best hires natives on the zoos to help him capture and cage penguins.

Penguins usually eat under water, so when they're captured they have to be force-fed and taught to eat all over again. Their appetites are terrific. A seven-pound penguin will eat four-half-pound fish without pausing to breathe. Half an hour later he's hungry again. A 40-pound penguin needs two feet. Best shoots six pounds of fish a day and is still not satisfied.

Best was born in Chicago, raised in British Columbia and always liked animals. After "receiving a markably little formal education" he went to work in New York's American Museum of Natural History and helped in the preparation of the North African group there.

Later he went to Paris to study animal sculpture and moved on to the London Zoo as assistant curator under Julian Huxley. He spent the war years in the British Merchant Marine.

BALCONIES ARE COMING BACK IN VOGUE

The robust gent in the uniform who is speaking here is Soviet Lieut.-General Godeyev, head of the Russian delegation to the big Communist rally staged in the Soviet sector of Berlin last week. Although only 100,000 turned up to whoop it up for dear old Joe instead of the expected 400,000, General Godeyev pulled out all the stops, denounced the U.S. as a Fascist state comparable to Nazi Germany and said all kinds of nasty things about the western democracies. The balcony, which whistled and wheezed with the breaths of ghosts of victims of Nazi concentration camps. The balcony scene is more than faintly reminiscent of the days of Benito and Adolph.

Guides, Brownies Resume Meetings For Fall Term

Commissioner J. Watson of the Girl Guides and Brownies of Belleville and District announced that all Girl Guides and Brownie Packs of commence at their appointed meeting times after Monday, Sept. 20.

The four Brownie Packs and two Guide companies offer pleasurable activities and studies for girls of eligible ages under supervised guidance of trained instructresses. Besides acquiring valuable training and knowledge, girls in the organization enjoy the companionship of others of their own age in sports, team activities and etc.

Commencing next week, the four Brownie packs will meet according to last year's schedule The same officers will be in charge for this season.

Pack No. 1 will meet at the Kiwanis Centre, with Mrs. A Tooth, Mrs. A. Wilkes and Mrs F. Fulton in charge. Pack No. 2 will meet at Queen Mary Public School with Mrs. H. Samuels and Mrs. A. Wagar in charge. Pack No 3 meet at the Kiwanis Centre on Wednesday, with Mrs. C. Price and Mrs. Hall in charge. Park No 4 will meet at King George Public School with Mrs. A. Brown in charge.

Company No. 2 of the Girl Guides will meet at the Kiwanis Centre under the guidance of Capt. M. Grovier, and Lieut. M. Jordan. Company No. 7 will meet in Christ Church Parish Hall, under the direction of Capt. A. Stewart and Lieut. D. Stewart.

An invitation is issued by this organization to girls interested to come out to the meeting and get in on the fun. Every girl will find something in the Guides and Brownies that will be beneficial and enjoyable to her.

TIGHTEN CONTER BLOCKADE

Berlin Sept. (AP) — The Western Allies tightened their counter-blockade of the Russian zone today to shut off the last flow of goods from western Germany to the east.

Patrols were increased at crossing points along the length of Bionla's frontier with the Soviet zone to halt any east bound freight on the highways.

Meanwhile, German Communist leaders assailed the planners of a western German government today as Soviet Reps prowled Berlin's sector borders. Several vehicles made quick sallies into American territory.

SOCIETY NEEDS MONEY

Peterborough, Sept. 17 (CP)— The Ontario Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals can operate at its present capacity for only two more years without additional financial help, Rev. Chris J. Loat, of the St. Catharines Association, Provincial Secretary, said today.

He told the Society's 28th annual meeting here today: "Either the Ontario government will help us maintain our work, along with public subscriptions, or within two years it will be forced to accept full responsibility of law enforcement in regard to cruelty."

ARCHER WANTS ELEPHANT

Pretoria, South Africa — (CP) —Armed with only a bow and arrow, a young archer here pleaded a party of five hunters on a three-week expedition in Northern Rhodesia, and bagged a grown-up wart-hog, a waterbuck and a few smaller bucks. He is convinced that he can kill a rhinoceros and even an elephant — with a bull's eye.

Police Trap Still Being Maintained By O.P.P. Officers

Hensall, Ont., Sept. 17 (CP) — A police trap laid last Tuesday morning in the hope of snaring four men suspected of planning to rob the branch of the Bank of Montreal here was still being maintained today, as Provincial Police officers stood guard on the bank during business hours.

A road map, found last Monday near Durham, with the Hensall district circled and writing in French which indicated plans to rob the bank, led to the arrest made, threw the quiet Huron county town in a furore of tense expectations which has mounted steadily since officers first arrived here Tuesday morning.

While the bank employees waited, tensely for something to happen, Provincial policemen from Stratford, Goderich, Clinton and Seaforth set in police cars or patrolled the street.

It was learned reliably the chain of circumstances prominently mentioning the name of escaped convict Mickey MacDonald, began in Montreal, continued in Windsor, moved to Durham and then to here.

Windsor detail officials, it was reported, became suspicious of a large parcel addressed to the former home of a well-known criminal and launched an investigation. It was learned the parcel contained a high-powered automatic weapon, sent from Montreal.

The sender was located in Montreal and placed under surveillance. It is believed something happened to tip off the sender and he, along with three other men, fled in a car bearing Quebec and United States license plates.

Trail of the four men was picked up in Ontario and the men were traced to the Durham district. While the car was being watched in that area, a bundle of papers was thrown or blew from the car. One of the papers was a road map.

Clearly outlined on the map, it was reported, was the Hensall area. French words indicated plans had been made to rob the Bank of Montreal here and inspector Alex Cralk set his men in action.

Lethal Brew Expected to End Snake Nuisance

Winnipeg, Sept. 17 (CP) There's a chance this fall for "Snakes alive" will lose its validity for the people of the town of Inwood, north of Winnipeg.

Garter snakes, hundreds of them, have plagued Inwood for the last few weeks. But the reptiles soon will face a battle to the death with intrepid exterminators from the Provincial Health and Welfare Department.

When the plague was at its worst, some of the snakes were brought to government laboratories here. They were trapped with various delicacies which, it was hoped, would prove lethal.

Now the tacticians think they've discovered a weapon which will be the nemesis of the wrigglers. It's nicotine sulphate. Put a few drops in a pan of water, place it before a thirsty snake and he expires in 20 minutes, the experts say.

The exterminators plan shortly to advance on Inwood in full battle array. The plans, screened to prevent other animals from drinking out of them, will be placed near the snakes' nests.

Then, it's hoped, the snakes will emerge from their lairs, drink, and die. It sounds cold-blooded, but they've been so numerous in Inwood they've become a nuisance, and residents will welcome any measure which will reduce their numbers if not wipe them out.

RESTS WITH MEMBERS

Paris, Sept. 17 (AP)—The fate of Premier Henri Queuille's new cabinet rested today with the members of the National Assembly's Finance Committee.

The committee, representing all French parties, is expected to start voting today on Queuille's plan for raising 80,000,000,000 Francs ($260,000,000) in new revenue by additional direct and indirect taxes. An adverse committee vote likely would cause the downfall of the six-day-old coalition government.

WEDDINGS

TRUAISCH—KEON

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the setting for the wedding of Mary Ella Laurence, daughter of Mrs. Keon and the late Wilbert John Keon to James Vincent Truaisch, son of Mrs. Truaisch and the late John M. Truaisch, Monday morning, September 15th.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Stanley Keon, was lovely in a travelling costume trimmed with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. The gown was fashioned with bishop sleeves, pearl bow and train. A finger tip veil with a Queen Ann bonnet headdress and a cascade of white gladioli and stephanotis completed her costume.

Miss Theresa Keon, sister of the bride, was her maid-of-honor and Miss Mary Truaisch, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Both were matching dresses of green dragon faille taffeta fashioned in basque lines with bustle back and taffeta ribbon sash. They carried bouquets of crescents of bronze mums.

Mr. J. T. Truaisch, of Kingston, brother of the groom, was groomsman, while Messrs. Kenneth McNaught and Ronald Lynch were ushers.

The soloist, Mr. Joseph McCann of Kingston, sang several beautiful numbers. Sister Mary Bibianna supplied the organ music. Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., P.A., P.P. officiated. The church was decorated with pink and white.

After the ceremony a reception was held at The Golden Acre Inn, where the bride's mother, gowned in Royal blue crepe and blue accessories and a corsage of fuchsia glamelias received the guests assisted by the groom's mother who chose a gown of pearl grey two-piece crepe with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of glamelias.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and points east the bride donned a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories.

Upon their return the happy couple will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Napanee, Kingston and Toronto.

Miss Ella Keon was guest-of-honor at a number of prenuptial parties prior to her marriage to Ernest J. Truaisch. Mrs. Jos. McCullough entertained about fifteen of Miss Keon's friends at a miscellaneous shower and Mrs. Jos. Trudeau was hostess at a miscellaneous shower and a supper party was given for the bride by Mrs. S. Keon.

PARKS—REEVES

Tweed (Special) — On Thursday, September 9th at 9 o'clock at the United Church parsonage, Almonte, Emma Grace, daughter of Mrs. Reeves and the late John D. Reeves became the bride of Arthur Roy Parks, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Parks of Tweed. Rev. H. L. Morrison, B.A., B.D., former pastor of St. John's Church, Tweed, officiated.

PRICE—GORDON

Madoc (Special) — The United Church Parsonage at Madoc was the scene of the marriage of Vera Lorraine Gordon, daughter of Mrs. Sue Gordon, to William Joseph Price, son of Mrs. Merritt Price of Actinolite and the late Major Price on September 17th at 10:00 a.m. Rev. Alfred Poulter performed the ceremony.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Leslie Ashley at the piano and Anne Nichls who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Because".

The bride was charming in a pale blue gabardine suit with wine accessories and a corsage of cream colored roses. Miss Margaret Hamilton was bridesmaid and chose a black gabardine suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Bruce Price of Actinolite was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the "Log Cabin", Actinolite. The bride's mother received the guests wearing navy blue jersey with black accessories and a corsage of salmon pink glamelias. The groom's mother assisted wearing dark green crepe with matching hat and a corsage of deep pink glamelias.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Quebec City and upon their return will reside in Actinolite.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Harron, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. David Price Tweed and Mr. F. W. Lewis, Toronto.

SANDFORD-BRETHOUR

The home of the bride's uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brethour of Sunderland was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon, September 1st, when Shirley May, only daughter of Mr. A. Clifford Brethour and the late Mrs. Brethour, of Sunderland, became the bride of Robert James Sandford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Sandford, of Eldorado. Rev. R. G. Halbert officiated in front of an evergreen arch backed with baskets of multi-colored gladioli.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father looked lovely in a street length dress of blue silk jersey with a deep draped neckline and a full flared skirt. She wore a blue headdress and she carried a nosegay of red roses and asters.

The bride's attendant was Mrs. Roy Parish who chose a very effective dress of gray crepe trimmed with gold sequins. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and mixed flowers and she wore a matching headdress.

Mr. Clarence Kincaid, brother-in-law of the groom acted as the groomsman.

The wedding music was played by Miss Beatrice Bryan. During the signing of the register, Miss Muriel Hunt of Napanee sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony about thirty guests attended the reception. Those who assisted with the reception were Misses Dorothy Kyle and Eleanor Bagshaw of Sunderland; June Lockwood, Gladys Bradley and Marilyn nail of Oshawa.

For a motor trip to Muskoka the bride chose a brown crepe dress with pink inserts in the bodice, a green hat, brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Sandford Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from. Toronto, Napanee Belleville, Eldorado, Rostin, Brooklin and Oshawa.

Corner Stone of Batawa U.C. Is Laid by Rev. H.C. Vaclavik Church Ready Before Winter

In the presence of many members of the congregation, the corner stone of the new United Church at Batawa was laid Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. H. C. Vaclavik of the Rawdon circuit. Rev. Vaclavik was the first United Church minister at Batawa when services were conducted in the community hall.

The new church is now well under way and is expected to be completed and ready for use before winter. It will be the first Protestant church in the village.

Being constructed on the most prominent building site in the village, the new church will be of solid brick construction with concrete facing. A full basement will be devoted to a Sunday School room, modern heating equipment and completely equipped kitchen. The church auditorium will have a seating capacity of approximately 250 persons. Size of the structure is 50 x 65 feet.

Completion of the new church will climax the efforts of the congregation which since 1943 have been planning the new edifice. The building fund was started in 1943. The Fred Eagle Construction Co., of Belleville is building the church.

The presiding minister of the new congregation is Rev. H. H. Lackey. Until the new church is completed services are being held each Sunday in the Batawa recreation hall.

Jubilee Evening Auxiliary Meets

The first fall meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held Tuesday with Mrs. R. Woodley's group in charge of the supper and Mrs. Josephine Rickell's group the program.

A beautiful prayer written by Dr. Hsieh Lin of the Peking Medical College, followed by the missionary hymn, "Where There is No East nor West" was a fitting introduction to the Study Book—West of the Gorges, by K. J. Bentley.

The book tells the story of the lives and work of several of the outstanding Chinese Christians of today, namely, six Canadians; three men and 3 women, who in 1892 travelled three hundred miles up the Yangtze River, a trip of three months in those days, to a country, a people, a language, completely unknown to them in the province of Szchewan.

The story of Li Seh Min, or Margaret Li as she is known today, her family, her home and her work was told in the first chapter and spans the whole fifty years of Christian mission work in Szchewan Province.

It was Mrs. Bentwell who first acquainted Margaret Li with Christianity and in turn Margaret Li and Dr. Kilborn and his family have been the leading Christian families there from 1892 to the present day.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. met on Tuesday with A. H. McCollough in the lough presiding. Several items of business were discussed and it was decided to sell Christmas cards and calendars. Mrs. McCullough announced the forthcoming tea to be held at the Manse. Miss McIntosh gave an interesting report on the rally held recently in Deseronto.

The program following the business period was conducted by Mrs. I. L. Moore who chose for her theme "Faith." The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. Cameron. Mrs. J. Brisbin sang an appropriate solo and was much appreciated. Mrs. Moore gave an inspiring message in which she stressed the need of faith in the world today.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Moore and members of her group.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S. MARMORA

St. Andrew's W.M.S. held the September meeting at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine on Tuesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Burwash, Mrs. H. C. Barlow presided with Mrs. E. C. Prentice assisting. The theme was "The Faith Whereby the Church Must Live", and the order of service in the August Missionary Monthly was followed.

The business portion of the meeting consisting of Roll Call of members and treasurer's report by Mrs. Jarvis were given, and books read and calls made was taken by Mrs. Sabine. Mrs. D. Young kindly consented to carry on with the office held by Mrs. E. M. Cadigan before she moved to Ottawa, the Worship Service then followed with Mrs. Barlow taking the leader's part and Mrs. Prentice the Scripture passages. The offering was received and dedicated.

In place of the usual study period Mrs. Young reviewed the study Book for the year "West of the Gorges" by Dr. K. J. Beaton in a most interesting way. She also gave a reading about an English doctor who went out to China and lived a life of unselfish devotion.

It was decided to buy the book "West of the Gorges" and have it ready to commence to study at the October meeting.

Mrs. Prentice offered her home for the next meeting and the meeting closed with prayer. The hostess served refreshments.

General Council United Church Will be Asked to Endorse "Positive Program For Peace"

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

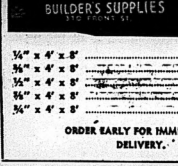
Vancouver, Sept. 18 — (CP) — The 12th General Council of the United Church of Canada will be asked here next week to endorse a "positive program for peace" which calls for a change of mood among people . . . to increase the chance of averting war without compromise of basic convictions."

This recommendation appeared today in the 425-page agenda for the nine-day meeting of lay and clergy delegates from the church's one Newfoundland and 10 Canadian conferences.

More than 1,000 persons, 470 of them official delegates, are scheduled to attend the meetings here in St. Thomas Wesley United Church beginning Sept. 21.

The official peak approval also of a recommendation that the Canadian government give the Security Council of the United Nations all necessary aid in its efforts to meet and overcome "any threat to or breach of the peace or threat of aggression."

Since the 11th biennial meeting of the General Council in 1946 it has been studying and compiling reports and recommendations coverfing a wide field of activities of church and general interest.



In its report spoken the United Church will seek from its General Council a continuation of activities towards a greater union among churches.

In addition to the 13 standing committees, covering such widely diffused subjects as faith, marriage, culture, church expansion and the Lord's Day observance, 22 other memorials will be urged upon the General Council by individual clergymen and church conferences throughout Canada and Newfoundland.

From the executive of the General Council will come a request for full investigation into the question of capital punishment and the Hamilton conference will ask that "a more scientific and humane" method be carried out as a capital punishment sentence be substituted.

As a further activity in the international sphere, Toronto will urge the Canadian government be asked to authorize immigration into Canada of adoptable children and London will seek church endorsement of student preparation for missionary service to Russia.

SERIOUS ON SEPTEMBER 21 - By Alan Mavor

Australia's Atkins Wins Over Ireland's O'Connor As Jack Sharkey Looks On

Handsome Fred Atkins, wrestling champion of Australia, strode another step towards his British Empire championship goal at Memorial Arena last night, when he came back from terrific punishment to win the main bout from Dangerous Dan O'Connor.

Eighteen hundred fans packed the arena to see one of the best wrestling shows of the season.

Featuring the debut was Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, who refereed the main bouts. Sharkey's exhibition as a third man in the ring met with the approval of the fans, and was a refreshing departure from the weak-kneed arbiting wrestling fans have had to put up with during the past few weeks.

Sharkey—clearly demonstrated that he was not fooling. He had the situation well under control all the way. O'Connor and Atkins, too, appeared to like the idea of the publicized ability of the former world's heavyweight boxing champion, but throughout the bout it was evident they had a wholesome respect for the potential power of the Sharkian fists. In fact, at event it was a colorful, interesting bout. O'Connor, the "dirty Irish" of Kilkenny, Kansas City, Ireland, used everything but his rafters in his efforts to turn back the "digger from Australia".

As a matter of fact the O'Connor called into action everything but Walt Grenet's and Phil Lawson's glaring cravat.

It was mild and woolly from the start. Stung by his setback of a week ago, although it was called no contest, O'Connor dug deeply into his bag of trick in an effort to cop the nod.

But the handsome Australian, badly crippled by the furious unorthodox tactics of O'Connor came back periodically to set the Irish back with slashing right and left elbows to the jaw.

O'Connor, in fact, almost went berserk towards the end of the first fall. He used everything he had including a half - hearted swing at Sharkey's jaw, which did not get him anything but a scare when the former heavyweight champion swung a dangerous left hook in his direction.

In any event he went haywire and Sharkey stopped the event with a disqualification win for Connor.

The second and final fall saw a repetition of the O'Connor tactics. He handed out a severe punishment when he had the left arm of the Aussie under control. They writhed, and fought all over the ring. Then seeing his opportunity, the Australian, quickly fashioned his Kangaroo Clutch hold on the legs of the O'Connor and it was all over.

In the semi - final the Masked Marvel opposed Ed. Meaks in a roaring bout. The Mask lived up to his reputation of being a deep-dyed villain of the ring and his tactics and methods had the fans screaming.

In the preliminary, the popular Pat Flanagan, substituting for another wrestler, brought his reputation in a lively bout that earned the referee's decision after thirty minutes of rousing brawling.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Jim Hegan, Indians, drove in three runs with a home run and a single to lead the Indians to a 4-1 triumph over the Senators.

Pitching—Johnny Sain, Boston, with only two days rest, pitched an eight hit, 6-2 triumph over Pirates. It was his 21st victory. 26th complete game and his 8th outing in the last 34 days.

Napanee Athletics Defeat Merchants In Playoff Game

Belleville Merchants literally threw the first game for the league title on the ice here at the Sale Grounds last night, when they were defeated by Napanee by a score of 5-4. It was one of the best games played in the loop this year and the Merchants, who have fought an uphill fight to reach the finals deserved a better fate on the night's play. Stan McTaggart, who started for Napanee was the hero in the eyes of the fans from the eastern town, who accompanied the team for he smashed a home run to put his team on even terms with the Merchants in the last frame and the Napanee team went on to win by the odd run after Vern Geyer allowed a hit by Gerow to get away from him.

Dick Fitzpatrick pitched an excellent game of ball, restricting the Napanee sluggers to six hits four of which came in the last two frames. He had two unearned runs scored against him in the second frame, when Tim Williams, usually reliable made three errors in the inning but two of them should have been easy outs. He was master of the situation from there till the eighth and with a two-run lead to work on the visitors but the roof fell in in the last two frames.

Allowed Six Hits

Fitzpatrick allowed but six hits, he struck out seven and walked the same number, while McTaggart, who got credit for the game processed allowed seven singles, Gerow on four and walked five but he was awful stingy with them on the runways. Belleville went into a two-run lead in the first frame by scoring two, when Jocko made a bobble, he scored another in the second when on consecutive hits Williams pilfered the home plate. They scored another in the seventh when Scarlaugh's single after Rogers had walked and stole second.

McTaggart's wild pitch would have been held to a double at the outside if Wardhaugh had kept the ball better in the outfield but that is only after-guessing on the writer's part.

The lineup:

Napanee—Vern Green, 2b; Scarlett, cf, Gerow, ss, Jocko 3b, Hayes c, Curry rf, Murphy lb, Burtt lf, McTaggart p.

Merchants—Rogers rf and 2b, Wardhaugh 3b, Carson ss, Goyer, lb, Fitzpatrick p, Williams c, Williams 2b and rf, Bennett lf, Elliatt c.

Score by innings:

Napanee	..	020	000	012	—	5	6	4
Merchants	..	002	110	000	—	4	6	4

Umpires: Townsend, plate, Mack, bases.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

By the time this edition reaches the easy chair stage, our Kiwanis golf heads-up ball is either won or lost, thanks to the wall with Earlscourt juniors in Toronto. They play this afternoon in the Queen City and if they don't continue their ways along the OBA junior playdown trail they must perforce, emerge with a win against their Wednesday night opponents, Belleville, performing for Kiwanis. It is a smart team, that is blessed with hurling well above the average junior team the city slickers know a lot of the baseball answers as well.

So that as it may. Today's game is another joust, and the result thereon will hang the fate of our beardless buckaroos. We don't know how the local philosophers, including Coach Burnett may throw Don Semark at the classy Toronto lads, as the runner has seeped down from the jungles of Earlscourt that their prides can't altogether fancy flirting from the portside.

Possibly so. But they were severely deflated by the two shellackings plastered on them by the Belleville Merchants, followed by a descent of Earlscourt pie last Wednesday. Today should see a lot of determined competition to set them and do their dangdest to get back in the running.

* * *

Several members of last year's Stirling Midget and Juvenile Hockey Teams left on Sunday for Galt where they will try-out at the Galt and District Juniors. The party included Ross Mason, E. Robson and Ted Dobson, of the Midgets, and Stewart Mason and Gerald Sprague, of the Juveniles. The boys were accompanied by Messrs. Bob Dobson and R. Hermiston.

* * *

Alec at Galt, and catching the eye of the railbirds and members are Bob Taylor and Angy Gaudette, two of the Belleville Rockets stand. The boys have been working out with the Rockets and according to reports from the rink-side both boys are going great guns.

* * *

Eddie Schreiber, former football star, and 1942 rookie of the year in the "Blind Mice Brigade" explained the other day why the rumors of his village entering an intermediate football team in the ORFU were more or less in the air. He said the master is. Eddie says he was asked by the newly-formed Lakeshore Lions of Belleville could field a team, and Eddie promptly gave out with the correct answer.

* * *

Schreider, however, is hopeful that this city will be represented by a football team next year. With the formation of the new Canadian Intermediate Football Conference, which could be arranged with transportation costs at a minimum. Fed as Eddie points out, organization should start by late spring or early summer. The football season is a long one in fact and the team should be ready to step on the field to play at the beginning of the season. There is a definite fluffy of a meeting of those interested in the game come Spring when the matter will be fully discussed.

* * *

And speaking of football "Pete" Beach and "Red" Townsend attended a meeting of the Lakeshore and Bay of Quinte districts of the COSSA the other night in Peterborough. The same type of meeting as last year was played with Lindsay dropping out of the senior bracket. The four competing teams will be Peterborough and Oshawa in the west and Albert and BCI down this way.

* * *

Albert and BCI will play home and home games with all Jouts taking place on the Albert field. Oshawa and Peterborough will play home and home games while intergroup games will call for each team to play two games with teams in the standing at the end of the schedule will play off for the title and the Ontario title COSSA finals which this year will be held on a field suitable to the Niagara Falls-Georgian Bay districts winners.

Tennis Crown May be Lifted By Foreigner

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 18 — (AP) — With the youth movement in American tennis having progressed to certain proportions, the United States was in danger today of seeing its singles championship offered up to a foreigner for the first time in a dozen years.

Today's line-up, from which the opponents in tomorrow's championship battle will emerge, sends 19-year-old Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills against Eric Sturgess of South Africa and Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, 20-year-old Los Angeles Mexican, against Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia.

Gonzales completed the rout of all the homered veterans yesterday when he upset top - seeded Frankie Parker of Los Angeles two-time former champion 8-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Drobny, 27-year-old southpaw ace of the Czech Davis Cup forces, landed in the round of four by thoroughly stubbing 22-year-old Bob Falkenburg, of Hollywood the Wimbledon champion 8-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Sturgess, 28-year-old South African champion and Flam, former junior titlist from the University of California, reached the semi-finals Thursday. Thus, with four players still battling for the title vacated by Jack Kramer, the first seven seeded domestic stars were on the sidelines.

Rangers Start Training Camp At Lake Placid

New York, Sept. 18 (CP)—New York Rangers swing into their Lake Placid, N.Y., training camp next Tuesday with more than three weeks before the opening whistle of the National Hockey League season.

Manager Frank Boucher, who remembers when there were only about 70 professional hockey players in the world, expects to welcome more than 40 professional stickhandlers.

While living at Saranac Lake, N.Y., the players will travel each day to the Olympic Arena at Lake Placid. Until last year the Blue Shirts trained at Winnipeg.

Along with returning veterans Boucher expects to find several likely-looking rookies and a trio of players acquired in trade.

Great things are expected of little Duncan Fisher and big Nick Mickoski who were rushed up from the Ramblers for the final game of the season. There is a possibility of a reunion of the injury-riddled Rangers finished in fourth place.

Other first-year candidates include defenceman Harry Bell, and Jack Lauzon, and forwards Ken Davies, Jackie Gordon, Huh Ansiew, Fern Perrault and Bill Watson.

The new Rangers picked up in trades are Wally Stanowski and Elwyn Morris, defencemen from Toronto Maple Leafs, and Percival Lund, right-winger from Hershey Bruins and formerly the property of Boston Bruins.

The veterans include three rock - ribbed defencemen, Allan 60-point scorer last season, Edgar Laprade and Don Raleigh. Other forwards are Tony Leswick, Eddie Kullman and Ed Slowinski.

Veteran Pet Colville, last season's captain, Jean Lamirande Phil Watson and Frank Eddolls will seek defence berths again. Boucher will have back Buck Jones and Jim (Sugar) Henry battling again for the goal-keeping chores. He plans to go to camp with his contending partners as he did last year with one in reserve.

Lifeguard Rescues Woman from Submerged Car

WINS DOW AWARD

MURRAY GRIFFIN

OF ST. THOMAS, ONT.

acts quickly to save woman as car rolls down bank into lake

Murray Griffin, lifeguard at Pinafore Park and swimming instructor at the Y.M.C.A. Recreation Committee, was sitting on the dock when the accident happened. A car, which had been parked above the embankment, suddenly started rolling down the hill and, within seconds, was in the lake, under water.

Griffin, thinking someone might have been in the runaway vehicle, dove to the bottom of the lake, and when he found and saw a woman trapped inside, he had to use all his strength to open the car door. The water pressure was tremendous, but he finally succeeded in getting the terrified woman out of the car and in to shore.

BRIDE KILLED

It was only then that Griffin learned that another woman, a young bride, had been pushed into the lake by the runaway car. The lifeguard immediately returned the water again and, with the help of others, recovered the body of the young woman. She had been pinned under one of the front wheels.

The cool, courageous work of Murray Griffin was the only bright spot on that tragic Sunday afternoon. If it had not been for his prompt actions and quick thinking the lake might have claimed another victim. We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Lifeguard Griffin turned just in time to see the runaway car enter Pinafore Lake. He leaped to his feet and ran to the rescue.

Because of the heavy water pressure, Griffin had a terrific struggle with the car door. He won out, however, and soon had the woman up on the surface.

The DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a high group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

Johnny Sain, Most Valuable Player Candidate For Braves, Rates as Workhorse of Loop

By JOE REICHLER

Johnny Sain, Boston Braves' candidate for the National League's most valuable player award for 1945, already has won one distinction. He easily rates as the workhorse of the baseball leagues this season.

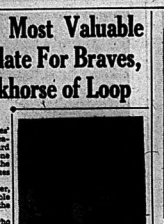
The majors' biggest winner, Sain has been chiefly responsible for the Braves' position at the head of the loop.

The big right hander, who Friday became the first to win 21 games when he hurled the Braves to a 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates, also leads all pitchers in complete games and innings pitched.

The 29-year-old Sain has toiled 281 innings and gone the route in all but two instances. Competitor is Bob Lemon of Cleveland, with 265 innings pitched and 20 complete games.

Sain went the distance Friday, limiting the Pirates to eight hits as the Braves increased their first place margin over the second place Bucs and 57. Louis Cardinals to 4½ games.

Lefty Howie Pollet pitched St. Louis Cardinals to within 6-10th of a point of the National League flag as eight hit 4-3 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers. The defeat dropped the Dodgers into fourth place, six games behind the Braves.



Pollet, who registered his 19th victory against six defeats, was helped by some spectacular fielding support by Stan Musial. First baseman Babe Young provided the batting punch driving in the winning runs with a single and home run.

The torrid American League pennant race remained unchanged with Boston, New York and Cleveland all winning. The front running Red Sox protected their one game lead over the runner-up Yankees with a 7-2 victory over Browns in St. Louis 9-3. The Yankees bombed the Tigers in Detroit 13-3. The Indians handed the luckless Senators a 4-1 licking in Washington to remain 1½ games off the pace.

Philadelphia Athletics came from behind to defeat Chicago White Sox 9-6 in the Majors' only night game.

In the National, Cincinnati Reds handed the fifth-place New York Giants a 5-3 setback at the Polo Grounds while Philadelphia Phils kept the Chicago Cubs in the basement with a 6-3 victory over the Bruins.

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world will defend his title for the twenty-five time sometime in June, according to announcement late yesterday. Louis will meet the winner of the Joe Walcott-Jersey Joe Wolcott fight which takes place this month.

Return of Louis Causes Major Revision in Class

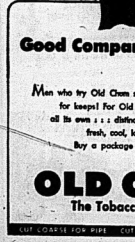
New York, Sept. 18 — (AP) — The return of Joe Louis has caused some major revisions in the heavyweight boxing picture.

No sooner had the news hit the street Friday that Joe had decided to end his "retirement" than Gus Lesnevich broke a bone in his foot and withdrew from his Tuesday date with Jersey Joe Walcott.

All was confusion in the camp of the Tournament of Champions, the new promotional group that is challenging Mike Jacobs.

A heavyweight elimination bout between Lesnevich and Walcott involving a total guarantee of some $150,000, was a big selling point of the Jersey card. Suddenly the promoters discovered that there was no need for any elimination tournament of any kind.

Louis, changing his 'mind despite repeated announcements that he never would fight again, said he would meet the winner of the Nov. 12 fight in Madison Square Garden between Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati and Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa.



Louis now has Mike Jacob's ace in the hole all along in this "war" with the new promoters who never have been taken too seriously in the offices of the 20th Century Sporting Club.

The Jacobs empire was founded on an exclusive contract with the Brown Bomber. When he goes it is generally with the idea that he assume that the new champ — Charles, Baksi, or whoever it may be — will be another Jacobs exclusive.

ALL SQUARE IN SERIES

Geneva, N.Y., Sept. 18 (AP) — Watertown Athletics and Geneva Red Birds will settle their battle tonight for a place in the Border Baseball League's playoff finals. The winner will meet Ogdensburg.

The Red Birds, pulling out of a hitting slump that has plagued them through most of the semi-final series, pounded three Watertown pitchers for 14 hits and a 15-3 victory here Friday night. They scored in every frame except the sixth and eighth. The triumph knotted the seven-game set at 3-3.

Solunar Tables:

Midsummer Nocturne

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author And Creator of Solunar Tables

Of a winter's evening, when anglers gather to talk of seasons past and of days to come, and sooner or later the discussion is bound to turn to the whitling merits of our fresh-water game fish, At the Anglers' Club of New York, where the "big-game" fishermen sing and the Brown Trout a dangerous pretender to the throne, it is my interesting habit to insist that the champions of these two breeds know not wherof they speak. My nomination for top honors is the Black Bass, the best goer for either the Largemouth or the Smallmouth.

Such heresy is not well received by the fishing fraternity, and I cry me down by labelling me as a "coarse fisherman." They descend from Olympus, discussing the Ionalities, slandering my ability as an angler and questioning my sanity. When all is said and done, however, there is one argument which they cannot overthrow—the fact that the Black Bass is a class-by himself in the matter of spectacular surprise. He may not be as game as a trout or as big, powerful and flashy as a Salmon, but when it comes to explosiveness, he certainly stands alone.

Relates Experience

In witness of this, consider what happened to me one warm evening in last July.

My son and I had made our annual pilgrimage to the headwaters of the Delaware River. This has become a sort something of a sentimental rite for us as the season draws near. The fish run small in the upper Delaware, but there are plenty of them, the country is lovely, the river is easily waded and fly rod with surface lures are ideal for those waters. All of this makes for a leasant fishing. Over the years, we have learned to know the river and its vagaries as well as the contours of our living room at home.

There is a spot in the waters that we fish where the larger bass prefer to live. This is in the lower end of a waist-deep "flat" whose bottom is studded with "bird-size" boulders, ranging in diameter from six inches to four or five feet. This makes excellent cover and the bass like it. We call this spot the Bass Mine.

Because of the late spawning season, the fish had been unusually dull for the Delaware. After two days of comparative inactivity, Dick had taken his golf clubs and gone to a nearby links to polish up his iron shots. Left to myself, I drove downstream, parked my car, and walked over to a pool of which the Bass Mine is a part. A Solunar Period was scheduled for later that evening, so, rather than disturb the good water prematurely, I fished the upper pool. In the course of an hour I managed to take five bass, but they were little fellows, none of them over a foot long, so I released them. At last, tiring of small fish, I went ashore, stood my rod against a bush, and sat down on the grassy bank to smoke and watch the river and the sunset.

After half an hour or so of lazy relaxation, a glance at my watch showed that the Solunar Period was due to come in, so I flipped my cigarette into the river, picked up my rod, and waded out through the shallows. Just then I saw Dick walking across the field, rod in hand. Evidently the lure of the river had been stronger than that of the golf course. After inquiring as to my luck, he went on to the lower end of the pool, perhaps two hundred yards below me.

Unlike most of the Delaware, the Bass Mine is difficult wading. Being waist-deep, the slightest misstep can cause your weight to shift water. However, there is no fast water, as bass-bor fishing. If I took my time, casting as long a line as I could threw with my big bug rod.

Beautiful Setting

It was late dusk when I reached the Bass Mine proper. The sunset tints that rises from the far bank was jet black as was the water. The stillness was broken only by the passage of small patches of foam. Over the mountain stood a perfect crescent moon which touched with silver the rifting upstream and caused even the slightest dimple in the water to show up in dark and sharp, flashing contrast. About me all was quiet as the grave, the only sounds being broken occasionally by the chirp of a cricket or the far-off croak of a frog.

I had tied on a white, cork-bodied bug and had cast but one cast across the pool. After waiting for the rings of its splash to spread and vanish, I started the bug on its erratic way back to me. It had traveled perhaps twenty feet of so when it happened. Evidently the bass had been lying just over and decided against taking it.

Then, belatedly, the fish concluded that it had been cheated of its rightful tasty. From the far bank there sprayed a streak of silver as the bass rushed in, dorsal fin cutting the surface, and fell upon my bass bug like a wolf on a rabbit. The splash of the strike was so great that I, far downstream, thought that I had fallen in, and the flying spray frightened by moonlight so that the turmoil stood out against the black background with comparative incandescence.

As ever smallmouth go, the bass was not particularly large — about three pounds, perhaps, but the setting and the rush and strike of that fish has stamped itself indelibly on my memory. The whole combination of circumstances is something that no member of the Salmo tribe ever has or ever could duplicate.

Small wonder that I put away my trout tackle when the next season rolls around. For my money, he is king of our inland waters. Dr. Henry Van Dyke spoke truer when he penned that famous line; "inch for inch and pound for pound, the gamest fish that swims."

Solunar Periods

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed herein, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these periods. If you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The days given are for September 19th to September 30th inclusive. All times E.S.T.

Thirteen Players Will Work Out With the Champs

(By The Canadian Press)

Prospects working out under the auspices of the Toronto Maple Leafs were sorted out Friday night as preparations were completed for opening the regular training camp of the National Hockey League team next Monday. Thirteen players will report back Sunday for workouts with the Stanley Cup champions. Another 16 were told to report to Weston Ice Gardens Leafs' farm club Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL. The remaining 19 returned to their homes in Ontario and Manitoba.

Eric Pagan, Ashawa Generals junior star, was signed to a contract, completing a new "old line" for Pittsburgh. He will work with Rudy Migay and Ray Ceresino.

St. Catharines Athletics defeated Hamilton Tigers 8-3 at Hamilton Friday night, tying up their best-of-seven senior Ontario lacrosse semi-final at three games apiece. The deciding game will be played at St. Catharines Saturday night.

St. Catharines Athletics swept to a straight-games victory in the Canadian Junior lacrosse semi-finals Friday night at Winnipeg when they defeated Winnipeg Kiwanis Kubs 23-5 in the second game of a best-of-three series Athletics won the first game Wednesday night.

Cornwall Flyers shaded Quebec All-Stars 19-17 in a nip-and-tuck thriller at Cornwall Friday night to take a lead in the best-of-seven eastern Canada semi-final series for the senior lacrosse playoffs. The second game is slated for Montreal next Wednesday night. The winners will meet the Ontario champions in the eastern final.

Led by hard-driving halfbacks Pete McKeown and Pete McFarland, Toronto Argue Juniors Friday night whipped Montreal Fashions 15-5 before 4,000 Molson Stadium fans at Montreal in a charity junior football game sponsored by the Verdun Rotary Club.

Windsor Assumption College maintained their mastery over Toronto St. Michael's College in Toronto Friday night when they defeated the Irish, 17-11, for their fourth victory in as many annual exhibition football clashes between the two.

Sidney Hanover, seven-year-old gelding owned by L. L. Herrin of Charlotte, N.C., moved in easy three-heat triumph in the $2,000 free-for-all trot, feature event on the closing day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Reading (Pa.) fair Friday.

Stands of 63 for the first wicket and 65 for the fifth helped Scotland to a first-innings total of 178 against the Australians on the first day of their two-day match at Aberdeen Friday.

Two Canadian records crumbled under the flying hooves of Ora G. Herbert at London, Ont., Friday as Bill Herbert's brilliant three-year-old colt set a new mile mark for the three old pacers of 2.05 and cracked one of the greatest stallion records in the books, Grattan Bars half mile mark. The Herbert colt was officially clocked for the half in 1.02 1-3 seconds, bettering Grattan Bars' mark of 1.02 2-3 by an added touch the exhibition mile-paced also — also tied the talent record of 2.05 set in 1938 by Tom Grattan.

Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Connecticut, shredder, Friday won a place in today's 36-hole championship round of the United States Women's Golf Tournament at Spalding Mrs. Jack Grimm, San Gabriel, Calif., and 3 at Pebble Beach, Calif.

Helen Sigal of Philadelphia became the only finalist when she won over Beverly Hanson of Fargo, N.D., 6 and 5.

A blood clot was removed Friday from the brain of boxer Bill (Chickens) Thompson and doctors at Philadelphia said he has better than a 50-50 chance of recovery. Thompson was flattened during a second-round bout at the end of his bout last night with Johnny Haynes, 135-pound New Yorker. Thompson, a Philadelphia heavyweight, scaled 185 pounds.

Rochester Stops Royals 5-3 In Playoff Game

(By The Associated Press)

Newark Bears are a step away from entering the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy's playoffs.

Manager Bill Skiff's Bears needed out Syracuse Chiefs 5-4 Friday night to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series. In the other semi-final set, Rochester Red Wings scored their first victory in three meetings over the pennant — winning Montreal Royals 5-3.

Bill Reeder, tickled for a second berth with the parent St. Louis Cardinals next spring, halted the surge of the Royals before 10,416 fans at Rochester.

ReReder, who won 19 games in the regular season, allowed 13 hits, but pitched brilliantly in the clutch and left 13 Royals stranded.

The Wings broke a scoreless deadlock in the fourth inning when Clarence Pechlivanis drove in the run with a single that left Jack Bolling on second.

Coaker Triplett Batting Leader Of International

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Coaker Triplett, 24-year-old outfielder of Buffalo Bisons, is the new International League batting champion.

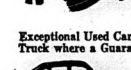
According to unofficial figures released today, Triplett won the second batting championship of his 14-year career by 20 points.

Triplett banged out 161 hits in 398 trips to the plate for a .324 mark. Among his base knocks were 19 homers, 30 doubles and four triples.

Triplett's team-mate, 23-year-old Johnny Groth, finished second in the batting race with a .304 mark. Young Don Mueller of Jersey City wound up third at .331; Hal Rice of Rochester fourth at .329; and Norbert Walaf of Toronto fifth at .315.

Groth bagged most of the remaining individual honors. He scored the most runs, 124, collected the most hits, 184, had doubles, 37 and the most triples, 17. Ed Sandelski, Toronto driver in the most runs, 102, and Sam Jethroe of Montreal stole the most bases, 17.

Don Newcombe, Montreal's negro right-hander, had the best won-lost record among the pitchers, November won 17 games including a no-hitter, and lost six for a .739 mark. Bob Porterfield of Newark registered the most shutouts, six.



Jack Reich of Montreal and Rochester's Bill Reeder won the most games, 19 apiece. Bands also led the loop in strike-outs, fanning that Lefty Dick Mooers of Baltimore walked the most batters, 114.

Appreciate a re-rebiddable suit. Bid it three times. The fact that your partner has reached game should not prevent you from showing it. The information may be just what partner needs.

We are still arguing this deal:

NORTH
♠K 9 7652
♥Q 7
♦A 8 4
♣A 8 64

WEST
♠10 8
♥K 5 3
♦Q J 10 6 3
♣9 7

EAST
♠Q J 3
♥8 6 4
♦10 7 4 2
♣K Q 10 2

SOUTH
♠A 4
♥A Q J 10 9 2
♦K 9 5
♣7 5 3

A biddable suit is at least Q J 3 2. Add an honor card and it is rebiddable. Add another honor card and it is re-rebiddable. The third round bid by south is four hearts.

Three no-trump by north was a bid that reached game. Should this be disturbed to show the re-biddable heart suit? Most certainly. And not only because south has expectations of slam.

Get this definitely established in your mind. With a major suit that is re-rebiddable, your side should not play a deal in a three no-trump contract. It belongs in your trump suit.

Adequate support for a biddable suit is Q 2 3 or 5 4 3 2. To support a rebiddable suit it may be one card less: Q 3 or 4 3 2. To support a re-rebiddable suit it may be one less: Q or 3 2.

North now has adequate support for hearts. Having discovered 12 tricks in their pair, he is ready to probe slam. He bids four no-trump to ask partner how many aces and kings he has.

The reply from south is six diamonds; Kibitzer convention for showing two aces and one king. With two kings missing in the pair, grand slam is too dangerous. Six hearts is where it belongs.

The opening lead from west is diamond queen. Match the south and north cards to come up with 13 tricks. Can do.

Hollywood, Sept. 18 (AP)—"About some things," complains Arlene-Dahl, "studio rumors are fussy old maids."

Arlene, who's draped like the devil on the jackets of modern novels, is a mild hassle with Eagle-Lion's censors over something called cross-lighting.

She plays a voluptuous spy in the French revolution in "Reign of Terror," now shooting. She must charm Robert Cummings and other conspirators or lose her head on the guillotine. She must portray a clever, wily adventuress, contrasted so as to show the patriots' minds off barricades and the bastille.

An appearance that will evoke whistlers (or whatever response indicated approval by the bladee of 1789) is in this case, Arlene argues, a sober, legitimate part of her dramatic art.

Joe Breen, Jr., the studio censor, looked at some test footage of Arlene in a proposed, low-necked get-up. "Okay if you use flat lighting," he told the cameraman, "but I don't think we can get away with cross-lighting."

Flat-lighting is head-on and casts no shadows. Cross-lighting, he said, is too revealing. Too contourish.

Dimple Disappears

One trouble with flat lighting for Arlene is that it causes the cute dimple in her firm chin to disappear. Only cross-lighting brings it out.

Arlene is twenty-twoish, blue-eyed and red-haired, with a mole to the right of her mouth and another one, shaped like an inverted heart, just below her yellow bonnet.

She has a 19 ¼-inch waist and a 35-inch bust. The Minneapolis-born ex-model and stage actress snapped:

"Censors carry their rules too far. Why, it got to the point where you're ashamed of being a woman. Sometimes a picture depends on having a sexy woman, but the censors take away her sex. Take away her shape, and you ruin the characterization."

New York, Sept. 17 (CP)—A theatrical housing problem threatens Broadway.

Some 70 productions are scheduled to open here before Christmas, compared with a total of 89 for all of last season, with the closing of some hold-over shows from the spring, existing bookings leave only about 10 theatres available.

Just to sample the indicated arrivals, George Kaufman and Edna Ferber, a record-harvesting team, have finished "Bravo" for fall presentation; Marc Connelly's "A Story for Strangers" is due Sept. 21; William Saroyan has two plays, "Don't Go Away Mad" and "Jim Dandy" and Saroyan has set the latter, he says, "inside a transparent eggshell."

Noted Names

Then there's Moss Hart with "Light Up the Sky"; Elmer Rice with "Not For Children"; Tennessee Williams with "Summer and Smoke" and S. N. Behrman with "Jane" and "About to Be of Love." Other celebrities who probably will be represented on Broadway before the season ends include John Van Druten ("Make Way For Lucia"); Thornton Wilder ("The Victors") and Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein ("Tales of The South Pacific").

Cronyn Script

Hume Cronyn, from London, Ont., has on his hands at the moment the script of "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep." This Elaine Ryan dramatization of the Lindsay Emerson book has been in control of Peter Fonda for nearly two years. When Fonda's option lapsed, Cronyn decided to take over. It's a difficult and expensive production and the Canadian-born actor, who will direct it, now is reported seeking a producer.

For The Record

"Sundown Beach," the Bessie Breuer play about psychiatrist, closed last Saturday in the face of a disapproving barrage from the critics. The season's first play was a flop, lasting but seven performances . . . "The Heiress," the successful adaptation of Henry James' "Washington Square," and "Command Decision," a hit war play, both close tonight. Each ran for approximately a year . . . "Finian's Rainbow," the popular musical which has been on Broadway for 77 months, closes here after two more weeks and then goes on tour.

In ancient Egypt, the possession of shoes indicated the high rank of the wearer.

AT THE McCARTHY: Get out of town! Sheriff Edgar Buchanan gives Randolph Scott fair warning of what lies ahead in "Corner Creek," Columbia film in Cinecolor, currently thrilling audiences at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — "Sally and Bill"—Eleanor Parker and Ronald Reagan share stellar honors in the screen version of the famed Broadway romantic comedy, "The Voice of the Turtle," which opens today at the Belle Theatre. Lili Palmer and Sam Wanamaker are co-starred in the heart-warming romance, "My Girl Tisa," the co-feature attraction.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his private chair, and ma was reading her new mail-order book called Murder In Twin Beds, and I was eating the cloth to get nearer and nearer to 9 o'clock, and wishing I had some idea how to stay up late, and all of a sudden I got one, saying: Hay, ma, what's it mean by N. F. Thank you? yet, to congratulate her for having been married 20 years?

Oh dear, I knew something was worrying on my mind that's not what it was, ma said.

Oh yes, it's coming, I thawt and said. If I dont get that letter in immediately it wont reach her by Wednesday — date.

It's nothing I dislike more than the feeling of receiving a Christmas greeting, such as Merry Christmas arriving in time for Happy New Year, so I certainly have no excuse to inflict the same sensation on others, ma said.

Hurry up and write it, ma, so it'll hurry up and be done, I said, and ma said, Oh dear, this book is so loitriating, it seems almost an injustice to lay it down. Still I'll be able to read with a clearer conscience when the letter is finally written, she said.

There, then it now and I'll wait and run out and mail it for you, I said, and ma said, You'll go to bed at the rapidly approaching hour of 8, that's what you'll do. I've got quite enough on my mind between this important letter and an unfinished book. Your father will go out and mail the letter for me, wont you William? she said.

With graceful reluctance, my dear, pop said, and I thawt, Heck, yeah sharp it all goes on the lock.

Proving you're libel to cause a lot of bother if you deliberitly start ing for your own selfish sake.

HAS MANY USES

The word napoleon means a card game, a type of boot, a form of French pastry, and an old French coin.

LARGER THAN U. S.

Brazil, the largest South American country, is 250,000 square miles, larger than the United States.

PITCHER MUCH IMPROVED

Cleveland, Sept. 17 — (AP) — Pitcher Don Black was reported "much better" today at St. Vincent Charity Hospital where he is being treated for a brain hemorrhage suffered Monday afternoon in the Cleveland - St. Louis baseball game.

"There is no evidence of paralysis and no likelihood of it," Dr. Spencer Braden, his attending specialist said, adding:

"Don is conscious practically all the time and his general condition is much improved."

MANY VARIETIES

There are at least 250 different kinds of violets.

DOLLARS FROM DOGS

London — (CP) — Overseas buyers of pedigree dogs from Britain are more in evidence this year than ever before. Experts estimate the sales should total at least $1,500,000 — $300,000 more than last year's total. More than 600 dogs have already been sold and hundreds more approved for export by the British Kennel Club.

INSURE SKELETONS

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — A Chinese society here set insurance people a poser recently when it asked for insurance on 82 skeletons it was sending to China for reburial in their native land. But the insurance company placed a value of $64 on each skeleton, representing cost of disinterment and transportation, and set a rate accordingly.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"For what possible purpose?" Would Munro?"

"Even less motive there. No, that one of the girls did it is really a possible hypothesis," Clay said.

"I know I didn't," I observed, after a pause.

"And I know I didn't."

"Didn't what?" Louise Ring said, coming in in her fresh starched nurses' white And sinking into a chair.

When the others came down we were still idly speculating about the ruined portrait.

After this I naturally watched Virginia closely, and it was no time at all before I was convinced that she was not Virginia Hillyard but Virginia's close friend, Billee Hornleigh. She betrayed it, in a hundred small ways and she also betrayed her own nervousness over the situation; she didn't like it at all. She never became confidential with me when we were talking together at night, although she talked freely enough of the school days she and "Billee" had shared. On the contrary, she raised a wall between us of which I was very conscious; she was continually on guard.

She wrote "Billee" letter almost every day, and some of them were long letters. I would perhaps wander into her writing-room, addressed mine, yawning, brushing my pale hair, in this big silent vault of a house, even though it might be only nine o'clock, to find her numbering pages—seventeen, eighteen, nineteen — and I could imagine what the tone of impatient and angry arguments filled them.

"Va, did you go to see your grandfather today?" I asked her once.

"Oh yes, I go every day. Not that it does much good; he doesn't pay much attention to me.

"How does he seem? Is he sick, or?"

"No, he's better all the time." A faint resentment would creep into her voice. "I'm sick of the whole thing," she added. "Sitting around and waiting for him to die. If he's going to change his will, why doesn't he?"

"Well, she haven't sent for the attorney — Gardner Fitch."

"Who said so?"

"Clay did.

"To change the will?"

"I suppose so."

"Oh," said Virginia. "Billee will be glad to — she stammered, stopped. "Billee will be glad to hear that," she finished somewhat lamely.

"Is Billee married to Walter Burton?" I asked with sudden daring.

Virginia's color rushed up. "What — what made you ask that?"

"It's perfectly plain that they love in love."

"You she is married to him," Virginia admitted slowly after a moment. I could see that she was choosing her words with great care. "She was married to — before — before I heard from Gordon," she added.

"Secretly?"

"Oh, Imma, yes!"

"Would her people object?"

"Well," Virginia said, feeling her way in the dark, or rather in the sudden confusing light, "she hasn't any people."

"I thought she had a father and a stepmother and this aunt who's getting a divorce at Reno."

"Well, yes, she has. But you see — yes, of course she has. But she doesn't think much of her father and she hates her step-mother, so she and Walter kept it a secret."

"And does she think she's going to have a baby?"

"Oh, heavens no!" Virginia said, laughing and adding, "Well, yes, that's what she's afraid of."

"Evidently she's crazy about him."

"How did you get onto it?"

"I saw her kissing him."

"Va, gimme a pin." Virginia said judicially, "to be rather a cluck, I — Let's not talk about it."

"Won't her aunt be wild when she finds out?"

"Oh, I don't know . . . The eminence irritled off vaguely, and I had time to think out the values of the situation. Why should Billee Hornleigh's aunt be angry because Virginia Hillyard had thrown away her birthright to marry the chauffeur? This wasn't Virginia here with me but Billee, and the plot promised to become more and more thrilling as the old grandfather lived on, the family lawyer arrived to make changes in the will, Billee's impatience and nervousness increased hourly. Virginia went on worrying over the prospect of a most unwelcome motherhood, and the danger of discovery became increasingly likely. It was of course a crazy scheme, and only two eighteen-year-old girls could have contrived or attempted it, but anyway, here we were in the middle of it, and every day of the old man's life made it seem less and less likely to succeed.

Virginia began now to speak somewhat resentfully of the absent Billee. Billee was having a "swell time"; Billee was going with her aunt to Santa Barbara; Billee was "like that."

"She can't be having too good a time, expecting a baby and not knowing what Walt's going to do or where they're going to be. Has she any money of her own?"

"Well, she has some," Virginia admitted hesitantly.

She was breaking down. A few days later, when Billee and Walter Burton had been gone for a week, she spoke up suddenly:

"Liberty, if I tell you something — a dead secret — a matter of life and death, will you promise me not to tell anyone?"

I promised readily enough, but she changed her mind and said she would tell me some other time; it wasn't really her secret, and that for the moment was the end of that.

Meanwhile Munro Wainwright had been squiring us on various pleasant expeditions; twice we went to Indian Mill after dinner to old movies, and once on a picnic up the coast. On this occasion the young local doctor joined us and appeared to find Virginia very interesting, but Virginia unquestionably liked Munro and could have made great headway with him but for her holding back. A position puzzling enough to, anyone not aware of her secret but no surprise to me, for to be won as Virginia Carolan and then reveal one's self to be Virginia Hornleigh, an entirely different person, would be to place herself in a position which that proud, titular girl — not overbright — was entirely unable to deal.

It was all-absorbing to me, an onlooker. Like Munro, I felt that coming, the approaching visit of the fascinating Fannie Greer, and the marvelous food, the old walls and gardens, all formed a heaven on which a more impressive picture than any my life had known before was being painted. Whatever happened, I would be well entertained. And Clay Hillyard, former butler though he was, actually suggested that I marry him!

No girl feels quite the same toward a man after he has suggested his liking for her. There was no reason why I should like Clay, but after our talk I certainly studied him with more lenient eyes. I was curious to satisfy myself that Mrs. Greer returned his devotion. What was the husband like? What was her story? What would she have to do, once her arrival, to make Hillyard House, Clay had announced that he was about to marry his cousin's companion?

And what would Munro Wainwright say if he knew that Virginia, in reality, had a fine, even notable inheritance, too — he was paying much pointed attention was not Virginia Carolan but her friend Billee Hornleigh? Munro liked me better than he did Virginia; that was clear enough. But Virginia was the interesting person. Virginia was probably going to be very rich, one of these days, and every bit of self - protservation inclined Munro her way. He wouldn't — the very fibers of his being wouldn't let him — make the mistake of marrying the maid rather than the mistress.

No, Munro wouldn't make any move until it was reasonably certain that Virginia really was to be his betrothed. So it was with something like suspense that he waited, one week after another, the arrival of Gardner Fitch, who was presently to come to Hillyard House and settle the matter.

Mrs. Greer was coming at the same time, and great household preparations went on, on Mrs. Grindl's part, getting ready for them. Some of the downstairs rooms were opened and aired, china came down from high shelves, little Tom Wing went about with his arms full of silver urns and teapot. There were other arrangements too: Clay and Munro carried tin boxes up stairs to old Mr. Hillyard's room, and in the evening Virginia and I could hear him scolding away vigorously in his high, shrewish old voice.

DIEFENBAKER WILL

He would not "presume to dictate" the party's platform. That was up to the convention. But in his opinion the platform should incorporate the following, among other principles;

1. A strong and definite declaration of the traditional policy of the party in its Commonwealth relationship, coupled with unconditional support to the United Nations.

2. The revamping of the law to put an end to the pampering of those who indulge in Communist subversive activities and thereby preserve Canada from enemies who operate from within.

3. The restoration to Parliament of its sovereignty and bring an end to the abuses of bureaucracy.

4. The maintenance of the Canadian constitution in letter as well as spirit with a full stop put to the invasion of the jurisdiction of the provinces that have taken place in the last few years under one pretence or another.

The Easy Living

5. The preservation and expansion of free initiative, the easing of the cost of living and the reduction of income tax, and the launching of a national policy thereby halting the exodus of Canadians seeking opportunity elsewhere.

6. The preservation of the freedom and rights of the individual under a national bill of rights within the constitutional jurisdiction of parliament.

7. The assurance to Canadians everywhere, whether engaged in agriculture or representative of management or labor, of fair and just treatment.

"I want of see the Progressive Conservative Party give leadership to a national crusade that will restore freedom to the Canadian people and provide a standard of living that experience everywhere has shown that Socialism cannot provide," he said.

At his press conference he said he would personally favor extension of the present trade agreements with the United States, particularly as far as farm products are concerned. He would be opposed to any extension that would be detrimental to the Canadian economy.

He believes that civil appeals to the privy council in London should be abolished. The question of abolition of appeals involving constitutional matters, however, should be carefully considered. He does not believe parliament should attempt to obtain power to amend the British North America Act. — Canada's constitution— which now can only be changed with the consent of the British Parliament.

BOTH HEAVILY ARMED

Montreal, Sept. 18 (CP)— Two gun-toting 17-year-old boys who boogied the holdup of a taxi driver Friday were captured after one of the most intensive manhunts by police in several years.

Taking refuge in a bush north of Sherbrooke Street East after warding off a Canadian National Railways constable by firing three shots at him, the boys were arrested when 100 policemen and detectives surrounded the area.

Shaking with fear, the boys shouted to police: "Don't shoot, please don't shoot."

The boys, big for their age, were both heavily armed.

Storms Drench Central Ontario, Relieve Farmlands

Services Are Interrupted, $500,000 Lightning Loss

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP) — A spectacular electric storm struck Toronto and the adjoining countries of York and Peel early today, in the city it disrupted electrical services, filled storm sewers, flooded streets and held traffic.

The second fierce storm to hit this Central Ontario region at the weekend, it kept thousands awake with its dashing display of lightning flashes which accompanied a heavy rain.

The storms, just after midnight Saturday and around 4 a.m. today struck across these sections of Ontario as well and brought welcome relief to farmlands parched by a long period of dry weather.

Electric service interruptions were severe on Toronto Island, popular summer resort section. Power was off for more than eight hours today. There were section interruptions throughout the city.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario reported disruptions elsewhere. At Sutton, in the Toronto area, power was off six hours and 20 minutes because the lightning struck short circ. At Wallaceburg, in southwestern Ontario, power was off for nearly nine hours.

$500,000 Damage by Lightning

Some estimates placed the damage in York and Peel Counties at around $500,000, largely in loss of buildings struck by lightning.

In the Saturday night-Sunday morning storm at least 20 buildings were struck in Peel and at Malton rainfall totalled 4.25 inches.

An hour-long downpour in the Galt area early today brought the first rain since July 26. The packed soil absorbed all the moisture. No storm damage was reported.

A preview of last night's storm hit the Toronto area early Sunday and for four hours felled trees and hydro poles, tied up telephone communications and started a number of small fires. Fire damage is expected to total many thousands of dollars. The city's chief storm is not so heavy.

Rainfall at Toronto received no rain or storms—Trenton, Stirling, Ottawa and Muskoka all reported thunderstorms.

Damage in a 20 mile area around Newcastle during Saturday night's storm was heaviest in the province. A huge barn near Wesleyville went up in flames, bringing estimated damage of $75,000. The largest barn in Northumberland County, near Brampton, was also gutted by a lightning fire and seven calves and over 300 chickens died in the blaze.

Two Toronto Homes Burned

Two Toronto homes were burned to the ground during storms following lightning hits. Total damage was estimated at $10,500.

Meanwhile, in southwestern Ontario, without a heavy rain for weeks, received only light showers. One quarter of an inch fell in St. Thomas. Lightning caused the destruction of the Evangelical Church near Rodney, about 30 miles west of St. Thomas.

Paper Charges Reds Arming Illegal Troops in Effort to Take Berlin

By RICHARD KASISCHKE.

Berlin, Sept. 20 (AP)—An anti-Communist newspaper claimed today that Communists in eastern Germany are arming illegal shock troops for an eventual attempt to seize power in Berlin and all Germany.

Monday's Echo, organ of the Rightist Liberal Democratic Party, charged that the shock troops are composed of armed civilians who are being organized as auxiliaries of the Communist-controlled eastern German police.

So-called workers police, battalions are being formed in the Russian sector of Berlin and throughout the Russian occupation zone, the newspaper said. This was the latest of several recent reports in the western-licensed press that the Communists are building up an illegal air, are building up their forces for an eventual civil fight for Germany.

Meanwhile, the Communists have been propagandizing Russia and the Soviet Army, declaring that it be withdrawn from Germany.

If that should happen, western sources said, the Communists alone would have armed forces at their disposal to work their will on German anti-Communists.

The newspaper charges came shortly after communist patrols raided newsstands in the Russian sector of Berlin yesterday, ripping and scattering anti - red newspapers in an apparent attempt to down over the free dissemination of such.

Trenton Pilot Killed in Crash Near Newcastle

Off Course Jet Fighter Hits Hump of Ground

Trenton, Sept. 20 — (CP) — The crash of a jet fighter on a hill 43 miles west of here Sunday killed the pilot, Flt. Lt. Leslie P. Banner of North Bay.

R. C. A. F. officials said the speedy Vampire apparently went off course in heavy cloud during a 100-mile homeward flight from Niagara Falls, N. Y., where, with another jet plane, it took part Saturday in United States Air Force day celebrations.

The other jet, piloted by Flt. Lt. E. G. Ireland, landed here 31 minutes after both planes took off at Niagara Falls for a direct flight to Trenton.

In some manner the planes became separated. Banner's crash was reported heading northeast over Peterborough, about 33 miles off course. As soon as the jet was listed as overdue here, 14 search planes from this base swept a wide area in an unsuccessful search.

First word of the crash came from William Curtis, a farmer, who found the wreckage and the pilot's body in a field near the tiny village of Kendal in the vicinity of Newcastle. The body was severed at hundred feet from the wrecked plane. An investigating party from Trenton went immediately to the spot.

Banner leaves a widow and two small children.

Cause Not Determined

Cause of the crash was not determined. The fighter and the jet carried fuel for approximately three hours' flying when it left Niagara Falls.

It is believed the powerful craft hit a soft hump of ground, bounded into the air and then exploded.

The only eyewitnesses were brothers Wesley and Bill Tribble, who own a farm half a mile south of the point of the crash. They were getting dinner ready when they heard a roaring noise that seemed to be "right over the roof."

Wesley rushed out and saw the plane flying north. "It was very low," he said. "I could hear it knell on our property. Then I saw a flip and flame about half a mile away and I figured it had crashed."

They rushed to where the flames and smoke could be seen and found Flt. Lt. Banner's body. His wife then went to telephone the police. Banner was a native of North Bay, where his father, a veteran pioneer of the city, is well known in real estate circles. He was educated in North Bay and was commissioned in the air force before the war. He joined the R. C. A. F. Reserve in 1946 and the Permanent Service Order for service overseas in 1947. Following marriage he decided to remain in the permanent force.

CAPTURED AFTER ESCAPE FROM TEMPORARY LOCK-UP

Lindsay, Ont., Sept. 20 (CP) — Captured Canadian Bomber he escaped from a temporary lock-up in Peterborough during a thundering, 27, of Toronto, is being held on a charge of breaking and entering. He registered at a hotel here under the name of Steele.

The search for Starling was spread throughout Eastern Ontario after the 27-year-old broke out of the village jail by prying the doorframe loose. He had feigned sleep on the guard's check after his arrest.

Class at R.M.C. Pioneers In Military Experiment, Trained for Three Services

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Kingston, Sept. 20 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton sent Canada's 72-year-old Royal Military College into a new phase of its career today with the launching of its first post-war class that "may be its most interesting and vital peace certain."

One hundred cadets, smart as whips after 11 days in the old stone school, heard him initiate a curriculum that makes these pioneers in a military experiment without precedent in the world. They are the first class since the college switched from one service to train officers for all three.

The plan is being duplicated at Canada's other tri-service college at Royal Roads, B.C., and its originality is apparent in the fact that some R.M.C. graduates always went into the navy or air force. But, on a formal, deliberate basis it is a step that has created interest both in the United States and Britain.

In essence, it is an extension of a policy of services integration in which Canada believes she leads all other nations.

The experiment is rooted in the combined-operations experiences of the Second World War and in a desire to have the military leaders of tomorrow familiar with both the ways and the men of the services they may fight with.

Representing every province they are the survivors of 400 applicants and have come through a rigorous mental and physical tests to get here.

In their curriculum and their sports they will find every effort made to eliminate emphasis on individual services and to mix them up geographically.

Lt.-Col. Hon. George A. Drew, leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party since 1938 and Premier of the Province since 1943, has been looked on as a strong possibility for the national leadership ever since Mr. Bracken recently announced he was resigning because of ill health.

Happy Experience

In his 200-word statement, the Ontario leader said he took a keen Ontario leader of the party 10 years ago and his efforts to serve the people of Ontario had been a "happy and extremely heartwarming experience."

"Now I am urged to enter a new field and let my name be before the convention which will choose the national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party," said the statement.

The decision rested with the delegates. "It is their decision that I can be of greatest service to the people of Canada in the wider field, I believe I should not accept that responsibility and devote myself to that task to the best of my ability.

"My decision will go before the convention."

Another leading contender for the national leadership is John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative M.P. for Lake Centre, Sask., who announced his candidature at Ottawa last Friday.

War Veteran

A veteran of the First World War—he enlisted in 1914—Premier Drew was a successful lawyer and served as Mayor of his home city, Toronto, before national in the wider field of provincial politics.

He was defeated for the Ontario leadership in 1936 by Hon. Earl Rowe and in the 1937 Ontario election ran as an Independent Conservative in the Toronto East division of Wellington South but was defeated. When he was again contesting Ontario leader in 1938, he went into the legislature in 1939, replacing Rowe.

In 1943, he led his party to victory in the provincial election and was successful again in 1945 and 1948. He said then men who had he suffered personal defeat in Toronto High Park which he has represented for five years.

He drew national attention before the war when he was chairman of a contract for bren guns brought to Canada from Czechoslovakia. His charge in 1942 that Ontario industry was excluded in Canada's Hong Kong expedition led to another royal commission investigation.

Drew Announces Candidature for P-C Leadership

Has Been Ontario Leader for 10 Years

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario today announced he will follow his name to go before the Progressive Conservative convention, meeting in Ottawa Sept. 30-Oct. 1-2 to choose a national leader to succeed John Bracken.

The Premier announced his decision in a statement issued to the press shortly before noon.

The 54-year-old Premier, leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party since 1938 and Premier of the Province since 1943, has been looked on as a strong possibility for the national leadership ever since Mr. Bracken recently announced he was resigning because of ill health.

Freeman Maracle Instantly Killed Near Milltown

Freeman Maracle, 63, of the Tyendinaga Reserve was instantly killed at the subway near Milltown, when he was struck by a car driven by Earl Winnest, R.R. 2, Bath, while returning to his home on foot. The accident happened at 7.30 p.m. Provincial Constable Ross Home. An inquest has been ordered with Dr. Russell Scott presiding.

Freeman H. Maracle was in his 63rd year and was born at Marysville, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Maracle. All his life was passed in the district where he was born and he was a member of All Saints Anglican Church on the Reserve.

He never married and is survived by six brothers, John of Marysville; Jacob of Marysville; Isaac of Belleville; Amos of Belleville; Ira of Belleville and Frank of Marysville; two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Loween and Mrs. Isaac Barnhart, both of Marysville.

Resting at the Quinte Memorial Funeral Home, Belleville, until this Monday evening, then at the home of his sister, Mrs. Daniel Loween, Marysville; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Four-Power Talks On Berlin Crisis Reported Stalled

Moscow, Sept. 20 (AP) — Four-power talks on the Berlin crisis are reported stalled today over Russian insistence that vicos insisted upon by the western powers be removed.

It was indicated that Saturday night's meeting between the three western envoys and Foreign Minister Molotov may have been the last in the present negotiations.

Full reports now are in the hands of the three governments and any next move will be up to them. An announcement is likely to be made in the near future the status of the talks.

One possibility is that the delicate issues could be shifted to a council of foreign ministers meeting, perhaps in conjunction with the United Nations Assembly in Paris. The fact that Molotov was not attending the U. N. meeting indicated to some observers that he is holding himself ready for talks, perhaps in Moscow.

A Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky, is leading the Russian delegation to Paris.

It is reported here that the four powers were not far from general agreement when the negotiations broke down.

The Russians were said to feel that they made concrete proposals to settle the issues but the western insistence on technicalities hampered an accord.

SAYS EUROPE'S LITERATURE DEAD

New York, Sept. 20 (AP)—Europe's literature, a Danish novelist says, is as dead and as beautiful as an old fashioned doorknob. The novelist is Mrs. Johannes Spoolstra, whose books include "Still Eats the Sea," made the comment on his arrival Sunday from Amsterdam.

Defence Forces 7 Times Larger Than Before War

Toronto, Sept. 20. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Sunday night that Canada's defence forces are seven times as large as before the war and "they will be whatever size we consider adequate."

In a speech prepared for delivery at an army week demonstration at the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. Claxton said:

"The preservation of peace requires co-operation between nations. It implies that it plain that aggression will not pay. It requires strength and national integrity demands the participation of all citizens in the task."

"Our forces are today seven times as large as before the war and they will be whatever size we consider adequate to see to the maintenance of peace and also to carry out the arrangements we make from just as good as any force can be. We want nothing more than that."

Mr. Claxton said that army week is designed to call attention to the "necessity for strong armed services and to "ask your support." He said that men who could not join the permanent forces could help by joining reserve units.

Tug Battles Way to Freighter In Hurricane

Miami Fla., Sept. 20 (AP) — Tug plowing through mountainous seas reached the side of the British freighter Bonnington Monarch today as a hurricane with winds over 100 miles an hour approached the Florida coast of Dade.

South Florida from Miami through the Keys was placed in "full danger zone" of the storm which Sunday night was 200 miles offshore.

A wireless from the master of the 5,000 ton Associated Press in New York said the vessel was standing up surprisingly well and that there was no need for help except for anxiety and some discomfort. The passengers and crew are well and carrying on a normal ship's life.

The Florida Straits are expected to feel the full force of the effects of the hurricane early this afternoon.

The hurricane was located 175 miles south of Havana and 400 miles south of Miami.

'MET' SEASON OPENS NOV. 29

New York, Sept. 20 — (AP) — The 1948-49 Metropolitan Opera season will open Nov. 29, Edward Johnson, general manager, announced Sunday. The season will last 16 weeks, two weeks less than last year.

Mediator Advised UN Control Of Jerusalem

Bernadotte Report Favors Changes in Partition Plan

Paris, Sept. 20 — (AP) — A posthumous report by the murdered Count Folke Bernadotte declares the United Nations should step in to end the Palestine war if the Arabs and Jews fail to make peace.

The mediator wrote that "Israel exists in Palestine," and the future of Arab Palestine should be left to the Arab states." In full consultation with the Arab inhabitants" of the Holy Land.

His 29,000-word report was distributed to the 58 United Nations member states as his body and that of French Lt.-Col. Andre Pierre Serot were being flown home.

It was tentatively planned to hold a memorial service at Paris' Orly Field. After receiving honors from high French officials and French officials, Bernadotte's body will be flown to Stockholm.

The Holy City of Jerusalem, where he and Serot were shot to death last Friday, should be placed under United Nations control, the report added.

The report, which will be one of the problems before the General Assembly opening tomorrow, also recommended changes in the Palestine partition plan.

Negeb Desert

The Negeb Desert of southern Palestine, he said, should become an Arab territory. Most of it was given to the Jews under the partition plan.

All of Galilee should be "declared as Arab territory," he added. The partition plan gave western Galilee to Arab Palestine, but it now is under control of the Israeli army.

Count Bernadotte left the disposition of Arab Palestine to the Arab States. He recommended that, "in view of the historical connection and religious interests of Trans-Jordan and Palestine, there would be compelling reasons for merging Arab Palestine and neighboring Trans-Jordan."

Night and weekend.

Bernadotte's report also recommended:

"The Jewish port of Haifa, including oil refineries and terminals, should be placed under free port."

The airport at Lydda should be declared a free airport.

The Arab and Jewish Arab refugees to return to their homes in Jewish-occupied territory, with payment of compensation by Israel to those "choosing not to return."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 20 — (CP) — Synopsis: Cooler air is sweeping southeastward over Northern Ontario this morning, displacing the warm air spotted with thunderstorms that has prevailed over the province. It is expected to reach the lower lakes region today. Present indications are that the cooler weather will be clear and cooler in most of the province with frosty temperatures in the far west, centred in Nebraska will bear watching.

Portion of Polish Art Treasures On High Seas Bound for Poland

Halifax, (CP) — Two of 24 chests of Polish art treasures brought to Canada for safekeeping during the war arrived here and are on the high seas today bound for Poland.

The treasures, aboard the Polish liner Sobieski, left the port of Halifax Sunday bound for New York and eventually Poland, marking the first time Polish art treasures have moved mysteriously through Halifax.

The Sobieski, a frequent caller here during the war, left here and landed 259 displaced persons here Saturday from Genoa. She was escorted by the U. S. S. New York before returning to Europe.

The treasures were stored in an Ottawa bank, where they had been guarded throughout the war, and brought to Halifax late Friday by train and Saturday in a heavily-guarded truck.

They were kept in an immigration shed under customs bond and R.C.M.P. guard until loaded on the Sobieski Sunday.

It was learned at Ottawa that the Canadian government was aware of the transfer but no official announcement was made. R. C. M. P. and customs authorities here declined comment.

The lot of 16th century tapestries, paintings and rugs is valued in the millions of dollars.

The treasures represent only a fraction of the original shipment. Representatives of the Soviet-inclined Polish government claim ownership of the 32 chests originally forwarded by Germany and the Quebec government last March because ownership was "doubtful."

The treasures were locked up in the Provincial Museum at Quebec City and still are under 24-hour guard.

The treasures under guard in Quebec City convert after being flown from Ottawa last night by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Controversy has raged over the treasures for the last three years.

Mr. Dupleasis said he believed the authorities of the museum, as was the Roman Archbishop of Cracow, but the Polish Embassy in Ottawa has contended the treasures "belong to the people of the state; that they belonged to the Polish nation.

Hydro Purchases Off-Peak Power To Help Plants

Industry Being Asked to Change Shifts to Use This

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP) — Industrial plants which are large users of electricity can help the power-conservation effort by switching their operations to night and weekend.

That's the word from Chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission who Sunday announced purchase of quantity of off-peak power from the Niagara Hudson Power Company in Buffalo, N.Y. The power — 45,000 kilowatts in all — will be available from 11 p.m. to 7 a. m. Mondays through Fridays and all day Saturdays and Sundays.

Already some plants have switched their operating hours to make use of the imported power.

"This is only a drop in the bucket in the overall shortage picture and will not change present conservations orders a bit," said Mr. Saunders.

But he hopes plants co-operate by working during the off-peak hours at night and on weekends, it will be a considerable help.

Mr. Saunders said he was glad to see that Southern Ontario industry already had changed over to weekend operations. He said many industrial workers who went to their jobs Saturday night Sunday, are the first in the time since the war.

"I know it's most pleased to work on the two days on which the majority of us have become accustomed to relaxation," the Commission worked during the weekend also. We spent Saturday conferring in Buffalo and we had a commission meeting in Toronto Sunday. At least factory-workers will get two days off during the week and that's more than we commissioners will get."

Power distributed to Ontario municipalities in the industrial belt from the Niagara frontier will be steadily cut during the next 10 days until the reduction totals 7,000,000 kilowatts a week, weekly. The cut will be about 15 per cent of normal consumption.

Traffic Mishaps Take Heavy Toll Over Weekend

80 Meet Violent Death With 13 Caused by Car-Boat Crash

(By The Canadian Press)

A 500-mile-an-hour jet plane went out of control on a flight from Nigara Falls, N.Y., to Trenton, Ont., crashed on a farm near Newcastle, Ont., and killed its pilot.

The crash-up, which cost the life of Flt. Lt. Leslie P. Banner of Trenton and North Bay, Ont., was the most spectacular of the mishaps which brought violent death during the week-end to 20 persons in Eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 13 traffic deaths, six drownings and five deaths from other causes.

Louis Jenlanthen, 47, and Louis Lord, 12, were killed at St. Nicholas, Que., when a sidecar-equipped motorcycle missed a detour sign and plunged into a 12-foot hole in a highway.

Two Killed by Train

A collision between a freight train and a tractor on a railway crossing at Hamilton killed Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Iles of Aldershot, Ont.

An automobile-truck collision at Bronte, Ont., near Hamilton, took the lives of Charles Adams of Hamstead, N.Y.; and John Pawlowski, Chicago, Ont.

Killed in other traffic accidents were Vincent Leduc, five, run over by a truck at St. Rose Des Carrieres, Que.; James Farrish, 22, Kingston, Ont., in a car which plunged off a highway; Basil L. Rose, Hagersville, Ont., crushed in a car-truck collision; Ron Mitchell, 26, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., fatally injured when a fish truck overturned; Julian Martin, 38, River Beaudette, Que., injured Friday in a smashup near Cornwall, Ont.; John Herod, 42, Lakeview, near Toronto, in a car crash on his way to a week-end anniversary party; and Serge Cote, four, run over by a truck at Chicoutimi, Que.

Patrick Giddings, 36, of Cambridge, N.S., was drowned Saturday at Victoria, P.E.I., when he fell into water from a scow.

Soon after he was thrown from an overturned boat, James Lowrie, 59, of Goderich, Ont., died of a heart attack said to have been brought on by the shock.

The body of Louis Waiter, 32, of Erie, Pa., missing since July 12, was recovered from Lake Erie near Long Point, Ont.

Mrs. Alex Bruce, 41, was found dead in her St. Roch Ward home in Cowansville Saturday. Police investigating declined to discuss the circumstances of her death.

Police said Joseph Bejeunesse, 34, found shot through the head near Sudbury, Ont., killed himself with a rifle.

Demasse Labelle, 64, of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., died of burns suffered when the log jammer he was guiding tumbled an overhead high tension cable.

City and District News

FAIL-TO-STOP CHARGE IS LAID

Charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, Anna Johnston of Stirling was apprehended by city police over the weekend, the charge arising from a sideswipe collision which damaged the car of Ted Schwab, Foster Ave.

Mr. Schwab reported that another car had sideswiped his auto and had failed to stop. He had noted the licence number of the other auto and a few minutes later police spotted the vehicle with the result that the above charge was laid.

TWO MINOR FIRE ALARMS

Local firemen were given two runs Friday afternoon, both being minor alarms with no damage reported.

At mid-afternoon firemen were called to the Glen Roy Creamery on Pinnacle Street to extinguish a large bonfire while shortly after five o'clock they were called to the McFarland Woodenware factory on Sidney Street where a grass fire from the railroad track was threatening the factory. Apparently having started on the railroad right-of-way, the blaze ran across the dried grass but was stopped at the corner of the McFarland factory. Firemen used the booster tank to extinguish the blaze.

LOCAL MAN CHARGED WITH GROSS INDECENCY

Charged with gross indecency against a male person, John Jackson, 45, Starling Street, has been arrested by city police and remanded for appearance in court next week.

Jackson was arrested shortly before dark last evening following an alleged indecent assault against an eleven-year-old lad. Two other children are said to have been a witness to the assault.

Police Blotter

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wesley, Bleecker Ave., was entered over the weekend with articles of small value being taken from the residence. Police stated the home had been entered by the side door which was left open.

Clarence Asseltine, Geddes St., reported to police that a motor robe and a seat cushion had been stolen from his auto which had been left parked at the rear of a Front Street hotel.

George Hill, 293 Coleman St., had his auto stolen Saturday midnight from in front of a Grier Street residence where he had left it parked. When he returned for the vehicle it was missing. Police were notified and three hours later the vehicle was recovered at the C.N.R. Station.

James McKey, East Moira St., reported that the walls, floors and windows of a new house he is constructing had been spattered with mortar. A number of bricks had also been damaged, he stated.

Driver for Montrose Dairy, Albert Semark, Johnston Street, complained that a pair of trousers had disappeared from the dairy dressing room.

OBITUARY

CHARLES HERBERT HOLGATE (Moira)

Madoc, Sept. 20 (Special) — Charles Herbert Holgate of Moira, died on Sunday at the home of his son, Mr. Roy Holgate, at Cooper, after an illness of several months' duration.

The late Mr. Holgate was in his 83rd. year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holgate. The greater part of his life was passed at Moira and during his active years he was engaged in farming. He was a member of the United Church. He was twice married, his first wife being the late Della Haight and his second wife was the late Margaret Emerson.

Surviving him are one daughter, Mrs. Henry (Mabel) Forsythe, of Moira; three sons, Walter Holgate of Ivanhoe; Arthur Holgate of Cannifton, and Roy Holgate of Cooper; one sister, Mrs. Hannah Ketcheson of Agincourt, Ontario; one brother, John Freeman Holgate of Manor, Sask; five half sisters, Mrs. Frank Bowes, Mrs. Pearl Burke, Mrs. Ray Metcalf, Mrs. Effie Sitiphogle and Mrs. Myrtle Ryan, all of Rochester, N.Y.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. MARGARET ANN DODDS

The death occurred this Monday morning of Mrs. Margaret Dodds, at her home in the first concession of Thurlow. She was 74 years of age.

Mrs. Dodds was born in Scotland and came to Canada in early life and has since made her residence here. Mrs. Dodds was the widow of Thomas Dodds.

She leaves one son, Maxwell Dodds of the sixth concession of Sidney.

LATE MRS. ELIZABETH L. STOCKER (Marmora)

Marmora, Sept. 20 — (Special) —St. Paul's Church, Marmora, was filled to overflowing on Saturday afternoon for the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Lois (Betty) Stocker, whose death occurred under tragic circumstances on Thursday afternoon. The choir of which she was a former member, was well represented and led in the singing of two hymns, "There Is No Night In Heaven" and "Abide With Me." The rector, Rev. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, officiated and delivered a consoling message to the bereaved.

Burial took place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery. The pall bearers were Basil McTaggart, Everett Barnes, Clayton Bedore, Robert Gray, Guy Robson and Thomas Ross.

The late Mrs. Stocker, who was born in Marmora township, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey. She is survived by her husband and parents, four brothers, Douglas, Robert, Charles and Allan Bailey, and one sister, Anne.

MRS. FRANK B. (MILLS) HAM (Formerly of Belleville)

Native of Belleville, Myrtle G. Ham, widow of Frank B. Ham, died Sunday at her home, 5 Du Maurier Blvd., Toronto. She had been in ill health for some time. Her husband was founder and former head of the wholesale grain firm bearing his name. Following her marriage, Mrs. Ham lived for some years in Calgary and came to Toronto in 1919. She was a member of the United Church. Surviving are two sons C. J. Douglas Ham and John W. Ham, and a daughter, Mrs. H. E. Talbot, all of Toronto.

Mrs. Ham was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mills, and the early years of her life were passed here.

Student's Arrival By Air Delayed By Hurricane

The Bermuda hurricane had little to do with Belleville but its effects reached this far when one Albert College student was grounded three days last week before he could fly to Montreal and hence to Belleville to enrol in Albert College several days late. All other students arrived in good time for re-opening, some journeying from Venezuela, British Guina, Jamaica, Peru, Columbia, Mexico, Dominican Republic, China, and U.S.A. Of course many of the Canadian provinces are represented with Ontario naturally leading the list.

The annual "welcoming" ceremonies particularly for the benefit of the freshmen are now over. Very few Belleville citizens were aware of the Front Street stampede in the wee small hours one frosty morning last week when some hundred lads clad in many different garbs trotted the length of Front Street prodded on occasionally by a zealous soph. Two ambitious lads, unfamiliar with Beleville geography bent on out-smarting their pursuers, in return to the College trotted far ahead finally finding themselves well on the road to Foxboro.

Court night will be held some evening this week when those who failed to co-operate to the satisfaction of their seniors, will pay penalties for their "lack of understanding."

The college is off to a good start and promises to be olne of the best years yet.

Bracebridge Party Visits City To Inspect Arena

A delegation of Mayor Dr. A. T. Bastedo, councillors A. Roy Shier, W. J. A. Brown, Dr. S. A. Ryan and Town Engineer B. J. Russell of Bracebridge visited this city over the weekend to inspect the Memorial Arena and were entertained by Ald. Claude D. Tices, chairman of the Arena Committee. The party arrived in the city on Sunday night with Ald. Tice explaining the setup of the commission that governs the Arena and the events that are held nightly.

On Monday morning the party was shown through the Arena by the manager, Walter Gerow, and the Chairman of the Commission. They were very much impressed with the appointments of the Arena and especially the new floor that has been installed. This was carefully inspected as it is the intention of the Bracebridge council to install a new floor in their Memorial Arena, which will be constructed at a cost of $200,000. After inspecting the Arena, the party was driven through the city to show them the industrial and housing development that has taken place within the past two years.

The majority of the party are members of the Rotary Club and joined with the local club at luncheon. They will visit Barrie rink on the way home. Mayor D. L. Storey, was unavoidably absent due to other committments pertaining to his office. His Worship phoned his regrets as being unable to be present but wished for the party's success of the inspection of Belleville's well-appointed arena.

Blinding Lights Responsible For Two-Car Crash

Brilliant headlights which had not been "ditched" while passing through city streets, were stated to have been responsible for a two-car crash on Dundas Street Saturday night in which property damage to the extent of several hundred dollars resulted.

Kenneth Earle, Brockville, was proceeding west on Dundas when he was blinded by the headlights of an approaching auto with result that he crashed into the rear of a parked auto. The parked auto owned by Cecil Bradshaw, R.R. 4 Belleville, was damaged about the left rear fender and door, while the Earle car had its right front fender, headlamp and tie rods damaged.

Large Representation from City Attends Holy Name Rally at Kingston

By BOYD UPPER

An overflow crowd of more than 5,000 Catholic men from the archdiocese of Kingston packed Kingston's Megaffin Stadium Sunday afternoon to pray and to pay homage to the Holy Name of Jesus. It was the first Holy Name rally held since before the war.

Approximately 300 men from Belleville marched in the parade that wound through Kingston's streets from St. Patrick's School grounds to the stadium.

The impressive numbers, augmented by more than two thousand women and children, heard addresses by His Grace, Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan, D.D., Archbishop of Kingston, and His Excellency, Bishop J. C. Cody, D.D., co-adjutor Bishop of London.

Archbishop O'Sullivan explained to those assembled that the rally was being held in answer to the Pope's wish that all peoples should pray, especially in these critical times, for those of the United Nations.

"The challenge of our times requires stalwart men to walk in Christ's footsteps," His Grace said.

Founded to Fight Blasphemy

"When the Holy Name Society was founded seven centuries ago, blasphemy and obscene speech were rampant. Much the same problem faces us today. Thus, the purpose of this rally is to do public worship, and to proclaim our belief in Jesus Christ," Archbishop O'Sullivan continued. "If the ideals of the Holy Name Society were carried into every home, and practised in one's daily life, people would be happier, and the country would benefit by it."

Archbishop O'Sullivan was followed on the speakers' platform by His Excellency Bishop J. C. Cody, D.D., of London, who delivered the principal speech of the rally.

"Some consider religion to be private, and that there is no need for a public demonstration of faith as long as God is loved and honored in one's heart," Bishop Cody said. "But God Himself has said 'He who professes Me before men, I shall profess him before My Father Who is in heaven, and he who shall deny Me before men, I shall deny him before My Father Who is in heaven'. Thus it is the duty of every Christian to publicly profess his faith in Christ and in Christian ideals. The Pope has said that good and evil are engaged in a gigantic duel and that no one can stand aside."

Bishop Cody went on, "We are gathered here today to renew our loyalty to Christ and to proclaim it."

His Excellency stated that there are three points which place the Holy Name of Jesus above all others—excellence, power and respect.

Name of Heavenly Origin

"Jesus is a name of heavenly origin," Bishop Cody stated, and God sent an archangel to confide it to Mary and Joseph. It is simple to give a beautiful name to someone that person does not live up to it he becomes a laughingstock. Jesus lived up to His name, Jesus, which means Saviour, is the name of the Eternal Son of God, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, and how much does that name mean when we know that Christ was the Saviour of the world.

"So great is the power of the name of Jesus, that miracles are worked, sin is forgiven, and devils are exorcised at its very mention. There is no limit to the power of the Holy Name," Bishop Cody said.

"Such is the respect due the Holy Name that the second commandment states, "Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord Thy God in vain'. In the Jewish religion only the high priest was allowed to pronounce the Sacred Name and then only once a year after prayer and feasting. Those who profaned the Holy Name were to be stoned to death.

"Profaning the Holy Name is diabolical," the speaker continued. "The first 300 years of the Church saw 10,000,000 martyrs die for their faith and for the Holy Name.

Must Seek Perfection

"We are gathered here to tell God that if we have failed in the past we shall not let him down. Let us aim at perfection in the most crucial matter of all, the salvation of souls.

"The world cannot satisfy ones yearnings," Bishop Cody concluded. "For joy that cannot be snatched from us, we must turn to the Holy Name for it is the only name under heaven by which we can be saved."

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was held after the address.

A special train carried the greater part of Belleville's representation at the rally. It left the Pinnacle Street siding at noon, stopped at Marysville, and Napanee, and arrived at a siding near the stadium shortly before 2.00 p.m. The parade was marshalled on the school grounds of St. Patrick's School, and church dignitaries reviewed the marchers from the steps of St. John's Church.

An altar, approximately 60 feet long, and 35 feet high, was built inside the stadium, with the speaker's rostrum at one end and the bishop's throne at the other end.

Tag Day for Blind Reaches $850

Saturday's tag day for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was an outstanding success and broke all previous records in this city, it was reported today by organization officials. The amount received was stated to be $850 as compared with $733 last year.

Convener for the tag days organization for the business district of the city was Mrs. Harry Rollins with officials stating that much of the success of the day was due to her efforts. Tag day receipts from the business district were $540. Group captains for the taggers were Mrs. Helen Wilbur, Mrs. Ana Ryan, Mrs. Betty Graham, Mrs. Effie McCafe, Mrs. L. Mascaro, Mrs. H. Seldon, Mrs. L. Wishart, Mrs. M. Archibald and Mrs. D. Cruji.

Receipts from the school districts with conveners in each instance were as follows: Queen Alexandra $77.78, Mrs. Ed. Buchanan; Queen Mary 68.65, Mrs. B. H. Smith; Queen Victoria $90.48, Miss F. A. Young; King George $25.68, Mrs. Norman Meldrum; Prince of Wales School $47.26, Kenneth M. Bird.

NOT ELUSIVE ENOUGH

London, Ont. — (CP) — An elusive nude bather was nabbed by police near here recently after he escaped from officers a number of times. Residents near the Thames River complained his activities, but each time the man managed to grab his clothes and outdistance officers.

Haul Second Huge Musky From Trent River

If nicknames were rewards for fishing exploits, Frank Martin and Wilf Pettit of this city would now be dubbed "Musky" or "The Musky Twins' for short.

For over the weekend, this duo of doughty fishermen, for the second time in a few weeks period, hauled a huge musky from the waters of the Trent Canal near Glen Ross. The weekend beauty weighted 36 pounds and measured 53 inches over-all length. The first big fellow tipped the scales at 35 pounds but measured 45 inches in length.

The second haul gave the fishermen a spirited 35 minute battle before acknowledging defeat. Martin held the line while Pettit was in charge of the oars. During the battle, as the fish made strenuous efforts to get away under rock piles, Pettit was exereted to the limit to maintain pace with the desperate fish.

As a matter of fact, the boys state, in its last effort for freedom, the musky towed the boat several yards before tiring and giving up the piscatorial ghost.

The musky was on display today in the windows of Black's butcher shop, Bridge Street East.

TAKE FINAL VOWS

Chatham, Ont. — (CP) — Eleven members of the Ursuline Community took final vows at a ceremony of religious reception and profession held here. They were received into the order by Most Rev. John T. Kidd, Bishop of London.

Diefenbaker Will Likely Give Drew A Stern Battle

Ottawa, Sept. 20 — (CP)—Prominent Conservative party supporters are predicting that if Premier Drew of Ontario decides to contest the federal leadership at the party's forthcoming National convention he will fight a nip-and-tuck battle with John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan.

One supporter, expressing the feeling of a group, said he believed Mr. Drew will not delay much longer a statement on whether he intends to contest the leadership which John Bracken will give up at the convention Sept. 30 to Oct. 2.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 53-year-old prominent criminal lawyer who ran third in the leadership race at the party's 1942 convention, announced Saturday that he will again be a candidate. Garfield Case, 49, member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Grey North, and John W. Hanna, 59, member of the Ontario legislature for Huron Bruce, announced earlier that they would be candidates.

"Up until a week or 10 days ago, I would have bet that Mr Drew would take the leadership easily," said the supporter, "Now, I wouldn't bet against the chances of either one."

He said that Mr. Diefenbaker, who is completing a tour of the various provinces, appeared to have gained ground as a result of his speeches and his personal appearances. The Diefenbaker-for-leader groups in various parts of the country also were helping the Saskatchewan's chances. But, cautioned the supporter, there was always a possibility that the pre-convention lead of any delegate would be wiped out before the voting on Oct. 2.

He said there is some talk that Mr. Case and Mr. Hanna will drop out of the race before the voting, although neither man has yet indicated that he will withdraw.

If Mr. Drew enters the race and is chosen leader, an early effort probably will be made by the party to find him a seat in the Commons. It is possible that Mark Senn, 70, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Haldimand since 1921, may offer to resign to make way for the new leader. Mr. Senn has been in ill health for some time.

Two Escaped Convicts Captured

Kingston, Sept. 20. (CP) — Two convicts who escaped from Collins Bay Penitentiary near here today were captured this afternoon in a barn just inside the prison property. Details were not immediately available.

The men, Jack Cunningham, 26, of Hamilton, and William Wright, 27, of Marmora, Ont., eluded their guards while working on prison farm land.

Cunningham was sentenced to three years for forgery and uttering at Hamilton and Wright to two years for breaking, entering and theft at Marmora. Penitentiary officials do not consider either of the men as dangerous and they are believed to be unarmed. All roads leading from the penitentiary district have been blocked by Provincial Police and guards.
